No. 66,500

The spanning who iere the time to understand . ≎⊻: ⊓eed3

in ear explanation

plain English

C: argon

Cut out the and ent and ent to visit us

·= TTTDEGIV have:

eas,

in the streng

Darking with F

The ocstof computer

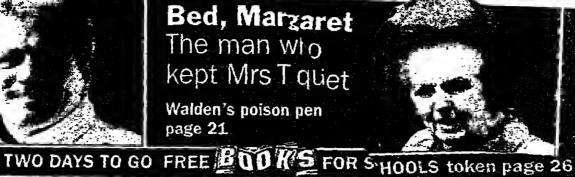

THURSDAY APRIL 29 1999

http://www.the-times.co.uk

England v Hungary Keegan's second test Full report, page 52

Bed, Margaret The man wio kept Mrs T quet

Walden's poison pen page 21

Julia Roberts What's sta got to smile about? page 37

Times poll shows Tory leader's poor image

Hague fights to save his political life

By PHILIP WEBSTER, ROLAND WATSON, ANDREW PIERCE AND PETER RIDDELL

WILLIAM HAGUE battled for his political life last night by delivering a pledge of loyalty to Margaret Thatcher and her inheritance.

Struggling to contain the crisis that has hit his leadership and confronted by a MORI poll showing support for the party and its leader were slipping still further, Mr Hague faced all of his MPs and promised to consult them more promised to consult them more.

And he moved again Ito appease the Right and silence rumblings about his position in a speech last night when he denied that his efforts to improve the party's image on health and education meant that it was abandoning Baroness Thatcher -- "one of its truly great leaders" - or the free market - "its great source of inspiration". But he refused to retreat from his attempt to kill the notion that the Tories favour the privatisation of the health and education services, emphasising the limits to private sector solutions to their problems.

The appearance before the 1922 Committee was a gamble and he finally decided to go ahead with it only an hour before the meeting started - his Shadow Cabinet having closed ranks behind him.

He delivered a short speech, conceding that the events of the past eight days could have been better handled and promising to listen to them more. According to his aides. he received the biggest cheer when he told them that their purpose was to return to power and and "not to have theological arguments about every point of policy".

He declared that despite the "wor-nes, criticisms and misapprehensions" that he had encountered, he would not be deterred from making his commitment to the public services plain. "I will go through any number of arguments, take on anyone in debate, endure any criticism. do whatever it takes to get across this position on health and education that is true to the instincts and principles of our party."

The appearance at the 1922 Committee came after Mr Hague had been warned by his Chief Whip James Arbuthnot that the parliamentary party was in a state of re-volt. Senior backbenchers had said that feeling was running so high against the strategy unleashed by Peter Lilley, the deputy leader, that they would have little difficulty collecting the 24 signatures needed to trigger a vote of confidence in Mr Hague's leadership.

At the backbenchers' meeting. Mr Hague gave the strong avowal of support for Margaret Thatcher that he was to repeat later at a London fund-raising dinner. He declared that he had joined.

TV & RADIO50.51 WEATHER26 CROSSWORDS26,52 LETTERS ... OBITUARIES ANATOLE KALETSKY...22

MIND & MATTER.....20 Buying The Times overseas
Austra Sch St; Belgium B Prs 10: Canada $3.50; Cananas Pts 400; Cyprus CEL 20; Denmark Dir
22:00; Finland Frink 30:50; Framce FR 17:00; Germany DM 5,50; Gibraliur 90p; Greece Dr 750;
Netherlands Fh 4:50; Lusly L 5,500; Larsenbourg;
Li 10; Madeira Est; 250; Malla 80; Morocco Dir
20:00; Narway Kr 25:00; Portugal Est; 250; Spain
Pts 400; Sweden Str 25:00; Swingerland S Frs
6:00; Tunisa Din 3,200; USA $3:50.
Periodicals Postace Pad at Ruhway Ni Postmas-

CHESS & BRIDGE45

COURT & SOCIAL24

Periodicals Pustage Paid at Rahway Nj Postmas-ter: Send address corrections to: The Times clo Mercury International 365 Blair Road Avenel Nj

William Hague has complete ly failed to improve his leadership_image - particularly among Tories, who rate Tony Blair more highly as a leader, the latest MORI poll for The Times shows. Mr Hague's personal rating has dropped from minus 26 to minus 31, and among Tories it now stands at minus 26, which means that twice as many disapprove of his leadership as the Conservative Party because of Margaret Thatcher and was proud to celebrate the 20th anniversary of her election victory. He had always believed passionately that the free market was essendal to ensuring freedom, prosperity and personal responsibility. But it was not the policy of the Thatcher Government to extend the free market to every aspect of national life.

"Let me through, I'm a Conservative"

"If the criocism is that we are turning our backs on Margaret Thatcher and the free markets, I say that we will always be proud of ways be champions of the free market. But we also believe, as previous Con-servative governments have, that schools and hospitals paid for by all taxpayers should be available to everyone in the country."

Mr Hague's crioics on the backbenches were in full cry, complaining at the muddle in the party's message and the desperately poor timing of Mr Lilley's attempt to change public per-ceptions of the party. Mr Lilley him-self came in for huge criticism from senior backbenchers, many saying that he was out of touch and complain-ing about the slow pace and lack of im-agination in his policy review. The Shadow Cabinet has voiced deep unhappiness at the way the Lilley plan was executed and Francis Maude, the Shadow Chancellor, has privately distanced himself from the

Mr Maude, a member of the Conservative Central Office strategy group which backed the campaign to try to change the Tories image on the health service, complained directly to Mr Hague about the failed execution of the plan.

Francis is loyal and keeps his views private. But there is no doubt he was deeply unhappy with the spin which was put on the speech by Central Office," one aide said. "The last thing he wanted for us was to apologise for something we had not done wrong. There is a growing consensus that the Lilley speech was badly handled, not just in the lack of consultation, but in the way it was written. It was careless, not least in what it omitted. Francis shares the views of most people in the party that this went badly wrong.We do have to slay the dragon over the NHS. But not the way Lilley chose to

The Maude camp is still dinging to the hope the row will still help the Tories on the doorstep by reinforcing the view that the they will defend the

A mood of deep despondency per-vaded party headquarters yesterday. An inquest was held at the early morn ing strategy meeting over the revela-tions in The Times about the sacking of Michael Simmonds, the director of research and marketing, who was accused of leaking the first draft of Mr Lilley's speech, which went much further in denouncing Thatcherize ideology.

Mr Arbuthnot was livid that his description of the crisis gripping the par-liamentary party had been leaked to The Times and Michael Ancram, the party chairman, made an implicit threat that anyone caught talking out of turn to the press would be sacked on the spot

Blame Basildon, page 14 Leading article, page 23

Thatcher's 'anecdotage'

A SAD picture of the retired Margaret Thatcher, including allegations that she drank too much, is painted by the former Conservative minister George Walden today.

In his memoirs, being serialised in The Times, Mr Walden says that "the most vigorous and intelligent Prime Minister in decades" had reached a "premature anecdotage".

He says that Margaret Thatcher had not taken her loss of power well. "She was also drinking too much. In the old days she would put down a whisky soda or two late in the evening after her umpteen-hour day: now she seemed to have had a little too much before dinner. There was no arguing with her anymore; in fact it was impossible to talk to her."

Mr Walden adds: "The moment you said anything she would grip your arm and, with a steadfast look. deliver herself of some pron-unclamento that sounded as if it had been borrowed from the archives. She had reached the point where she did not know she was doing it."

'I cannot understand why they would want to kill someone as gentle, kind and well meaning and as perfect a > person as Jill'

The fiance of Jill Dando spoke of his incomprehension and grief yesterday as the search for her killer made slow progress.

Alan Farthing, who was planning to marry the television presenter later this year, said that he could think of no reason for the murder of such a "beautiful, caring and wellmeaning" person.

The investigation has been hampered by a delay in issu-ing pictores of the suspect. Scotland Yard said detectives were still trying to find a witness who got a good enough view of a man seen loitering near Miss Dando's home and running away after the shooting. At least five men and two women witnesses have come forward and detectives are examining which one could provide the E-Fit.

Miss Dando had recently sold her house, in Fulham. west London, it emerged, and planned to move in with Mr Farthing. The buyers spoke of their sadness last night.

The state of the s

YOU'VE GOT TO

BE MAD TO PAY

twice as much as you need to

for phone calls.

Farthing speaks, page 5 Dr Stuttaford, page 20 Mick Hume, page 22 Radio, page 39

Belgrade riven as dissenter is sacked

By Michael Evans, defence editor

VUK DRASKOVIC, who has criticised President Milosevic and claimed that Belgrade was ready to accept a peace deal over Kosovo, was dismissed as Yugoslavia's Deputy Prime Minister The move came a few days after he had publicly declared that Mr Milosevic should acknowledge Nato could not be defeated. He also urged the Government in Belgrade to stop lying about the country's deteriorating economy after weeks of Nato bombing.

Nato said that the dismissal was a sign of Mr Milosevic's increasing isolation and "the first visible fracture" in the Yugoslav leadership. Mr Draskovic had paid the price of speaking the truth, a Nato official said.

Mr Draskovic said yesterday: "I don't know what precipitated my removal. I haven't spoken to Milosevic." Nato admitted yesterday that a laserguided bomb had "gone astray" over the town of Surdulica in southern Serbia, hitting a residential area instead of a military barracks. The Yugoslav authorities said that up to 20 civilians had been killed, including six children. George Robertson, the Defence Secretary, said that he regretted the civil-ian deaths. Later Tony Blair repeated to the Commons that Nato took every possible precaution to avoid civilian sixth week, efforts to find a peace settlement continued, with more meetings in Moscow. However, Strobe Talbott, the American Deputy Secretary of State, on a visit to Berlin after going to Moscow, said that there was nothing to indicate that Mr Milosevic was closer to accepting Nato's five demands.

In Berlin, Mr Talbott met Kofi Annan, the United Nacions Secretary-General, before he flew to Moscow where he will see President Yeltsin today. As part of an intensification of diplomatic efforts to end the Kosovo crisis Rudolf Scharping, the German De-fence Minister, was also in Moscow yesterday, meeting Russian leaders. He said yesterday: "There are elements that increase the hope of a political solution slightly, though one should not overrate them."

INSIDE Nato's regret. Voice of dissent ... Letters ...

However, Goran Made, a senior Yu-goslav official, was quoted in the New York Times as saying that the basic outline of an agreement on Kosovo could

THINK

If you're happy to let BT make another $3.2 Billion profit this year. The penny obviously hasn't dropped. Pirst Telecom can save you SC% off national and international calls to over 230 countries. We won't need to laudt your existing phone, line or number. Just add First Telecom's service to your existing 3T phone and join our

0800 458 5858

The Walden memoirs, page 21 As Nato's air campaign went into its be "firmed up" this week. Fox-hunting black joins the masters

By TIM REID

FOR one of the nation's most conservaove, white, male-dominated pursuits, it is almost a revolution. Britain has just got its first black master of foxhounds. italist, has been elected joint master of the colour of my skin," Mr Laud told The Times last night. "But we don't want to put distance between us and anyone that wants to participate in this sport. It doesn't matter if they are a woman or a man, gay or straight."

Derek Laud. 39. a London venture capthe prestigious, 210-year-old New Forest

John Moore, chairman of the hunt club. said: "His colour has nothing to do with it. He's just a bloody nice bloke. Foxhounds, a post he takes up on May I. He's a good rider, popular, and kind to "I don't think the hum are conscious of other members of the hum."

have been hunting him. "Yes," he countered, "but 200 years ago I would have been eating them."

Mr Laud, who traces his roots to Jamaica, was once challenged on his horse by an anti-hunt saboteur on the grounds that 100 years ago similar people would

Mr Laud came to prominence in the early 1990s as the first - and to date only - black member of the right-wing Mon-

Iapless pawn aught unawares in midst of a bigger game shaking their heads. Front-bruchers looked uncomforta-dealt with her question, he propriateness of Charlotte At-

LET us be fair to Charlotte Atkins: Prime Minister's Questions always did rollercoaster between the sublime and the ridiculnus.

There is nothing new in the sight of MPs clutching their stomachs as the House makes a sickening lurch from a humanitarian catastrophe in Albania to an outbreak of cat flu in Bolton. Members may raise what they please: and do. The result is an eclectic mix of domestic bees in local bonnets, with questions on the destiny of mankind.

So for Ms Atkins it was more bad luck than bad judgment that her question on the status of chess immediately followed an impassioned out-hurst from the Prime Minister on the horrors of Kosovo.

those that followed, had been delivered to a resolute House. I reported last week that the Commons barometer had moved to "unsettled". Yesterday it inched back towards a stable high pressure. William Hague (poor thing) sounded rather bleak - just go through the motions. Noty unexpected moved off-sage. But Ms Atkins temarily lost the plot.

TiLabour MP for Staffordere Moorlands is neither obsessive nor a fool. That Balkan exchange, like And ere is no reason why she sluid not raise, at this higher of levels, the grievance i chess players that their tape is not recognised as a spot

Nor could she choose her moment when to speak: MPs who want to intervene have to start eaping up from the very outset, to catch the Chair's attention. Ms Atkins did. Disaster! She succeeded too early: immediately after Mr Hague had been crossquestioning Tony Blair about the conflict in the Balkans. Mr Blair had worked himself into particular outrage at Serbian atrocities. Steam was still coming from his cars.

This was not the mony for chess. But, as Miss Bothroyd called her name, jwas too late for Ms Atkins concoct a new question in the rape of Albania She rape of Albania ploughed through reprotest against the per chess players. MPs brows attering and ple began

Sie, After too long, Ms Atkins sat down: a loyal new-Labourite who had asked a fair question, but with unlucky timing.

It was instructive to note the ruthlessness with which Mr Blair let her swing. The Labour Whips' Office now tries to select who will intervene, and to orchestrate questions, so this sketch would be surprised if she had given no notice of what she hoped to raise - but it is possible. In any event, whether or chose to make light of it. In mock-exasperation be protested - in effect - that prime ministers do get rogue coconuts like this thrown at them, and simply have to duck.

Rather wittily he remarked that he was looking in vain along his front bench for Everyone langhed: laughed with him, and at Ms Atkins, who looked a bit wretched.

The effect was to play to the mood of the House, joining kins's Question. Most journalists will admire the skill and light touch with which Mr Blair extracted himself unscathed from a potentially awkward exchange.

But this sketchwriter, who has been a backbencher, felt for Ms Atkins. Somewhere in her half-consciousness a tiny arrow has now lodged. In a phrase of Thornton Wilder's. wrapped in layers of forgiveness and understanding, it sank into her heart".

Relaunch of Hague fails with voters

SUPPORT for William Hague has dropped sharply among Tory supporters, who rate Tony Blair more highly as a leader, according to the latest MORI poll for The Times. This is a further blow to Mr Hague as he tries to assert his authority.

The poll, undertaken last weekend, shows that the Tories have fallen even further behind Labour ahead of the local, Scottish and Welsh elections next Thursday, Moreover. Mr Hague has completely failed to improve his leadership image, particularly among Tory supporters.

Labour is now at the top end of its post-election range at 56 per cent, up two points since late March, while the Tories have fallen back two points over the month to 25 per cent. The Liberal Democrats are unchanged on 13 per cent.

Mr Hague's personal rating has deteriorated despite the attempts to relaunch his image, and may reflect the initial impact of the Tory row over Peter Lilley's speech last week on public spending. His approval rating, measuring those satisfied less dissatisfied with his performance as party leader. has fallen from minus 26 to minus 31 points, the lowest level since last September. Even more worrying for Mr

Poll shows that even many

Tories prefer Blair, writes

Peter Riddell

Hague is that his rating among Tory supporters is almost as bad. This figure has fluctuated sharply in recent months, but, by a margin of nearly two-to-one-(56 to 30 per cent). Tory supporters are dissatisfied rather than satisfied with Mr Hague's perform-

Over the last few months. his approval rating among To-ries has been minus 15, minus 4, minus 27, minus 3 and, now, minus 26 points.

MORI this month asked a series of questions about the image of the party leaders. On each of the 14 measures, Mr Hague not only lags well be-hind Tony Blair and Paddy Ashdown, but also shows no sign of improvement compared with when he became Tory leader nearly two years ago. For instance Mr Hague's rating as a capable leader has remained stuck at 10 per cent since autumn 1997, compared with 51 per cent who rate Mr Blair as capable. Similarly, an unchanged nine per cent believe Mr Hague understands world problems, against 38 per cent who believe Mr Blair

Moreover, on nine of the 14 measures. Tory supporters rate Mr Blair more highly than their own leader, Mr Hague. For instance, 39 per cent of Tories regard Mr Blair as a capable leader, but only 17 per cent have the same view of Mr Hague, The contrast, among Tory supporters, is 21 to 5 per cent between the leaders on being good in a crisis, and 33 to 7 per cent on having a lot of personality.

By contrast, Mr Blair's rating remains very strong and has probably been helped by his handling of Kosovo. His rating, satisfied less dissatisfied, has risen from plus 32 to plus 35 points in the past month, to the highest level since August 1998.

☐ MORI interviewed a representative quota sample of 1.966 adults at 162 sampling points across Britain on April 23 to 26. Voting intention figures exclude those who would not vote (9 per cent), who are undecided (7 per cent) or who refused to say (1 per cent).

The Prince of Wales as shown canteen food yesterday at a hostel for the homeless in Victoria. London. As part of the Prince's backing for initiatives involving the homeless, nistacross Britain on April 26. Voting intention figexclude those who would wote (9 per cent), who are ecided (7 per cent) or who sed to say (1 per cent).

Leading article, page 23

Initiatives involving the nomicless, tailored suits are to be given to those attending job intensives (Alexandra Fream writts). Business leaders. have pledged to help the Prioce's project. Business Action un Homelessness; after he prioce's go on "seeing is believing" tours of Prince's makeover on homeless

hostels and day centres. Most of the 70 managing directors and chief executives who took part promised immediale help. David Fellowes. deputy managing director of Aquascutum. said he would donate suits and other clothing to the Crisis charity for homeless people attending job interviews. Andrew Robertson, managing ditising agency, said that his company's contribution would be to buy ur build a "halfway house" with accommoda-tion for up to ten. He said the property, to be called The Big House, will help people moving to their own flats to get used to having a home again. Business Action on Homelessness rector of Abbott Meade Vickers adver-

is a joint venture between the Prince's charity, Business in the Community, and the housing charity Crash, and is chaired by John Studzinski, managing director of the investment bank Morgan Stanley Dean Witter.

At a meeting of 50 senior business leaders in St James's Palace, London, vesterday. Mr. Studzinski said that relieving homelessness was one of the most tangible ways in which organisations could "play the good shepherd".

LAURA ASHLEY

Home Sale FINAL 5 DAYS!

Sale ends bank holiday Monday 3rd May 1999 upholstered furniture and made to measure curtains & blinds

ORDER FROM HOME

0800 868 100

8 AM TO 10 PM SEVEN DAYS A WEEK

Food giant to phase out GM ingredients

BY NICK NUITALL, ENVIRONMENT CORRESPONDENT

gest food manufacturers, last night announced plans to phase out genetically modified ingredients, including flours, oils and additives, from its British product range. The company's move comes a day after Unilever, the food manufacturing giant, an-nounced its intention to remove genetically modified organisms from its products in Britain. Nestlé said that its decision came after a sharp fall in consumer confidence.

Nestlé, which owns British companies including Rown-Nescalé, tree, Carnation Milk and Cross & Blackwell, said that it had already reformulated recipes or phased out material from gene-altered crops from many products.

A spokeswoman said they now had only three products labelled as containing geneti-cally modifed ingredients all Cross & Blackwell sandwiches. These are to have their gene-altered ingredients re-

She added that the company was now tackling the tougher issue of sourcing soya and soya derivatives, such as oils. flours and lecithin used in chocolate, from conventionally grown crops. The main sources are Brazil and Canada. But

NESTLE, one of Britain's big-campaigners believe that, given the market muscle of Nestlé, Unilever and supermarkets such as Sainsbury. growers in the United States may now look to switch back to traditional soya varities.

"For a transitional period, some Nestlé UK products may continue to contain low levels of highly refined ingredients which, while they may have come from GM crops, have been purified to such an extent that the finished product no longer contains any GM material." the company said.

But it added in a statement that its new policy was to source even ingredients soya and maize. "We will endeavour to purchase ingredients from non-GM sources." Nestlécould not put a date on when all its 250 lines would be sourced from conventional crops, but it is working with suppliers to achieve that as soon as possible. Lord Melchett, speaking for Greenpeace, said that those who still supported GM crops and foods were driven by "religious zeal" rather than commonsense, adding: "Il Tony Blair and Jack Cunningham felt exposed after Unilever's announcement, they must be feeling positively silly now,"

Car chase pair face 16 fresh charges

Two men arrested after a high-speed car chase in which shots were fired and passers by wounded faced 16 new charges of attempted murder when they reappeared before magistrates in Manchester yesterday.

Yakub Olatunde Adetoro, 29, nf no fixed address, now faces a total of 23 charges of attempting to murder police and members of the public during the incident, which ended in Rochdale, Greater Manchester, last Friday. Andrew Dennis, 23, of Medlock Road. Failsworth, Oldham, faces a total of 22 attempted murder charges. They were also charged with kidnapping a 27-year-old married woman in Bolton. No bail applications were made.

MP 'entitled to return'

Fiona Jones, the disqualified Labour MP whose conviction for electoral fraud was quashed on appeal, should be allowed to resume her seat in the interests of natural justice and those who voted for her, the High Court was told. Where an MP . . . is convicted at first instance but succeeds on appeal, their incapacity to sit as an MP is removed," said Philip Sales, for the Attorney-General. The hearing was adjourned until tomorrow.

Call to snub Sinn Fein

The bipartisan consensus on Northern Ireland was further fractured when the Tories called for the establishment of an executive without Sinn Fein (Martin Fletcher writes). The Government rejected a demand by Andrew Mackay, Shadow Northern Ireland Secretary, that Sinn Fein should jnin unly when the IRA had disarmed. Mn Mowlam, Northern Ireland Secretary, said that would remove "the one bit of leverage I have".

Health cases checked

The records of 800 patients of an ear, nose and throat consultant are in be reviewed after an inquiry into his competence (Simon de Bruxelles writes). Colleagues had expressed concern about the work of Julian Upton, 62, who retired from Musgrove Park Hospital in Taunion, Somerset, last month on health grounds. Consultants called in to review 21 of his cases recommended that the treatment of another 790 patients should be looked at

Trade war looms over ban on US beef

By Carl Mortished, Charles BREMNER AND BEN MACINTYRE

EUROPE is heading for a new trade war with the United States after a committee of veterinary scientists in Brussels decided to ban all imports of US beef into Europe by June 15 unless the meat is proved to be free of artificial hormones.

The ban caused anger among US trade officials who suggested it belied a "tit-fortat" attitude on the part of the EU. Washington is already threatening action over an existing European ban on imports of hormone-treated beef which the World Trade Organisation has declared illegal.

The decision to ban all beef originating from the US will affect some £12 million US exports, including £3.8 million of US beef sold to Britain. Tests by European scientists on beef sold as hormone-free revealed that 12 per cent of the samples contained residues of artifical growth hormones, alleged to be carcinogens.

The US rejects the claims of health risk and has published a list of $900 million worth of European exports, including Rocquefort, fole gras and motorcycles, which will be liable to 100 per cent duties if Brussels fails to lift its ban by May 13. Franz Fischler, the Farm Commis sioner, said Europe was acting to protect consumer health and was ready to work with US authorities to resolve the problem. However, Britain voted against the move when it was initiated yesterday by the EU's standing veterinary committee

A British spokeswoman said: We com sider the EU move to be disproportion ate. There is clearly a problem with US control measures and we expect them to be addressed as soon as possible.

Marine massac

Police question four f

3 12 ET

7.520.549

L.p.

.....

!TW*

. **

化二氯苯二磺胺

A 13 M6

J. 73.

40

TE'T'S

a core

William A

ALASTA TO

25 THE

1

Diame.

REN 2003

WW - 72

770 Day

15 A. A. A.

15.25 17.65

250 mg

ner Serve

Table (II) a

L . 1.22.2

to rappa

1,540 Cyc (Sec. 18 2) 11

4.1

-Tr. 15

killers, reports Giles

THE WATER 5.700.700 4400 ಮೀ ು ಚಿತ್ರಗಳು the shows divided actors dy and re 1.00 One 15 Alimote Sve Juin New Watching Tust thre + ≥ in an CHEST " « Marines may har id-weigh The System as Sherri - Come ា មេឡាក្ន heard if o

St. Word Wash Lon The wi is tall more ines. No. AN OWNER SOR, Was Peterals for She went -1250 panwith him -4 Follow Som-Killings a Total years ្រភពនិជ្ជារ ដ្ឋា ay arm Soned an day she ade some poen · Sealled with polic and a first trans-blame for the arewe

A nation

B) MEYOCOSSELL

life core the rock group that Liam add in world — spart from us, and solid builted restorday that they had split termonlie of speculation about their The band which dimmed down bon five to a quarter when the guitarin Vick Vist abe left, said it was a must describe the build decision. Richard Asheroft the and decision to spin or spin didid not come without a great deal have always given everything to behand and would have continued to it circumstances had not made it the working class boys from Wigan hed up hits including Bitter Sweet

lers olv-ber an-ian ber ast-t in ion

ovi-ely ive s. de-ind

Sger gam Tycoon 'hired killer in custody fight' Tycoon 'hired killer in custody fight'

Court told hitman was paid £20,000 to murder wife, reports

Richard Duce

A MILLIONAIRE paid a hitnan £20,000 to murder his former partner after she won custody of their two children, a court was told yesterday.

Derek Goldsmith, made a fortune from his Aqualisa shower company, was said to have embarked on a "calculated and wicked" plot to have Diana Goldsmith killed because he wanted care of their son and daughter. The 44-year-old woman - she took his name although they never married - had been abducted from her home by two men in January 1995 and murdered soon afterwards. Her body was not found for two years. when it was discovered buried in the back garden of a house in Bromley, southeast London. Andrew Patience, QC, for the prosecution, told Maidne Crown Court that Mr Goldsmith, 62, refused to accept the ruling by a High Court judge that custody of his son, aged seven, and 12-yearold daughter should remain with their mother when the couple separated after 12 years. "He never came to terms with it. Derek Goldsmith's determination to have these children under his care and control has led him ultimately to the dock where he now stands trial," Mr Patience said: "The defendant badly wanted the care and control of his children. That desire was thwarted by the decision of the High Court which he could not accept. It is for that reason he entered into a calculated and wicked plan to get the children back, although it meant they would be deprived of their mother for

He said the prosecution did not claim that Mr Goldsmith had killed Diana Goldsmith hirnself. "He was careful to keep his distance. Rather we say that by giving final instruc-tions . . . he counselled and procured her death."

Mr Patience said the murder plot took shape after Mr Goldsmith confided in Michael Fitzpatrick, his sonin-law by a previous marriage, who he had helped to set up in a scrap metal business in Diana being an unfit mother and how he would get his children back some day. It was like an obsession with him." Mr Patience said.

Their friendship had taken a darker and "sinister" twist when Mr Goldsmith had asked Fitzpatrick if he knew of "anyone who could get rid of Diana, that is to say kill her".

Fitzpatrick, who has admitted conspiracy to murder, is a key prosecution witness. It was he who put Mr Gold-smith in touch with the hit-man, Ian Colligan. Mr Pa-tience said that under instructions from Mr Goldsmith, Colligan and Fitzpatrick burgled Mrs Goldsmith's home in Sevenoaks. Kent, to copy a set of her keys. The plan had been to return later and lie in wait for Colligan had reported back to Fitzpatrick that Mr GoldA21 road to Hastings. But by now, Mr Patience said, Finpatrick had got cold feet and urged Colligan "not to do the job and keep the money".

Instead, Colligan had recruited his friend Michael Danaher with the offer of £1.500, and the two men had let themselves in to Mrs Goldsmith's house. She had returned home having dropped off her son at his school.

Mr Patience told the jury: "Colligan overpowered her. She was assured no harm would come to her and she was given a cup of coffee and a cigarette to calm her down. Her hands were secured with plastic ties." Mrs Goldsmith had then been driven away in her own Volvo car, which had later been found abandoned at the Lakeside Shopping Centre in Essex. She was never seen

Mr Patience said that Colli-

he would not dispose of the body unless he was paid a fur-ther £20,000 by Mr Gold-smith. The millionaire had handed over a further £6,000. In the meantime, Fitzpatrick had asked a friend if he could bury 50 kilos of cannabis in his back garden. While the friend was out, Fitzpatrick had buried the body.

Mr Patience said that days before he was arrested last year, Mr Goldsmith, who by now had custody of his chil-dren, had ordered a book near his home in Edenbridge, Kent, entitled When Father Kills Mother - guiding children through truama and grief.

Danaher admitted a kidnapping charge in June 1996 and was sentenced at Maidstone Crown Court. Colligan committed suicide while on remand in prison. Mr Goldsmith denies conspiring to murder his wife.

Marines rejected school massacre mastermind

Police question four friends of killers, reports Giles Whittell

ERIC HARRIS, who masterminded the school shooting in Colorado in which 15 people died last week, was taking medication for a psychiatric condition and had been rejected by the US Marines five days before.

According to military sources. Harris had done well in an early interview for the Marines but had been turned down on medical grounds. "The system worked," a Marine Corps spokesman said. But the young man it weeded out then went on a rampage, the impact of which is still being felt more than a week later. As crowds packed two more funerals for victims of Harris and his partner. Dylan Klebold, police confirmed that three more young men and a woman could still become suspects.

The men being questioned. all with links to the so-called Trenchcoat Mafia, have been named as Matthew Christianson, Matt Akard and Jim Branetti. They were spotted near the school wearing combat fa-tigues and black shirts during the shootings, taken into custody and released. One told the Rocky Mountain News that they had been watching because they were "just three punks with a lot of curiosity". Police suspect they may have known about the massacre in advance because. as Sheriff John Stone noted on Tuesday: "They said they heard it on the radio . . . but it wasn't on the radio then." The woman helping detectives, 18-year-old Robyn Anderson, was Klebold's girlfriend. She went to the school prom with him three days before the killings and is known to have bought the two shotguns used by him and Harris. Questioned and released on Tuesday, she was still co-operating with police yesterday. A national debate on who to blame for the carnage may find the answer in the courts. Geof-

Anderson: bought two guns used in the killings

frey Feiger, a nationally-known defence lawyer who made his name representing Dr Jack Kervorkian, the advocate of assisted suicide, has been approached twice by the family of the sole black victim, Isaiah Shoels. His father is considering a lawsuit because police and school officicals allegedly ignored repeated warnings about threats of violence from Harris and Klebold, and on the ground that their parents ignored clear signs of an arms build-up in their own homes. "How would they not know they had bomb factories in their houses?" Michael Schwartz, Mr Fieger's law partner, asked as police raised the number of bombs found at the school to 51.

New information released on Tuesday hinted for the first time that Harris and Klebold may have considered suicide only as a last resort. Harris's diary contained mention of escaping to Mexico. Sheriff Stone said. Detectives also believe the gunmen made three attempts to flee the building before shooting themselves. As the investigation contin-ued, President Clinton made an impassioned plea for new gun control measures. He asked "everybody who is waiting for the next deer season in my home state to think about this in terms of what our reasonable obligations to the larger community of America are".

The Duchess of York joined mourners in Littleton, saying that it reminded her of Kensington Palace after the death

Patched-up Verve split again

By ALEX O'CONNELL

THE Verve, the rock group that Liam Gallagher of Oasis called "the best band in world - apart from us". announced yesterday that they had split after months of speculation about their

The band, which slimmed down from five to a quartet when the guitar-ist Nick McCabe left, said it was a mutual decision. Richard Asheroft, the inger, said: 'The decision to split the hand did not come without a great deal of distress to me personally. "I have always given everything to the band and would have continued to do so if circumstances had not made it

The working-class boys from Wigan notched up hits including Bitter Sweet

The five members of The Verve before they parted company

Symphony and their first No L. The Drugs Don't Work. This is not the first time the band has split. In 1995 McCabe and Ashcroft fell out over the singer's bedonistic lifestyle and McCabe did not speak to any of known as "Mad Richard" at the time, because of his appetite for drugs, reportedly begged McCabe to come back. Later he wrote The Drugs Don't Work about the circumstances surrounding the split. But although Mc-Cabe was reported to have patched up differences with the group, he did not perform or record with them again.

In January Ashcroft held a party at his mansion in Gloucestershire without inviting the other band members. The previous month Asheroft and Mc-Cabe had been snubbed when they found out through friends about the wedding of the guitarist Simon Tong. Recently it emerged that Ashcroft had been recording in a South London studio, followed by rumours of a solo

Office may spark new battle of Newbury

the fiercest environmental battles of recent years was yesterday facing another upheav-al after Vodafone gained approval to build its world headquarters on a green site.

Campaigners who failed to prevent Newbury actting its controversial bypass have said they will return to the fray against the telecommunica-

They denounced Vodafone after the company threatened to relocate its 3,500-strong workforce if the plan was rejected. In the end, West Berkshire Council rejected advice from planning officers that the headquarters would generate demand for thousands more houses and approved the plans early yesterday after a 64-hour debate.

£60 million Vodalone's headquarters will cover 30 acres north of the town centre. Within five years it will employ staff from 36 of the 57 buildings which the company currently uses across the Berkshire market town.

Friends of the Earth accused the company of holding a gun to the council's head. Adrian Foster-Fletcher, a spokesman. said: For a company that makes £3 million per day, they have behaved like an Arthur Daley backstreet garage. The council will be powerless to stop 3,000 houses being dumped in the area."

However, as with the controversial bypass, the people of Newbury seem largely in favour of Vodafone's scheme. An

Environmentalists threaten a siege over approval for Vodafone centre, writes Helen Johnstone independent survey showed that of 1,559 people asked, only 96 were against.

VODAFONE OFFICES IN NEWBURY

The company, which has donated hundreds of thousands of pounds to local charities since moving to Newbury in 1983, was sensiove to the charge it might be buying votes. At the eleventh hour, it rejected a council demand that it donate £5 million to a housng association.

The company said yester-"Vodafone saw it as buying the application. The council would have had the problem anyway. We con-firmed in a letter early yesterday that if the condition remained we would pull out."

The council voted by 23 to 22, with one abstention, to drop the condition. Councillors then went on to vote by 25 lo 18 in favour of the headquarters, along with around 2,000 parking spaces on former agricultural land.

Jim Sherry, the council's head of planning and transport strategy, gave a warning that more green sites were now under threat. "We have most of the new houses will have to go on greenfield sites." Planners had said that up

3,900 new jobs could be created. Their report recommending refusal had said that this would result in a significant increase in commuting to the town and further pressure on

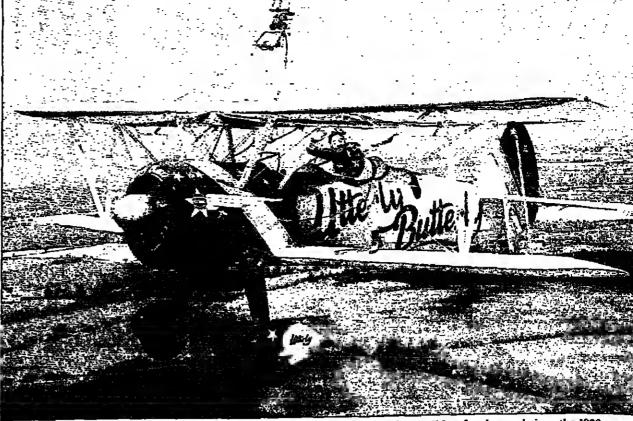

Friends of the Earth, which argued that Vodafone could move 20 miles down the M4 to Reading, where houses were already available and a bus service planned, is calling for a public inquiry.

Mr. Foster-Fletcher said:

"Planning officers and the planning committee recommended refusal. About 300 people who demonstrated last week in favour of the proposals were Vodafone employees. Pressure must be put on the council to take a proper view of this application." Mike Caldwell, the Vodafone spokesman, said that staying in Newbury would pre-vent wurkers clocking up 30 million extra road miles a year. "If we had moved to Reading, a vast majority of our staff would have stayed living in the Newbury area and used their cars to drive to work. Residents yesterday ex-pressed delight. "Vodasone signs are already everywhere you look, so it will be good to see the bulk of them moving out of the town," said Frank Dodwell, a retired publisher.

Sue Bruce, a secretary, said: The move will be gradual, over three to five years."

Helen Tempest in her Boeing Stearman biplane after re-enacting a wing-walking feat banned since the 1930s

Walker with a wing and a prayer

By SIMON DE BRUXELLES

IT MIGHT play havoc with a girl's hairdo, but that was the least of Helen Tempest's worries yesterday as she performed a wing-walking stunt so danger-ous it has been banned since the 1930s.

As her Boeing Stearman biplane roared 100ft above a Gloucestershire airfield, the 33-year-old professional dare-devil climbed nut of the cockpit and oo to the lower wing. Battered by the 100mph slipstream, she stepped gingerly from spar to spar, knowing that one false step and her fool would go straight through the thin fabric skin. If that happened, not even the safety harness she wears would have been able to stop her or the 50-year-old plane plummeting to

After spending ten minutes walking to the middle of the 33ft-lnug wing and back again, she said: That was truly

Partridge obnoxious but fictional, says the BBC

Warning:

this man is no role model

BY CAROL MIDGLEY

MEDIA CORRESPONDENT

THE BBC was forced to spell out yesterday that Alan Partridge, the ohooxious, offensive, bumophobic, sexist fietinnal chat show bust, was not suitable role model for Executives published a engthy explanatino distancing themselves from the behaviour of the star of the BBC2 comedy series I'm Alan Partridge after being reprimanded by broadcasting walchdogs.

The Broadcasting Standards Commission upheld complaints that a repeat episode of the show, starring the comedian Steve Coogan as a fading chat-show host, was of-fensive to the disabled.

Partridge mocked a charac-ter who had undergone an operation to remove his vocal cords and spoke using an electronic gadget. He asked the man why he spoke so strange ly and told him he sounded

"like the young girl in The

After being told by the com-mission that humour at the expense of someone who had undergone a laryngectomy exceeded acceptable boundaries, the BBC said that it had had oo intention to ridicule

The central character in the series was a fading media star whose most distinctive feature was his crass insensitivity." it said in its submissinn to the commission. "He unashamedly alienated or of fended most of the people he met, while remaining onaware that he was the object of the humour rather than those on the receiving end of his

The spokesman explained that the behaviour of Partridge - who is reduced in his latest series to presenting the 4.30am show on Radio

Norwich and living in a Travel Tavern — had put his ca-reer and personal life un a "remorseless slide".

The BBC added that he was "clearly not intended to be a role model" and "his boorish and prejudiced be-haviour should be seen in tasteless jokes."

DOXONS DIRECT 08000 68 24 68

Exercist.

sufferers.

viewers.

amazing. It made me feel like Superwoman. When you step unt you are overwhelmed by the force of the air behind the propeller. Ynn can barely breathe Miss Tempest, who has been wing-walking since the age of 15, is a member of the Utterly Butterly Barnstormers, hn perform at airshows across Europe and are the first team to be granted permission to perform the stunt since wingwalking was banned by the Civil Avia-tinn Authority in 1933 because of the large number of fatalities.

Wing-walking began in the 1920s when Warld War One pilots tried to find ways of earning a living after returning to civilian life.

Terms and Conditions 1 The emptor can set to independ at accompanies to 3 rate full recept to a your medical point section reserve occurs (1) or one particles from Datons 2 the different to protect the burner to perfect. Particles made in a control of the closes and the format in particle from the particle made in the first of particles and the first of particles made in the first of particles and particles are particles and particles and particles are particles and particles and particles are particles are particles and particles are particles and particles are particles and particles are particles and particles are particl

Aid for disabled on the menu By Alexandra Frean, social affairs correspondent

WAITERS will be required to read out menus to people with visual impairments under government guidelines issued this

Shopkeepers will have to open their door for customers who cannot easily manage it themselves, and owners of small shops who cannot afford to build a ramp or widen doorways will be required to serve customers who use wheelchairs on the pavement The advice is part of the Disability Discrimination Act. which comes into force on Ocantee disabled people the right of access to all goods and services on the high street.

The guidance is designed to placate owners of small businesses who are concerned that the new legislation will involve building alterations to their premises and other costly adjustments to the way they work. Instead of building new display units that are accessible to wheelchair users or people with restricted movement, storekeepers will be advised to retrieve items from inaccessible shelves.

Businesses that cannot afford to install an induction loop or hire a sign language interpreter will be required to write down information for people who have hearing im-

Similarly, solicitors and providers of other professional services will be able to produce documents on tape or in al impairments, instead of having to have them printed in Braille.

Announcing the regulations in the Commons, Margaret Hodge, minister for disabled people, said she hoped the new legislation would lead to "a high street revolution" in the way that services are deliv-thatever your needs in the bathroom, Dolphin has something truly special for you. Our range of walk-in shower and powerbaths, including the deep soak 'Tranquillity' bath, makes bathing easier, safer, and more comfortable

The "tranquillity" both features an integral door for easy 'step-in, step-out' access and comes with a matching canopy for use with the shower of your choice.

Easy access showers are ideal for wheelchairs and walk-in users. Shower seats allow sit down showering, without fear of slipping.

Powerhaths gently lift you in and out of the water. Dolphin take care of everything including planning, delivery and professional installation. Free home advice service and full guarantee.

OVER 150 HIGH STREET SHOWROOMS NATIONWIDE:

For more information and details of your nearest showroom call 0800 62 62 48 http://www.dolphin-fitted-bathrooms.co.uk

Please send me my free bruchure and provide further information should Dolphin Past free to Dolphin Special Needs Bathur vits. Freepost, Manchester M16 8HH that light".

ا مكذا من الأصل

Police g

Delay in issuing picture

holds up the hunt

BY STEWART TENOLER.

CRIME CORRESPONDENT

THE hunt for Jitl Dando's killer is making slow progress, hit by delays in issuing key pic-tures of the main suspect.

Three days after the murder

senior detectives have also lost the advantage of the first 24 hours, called the "golden hours" by police because the memories of witnesses are at their sharpest.

Scottand Yard commanders

believe the case is "very solvable", because of the number of witnesses, unless Miss Dando was the victim of a Serbian revenge attack. But a number of top leads, idenofied as "fast-track inquiries", carried out in the first day of invesogation have failed to yield results. These would include obvious tasks such as searches of the area, anyone immediately

idenofied as having a motive

Yesterday the Yard said detectives were still trying to find a witness who had a good view of a man seen loitering near Miss Dando's home and running away after the shooting.

At least five men and two wornen witnesses have come forward and detectives are examining which one could provide the E-Fit. One of the problems is that witnesses may have only caught a side or back view of the suspect who was aged between 30 and 40, about 5ft 10in or 5ft 11in tall, well dressed in a suit or dark jacket and trousers, and carrying a

The Dando murder team.

led by Detective Chief Inspector Hamish Campbell, know that they must get the best picture they can and time is not on their side. If the detectives rush out a poor picture, they face the risk that possible witnesses will eliminate suspects

because they do not match it.

Yesterday a specialist search team often used after terrorist attacks was in Gowan Avenue and nearby streets looking for mobile telephone.

and tip-offs of good suspects.

Who would want to kill my gentle Jill?'

Fiancé urges those with suspicions to tell police, writes Michael Harvey

THE siance of the murdered television presenter Jill Dando spoke yesterday of his grief and incomprehension at her death. Alan Farthing said: "I cannot understand why they would want to kitl someone as gentle, kind and well-meaning and as perfect a person as Jitt.

Mr Farthing, 35, a consultant gynaecotogist at a West London hospital, was due to marry Miss Dando in September. They had been seeing each other since meeting on a hlind date last year.

In an emotional interview organised by the police he said: "I am coping in the same way as anybody else would cope in these circumstances. I am devastated. Everybody around me is devastated, everybody is trying to offer as much support as they possibly

Mr Farthing, who was told of his fiancee's death while at work at St Mary's Hospital. Paddington, added: "I cannot helieve what has happened. I cannot understand what has happened. I cannot think for one moment what could go through someone's mind when they do such a thing to such a beautiful, caring and well-meaning person such as on finding her kitler: "Some-body has planned this ... and somebody around that person will have noticed a change in behaviour. I would appeal to anyone who is suspicious not to think about it, but to just go ahead and give the police the information they have. If the information is not relevant. then tet the police officers decide that."

Jill Dando and Alan Farthing together last Christmas

Mr Farthing was speaking al Kensington police station. where the murder investiga-rion is being co-ordinated. He said that Miss Dando, 37, had II."
not spoken of any serious fears His thoughts were focused about her celebrity status or sions when she had to go in to her role presenting Crime-watch UK. He added: "I have spent hours, as has everybody who knows Jill, desperately racking the backs of our minds to see if we can come up with a particular reason, it is not something that was a topic of conversation. She never really felt that there was any particular danger to her as far He said that she had contacted Crimewatch before she joined to see if anyone had been threatened, but was reassured. "It did not worry us.

the BBC car park at tarn to drive herself home."

Mr Farthing said that he could see himself going back to work, but for the moment he was too busy helping the police. "My first emotions now are that, whatever happens and whatever arrests are made, it does not bring back Jill and that is desperately sad.

"Nevertheless, it helps me and Jilt's family and it helps Jill's friends and colleagues to feel that we are doing everything we can to try and appre-hend whoever is responsible." Mr Farthing, his voice hreaking, said that he had last spoken to Miss Dando at 7.25am on Monday when she left his house in Chiswick. Detectives are still talking to family and friends, seeking

Mr Farthing first heard thal there was something wrong when he had a pager message from her agent, who was trying to find out if rumours of her death were true. He had tried to contact police stations when a senior police officer whom he knew arrived to give him the news.

Talk of a public memorial was premature but he and Miss Dando's family wanted to thank all those who had

Detective Chief Inspector Harnish Campbell at the Dando murder scene yesterday

Police grapple with mystery of gunman's motive

KOSOVO CONNECTION

Theory: Miss Dando was the victim of a Serb killer acting in revenge for the bombing lest week of the Serbian television station in Belgrade.

Evidence: Last week she presented a television charity appeal for the victims of the Kosovo conflict. Two anonymous callers to the BBC and one to ITN have claimed that there is a Balkan link to the murder. Several Serb television workers were killed in the Nato bombing. which the British Government justified as an attack on "the ministry of ties in Milosevic's one-medium state". The murder of such a prominent BBC employee might be seen

Likelihood: Far-fetched theory but not ruled out by the

PERSONAL REVENGE

Theory: She was killed by someone who knew her either in her personal or professional life.

Evidence: An admirer could have become jealous after learning of her engagement to Alan Farthing, 35, a gynaecologist. Police are questioning all those close to her, including Dr Farthing. They have searched his townhouse in Chiswick, West London. They have also spoken to her former boyfnend, Simon Bassil, 33, a former game park warden who is now a computer analyst in Hampshire. She met him in January 1997 when she went was filming in South Africa, Women are more often killed by people known to them but police emphasise that neither Dr Farthing nor any former boyfriend is a suspect.

Likelihood: Possible and being investigated.

OBSESSED FAN

Theory: She was killed by a stalker who was inlatuated

Evidence: Miss Dando had expressed concern about her safety but not recently. As with all women television celebrities she attracted her fair share of fans and fanmail. Several websites were devoted to her. Last year she was bothered by an obsessive ten who was warned off by the BBC. Someone who believed himself to be in love with her could have been pushed over the edge by the news of her forthcoming mantage.

Likelthood: Possible and police are treating it seriously But people with obsessions very rarely fall the object of their inlatuation. The shooting was also too clinical to suggest that the killer was an emotionally lortured len.

CRIMEWATCH GRUDGE

Evidence: Miss Dando co-presented the programme for four years. In that time it teatured nearly 500 crimes and about a third were solved. Police are examining Comewatch files to see which criminals have recently been released from jail. Few ol the offences featured in the programme involved the sort of gangland crime likely to provoke a revenge killing. Nick Ross, her co-presenter, does not believe there is a Crimewalch connection.

Likelihood: Police consider it very unlikely. A professional killer would not have worked without gloves and a well-thought out escape route.

Theory: A criminal brought to justice by the BBC1 programme Crimewatch sought revenge by hiring a the murder weapon.

commuters

Bosch has created the mobile phone for

There you are standing to front of this breathtaking view, totally speechless - as far as your mobile phooe is concerned.

It's a predicament we can help you with. Because the oew Multiband-Mobile WORLD 718 works just like you here today, there tomorrow. As a subscriber to one of Europe's mobile oetworks, you can use this phone to make calls in many parts of the USA as well as other parts of the world, provided they are serviced with European GSM technology. This world-first, mobile phooe will connect to the local network on its own and always retaios the same phone number. So at least your mobile phone will never experience jetlag but, if you ever do, you can always switch it off.

Bosch. We bring innovation

Her partner uses her as his personal punchbag.

Now the Government is about to deliver another wounding blow.

Kicked, beaten and burned by a man who could kill her, this victim needs to see a lawyer fast.

But under the Access to Justice Bill, there may be no legal aid lawyers left in her area when she makes her claim. By which time it may be too late for her to find one further afield.

So what's the point of having rights, if basic access to justice is denied?

This Bill will hit the poorest and most vulnerable – the very people who need legal aid.

To protect their right to justice, ask your MP to lobby for changes to the Access to Justice Bill now. Before it's too late.

Refuge, a national lifeline for women and children experiencing domestic violence, shares these concerns about the impact of the Bill.

poet of pome pen o new

The hotte are in Sc

Nainsbury's 30 Frozer
Na Pounders & 4-45-4g £

Sain

Poet of the Dome will pen ode to new era

By MARK HENDERSON

POETRY was assured of its place in the Millennium Done yesterday when Simon Armitage was appointed as poet-in-residence.

Armitage, a Yorkshireman and one of Britain's foremost young poets. will spend six months based at Greenwich composing a 1,000-line ode to Britain's celebrations. He will be paid £5.000.

He will perform the com-pleted work in the Dome and at venues across the country. He is also likely to read extracts at the New Year's Eve celebrations, though a full reading would probably be considered too long. "I'm a slow reader and a thousand lines would take me about an hour," Armitage said. But he added: "If people are sober and patient enough to sit through that on millennium night. [1] do it." The poem, which he promises will rhyme, will be published as a book. Extracts will feature around the Dome, possibly in zones for which they are appropriate.

on the men

LINKS

Composing a poem to mark

an event of such importance

Armitage: will capture mood of the nation would usually be a job for the Poet Laureate, a position that remains vacant since the death last year of Ted Hughes. Armitage is considered a strong option for the post, though not a frontrunner, and the commission is certain to boost his candidacy. Armitage, 35 and a former probation officer, was shortlisted for the Whitbread Prize for his first collection of poems, Zoom! and is a winner of the Forward Prize for poetry. He writes on modern and accessible subjects

-- such as the retirement of Eric Cantona - and is a regular radio broadcaster.

His appointment will be seen as a gesture towards the North, where hostility towards the perceived London focus of the Dome is strong. He still lives in his home town of Huddersfield and will travel the nation for

Yesterday, visiting the Dome for the first time, he said: "f want to capture the mood of the the country and what people make of the millennium. fm not clear yet where it's going to take me -that's part of the excitement."

His style and appeal to the young are thought to have in-fluenced his appointment, which is being funded by the Poetry Society's Poetry Places lottery scheme. Schoolchildren recently voted him their second favourite for Poet Laureate, after Seamus Heaney.

Yesterday the New Millennium Experience Company announced three new sponsorship deals - with Typhoo, Kodak and Mars - bringing the total to £144 million, just short of the £150 million target. It also said that 210,000 free tickers to the Dome would be offered to Greenwich residents.

هكذا من الأصل

"Blade of light": the bridge is expected to carry four million people a year between St Paul's and the new Tate Gallery

Thames footbridge will be a lifesaver

BY MARK HENDERSON

LONDON'S first new bridge across the Thames for more than a century is to have an innovative anti-suicide design. Curving balustrades will make it almost impossible for anyone to attempt to leap to Construction began yester-day on the £16 million Millennium Bridge, which received a £7 million lottery grant. The architect Sir Norman Foster, who designed the footbridge with the sculptor Sir Anthony Caro and the engineer Professor Chris Wise, said: "The contoured shape of the handrail makes it almost impossible to climb."

The low-level suspension bridge, which will link St Paul's Cathedral and the Tate Gallery of Modern Art at Bankside, will be supported by stainless-steel balustrades that will curve away from the pedestrians. The balustrades' 5ft height and curve mean that only the most deter-mined would be able to climb over. The four million people a year expected to use the bridge will not, however, side disturbed by high safety

When it opens next April it will be London's first foot bridge since Roman times and the first new bridge in Central London since Tower Bridge in 1894. At night it will be lit up to span the Thames with a "blade of light".

John Prescott, the Deputy Prime Minister, officially launched construction yesterday. A second footbridge is being built with Millennium Commission funding upriv-er, beside the railway track on Hungerford Bridge.

Scientists train bees to detect landmines

BY NICK NUTTALL

TECHNOLOGY CORRESPONDENT

HONEY bees are being trained by scientists to detect landmines in the hope that they can help clear vast areas where the deadly weapons have been buried and forgotten.

The work hinges on the ability of the bees to pick up dust and airborne chemicals on their bodies. Trace levels of TNT, the explosive commonly used in landmines, can be found in the air around the buried weapons. It may also be absorbed from the soil into the pollen of flowering plants and picked up by the bees as they forage for nectar. The bees can then be screened for explosive chemicals on their return to the hive.

Jerry Bromenshenk, a bee expert at the University of Montana at Missoula and one of the team, said: "Bees are like flying dust mops. Wherever they go, they pick up dust, airborne chemicals and other samples on their fuzzy, statically charged bodies." The scientists are also training bees to sniff out TNT chemicals by teaching them to link the smell of explosives with the smell of sugary substances. New bee colonies are given feeders with sugary water tainted with a marker chemical. The feeders have then been moved further away from the hive and eventually removed altogether. Dr Bromenshenk said the bees

LINKS

worg Wilson Institute for w.org The Mine Warters were found foraging in areas where the marker chemical had been put down before returning to the hive. Susan Bender, of the Sandia National Laboratory in Albuquerque, New Mexico, said: "The beauty of this approach is that bees are indigenous to nearly every climate on earth and there are beekeepers everywhere. You won't need a milliondollar piece of equipment and extensive training. The countries where landmines are a problem typically don't have those kinds of resources."

The Red Cross estimates that between 80 million and 120 million landmines are buried across the world, notably in Angola and Cambodia. An average of 60 people are maimed or killed by them every day.

Researchers at the Natural Resources Institute - part of the University of Greenwich - in Malvern. Worcestershire, have developed tiny antennae to attach to bees so that they can be tracked by radar.

Alan Smith, of the institute's radar entymology group, said: "You can tell the range and direction of a bee every three seconds."

Individual

The hottest barbecue offers are in Sainsbury's freezer. Buy1get1Free.

Sainsbury's 30 Frozen Thick Pork Sausages 1.5kg £3.79, Birds Eye Pork 1/4 Pounders x 4 454g £1.99, Sainsbury's Frozen Beef Burgers x 8 454g £1.99.

Sainsbury's

EXCLUDE SAINSBURY'S 'LOGAL' AND 'CENTRAL' STORES. WE'D BE INTERESTED IN YOUR COMMENTS:

Transfer Funds

E-mail Egg

Net a great savings interest rate

gross p.a. / AER

How?

· Apply online at www.egg.com

. You can start saving with just £1

Your interest rate, including the introductory bonus, is guaranteed to remain at Least 0.5% gross p.a. above base rate until 1/1/00

You get access to your savings - without notice or penalty-over the phone. by post or on the Internet 24 hours a day

You can chouse the Cashcard option and still get 5.5% gross p.a./AER Interest

 If you don't have access to the internet we can get god going with Egg's Internet service and a great deal on a PC, just call 08456 000 292

You can check your balance and transfer funds by phone and over the Internet

You can find full details of the account on our web site

apply online now www.egg.com

The voice of cricket joins The Times

> Start reading him on Saturday

he Saturday Times Only 60p

MPs demand revenge of the school swot brightest children are being let down by their schools and ostracised by their classmates as "swots and boffins", according to MPs yesterday.

Successive governments have neglected the most able pupils in their efforts to raise standards in schools, according to the House of Commons Select Committee on Educaoon. Even the literacy hour, introduced in primary schools this year, was not sufficiently flexible to cater for the clever.

The cross-party group called for a national strategy to en-hance the potential of bright pupils. Among the sugges-tions were for Nobel Prize winners to teach top sixth-formers. via the Internet. Malcolm Wicks, the committee's chairman, said: "It would be ridiculous if the undiscovered Einstein or the undiscovered Mo-zart just had to plod through the A-level curriculum." The six-month inquiry concluded that too many schools were unable or unwilling to cater to their brightest pupils. Some experts believed that up to 40 per cent of children should be considered "highly able" in one or more subject.

Mr Wicks said: "As a nacion, over the past 20 years we Government accused of neglecting most able pupils, reports John O'Leary

have focused on overall standards and, quite properly, been concerned about children who are doing less well. That means there is a danger that Britain's brightest children sometimes get a raw deal. We must ensure that good minds, a precious asset, are encouraged and not neglected."

The MPs' report called for named individuals to be re-sponsible for the brightest children in each school and local authority. But it rejected any single blueprint for teaching the most able, declaring that some would thrive in selective schools, while others would do better in comprehensives.

The committee said schools should be able to provide the stimulation that the most able children needed. Without suitable programmes, some even disruptive.

Better links between schools and universities were one key to improved provision for children who could easily do A-levels. Academics could set and mark dissertations to stretch teenagers at school.

Among other recommendations were better training for teachers to recognise and teach children of high ability. and more flexibility in initiatives such as the National Literacy Strategy to avoid boring the brightest children.

But the report noted that first there must be a change in attitude regarding the education of bright children. One group that supports gifted children told the committee that it was not "cool" to be bright in many schools. Able children were dismissed as "swore". were dismissed as "swots".

Mr Wicks said bright children were sometimes bullied and ostracised. "Maybe this is something to do with a society in which intellectual figures are derided." But the report insists that schools should remember that highly able children were still in their youth. They should be allowed to enjoy their childhood and not be treated as "brains on legs".

Students of self-hypnosis: from left, Matthew Chapman, Kirsty McGreeny, Lyndsey Lowe and Daniella Jones

Hypnosis beats exam stress

BY RUSSELL JENKINS

THE headmaster of a comprehensive school in Cheshire turned to a hypnotherapist for help when a group of GCSE pupils complained of examination stress. The students, aged 15 and 16, said that a paralysing anxiety left them unable to revise. Graham Neimes, bead of the 1,230-pupil Priestnall School, in Heaton Mersey, near Stockport, invited Anne Jakubowska, 50, a qualified hypnotherapist, to the school to hypnotise them. She conducted three one-hour sessions with the group of two boys and five girls, using her soothing voice and the power of imagination to encourage them to unburden themselves and learn to relax.

weekend

VOUCHER

Mrs Jakubowska hopes to be invited back to the school and that the sessions might become an annual feature in the run-up to examinations. She said that the kind of hypnotherapy she specialised in bore little resemblance to the theatricality of stage hypnotists. "Hypnotherapy has nothing magical about it," sbe said. "We do not dangle anything and we don't put anybody under. They just allow themselves to become pleasantly relaxed. "We had three sessions where we worked with the power of positive suggestion, concentrating on improving their study skills and how to help them control their anxieties."

Each pupil was given a 20-minute tape recording to switch on whenever they felt under stress. The school turned to Mrs Jakubowska because she was a former member of the parent-teacher association. She said that the improving powers of self-hypnosis had helped her two sons, both former pupils, in their studies, one of them becoming head boy.

Dr Nelmes said he was not aware of any other school using the services of a trained hypnotherapist.

He said: "We have a number of ways of preparing students for exams and this is just one more. The students have found it quite useful as a way of taking their minds off the pressures involved."

Unbeatable value from index this Bank Holiday

Teletext CONTRACTOR OF THE PARTY.

Attachable speakers

was £44.99 SKU: 387258

COMET

YOU CAN EVEN

ORDER BY PHONE

AM/FM radio

Model CD669

Mains/battery operated

SHARP

- 21" FASTEXT TV
- 51cm visible screen
- SCART socket 40 channels

Model 51DT25H, In-store £199.99

was £249.99 previously £259.99, £279.99 In-store £229.99 SKU: 367680

2 SCART sockets, Model SLVE730

EASYLIFE THE ULTIMATE FONE GIFT PACK Philips Diga prepay digital mobile phone Battery and charger Free 'Grid 99' Grand Prix video ● Includes £10 calling credit Model CELLNET EASYLIFE - THE ULTIMATE FONE SKU: 412060

SONY 4 HEAD NICAM STEREO VIDEO

Videoplus+™ Programme Delivery Control SAVE

WIN VIP TICKETS TO THE BRITISH OR ITALIAN

WE PROMISE THE

LOWEST PRICES

Goodmans HOME CINEMA PACKAGE

● 28" NICAM STEREO TV Includes stand/66cm visible screen Model 285NS, In-store £319.98 • HOME CINEMA SOUND KIT 3 Surround Sound modes Bass boost Model DPL905, In-store £149,99

• FREE 4 HEAD NICAM STEREO VIDEO

PACKAGE SKU: 422040

6 MONTHS INTEREST EXCLUSIVE TO COME!

VISIT THE COMET WEBSITE

CONVENIENT BANK HOLIDAY OPENENG HOURS AF Comes stores are open from Services and most stores open Services Them-Sort Copen Services and most stores open Services Them-Sort Copen Services Holiday Shonday Titlam-Sprit.

Were positive we can help

Maths pupils are worse than feared

BY JOHN O'LEARY EDUCATION EDITOR

PRIMARY schools appear unlikely to hit ambinous targets for mathematics after government advisers admitted that gaps in 11-year-olds' know-ledge is greater than ministers

David Blunkett, the Education and Employment Secrerary, attributed a 3 per cent drop in national test results last summer to the introduction of mental arithmedic tests. A subsequent analysis by the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority has shown that they were responsible for only about a third of the decline. Nick Tate, the QCA chief execuove, said ministers and officials had assumed that the unyears of testing, was due to schools' inexperience in preparing children for mental arithmetic questions. "It was a perfectly reasonable assumption to make that this was the major fator. It was a contributory factor, but not the most significant one."

The authority's evaluation of the tests showed a more general decline in performance at a time when a 4 per cent improvement was needed to maintain progress towards the Government's target. Mr Blunkett has staked his reputation on 75 per cent of 11-yearolds reaching the expected level for their age by 2001, but last year only 59 per cent did so. Coming less than a week beSUM TOTALS

There were 20 questions in the 30-minute mental arithmetic test, which will be similar this year. Pupils were asked to divide nine by three and add seven, and to calculate half of 3.6. Another question asked: Alex paid for a tape with a £5 note and received £1.25 change. How much did the tape cost?"

fore the start of this year's tests, the disclosure underlines the precarious state of the Government's standards agenda. However, Mr Tate said: "It would be disastrous for anyone in the education sys assume that we cannot do better than we are currently doing. We have to assume that there is potential for continuous improvement. We don't know what the results are going to be like this year, but we hope they are going to improve."

Martin Ripley, the QCA's principal manager for test development and administration, acknowledged that test results inevitably tended to "plateau" after initial improvement. But he said that pre-testing suggested that children were better prepared in mental arithmetic this year and that government guidelines on the teaching of numeracy should start to have an effect.

Sailor vanishes from lost yacht

By Paul Wikinson, North East Correspondent

A BOAT belonging to a solo yachtsman who set off on a trip of about 15 miles has been found drifting, empty. more than 400 miles away.

Peter Bloomer, 51, an experienced amateur sailor, left the Neptune Marina at Ipswich aboard his 33ft boat, Tropical Spirit, at lunchtime on Saturday, April 17. He told staff that he planned to sail down the coast to Walton on the Naze, Essex, to explore coastal creeks, staying away overnight.

When he had not returned by Monday, April 19, an exten-sive search of the East Anglian coast was made, but nothing was found. Ports in France, Belgium and The Netherlands were alerted in case Mr Bloomer, had decided to head for the Continent.

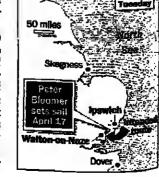

His single-masted sloop was not seen again until two days ago, when it was sighted 130 miles northeast of Tynemouth in Northumberland by a Ministry of Agriculture fisheries protection aircraft on a routine patrol. The sails were up but no one was at the HMS Leeds Castle, a listeries protection vessel, went to the scene and found Mr Bloomer's passport, a diary and his mobile telephone, but no sign of him.

A Coastguard spokesman said yesterday: "There are no obvious dues about what may have happened to him. We may have to assume that he went overboard and has drowned." Mr Bloomer, who runs a shipping company, Concept Caribbean, in Felixstowe, Suffolk, is married with two sons, aged 19 and ten.

Line Norse Line Norse Line feared

the second second

exam stress

The new left hand drive Beetle

Bar puts case against Irvine's legal aid cuts advertising campaign against

THE Lord Chancellor faced a fresh onslaught yesterday over legal aid cuts when the Bar his own branch of the legal profession - turned its wrath

The Bar is urging the Government to amend the Access to Justice Bill, which is in its committee stage today, to pre-serve legal aid for vulnerable

It also wants enshrined in the Bill a fundamental principle, inserted by the Lords after a Government defeat, that access to justice must be provided to people without means, to the disabled and those in deprived areas.

Lord Irvine of Lairg's plans to end legal aid for personal injury cases will affect the old, the young and the disabled, the Bar says. The Lord Chan-cellor insists that they will be protected by a hardship fund and the £1.6 billion annual legal aid bill will remain intact. Dan Brennan, QC, Bar

Chairman, said yesterday: "The Lord Chancellor says that these are the very people who are protected under his le-gal aid reforms. If that is the case, why not put it in the Bill?

"At present these people are protected under the legal aid system. Unless their future entitlement to pursue such claims is guaranteed, legal aid should be preserved for them." Lawyers seek guarantees

Without such a guarantee, he said, the "most vulnerable people in society" would not have

He also hit back at the Lord

Chancellor's comments that lawyers' protests arose from concern about their incomes.

The poverty of this argument is endorsed by its constant repetition," Mr Brennan said. "Il is a stereotyped accusation that has become so hackneyed that people do not pay it any at-doctors and nurses of being concerned about their incomes

when they complained about inefficiencies and lack of services in the NHS. "Lord Irvine

does not say that they are lin-weight to the Law Society, the solicitors' professional body, which this week, backed by a coalition of consumer and other groups, started a £700,000

The Bar's attack adds

ing their own pockets."

Nobody, he said, accused to scrap legal aid for personal injury cases, and instead to for vulnerable rely on lawyers taking the cases on a "no win, no fee" basis. groups without supported by insurance to cover the risk of having to pay the other side's legal costs. Lawmeans, writes yers say this will mean a wide swath of difficult but deserv-Frances Gibb ing cases which cannot be pur-

> The insurance will be too costly and the risks too great for any lawyer to take many cases on, they say.

the proposals.

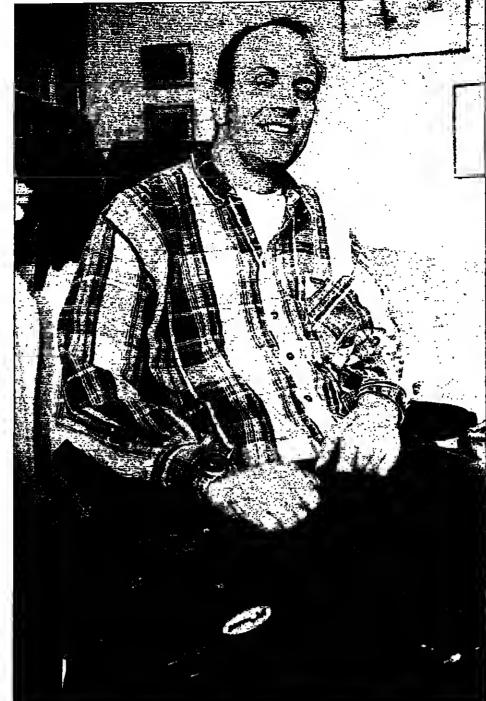

The Government proposes

The reforms are aimed at ensuring legal aid goes on the most deserving cases and that lawyers do not run weak or speculative claims on taxpay-

Lord Irvine insists that a "hard cases" fund will be set up specifically to protect such cases. But the Bar, Law Society. Consumers' Association and others want this en shrined in the legislation.

Lord Irvine yesterday renewed his own attack on the Law Society over what he des-cribed as its "misleading" advertisements. In letters to newspaper editors, he said that "vulnerable people will have been caused unnecessary

Leading article, page 23

Legal aid enabled Trevor Jones to win £1 million in damages - and his independence

Cash awards that made life worth living

By Frances GIBB, LEGAL CORRESPONDENT

YOUNG, old and disabled people are the three groups that will suffer from the loss of legal aid, the Bar says.
Trevor Jones. 38, is paralysed from the shoulders down after breaking his neck in a ski-ing accident ten years ago when in the Royal Navy. His case was difficult because of the lack of an obvious defendand the accident happened when he swerved to avoid tourists cutting across the course. After investigations, it emerged that his MoD engaged instructor had ordered him down the course without having a proper view. The MoD was sued and more than !! million in damages recovered.

His solicitor. John Cahill, said: "The damages have secured him a monthly income for life and given him technological equipment which has radically changed his quality of life. Without legal aid, he added, the case would not have been brought. All costs were recovered.

Mr Jones, who needs 24-hour care, is seeking sponsors for a round-the-world voy age in a wingsail yacht. He said yesterday. "The difference in having the award is enormous. I have a wheelchair which cost £15,000 and a car which cost £40,000. It has given me independence."

needs round-the-clock care. Before he was born his mother was involved in a road acci-dressing up as their favourite literary characters for World

Tracy Argent, their head teacher, said: "The key thing isn't just getting children to read now, it is motivating them to carry on reading for the rest of their lives. Events like this help to convince them

The school will be restocking its library with its order from the Free Books for Schools scheme in the summer term and Mr Reynolds

will be guest of honour.
The final Times tokens will be published tomorrow, but they can be redeemed until July 20.

Mr Reynolds lamented the end of the scheme: "It'll be really odd not having to cut out to-kens — it's really kept us busy. I don't know what we'll do with ourselves after Friday."

Token, page 26

kenzie-Smith, 46, whose cover in Bangkok was as an English language teacher, was a willing fixer for a gang headed in Bangkok by a Chinese Thai

London remains the main destination but Glasgow and Edinburgh figure high on all ain and ontained by The Times show how the gangs take the girls sightseeing and send the photographs home to convince other girls that they

☐ The Sex Slave Trade. Chan-

Photographs taken in Brit-called Boon Tam.

traffickers client lists.

will be well treated.

nel 4, tonight at 9 pm.

Embassy linked to sex trade

FROM ANDREW DRUMMOND IN BANGKOK

that reading is exciting."

Book Day.

BY HANNAH BETTS

A delegation of ten children

Mr Reynolds announced in Many of the tokens had

The women are brought to

One such girl told how she porter Lee Sorrell, who was infiltrated into the trafficking groups by The Times' correspondent in Bangkok, also showed how British expatriates were more than happy to help the Triad gangs by re-cruiding girls and acting as "jockeys", bringing them into Britain as their girlfriends. British-Canadian Glen Mac-

مكذا من الأصا.

dent that injured them both. His parents could not care for him and he is with foster parents. With legal aid, a claim was brought against the other motorist and the settlement in his favour amounted to more than El million. That will provide him with care, aids and housing should he outlive his foster parents, now 70 and 64. His barrister, David Wilby, QC, said that Richard has no voluntary limb, head or spine control. He has poor vision. and has a colostomy and is doubly incontinent. "He can smile and laugh and express concern and annoyance. He clearly loves his foster parents and his environment and he attends a special school."

Mr Wilby said that none of his care would have been possible without legal aid.

Mrs W, from Southend-on-Sea tripped after falling over a milkerate outside a newsagents, suffering significant in-juries. She sued the shopkeeper, but he contested the action. Each had witnesses with differing stories as to how she fell.

Nigel Cooksley, the barris-ter who handled the case, said: This was going to be a difficult one to prove because of the conflicting evidence. Mrs W was able to get legal aid and secured a £10,000 settlement on the steps of the court."

The Mayor of Labour-controlhis expenses. Steven Bartlett, 52, was sentenced oo two counts of false accounting. which he had denied before Newpurt magistrates earlier

The court had heard that in Mark Powell, defending, said that Bartlett had often undercharged the authority. He had repaid the money and was leaving politics.

Jail for 'air rage

Paul Street, 31, from Huntingdon in Cambridgeshire, was jailed for four months at Eunis, Co Clare, after pleading guilty to using threatening, abusive behaviour on board a London-bound American Airlines Boeing 767 on Saturday. The aircraft had to divert to May Morning revellers in Oxford are being barred from Magdalen Bridge because of safety fears. In the past students have jumped from the bridge into the Thames.

About 20,000 people had been expected to gather there at daybreak oo Saturday to hear Magdalen School choir.

Handling charge

A "dou't touch" helpline was opened to save thousands of baby birds from unnecessary handling. Many are "rescued" from the groood and taken to the RSPCA, when they would be better off left alone as parents will feed them. The (50p a minute) number is: 09096 711211.

Court agreement

Channel 4 is to go ahead later this year with a documentary series ou homeless teenage children after an action in the High Court brought by Nottingham City Council. The identities of two girls in Stay-ing Lost will be obscured. Two other children have withdrawn their consent and will not be appearing.

TODAY IN SECTION

Malcolm Bradbury on the modern library when m and who's out this month. In all, 13 councillors face such charges.

1996 he submitted a claim for a £101 first-class train fare alticket. He also claimed more than he should for a car journey to a Brighton conference.

Bridge ban

Peter Ackroyd on the religion of science

THE

phyt

a fare nec

version is long by Halon

2:Fix of Incluncte Book.

to where one of the most

the contract of the contract o and market shelves.

and the increased miner

Later - " half from 1996 to which is the tourses were Aunte un

at the real new to have.

from tropical America. R area are an in most tropical.

the ment a law-growing and masurer operat regions and tiant that trusts from the cen-

the sem ther only a year. friger, ein be eaten as a

More a million.

notes di na decade. Ion as a

ENDSLE FOR CHE MOTO

NSURA

AND DON'T M ON THE EXTR

Ends: eigh may offer cheaper motor i get aur 24 hour 'one can sorts it all e Still get a free courtesy care And yo splacement mithort effection form a get 20 days cover in Europe, And you : And it you need any extra reasons '

THE UK'S BIGGEST PC RETA

We won't be beaten on price

We promise that if you find the same offer available at a lower price in any other local retail store within 7 days of purchase, we'll refund the difference guaranteed - provided you can produce your receipt and details of where you saw the offer.

To join us, pick up a FREE CD in-store.

www.freeserve.net

FOR YOUR NEAREST STORE CALL 0990 464 464

on some disens son sortwick in www.pcworld.co.nk

APRIL 29 lugg h awards made life th living

First showing of the prince and the pawpaw

Detail in royal portrait suggests oranges were not the only fruit in Queen's hothouse, says Russell Jenkins

FRESH research into a Van Dyck masterpiece suggests that homegrown tropical fruit may have been everyday fare on the royal dining table in the ome of Charles I.

Xanthe Brooke, curator of European art at the Walker Art Gallery in Liverpool, has identified the fruit featured in the painter's The Five Eldest. Children of Charles I (1637) as a pawpaw.

It is believed to be the earliest recorded image of the exotic fruit, discovered in South American Caribbean in the early 17th century, in this country. Ms Brooke speculates that it was grown in Queen Henri-etta Maria's greenhouses, where oranges were also produced for the royal table.

The painting, part of the Royal Collection, was originally hung in the breakfast room at the Whitehall Palace, later burnt down. King Charles was known to be fond of it.

Mavorto

rome evin

200 hours

1,110

The painting normally hangs at Windsor Castle but has been loaned by the Queen to the Walker Gallery, where it goes on show tomorrow until July 18. Much of the scholarly interest in the painting has concentrated on the images of the children and their relationship with the huge dog. Ms Brooke said: "Identification of the pawpaw is partly hypothesis and supposition between myself and the head of botany at the Liverpool Museum. The still life has not been described in any entry or descritpion of the painting. It has been ignored."

The painting also features a Lyme masoff dog, a breed that has been extinct for almost a century. They were originally bred at Lyme Park in Cheshire as a hunting dog and to fight bears. But they were favoured as pets because of their docility with children. The painting shows the dog being stroked by the future Charles II.

In the 16th and 17th centuries they were given as diplo-matic gifts. In 1604 James I gave a pair to Philip of Spain to mark the signing of a peace treaty. The breed died out in the early years of this century.

Ms Brooke said: "These mastiffs were used as guard dogs as well as for hunting. In the painting the dog is guarding the children, but he was obviously a bit of a softie. A King Charles spaniel is also featured in this picture and is dwarfed by the mastiff."

paw shows that exotic fruit adorned King Charles's din-ing table long before they were routinely shipped from the New World, at the end of the 17th century. Only the hardiest examples would have survived the trip from the West Indies, suggesting the Queen may have cultivated them in the hothouses at Windsor.

Ms Brooke said: "It is clearly no accident that the pawpaw is in the painting. Essentiasily, she was showing off and Van Dyck was probably delighted to include it as a novel detail."

The Royal Horticultural Society said the discovery was a startling revelation. It added that there were no known records of pawpaw being cultivated in Britain.

The pawpaw can be seen beside the bowl in the top right of Van Dyck's The Five Eldest Children of Charles I, which was painted in 1637

Please can I drive?

The pawpaw: from New

Exotic fruit now a fare necessity

BY ROBIN YOUNG

THE pawpaw — or papaya — celebrated in song by Baloo the Bear in The Jungle Book. has become one of the most. familiar exotic fruits on Britain's supermarket shelves. Sales have increased more than tenfold in a decade. Tonnage rose by half from 1996 to 1997 when 3,700 tonnes were brought in, and annual sales are believed now to have topped £10 million. From tropical America, it is now grown in most tropical and sub-tropical regions and comes from a fast-growing plant that fruits from the central stem after only a year. Pawpaw can be caten as a fruit or vegetable, usually sprinkled with lemon or lime juice and/or sugar. It can be diced in salads, makes good sorbets, mousses and icecreams and is used for chutneys and jams. The seeds can be liquidised as a salad dressing, having a spicy mustard and cress flavour. They can be dried and used as a spice and, in Australia, Aborigines considered them an aphrodisiac. phytonutrients, thought valuable in combating disease.

Pawpaws typically contain 39 calories per 100g, have more vitamin C than oranges and are a good source of vita-min A and of dictary fibre. They are well stocked with

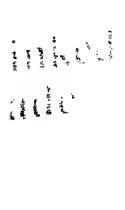

ENDSLEIGH

CALL ENDSLEIGH FOR CHEAPER MOTOR INSURANCE.

AND DON'T MISS OUT ON THE EXTRA BITS.

0800 028 2344

Britain's Biggest Hi-Fi Stores

The Choice for you

BANK HURRY! MUST END TUESDAY

Mini Hi-Fi SAVE A TOTAL £120

Lowest Prices on the spot

Find a lower price for the same new boxed and in stock, within 7 days in a local shop. WELL MATCHIT ON THE SPOT

Demonstracjon Roams for the latest technology

Specially designed rooms. altering the period > renvironment to experience the latest in digital. entertainment

Faster, better care for your product

Our trained technicians are on standby for efficient service in your home. In-store repair shops are open seven days a week, and there's even a 24hr. Repline on 08701541541.

Shopping made easy:

With late night opening, Sunday shopping and easy parking Phone 0990 500019 for your nearest store. You can even order direct on 0500 304304.

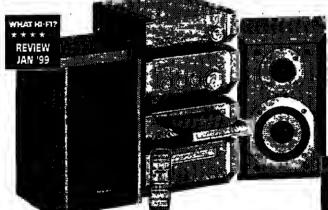

OF INTEREST HOW IT WORKS Account to inserest free if regaid to full IN 98 See with 60, 90, 10th or 12th months in the purpose accounting to the purpose accounting to the purpose.

SAVE 20

Rechargeable FM Cordless Stereo Headphones

■ 2 Way 5peakers.■ 2x 37 + 12 watts (RM5) Man Hi+Fi
■ 5 CD Changer,
■ 100 x 70 x 70 wates (RMS) output,
(RMS) output, Compact Micro Hi-Fi SAVE # 250

MATSUI EXCLUSIVE Compact CD Micro MI-Ri Programmable
CD Player.
2 Band Tuner.

TECHNICS Compact CD Micro Hi-Fi

PANASONIC CO MEN HI-FI

NEW 249 9

■ Class A amplifier with i 2x 25 watts (RM5) p

output. Model SCHD55. In-store Price £449.99. 9 MONTHS INTEREST FREE OPTIONS

£50

Hi-Fi with Turntable SAVE A TOTAL £ 120

SONY @ Hi-Fi with Turntable as to Autochanger.

Hi-Fi Separates SAVE # HALF PRICE

WHARFEDALE

SONY In-Car MinaDisc Turne

Shock Resistant ROADSTAR

EXCCUSIVE In-Car CD Tuner ■ Digital Tuner. ■ Bass/Treble Control

KENWOOD in-Car MiniDisc

Hi-Fi Systems SAVE ATOTAL £170 Mini Disc Quick track access no loss of quality. STUNNING हरताहरूद CD Mini Hi-Fi with Recordable MiniDisc Powerful 2x 50 watts (RMS) power output.

> Portable MiniDisc SAVE 46 £100 SONY MiniDisc Player

> > ATOTALOF 1299

MiniDisc Separates SA

HITACH MiniDisc Player

SHARP SONY Recordable MiniDisc Pla

Portable CD Systems

PANASONIC

CD Radio Cassette Model RXDT 37. Was £139.99. In-store Price £129.99. SAVE £40

PHILIPS OF Radio Cassette

£99.99

PHILIPS Portable CD Sys AIWA Portable CD System PANASONIC O Radio Co

Personal CD Players SAVE TO HALF PRICE

PANASONIC 40 Seconomic Parsonal Co Mayer and AC adaptor.

Buy to 50 hours

In-Car SAVE TO HALF PRICE WHARFEDALE

الأما الأصا

terrace date and TETRUTT ! 30 3545 ternal at ARS #154 Chapet Dr H

Adverts are the price of free

mone calls

rebbit Nas d

3.1

fi

Proce little

ಎಂಗ ಚರ್ಚಿಕ

1 men

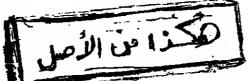

set nut to cations. activity. about th CITATION ing Ou are righ Resea white ar and 14 found i group and wei only had er en an acgirl of Physical estimate.

stone 91 Howe mi katawa finding Total to grater with trend healthythe bus on the be lescent b

Ga∰ free no Your business be going any

Tebbit surgeon was dismissed after blunders

geon who was made an OBE for helping 10 save Lord Tebbit's wife after the Brighton bombing was sacked after a series of life-threatening blunders during operations, an industrial tribunal was told

David Skidmore perforated a woman's artery during keyhole surgery to remove her gall bladder the day after he lacerated another patient's liver during another keyhole operacon. The woman whose artery was pierced required emergency heart resuscitation and a blood transfusion to stop her bleeding to death. The operations were the culmination of a catalogue of errors that caused "major anxieties" among Mr Skidmore's colleagues at the Joyce Green Hospital in Dartford, Kent, in 1997, said Paul Key, medical director of the Dartford and Gravesham NHS Trust.

He told the tribunal at Bury Si Edmunds, Suffolk: "It was not one colleague but several raising concerns. Both myself and the clinical director decided we would recommend sus-

Skidmore: accused of lying to patients

Senior medical figure claims

victimisation over criticism of NHS, writes

Joanna Bale

non-medical managers. Mr Skidmore is sæking reinstatement, claiming that the complaints against him do not amount to misconduct because six cases questioning his clinical competence were reject-

Mr Skidmore, who worked at Joyce Green Hospital from 1980, as well as West Hill and North Kent hospitals, has frequently criticised the managements of NHS hospitals and trusts. In 1990 he criocised the then South East Thames Re-gional Health Authority for overspending its budget and seeking credit from suppliers.

The hearing is expected to ed by the GMC.

pension leading to dismissal. As medical director I had a duty to act."

Dr Key said he realised that two operations had gone wrong on consecutive days only when the husband of one of the women told him that the patients had been in adjoining beds and had been comparing their ordeals.

Mr Skidmore, 59, who was dismissed for alleged gross misconduct in 1997, was also accused of lying to padents and colleagues to play down the blunders. Dr Key added: "Mr Skidmore was a senior consultant. Consultants are regularly unsupervised and it is imperative that, in their dealings with the trust, other professionals and patients, they observe complete integrity."

He added: "The findings of the chief executive, upheld on appeal, meant that Mr Skidmore had on several occasions told untruths which were compounded by his persistence in them over a two-day discipli-vary hearing." Earlier in the hearing. Mr Skidmore's lawyer, Anthony Temple, QC, said the surgeon. who lectures at University Col-lege and Middlesex hospitals in London, had been the vicom of a malicious campaign because of his criticism of hos-

Adverts are the price of free phone calls

BY CHRIS AYRES

TELEPHONE bills could | SKINNY teenage girls are past for callers willing to interrupt their conversations every few minutes to listen to a commercial break.

Britain's first "free" national telephone service. Free2Talk. will be launched in July by Freedom Telecom, a littleknown telephone company in which the television presenter Noel Edmonds is an investor. Freedom, run by a 26-year-old entrepreneur, Joshua Sayles. has spent £18 million setting up the service, which it will launch in partnership with the Energis telephone company.

An almost identical service provided by BT will go on trial next month in Bristol and Tyne and Wear, and is expected to be launched nadonally

Customers who want to take advantage of either service will have to fill in a questionnaire, detailing their shopping habits, age, sex and income. They will then be given an ac-

Both services are likely to be aimed at young people, stu-dents and low-income households. Freedom's service is expected to play adverts every ive minutes, while BT's will be every two minutes.

Similar services have proved a success in Stocknoim, where a small company, GratisTel, has gained a 7 per cent market share.

US girls find that thin is beautiful

By ALEX O'CONNELL

boys than their curvier peers according to a new study. A mere 19lb can be the difference between getting a date and missing out, says a report by Carolyn Halpern. an assistant professor of maternal and child health at University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Dr Halpern, whose study set out to investigate the implications of body fat oo sexual activity, said: "One reason adolescent girls are coocerned believe that being slim increases their chances of dating. Oor data indicates they Researchers followed 200 white and black girls aged 13 and 14 for two years. They found that a girl of average height and weight in the group - around 5ft 3in tall only half as likely to date as a physical maturity weighing 7 findings seem to be out of kilter with the current British for normal-sized. healthy-looking teenage pop stars and actresses. Po the buxom 16-year-old pop singer. Billie, are currently on the bedroom walls of adolescent boys across the coon-

Call free now or your business won't be going anywhere.

0808 22 4 2000

and after NHS reforms. The hearing, in which Mr Skidmore is claiming unfair dismissal, is being regarded by some as a challenge by doctors about who should run hospitals - senior medical staff or

Bernadine Coady resting after the "painless" operation on her foot

Trance helps patient to blank out pain

By IAN MURRAY, MEDICAL CORRESPONDENT

A NURSING bome matroo returned to work yesterday, two days after a painful operation on her foot under

Bernadine Coady, 58, who was worried about having an anaesthetic because she has a trait of sickle-cell naemia, put berself into a trance, s technique she learnt five years ago while studying for a diploma course at the British School of Hypno Mrs Coady, who came to Britain 30 years ago from Belize to train as a nurse, had the operation to reconstruct the bones in her foot so that she could walk without pain. Despite a warning that the procedure would involve cutting muscles and tendons and sawing through bone, she decided against having an anaesthetic because of her condition, in which the blood can easily be starved of oxygen. She had originally booked a hypnotist to come to the Fitzwilliam Hospital, io Peterborough. Ahmed Shair, her surgeon, had agreed the arrangement with the hospital, but took the precaution of having an anaesthetist on standby in case Mrs Coady was unable to bear the pain.

At the last minute the hypootist failed to show up and Mrs Coady decided to hypnotise herself. "I imagined my leg as an iron rod and that. when I heard the instruments, it was them knocking against the iron bar. I was going to liken it to waves lashing against a sea wall. Every time it happened, I thought it was the paio going way, like the tide." Mrs Coady, from Wimblington. Cambridgeshire, said: "I worked on the pain. I was aware of everything that was going on. This is the power of the mind, or madness. If surgeons could open their minds to it. you would find more people doing it." Mr Shair said that be had oever performed an operation in such a anner in his 20 years as a surgeon She was in absolute control."

The operation requires an over night stay to recover, but Mrs Coady vas able to go home hours later. Kenneth Phillips, a retired GP who works in Harley Street, said all hypoosis was self-hypnosis. "People who be-come hypootised have to be capable of transferring their consci somewhere else." He woold like to see hypnosis used more commonly in surgery. "Every anaesthetic is a risk but, with hypnosis, there is virtually no risk." There is also less bleeding.

http://www.hypnosis.org.uk/orgs. htm Information and register of medical hypnosis organisations

Half-price MOT with every major service.

Major services from £59.99.1

Vauxhall Nova (all models)	£59.99
Ford Fiesta (all models 1989 onwards)
Peugeot 106 (all models)	£59.99
Vauxhall Cavalier (all models 1988	£69.99

 76 point check.
 All makes of car covered.
 Parts and labour guaranteed for 12,000 miles or 12 months2, whichever comes first. • All work carried out by qualified technicians.

Half-price MOT may be taken with the major service or at any time before 31st March 20003.

Save up to 20% on selected tyres.

2	B
		77	7-17	7-77	777
18	₹`	17/	G	13
-	₹-	_		-

MANUTUR AND MANUTURE AND	WAS	NOW
175/70x13 TR Peugeot 306 1.9D 1997	£54.99	£43.99
185/60x14 HR Ford Escort 1.6LX 1994	£67.99	£54.39
195/60x14 HR Vauxhall Cavalier 2.0GLS 1994

PIRELLI EXAMPLES ARE: WAS	WOM
185/60x14 HR Vauxhall Corsa 1.4 Sport 1997£66.9	, £53.49
185/55x15 VR Rover 214iS 1997£99.9	9 £79.99
205/55x15 VR Ford Mondeo Ghia 1998£121.9	, £97.49

Phone 0345 361 361 now for a quote.

HALFORDS WE GO THE EXTRA MILE.

GARAGE SERVICING

7 MOTS WILL BE CHARGEO SEPARATELY IF REQUIREO. 2 THIS OOES NOT AFFECT YOUR STATUTORY RIGHTS, 3 OFFER APPLIES TO A MAJOR SÉRVICE TAKEN BEFORE 7.6.99, HALF-PRICE MOT MAY BE TAKEN ANY TIME UNTIL 31.3.2000. 4 AN ADOITIONAL CHARGE WILL BE MAGE FOR VALVES AND BALANCING ON EACH TYRE. HALFOROS LIMITEO, ICKNIELO STREET ORIVE, WASHFORO WEST, REDOITCH, WORCESTERSHIRE B98 DOE.

Westminster must not look down on Scots ife will never be the resentation now mean? This same again at Westminster. The election of the Scottish parliament in a week's time will not only change politics for ever north of the border, it will also have far-reaching, yet little appreciated, consequences for the House of Commons.

Recent polls suggest that around 15 members of the Commons (plus nine former MPs) are likely to become members of the parliament in Edinburgh. Most of them will probably be part-timers at Westminster, like some Northern Ireland MPs are

But the position of all 72 Scottish MPs has changed. This is not only about the long-debated, im-RIDDELL portant yet unresolved West Lothian question. the anomaly whereby Scottish MPs can vote on health, education and other devolved matters affecting people in England, but not their constituents north of the

Much of the day-to-day postbags of MPs concern just those domestic issues which are being devolved. So should a member of the Commons pass oo a letter to the member of the Scottish parliament who will, after all, represent the same area? There may be problems even if the two members are of the same party, given the prickly cgos of many politicians. Also, what will the Scottish MPs do at Westminster? Not all are tike Gordon Brown or Robin Cook. There several poor quality MPs from in and around Glasgow who have little to say on national. as opposed to devolved, is-

Scotland will have a mosaic of representation. As well as local councillors, Scots will, after May 6, also have one constituency member, and seven regional list members, of the Scottish parlia-

After June 10, Scots will be represented by eight members of the European Parliament. But who should constituents cootact? What does rep-issue was addressed at a recent seminar organised by the Institute for Public Policy Research and the Scottish Council Foundation. One theme was "signposts, not no-entry signs", so informa-tion should be available about the differing roles of elected members and their specific interests, but there should be no rigid demarcation about who handles what

I doubt if this will be sustainable in the long-term: in Germany, where there is a similar multi-layered structure, most constituency case work is handled at the local regional/ lander levels rather than national-The current view of represen-tation will have

ined. As Matthew Taylor, director of the IPPR has argued "to compensate for their lack of job satisfaction, MPs have invested more and more time in individual case work for constituents. But while MPs spend an average of more than 30 hours a week on casework which would be better dealt with by local councillors or a strengthened ombudsman, other impor-tant roles are largely over-

MPs should, as Mr Taylor argues, see themselves more as civic entrepreneurs, not just dealing with individual cases but also getting people together (councils, businesses and community groups).

The Scottish parlia-ment will also have lessons for Westminster, not just in the semi-circular design of the chamber, or electronic voting, or the "family-friendly" working hours. The proportional electoral system should ensure that no one party has an overall majority, so the emphasis will be on consensus building, co-operation and consultation.

Scotland is a laboratory of democracy, and Westminster should not be superior, as it usually is, about the experience of other legislatures.

Blame it on Basildon

Tory turmoil has its roots in Essex man's input to party's focus groups, writes Andrew Pierce

BASILDON — the 1980s stronghold of Thatcherism was an unlikely trigger for the biggest crisis of William Hague's leadership.

It was in the home of Essex Man that 12 disillusioned Tory voters gathered round a table in a private house to discuss why they had abandoned the

The health service dominated the 90-minute discussion shortly before Easter, the last focus group in target seats including Basingstoke, Redditch, Leeds and Ipswich. The voters met under the watchful eye of ICM, the Tories' polling organisation. Each person was paid £20. But it proved the most politically expensive focus group the Tories have commissioned. Peter Lilley analysed the thoughts of the Basildon voters, and decided his party had no option but to go for broke — the link with Margaret Thatcher and the free market must be severed. The result has been the biggest revolt at Conservative party headquarters in living memory. Mr Lilley, once regarded as one of the most thoughtful and Thatcherite figures in the party, is now an isolated and forlorn figure, the brow beneath his thinning fair thatch furrowed in fear.

Only Danny Finkelstein, the former SDP member who is head of policy, and David Wil-letts, the Shadow Education Secretary, are prepared to stand up for Mr Lilley, the blond who dropped the bomb-

The other two former SDP members now running Central Office - Andrew Cooper, head of operations and Rick Nye, head of research - were sceptics in the first place. They are both furious that focus group research has been used to such disastrous effect. Mutinous Tory MPs are now demanding Lilley's head in the next reshuffle. "He has to go," one former minister said last night. At headquar-

Lilley: the blond who dropped the bombshell

Hague: the leader who wants to ruffle feathers am going to carry on." William

Hague, speaking on Radio 5 Live's Sunday Breakfast programme.

The parliamentary party is io

We will always be proud of Margaret Thatcher and we will Conservative activists. April 28.

Activists bemoan Lilley 'own goal' said that some party workers there is alarm about any de-were unhappy about the gene-always be champions of the free market ... " William Hague, speech to crisis over the Lilley speech." James Arbuthnot, Conservative Chief Whip.

WHO SAID WHAT: THE ROAD TO A U-TURN

diversity and choice among providers of the service and for encouraging.

public private partnerships." Peter Lilley, Rab Butler lecture, April 20.

■ "We believe that the private sector, in partnership with the public, can make an important new contribution to the health services in this country.

William Hague, in The Times, April

"Of course it ruffles a few feathers

be some scope for introducing

Most Conservatives have always accepted that the public services are intrinsically unsuited to delivery via the market." Peter Lilley, unamended first draft of Rab Butler memorial lecture, circulated to Shadow Cabinet, April 15.

We will only renew public confidence] if we openly and emphatically accept that the free market has only a limited role in improving public services like health. education and welfare." Peter Lilley. preview of Rab Butler lecture in The Times, April 19. "In some public services there may if you do that. But they will have to get unruffled because that is the way I ters his name is mud. Even Mr Hague last night tried to draw a line under the controversy by mentioning Mr Lilley only once in his speech. "I cannot understand why Lilley made the speech or why he failed to consult us," a senior strategists said. "It is a mess, and it is a serious mess. There is great loyalty here to William Hague. I have no doubt he is as redoubtable a Thatcherite as anyone. It is perverse he has found himself in this mess. I can only think he was not properly focussed."

The decision to rewrite the party's philosophy was taken the previous week at the newly formed strategy group chaired by Mr Hague. James Arbuthnot, the Chief Whip, Mr Lilley. Francis Maude, the Shadow Chancellor, and Michael Ancram, the party chairman, were present. They agreed to go on the offensive to try to ditch once and for all the perception that the party was hostile to the NHS. Mr Lilley, who had the Rab Butler lecture in his diary, was nominated. Francis Maude would fol-

By MARK INGLEFIELD

POLITICAL REPORTER

TORY activists yesterday expressed concern and dismay about the row dividing the Shadow Cabinet one week be-

Michael Buxton, Michael

Howard's agent in his Folke-fore the local elections.

low through with a commitment, which he had made countless times before but had been lost on the voters, to renew the Tories' pledge to match Labour's spending promises on the NHS. It all went wrong. Mr Lilley showed only the first draft of the speech to Ann Widdecombe and lain Duncan Smith, who run the health and social security portfolios.

They were to be given final texts but they never materialised. To the fury of both, the fi-nal version, which ignored

sis of the row in Peter Lilley's

A constituency chairman in said his activists were furious.

"We don't like it at all." he said. "The reaction here is very

Tory seat in the Midlands speech last weekend.

their objections, was pushed in the next day's papers. Mr Lilley authorised the spin which continued throughout the week with the suggestion that the Tories would bury the party's Clause Four. One Thatcherite frontbencher said last night: "If this is merely a matter of a presenta-tional emphasis William Hague will keep most of his support. If it is not, and it is a serious shift in policy, he will not. It is as simple as that.".

stone and Hythe constituency, strongly against Lilley and Michael McInnes, said he was icies. The problem is no one can identify what's happening

Michael Heseltine's constituency chairman in Henley.

and that does not make it easy

Leading article, page 23

money will help the NHS'

By ROLAND WATSON POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT

THE Tories insisted yesterday that they were as keen as ever to get more private money into the National Health Service.

After days of confusion about Conservative policy on opening public services to the market. Ann Widdecombe. the Shadow Health Secretary, said it had not changed. She listed various ways in which she wanted to bring private money into the NHS, emphasising that they would only be additional to state spending, not a substitute for it.

Options being considered include tax concessions for those taking out private medical insurance, help for firms which offer employee insurance schemes and expanding the amount of building and refurbishment carried out under the Private Finance Initiative. She also proposed setting up a commission "to develop ways of adding commercial and charitable health provision oo top of state provision". Miss Widdecombe said: We are trying to take a very broad view and look at number of possibilities."

Miss Widdecombe, who was one of the senior Tories to criticise Peter Lilley at last week's Shadow Cabinet meeting over his speech distancing the party from Thatcherism, was addressing a press conference called by Conservative Central Office to try to draw a line under the episode. "There has never, ever been any sug-gestion, not under Margaret Thatcher, not under John Major, of privatising the health service. Peter Lilley was trying to dispel that myth and be was right to do so," she said.

But both she and Francis Maude, the Shadow Chancellor, refused to endorse the views of Mr Lilley as laid out in the first draft of his Rab Butler memorial lecture in which he said the public services were "Intrinsically unsuit-ed to delivery via the market".

very concerned at Mr Lilley's thought, 'Oh God, not another

Jean Gibbons, acting chairman in Tom King's Bridgwater seat, said it was "not a good moment to be having these in-own goal."

ternal wrangles".

split over SE stunt the continue of the to arraine The spile . :u/ft was lacing less

Tories in Car

for L

Totals bears -- bei Centie the Si the course of trace The comments of the contraction and despends for a ५ जनसङ्ख्या क्षेत्र की the contract of the state of th the company is also de the Southski leader on the said: "I was bet a structure reports and serve i

 $z_i = f_i + \epsilon_i$ artiga 🛬

....

フン・ゴ

SNP changes

... THE WAT MADERS TREM

the a VP leader, has put COME OF RES PARTS & CARD in decion. It is that relamentalists in the Soul enegated for the first h The arrest to receive the " - first year. When the e a placed last on the par i ili a dennier e Whe Provide the SNP 3" of die menting demang ? du me willish nanonalid had my somerateon on .

7.5

independence is at the court and the heart - concerns wild always

A

Pager special affer now o Mis Comet John Lewis Department Stere hidy Temps The Link, and other PageOn

FOR FUETHER INFORMATION FREE

LIBERTY. THE ART OF THE IDIOSYNCRALIC.

PAES LOWEST PRICES Height DELUXE BLUE OR CHARCOAL Adjustment OPERATORS CHAIR Gas-lift heigh) adjustment Lumbar Support Adjustable Arms Curved Seat Posture Adjustment Scotchgard Springloaded backrest, floats Blue (AN333203) or locks into Charcoal (AN333) 951 chosen position STAPLES SPECIAL PRICE 'Our promise is the lowest price' FANTASTIC FOR SPREADSHEETS STAPLES SPECIAL PRICE PRICE PROTECTION OBOO 328 8200

'Slashing the cost and hassle of running your office'

the rewards of shopping at Liberty Have never been greater. VISIT REGENT STREET TODAY AND DISCOVER JUST HOW REWARDING THE NEW LIBERTY ACCOUNT CARD CAN BE IMMEDIATELY GET 10% OFF ALL PURCHASES FOR ANY TWO ALSO OFFERS A FULL RANGE OF BENEFITS INCLUDING MAJOR DISCOUNTS, INVITATIONS TO SPECIAL PREVIEWS AND 10% OFF ALL SALE PRICES. AND AS THAT WASN'T ENOUGH, THE LIBERT

Wallace wary of bridge too far for Lib Dems

By JASON ALLARDYCE AND MAGNUS LINKLATER

THE Liberal Democrats could sacrifice their commitment to abolishing university tuition fees as the price of forming a coalition with Labour in the Scottish parliament.

money Will help

MOD IIVI COM

In an interview with The Times, Jim Wallace, the Scottish Lib Dem leader, refused to guarantee that a Lib-Lab deal would require the El.000-a-year charges to be scrapped. His refusal is likely to spark a backlash within his party and among students given that a commitment to abolishing the fees is contained in its manifesto for the Scottish elections on May 6.

Unol now, it seemed likely that a cross-party alliance would outvote Labour on the charges in the Edinburgh parliament because the Scottish National Party and Scots Tories are also committed to aboiishing tuition fees.

But it now seems increasingly likely that a coalition deal could be reached between Labour and the Lib Dems which would involve Labour promising further investment across Scottish education.

Asked if he would guarantee that a Lib-Lab government would scrap the fees, Mr Wal-lace said: "You are jumping the gun. I'm telling you that's our policy, that's what we want to get, along with every other policy in the manifesto." In contrast, Mr Wallace has set out a clear pre-condition for a coalition with the SNP. He still argues that a deal is impossible unless the nationalists abandon their commitment to a referendum on Scottish independence in the first four-year term. Mr Wallace is diffident about his working title during the election campaign as "the king-maker". Despite the fact that his party may be within a week of wielding the kind of power it has aspired to but failed to achieve for the better part of this century, Mr Wallace refuses to be drawn on what his precise terms are for serving in a coalition govern-ment. He even prefers to quote the words of his Labour rival Donald Dewar rather than trust his own. "There's been a lot of speculation about what happens," he reads. "As far as I'm concerned I'm thinking about the 6th of May. The 7th of May will take care of itself.

There are a number of options currently available. Until we see what the circumstances are, we've not selected one option above another. That would be foolish. Uotil we are in a position to do that, we will keep pushing our case and lis-tening to the people of Scot-

It is hardly the most electrify-ing quotation of the campaign. but Mr Wallace is well pleased with it. He describes it as "elegant". And it allows him to fence round the one question everyone wants an answer to. But it is clear that he is fully prepared for the great day when, as he hopes, he will sit down with Labour and negoti-

Jim Wallace on the campaign trail in Dundee. Oo the horse-trading expected after the election, he says: "I'm not to be bought at any price" ate for power. The one mo-ment at which he became suddenly forthright was when he was asked whether Labour might simply refuse to negotiate, and carry on with a minority government. There would be a presumptuousness there," he warns. "A kind of arrogance that people despise about the Labour Party, who think they can have it all their own way even when the people haven't given them a majority to have it their own way. I don't think that would be the best recipe for stability."

So when will we know what the Liberal Democrats' condioons will be for joining a coalition Scottish government? Mr Wallace has the answer pat: May 8. Not May 7, the day after the elections. "No decisions will be made that day," he says. "The one piece of advice I've had from Paddy Ashdown is: don't make any decisions immediately after polling day, because you're far too fired. I want to get to my bed as early as possible." And which job will he be angling for in a fu-ture Scottish Cabinet? "Ha. you're not going to draw me

ly. "I'm not going to trade principles for a ministerial Mondeo." Not even a ministerial Jag? For a moment, a pause, and then a loud guffaw. "Certainly not," he says. "I'm not to be bought at any price."

Magnus Linklater, page 22

Scotland's two most senior Tories clashed publicly, over a controversial election campaign stimt which has threatened future party funding. The split came after The Times revealed that the party was faring legal action over its decision to produce 30.000 T shirts bearing the slogari stocks. Tuition Fees. Amabel Goldie, the Scottish party's deputy leader, voiced the deep anger of traditional activists who found the stimt grossly offensive.

The party's troubles deepened further last might when a spokeswoman for French Connection, which owns the trademark FCUK confirmed that the company's lawyers had issued the Conservative Party with a letter threatening legal action. The company is also demanding a personal applopy from William Hague. Ms Goldie stasted with David, McLeichie, the Scottish lender, who, hard the founded the stant. Ms Goldie said. I was actally matchage about this nonsense and like many others I, was actally matchage, about this nonsense and like many others I, was actally matchage, about this nonsense and like many others I, was actally anathranged about it. If I hait been so I would never these agreed to it.

SNP changes tactic

Alex Salmond, the SNP leader, has put independence from by back at the scrate of his party's campaign, promising to hold a referendate on presking up the Julion, as soon as pressable; after the decision in a change of trades, which will please final amounts is in the Scottish National Party.

Mr. Salthouti suggested for the Scottish National Party. that Scols could be asked to vote on independence within the parliament's first year. When the compage stanted in-dependence was placed last on the party's ten point plecity card. A series of disastrops pull results have forced the SNP to relaunch its campango.

QUOTE of the day

Mike Russell, five SNPs chief executive denying that the Scottish national jets had put separatism on a back-burner.

Independence is at the centre and the heart of our concerns:

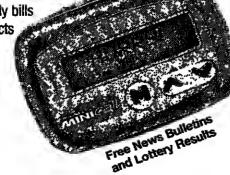

anti always 🗈 has been 2

today's AGENDA David McLetchle, Scottish Tory leader, visits the Isle of Arran where he will talk about the SNP's economic policies. Alex Salmond, SNP leader, attends a Catholic schooling conference in Crieff. Labour's Donald Dewar takes the battlabus to Glasgow. Jim Wallace, Lib Dem leader, will talk about tuition fees in Cumbemauld.

NOW £39.99

- No monthly bills
- No contracts
- Just buy the Pager

Pager special offer now on at Argos, Comet, John Lewis Departmant Stores, Maplin, Phones 4 U. Tandy, Tempo, The Link, and other PageOoe authorised dealers.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION FREECALL 0500 505 505 visit our website at: www.pageone.co.uk

MINICAL STAY IN TOUCH STAY IN POCKET

Calls made to pagers are charged to the catter at 55p peak time (0800brs-1800brs Mon-Fri) and 35p per call oil peak Payphones, mobile phones, phone cauds and/or other networks at itse prevailing tales and may be subject to network availability

Sir Tom, Chairman of Kwik-Fit

We service millions of cars every year and all Kwik-Fit people aim to provide our customers with the highest standards of service at all times. If you have any suggestions as to how we could improve our service, please speak to your local Kwik-Fit

Manager, or write to me at Kwik-Fit, 17 Corstorphine Road, you can be sure that we will follow up your

you your SIR TOM FARMER CRE Chairman

SAFE NOW, PAY NOTHING UNTIL SEPTEMBER

4 months interest free credit* Open an Autocharge Card Account, spend £100 or more and pay nothing for 120 days, then pay in full with no interest.

Or pay later Open an Autocharge Card Account, spend £100 or more and pay nothing for 120 days. Then you can spread the repayments within the Autocharge 29.8% APR (Variable)

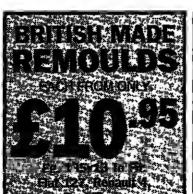

مكذا من الأصل

MOTORING AT KWIK-FIT

OVER 1/2 MILLION TYRES IN STOCK-WE BUY MORE SO THEY COST-U-LESS!

NEW

FROM ONLY

To Fit Eg.	Size	Each from only
Ford Orion, Peugeot 205, VW Jetta	145x13	£17.95
Vauxhall Astra, Volvo 340, Toyota Starlet	155x13	£18.95
Sierra, Nissan Cherry, Lada Riva	165x13	£19.95
Fiat Uno, Nissan Micra, Renalt Clio	155/70x13	£21.95
Vauxhall Corsa, Ford Fiesta, Citroen ZX	165/70x13	£22.95
Ford Escort, Hyundai Pony, Mitsubushi Coft	175/70x13	£25.95
Escort XR3i,Golf GTi, Flat Tipo	185/60H14	£29.95
Cavalier SRi, BMW 320i, Audi 80	195/60H14	£32.95

SAVE ON REAR SILENCER AND TAILPIPE ASSEMBLIES Was From Now From SAVE To Fit Eg. Nissan Micra 1.0, 1.2 £29 £24.95 8/87-11/92 Vauxhall Nova 10, 1.2, 1.4 8/90-93 Rover 214 Si, SLi, GSi, £3945 £29.95 1396cc 10/89-9/92 Volvo 343/345 1.4 to-8/91. Fiat Panda L, CL, S 750, 1000cc 3/86-6/92

SAVE ON COMPLETE EXHAUST SYSTEMS Was From Now From SAVE To Fit Eg. Vauxhall Nova 1.0, 1.2 £59 £49 £40 8/90-93 Fiat Uno 45 £79# £59.95 85-6/92 Renault 5 Campus 1108cc £8945 £79.95 8/89-10/92 Ford Escort 5, 1.3 £84.95 9/90-8/92 Mondeo 1.6, 1.8i 93-97 Sal/Hatch (Short Assembly)

Call Kwik-Fit Insurance Services on

0870 050 7777 Lines open 7 days 8am to 10pm

BRAKES BRAKE-SAFE LIFETIME GUARANTEE

When Kwik-Fit replace your brake pad: or shoes, they are guaranteed against accidental damage, defects and yes. even wear, for as long as you own you car. For full details, contact your local Kwik-Fit Centre.

FRONT BRAKE PADS

/	Make/Model:	FROM	FROM
	Flesta Mk2	£19:95	£17.95
	Escort Mk3,4	£24:95	£19,95
	Astra	$29:95	£19,95
	Cavaller Mi2	$25:95	£19.95
	VW Pole	£29:99	£24.99
	Ford Mondeo	28:99	£34.99

REAR BRAKE SHOES

Make/Model:	WERE	NOW FROM_
Fiesta Mic	£29.95	£23.95
Escort Mk3.4	129.95	£23.95
Astra	€34.95	£29.95
Caveller MK2	234.95	£29.95
VW Polo	£35.99	£34.99
Forti Mondeo	€39.99	£34.99
Brake firments n	nay vary des	perding on

· Tyres · Exhausts · Brakes · Batteries · Child Safety Seats · Engine oil changes · Shock Absorbers ·

Open 7 days Monday to Friday 8am-8pm. Saturday 8am-5pm. Sunday 9am-5pm

Please call free direct to your local Kwik-Fit centre on 0800 222 111

Tension rises over Israel poll

Vote hangs in balance, writes Christopher Walker from Jerusalem

THE Palestinians vesterday decided to postpone any decision on declaring an independent state in the West Bank and Gaza until after the Israeli election, adding a new dimension to a cliff-hanging poll that moved into top gear this week with the launch of television campaign broadcasts. The news came against the backdrop of 48 hours of violence in which eight Israeli soldiers were wounded in Lebanon and another was injured in the West Bank.

Even before the latest violence, the future of Israel's 21year military presence in southern Lebanon and the deadlocked Middle East peace process with the Palestinians including their continued demand for an eventual state had emerged as key issues bitterly dividing the main con-

Because of the closeness of the race - the last poll in 1996 was decided by 30,000 votes and the constraints imposed on rallies by security problems, television advertising is expected to play a key role. The election takes place on

BINYAMIN NETANYAHU Narrowly elected as Israel's est Prime Minister in 1996, "Bibi". Netanyahu was forced to the polls 18 pected after failing to hold his Likud-led coalition together over the desdlocked peace process. Uncrowned king of Israel's campagning, he is still a possible winner despite king many enemies upsetting the White House.

May 17 with 33 parties competing for 120 seats in the 15th

Knesset, compared with the record set in 1988 of 27 parties struggling for the 55,000 votes needed to secure a single seat.

candidates running for the directly elected position of prime minister, which Binvamin Netanyahu has held since 1996. If

More significant are the five new Centre Party.

Popular former Defence Minister under Mr. Netanyahu until sacked on TV for his talks with Centre. Party, which he now leads enter opinion polis showe him the most popular of the founders with voters Favours continuation of paace process, but has yet to take off in the polls. against Mr Barak and Mr. Netanyahu. Under pressure to stand down in exchange for top post in a future.

head of philosophy at West Bank's Bir Zeit University — a focus of Palestinian nationalism — he is a Christian Arab leading a splinter from the israeli Communist Party, Favours israel as a secular, democratic (ie, not defined as tewish) state, with cultural autonomy for its one million Arabs. Backs a wo-state solution to the night, many scripted and su-pervised by highly paid American media experts.

ny Begin, the far-right candidate, nor Azmi Bishara, the first Arab prime ministerial challenger in Israel's 51-year history, are given any chance.

nearly 90 minutes of party po-litical broadcasts on Monday

Offstage in Mr Netanyahu's corner is Arthur Finkelstein, wizard who is so reclusive about his presence in Israel that he often checks into a Jerusalem hotel under a false Mr Barak - Israel's most decorated soldier — is having his campaign masterminded by a team of liberal Americans including James Carville, the so-called "Ragin' Cajun" from Louisiana, Stanley Greenberg and Bob Shrum, who were all present at the birth of the famous slogan for party workers in President Clinton's first campaign, "It's the economy,

"The American advisers will market the two leaders to the people of Israel in almost the same way as an advertiser markets a new orthopaedic mattress," said the Haaretz columnist Akiva Eldar.

The difference is that the ratings of the campaign broad-casts really can affect the Israeli citizen's quality of sleep during the next four years."

The outcome is expected to hinge on the whim of floating voters, and the spin-doctors will be focusing on the one million immigrants who have arrived from the former Soviet Union since 1989.

In Monday's opening round Mr Netanyahu's Likud had the wit to include Russian sub-Mr Netanyahu led off the titles for the new arrivals. By Tuesday, such is the speed of "electoral response Israel's teams". Labour's platform was repeated word for word in

WORLD IN BRIEF

Russo-Chinese frontier pact

Beijing: China and Russia have reached a breakthrough in talks to map out their common border, ending a 300-year-old dispute, a Russiao diplomat said here. The task of marking out the border is complete after seven years of work," he said of the 2,656-mile border between

The head of the Russian oegotiating team, Genrikh Kireev, had exchanged documents in Beijing with his Chinese opposite numbers, the diplomat said. The documents are ready to be signed. It will be done at the oext summit between the heads of state or government this year, either in Moscow or in Beijing." (AFP)

reatens

prso!

-mion

" mary

in wit.

400,000

. = 1

4.4.

 $\mathcal{I}_{\mathcal{A}}(\omega^*) \otimes \mathcal{I}_{\mathcal{B}} = \mathcal{I}_{\mathcal{B}}$

AND SECTION AND PROPERTY.

はっぱつか.

发展 1. 1 · 10 · 10

工人計 一海空气运动

೯೬೫ಕ ಮಾಡಿ(ಡಿಕ್ ೨೮೯

There was built

unital files the fire

AND THE BUTTON OF

ಸರ್ಕಾರ≛ಕಾಗಲಿ ಕಾಗಿ ಗಳ .

ottish Widows

Sonal Pension.

CORTEO.

and the same the species the same former, or your secretary to the response

化二氯 苦水病 一流

TO ACT YOU

n in that ellegan

Home rights for 1.6m

Hoog Kong: Officials say that more than 1.6 million mainland Chinese could have the right to live in Hoog Kong as the result of a court ruling last January (Jill McGivering writes). A government survey suggests that 700,000 people, the children of permanent residents, could apply for residency immediately. Many are adults, and their children, more than 900,000 second-generation migrants, would also win the right of abode.

Kabila victory claim

Nairobi: The Congolese Army announced that its forces recaptured the eastern town of Bendera this week after heavy fighting with rebels and Rwandan troops in which 120 Rwandans were killed (Rubin Lodge writes). There has been oo independent confirmation of the claim, which was made by the armed forces spokesman, Leon Kasonga. If confirmed, it would provide a significant boost to the Government of President Kabila.

Capitol bacteria scare

Washington: Safety inspectors have found a recurrence of "potentially hazardous" levels of legionnaires' disease bacteria in the power plant that supplies heat and air-conditinning to the Capitol building (lan Brodie writes). High concentrations were found seven months ago. Inspectors said the system would not send the deadly bacteria through vents to congressional offices, but could pose a hazard to plant workers.

Supper's ready

Rome: Leonardo da Vinci's masterpiece, The Last Supper, painted nn the wall of a convent in Milan in 1498, went on show to the public after restoration work lasting 22 years. Rather than using the classic fresco technique. Leonardo chose a mix of tempera emulsion and oil on a plaster base. The technique, generally reserved for paintings on wood, allowed him to retouch the composition, but trapped damp in the wall. (AFP)

Death penalty call

Geneva: The United Nations Human Rights Commissioo adopted a resolution calling for a global moratorium on the death penalty, with a view to its abolition. Thirty of the commission's members voted in favour and Il against, including the United States and China. The European Union-sponsored text calls on all states that have the death penalty to reduce the oumber of offences for which it may be imposed. (AFP)

one of those fails to win 50 per lar former Defence Minister, cent in the first ballot, there as a strong contender. Unless Grateful Mandela forges

Mandela: greeted by a guard of honour

FROM ANNA BLUNDY IN MOSCOW

RUSSIA'S renaissance as a world player was further reinfarced yesterday by the arriv-al in Moscow of Nelson Mandela, the South African

Mr Mandela, who retires in June and is in Russia to discuss strengthening bilateral political and economic ties. expressed his gratitude to Russia for its support in fighting apartheid.

We received enormous assistance from the Soviet Union, the assistance we could not get from the West," he said. "Russia should have been the very first country closer ties with Russians that I visited and I have come to pay that debt now."

will be a presidential-style second round between the two

Predictions of the outcome

"two Jews, three opinions"

in a country where the old joke is very much alive and well.

have been complicated by the emergence of a new Centre Party, led by Yitzhak Mor-dechai, Mr Netanyahu's popu-front-runners on June 1.

The two countries signed agreements on the development of natural resources. such as gold and diamonds, and a declaration of co-operatioo in nuclear energy, specifically the development of helium modular ouclear reactnrs, thought to be the safest.

Russian politicians now railing against Nato's actions in Serbia are painfully aware of their economic dependence on the West. The International Monetary Fund has agreed to resume loans to Russia, beginning with about $2 billion (£1.25 billion) in an accord to be finalised in Washington this week.

Birthday bash for Saddam

Mr Mordechai stands down before May 17, he will open the way to a second round between Mr Netanyahu and La-

Mr Netanyahu is likely to win a second round because of a strong turnout among Jewish supporters compared with that of Israeli Arabs, unlikely to turn out a second time in sufficient numbers to secure victory for Mr Barak. Neither Ben-bour's Ehud Barak.

PRESIDENT Saddam Hussein of Iraq eclebrated his 62nd birthday yesterday by throwing a huge party across his impoverished country to demonstrate the resilience of his regime in the face of economic sametions and a war of attrition by US and British military aircraft (Michael Theodon lou writes). State radio crooned Happy Birthday in English while singers and poets led parades of ad-ulation of the man who has led his country into two dis-astrons wars in 20 years.

المستحدثين بها والمنطق المستحدين والمنطق بالمناس المستحدث المنطق المنطق المنطق المنطق المنطق المنطق المنطق الم المنطق المنطق

Pol Pot torture chief tells of Briton's death

FROM ANDREW DRUMMOND IN BANGKOK

COMRADE Deuch, the commandant of Pol Por's "S-21". the extermination and torture prison in Phnom Penh during the years of the "killing fields", has been found helping refugee charities in western Cambodia and says that as a bornagain Christian he wants to atone for his sins.

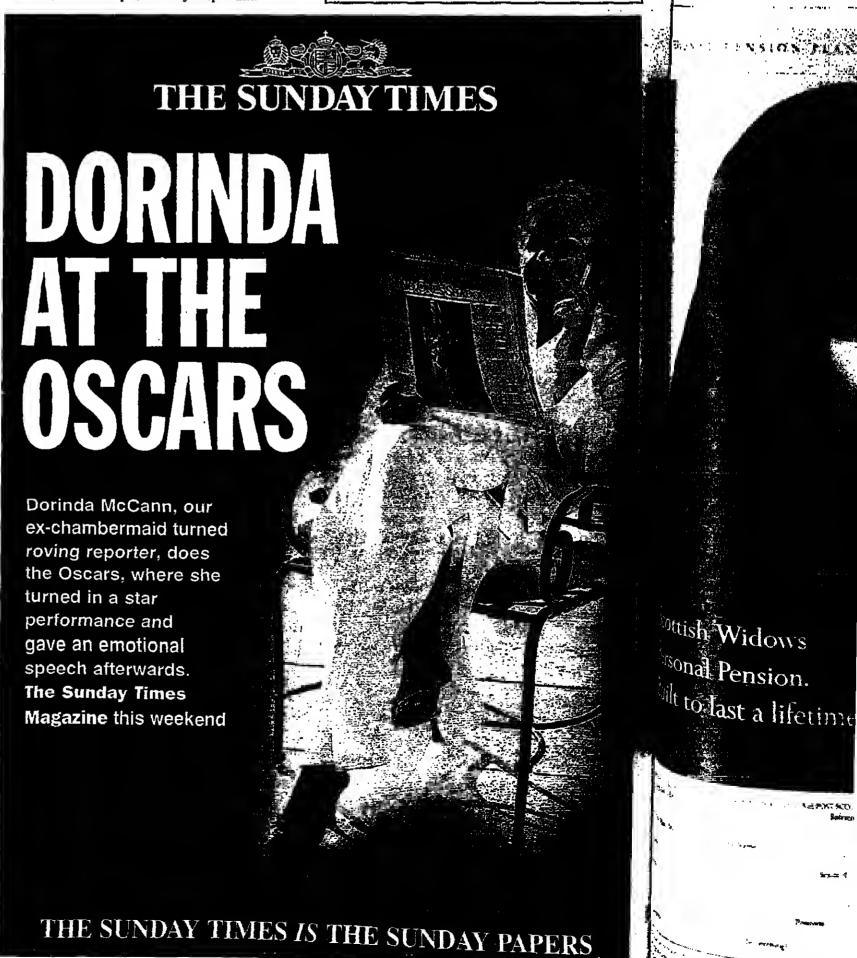

Deuch, real name, Kiang Khek lev, was the most wanted member of the Khmer Rouge regime after its leader Pol Pot, who died last year. In an interview with a British photo-journalist, Nic Dunlop, he said he remembered John Dewhirst, a-Briton captured by the Khmer Rouge with a New Zealand friend, Kerry Hamill, and a Canadian, Stuart Glass. The three were executed at S-21. "Yes, the Englishman was very polite," he said. 'All foreigners were killed and their bodies burnt so no bones In his confession after torture. Dewhirst wrote that he was a CIA agent, recruited at the age of 12, and that his father was also a CIA agent whose cover was as the headmaster of a Newcastle secondary school. Dewhirst also said he attended a CIA school in Loughborough with a sign on the gate saying "Loughbor-ough Town Council Highness lease figures are shown as a weekly value, exclusion of delivery and WAT. Payments are collected quarterly by direct debt subject to st

WORLD IN BRIEF so-Chinese tier pact

pper s ready

enth penaity call

Thomas Jefferson: had at east one child with slave rights for 160 threatens Jefferson Tendent Treunion Tendent Treunion Tendent Treunion

FROM BEN MACINTYRE

IN Washing gathering Thomas Jefferson's de Thomas Jefferson's de Will include blacks ina is land and will include hlacks well as whites for the first well as writes for the list we next month, but a new pute is brewing over whether the black claimants should formally grafted on to the sidential family tree. sidential family tree. he debate over whether Jef-

mpted a 200-year-old paner of a suit, which came to a day suit, which came to a day suit which came that at the state of t son had hlack offspring a one of the children beging to Jefferson's slave. ly Hemmings, was proba-fathered by America's

d President he Monticello Associaat a group of 700 officially nowledged Jefferson dedants, holds a gathering n May at his Monticello esin Virginia, and this year organisation has invited re than 20 hlack people de--: 4 ided from the President's cuhine. he invitation was made after Lucian Truscott IV,

th-generation white Jefferdesceodant, threatened to te the entire Hemmings nch of the clan to gatethe party on May 15. Ir Truscott said that, unthe black group is formal-- ecognised, he will ask all white claimants to take A tests to prove their own _ms. "It's racist on its face : Il hlack people their oral ory is not enough, despiteA. while automatically be ing the oral history of tes like me," he said.

Beijing spy 'stole all US nuclear secrets'

FROM IAN BRODIE IN WASHINGTON

feared that the files were then passed to Beijing, although an Energy Department official said this remained uncertain.

Experts said the data would be useful to any nuclear power trying to copy US designs. The information contained the "legacy" codes used to design nuclear weapons, analyse nucle-ar test results and evaluate the safety of warheads. lo addition. Mr Lee allegedly trans-ferred the "input" data for spe-

Ray Kidder, a nuclear westp-ons physicist at another laboratory, said that, taken together.

the legacy code and the input data were the equivalent of a scientific blueprint that could give a complete plan of the ex-

the information was not by itself sufficient to produce an exact copy of an American weap-on, but it could be of considerable value to a country such as China, which has signed the nuclear test ban treaty and relies on computer simulations to upgrade its nuclear arsenal.

gating whether Mr Lee passed information to Beijing in the 1980s, enabling China to design a replica of America's most advanced nuclear warhead, the W-88 used in Trident submarines. He was sacked from Los Alamos seven weeks ago, but denies wrongdoing.

ing twist to the case, his wife,

Sylvia, a former secretary at Los Alamos, was identified this week as having been an FBI informant. She helped agents to monitor Chinese scientists visiting the laboratory.

In a potentially embarrass-

The FBI was already investi-

Another scientist said that plosive part of the weapon.

"reverse-engineered" to cific warheads.

VIRTUALLY every nuclear weapon in the United States was compromised when a scientist suspected of spying for China transferred huge amounts of data from a secret computer system to an unclassified network, according to a report published yesterday. The transfers, discovered only last month, add a vast new dimension to the investigation of nuclear spying dur-ing which, according to the chairman of a congressional committee, the Chinese stole "the crown jewels" of American's nuclear arsenal and continue to do so. China denies the charges.

Yesterday's report, in The New York Times, contained allegations that were said to have outraged politicians and intelligence officials. President Clinton ordered Bill Richardson, his Energy Secretary. who oversees nuclear weap-ons laboratories, to "get to the bottom of it".

Officials said the transfers were made to a widely accessihle computer network by Wen Ho Lee, 59, who was born in Taiwan and has worked since 1978 at the Los Alamos nuclear laboratory in New Mexico.

The report said that millions of lines of computer code, giving details of how America's nuclear warheads worked. were downloaded four to five years ago from a computer system that is open only to scientists with top-level security clearance at Los Alamos.

There was said to be evidence that the files were accessed by someone improperly using a password after they were placed in the unclassified network. American officials

Duke in Baton Rouge, where he Political dinosaur revisits Southern swamp

FROM BEN MACINTYRE IN AMITE, LOUISIANA

PREHISTORIC political creature has re-emerged from Louisiana's swamps in a last effort to win power, his message as hoary and gnarled as a mangrove root.

David Duke, a former Grand Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, perennial candidate and torch-bearer for America's white supremacists, is running for a House of Representatives seat. Some 50 people — mostly men, all white — have assembled in a humid hut on the edge of the bayou to hear an angry sermon that might have wafted back from the Deep South of four decades ago.

This country was founded by white Christians. Our heritage is at stake. We're being outvoted and outnumbered in our own communities ... people have been raped, mnr-dered, assaulted, robbed, Blacks commit ten times more violent crimes than whites, 1,000 per cent more rapes," Mr Dake rants, as his audience nods and grambles.

Outside, fireflies salitter among rows of rusty pickups with "Duke for Congress" bumper stickers: decrepit vehicles carrying decrepit, second-hand thoughts. Mr Duke, 48, is a hangover from the past with no hope of winning, according to opponents. Yet his candidacy has sent a nasty shiver through the Republicao Party, already embarrassed at having to fill a seat vacated by Robert Livingston, the House Speaker-designate who resigned during the Lewinsky scandal over semal "indiscretions".

Louisiana's election rules, a hroad field of candidates, and Mr Duke's lingering appeal, mean that he cannot be ignored. Seven Republicans. of whom he is one, are competing for the seat along with two Democrats. If, as expected, oone wins an ontright majority in Saturday's primary vote, then the two frontrunners will go through to a ranoff on May 29; if the Republican vote is sufficiently fragented, there is an outside chance that Mr Duke may slip through.

That prospect, however distant, is sufficiently scary to have persuaded the Republican Congressional Committee in Washington to commission a private survey to see if it should step in and endorse another candidate. Polls show Mr Duke running behind three other Republicans inelnding a wealthy ophthalmologist from New Orleans with the alarming name, given receot US history, of Monica Monica. The front-runner is David Treen, a party veteran and former Governor of Louisiana.

r Duke's hopes are pinned firmly on the hardly flattering assumption that those who support him will be too ashamed to admit it to pollsters. In 1991 he drew 55 per cent of the white vote when running for governor, af-ter grabhing nearly 60 per cent of white votes in a Senate poll the year before. A huge turnout of black voters scuppered both attempts and his star has faded since, but Dukedom remains a dark and overgrown corner of Louisiana, fed on a rich compost of paranoia and prejudice.

In an antobiography, My Awakening, published earlier this year, Mr Duke called for an Aryan revolution and offered the familiar mixture of Holocaust denial and plans for renewed racial segregation. But it is his simpler philosophy, in which eve-ry complaint is hung on the error of racial mixture, that has his Amite listeners punching the fetid air. The Colorado massacre: "Diversity is what caused this shooting." Kosovo: "What about the invasion of Mexi-"What about the invasion of Mearcans? Bring the troops home to protect our American borders." (Applause) The media: "They try to make yoo feel guilty for your white European heritage." The future: "Whites will be a minority..." (Yells).

Supporters are assumed to be too ashamed to confess to polisters

ff the podium Mr Duke cuts a different, more plausible figure. His talk of tax cuts, the rights of gun ownership and the decline of Christian morality could come from any mainstream conservative, a fact that brings thanks that conservatives out in a cold sweat. "Duke is trying to hijack the legitimate conservative agenda," the right-wing Washington Times said this month.

The former Klan chief, the object of a deportation order from Britain in 1978 when he came to address racist rallies and organise resistance to non-white immigration, is equally careful to finesse his past, sometimes describing his sheet-wearing days as a "mistake", but more often as a "thrill" of which he is not ashamed.

After 25 years of active polities, nine attempts for office and only one success a decade ago when he briefly held a seat in the state legislature, Mr Duke says that this election will be his last. "We can win," he tells the audience.

It fits this conspiratorial fantasy world to imagine that outside the hut exists a vast hnt silent body of Duke supporters who share the hate hut will hide their views until polling day. We always fly below the radar, says Ray Anderson, Dnke's campaign manager.

Alongside the highway running back to New Orleans, rotting trunks of hroken trees loom out of a primeval mud. Extinction may be on hand, hut here dinosaurs still roam.

One.Tely offers low cost international calls from your home or business phone, 24 hours a day, seven days a week. There is no prepayment recluired and you don't even have to change telephone companies. Call us now to register on 0800 092 8988 between 7am-11pm, Mon. to Fri. or 8.30am-5.30pm Sat. and 9am-5pm Sun. Once you are registered simply dial 1878 from your touch tone phone in front of the national or international number you wish to call. It couldn't be easier.

Destination	FLAT RATE (per min.)	Destination	FLAT RATI (per min
Belgium Denmark	10p	Italy	14 41
Greece	23p	Norway	10
	•	9:28	988
	r website		etel.co.ul
HOW	TO	DIAL N878	'N'SAVE
CALL.	COU	AA'EA	LOCAL

NO SWITCHING

CENTRAL

Blair says atrocities by Milosevic far outweigh few Serb casualties, writes Michael Evans, Defence Editor

NATO offered its regrets yesterday after a laser-guided bomb lost its target "lock" and fell to the ground, killing up to 20 civilians and demolishing 50 homes 300 metres from the intended hit, a Yugoslav army

However, as the latest example of "collateral damage" gave Belgrade the opportunity to accuse Nato of a bombing outrage, Tony Blair went on the offensive, denouncing President Milosevic for his deliberare targeting of civilians. The Ministry of Defence joined in the damage-limitation exercise by distributing a map setting out the atrocities commined by the Serbs against ethnic Albanians in Kosovo.

The Prime Minister expressed regret over the deaths in the southern Serbian town of Surdulica, but he told the 6 It would House of Commons that Nato was takbe moral ing "every single precaution we possibly and reasonably outrage if can" to avoid civilian deaths. It would Nato had be "the ultimate moral outrage" if just stood Britain and the other members of Nato stood aside while aside ? Serb forces committed "appalling atrocioes" and raped er be able to have children". Mr Blair Iold MPs: "We simply cannot know yet how many people Milosevic has butchered inside Kosovo, but I warn the House that it is going to be a very considerable number.

women "so badly they will nev-

The bomb that went astray should have hit the military barracks, which the Serbs claimed had been empty of troops for weeks, with laserguided precision. Other Nato bombs on the same raid hit the Defence sources said that the pilot of the Nato bomber, believed to have been an American FISE, had only seconds to decide whether to drop the

Although he needed to have a clear sight of the barracks before releasing the bomb down the laser beam reflected off the target, they said it was possible that dense smoke from the other weapons that had been dropped had obscured the target at the last moment, cutting off the laser link.

The only other explanation, the sources said, was that the guidance seeker head on the bomb was faulty.

The bomb, believed to have been a 2,000lb deep-penetra-tion weapon, hit a residential area. Witnesses said the Nato raid was between 12.10pm and 2.30pm on Tuesday. Rescue workers said it was difficult to count the dead because most had been "blown to bits". At the town's hospital, medical staff were trying to reconstruct the bodies. Miroslav Stojiljkovic, Mayor of the town of 15,000 people, estimated that 600 houses had suffered some dam-Bulldozers removing huge mounds of concrete rubble to help the search for survivors. Many of the victims in the town, which is about 200 miles south of Belgrade. were in their cellars waiting for the Nato raids to finish. Other laser-guided bombs have also gone astray during the first five weeks of Operation Allied Force, although comparatively few of the thousands of bombs dropped have missed their target completely. In one of the earliest raids, a bomb dropped by an RAF Harrier GR7 lost its way but fell on open ground

The Prime Minister said that, despite the civilian deaths, he remained as determined as ever to continue the bombing campaign.

The 20 deaths bring to nearly 100 the number of civilians officially acknowledged by Nato to have been killed, Between 65 and 75 Albanian refugees were killed when a convoy near Dakovica was hit, ten civilians died on a train crossing a bridge near Leskovac, and 12 died after another bomb went astray at Aleksinac.

DEATH AND BELGRADE DESTRUCTION AFTER HUNGARY 35 NIGHTS OF City Hall BOMBING ROMANIA CROATIA and Industry Ministries BELGRADE, BOSNIA-Targets 70 HERZEGOVINA Aircraft on ground: Airfields: Aircraft hangars: . 7 Sam missile sites: æ Oil refineries: 16 Fuel storage depots: Road and rallway bridges: All rail lines into Kosovo cut 3 out of 8 roads into Kosovo cut Ammunition dumps:one fifth severely damaged Barracks: one fifth attacked MONTENEGRO Army Headquarters and other 20 Tactories (Serb claim): ن ب 27 33 · Transmitters (Serb claim): Fixed communications sites: Worst Incidents of Nato bombing killing civilians Massacres at izbica, Dakovica, Klina and Former Yugoslav Republic of Velica Krusa MACEDONIA Sources: Ministry of Defence and Nato," Many targets have been struck more than once

The civilian death toll claimed by the Serbs, and supported by the Russians, is higher, but there is no way of validating their figures. They claim that more than 500 civilians have been killed since the bombing began, including ten in a residential area of Pristina, the Kosovo capital. The Serbs also claimed that 55 civilians were killed on the railway bridge near Leskovac, after initially reporting only ten.

There are increasing reports of injuries caused by the dropping of cluster bombs. Both the US Air Force and the RAF have been striking "soft targets", such as concentrations of troops and vehicles, with cluster munitions. There are reports of unexploded cluster bombs lying around in Kosovo. In a report from Pristina. in the Los Angeles Times yesterday, Rade Grbic, a surgeon at the town's main hospital, said that children had been playing with cluster bombs and had suffered appalling in-

He was quoted as saying: "T

SERBS OR

have been an orthopaedist for 15 years, working in a crisis region where we often have injuries, but neither I nor my colleagues have ever seen such horrific wounds as those caused by cluster bombs. The limbs are so crushed that the only option is amputation."

The report said that 300 to 400 people, about half of the civilian, had been treated in Pris-tina's hospital for cluster bomb injuries since the Nato air campaign began on March 24. However, the Yugoslav Air Force has also been dropping Russian-made cluster bombs from low-flying aircraft. It is likely that some unexploded munitions are Yugoslav.

DUST SHOOT

Letters, page 23 Books, page 40

Sunny Skies heavier attacks

By MICHAEL EVANS

PRESIDENT Milosevic was given a dear warning yesterday that improving weather would enable Nato to launch an overwhelming oumber of airstrikes.

General Sir Charles Guthrie, the Chief of the Defence Staff, said that summer weather would make a buge difference to Nato's air campaign. "And summer is a coming." he said.

The weather forecasters had been wrong, he said. Earlier this week they predicted clear skies over ogoslavia, yet it had been Bulgaria that enjoyed good weather. He said, however, that Yogoslavia "is a country in the South of Eorope which has good

The importance of the weather became apparent yesterday when clearer skies brought an intensification of raids. Southern districts of Belgrade were hit in several hours of bombing overnight. The state-run Tanjug ocws agency described it as a "massive Nato bombers also hit military targets in Montenegro, incloding an army commonications relay statioo oo Mount Croi Vrh and a Yugoslav airbase oear Podgorica, the capital.

As the bombers flew over the Montenegrin port of Bar, which is to be the subject of a Nato oil embargo hlockade. Yogoslav navy warships opened fire. Other targets included two bridges, two fuel dumps, an army training centre, an army barracks in Belgrade and an army command post io Kosovo.

NEW INCREASED RATES EFFECTIVE

FROM 21 APRIL 1999

AMOUNT	ANNI	ANNUAL INTEREST		MONT	HLY INTE	FEST
YOU BNVEST	% GROSS	% NET	% AER ²	% GROSS	% NET ¹	% AER²
£5,000+	6.30	5.04	6.30	5.80	4.64	5.96
£50,000+	6.40	5.12	6.40	5.90	4.72	6.06
£100,000+	6.50	5.20	6.50	6.00	4.80	6.17

If you'd like to be absolutely sure of the return on your investment, choose our Fixed Rate Bond Issue VI right now.

It offers you a guaranteed income right up until 1 May 2000.

either monthly or annually. And, for added convenience, the Bond is You'll have the choice of your interest paid operated exclusively by post. The Bond is strictly a limited issue and will be withdrawn without notice once fully subscribed. So you must take advantage now. Phone any time (our answering service is available twenty four hours a day, seven days a week). We'll send you full details and your application form. 0845 600 4466

NORTHERN ROCK

Northern Rock plc. Registered Office: Northern Rock House, Gosforth, Newcastle upon Tyne NE3 4PL. www.northernrock.co.uk Assets exceed £18 billion.

Please refer to our Fixed Rate Bond kerker for full details. Rates are correct at 21.4.99 and will remain freed until 1.5.2000. Rates that ware thereafter. No writed avails are permitted from the account officer 1.5.2000. Account balances below 65,000 will to core interest at the prescribing basic scrinings rate. Interest will not be paid on balances below 65,000 will to core interest at the prescribing basic scrinings rate. Interest will not be required certification, pross. Where the tax deducted exceeds an interestor's tast hability of any 1.4 claim may be made to the linking Revenue for intermediate who are interested with the lower or basic rate bands, the tax deducted will match then hability to a so in the interest and they will have no more tax to pay on it. Individuals who are linking are taxted on the interest and they will have to pay additional tax on the interest of the difference between the tax deducted and the higher rate tax due. 2. The Annual Equivalent Rate (AER) is a nonomal rate which illustratus the contractual interest rate freeding any home interest payabled as if paid and inequalised on an annual basic. Northern Rock plc is a member of the Deposit Protection Scheme are available on request.

90% of year total deposits with Northern Rock plc up to a maximum of 218,000 or Euro 20,000 if greater). Details of the Scheme are available on request.

Congress disputes Clinton's right to wage war on Serbs

FROM BEN MACINTYRE IN WASHINGTON

ARGUMENTS broke out on Capitol Hill yesterday over the costs of military action and President Clinton's authority to wage war and deploy ground troops, as the House of Representatives prepared to cast its first votes on the crisis

since the air campaign began. Two proposals — one demanding that the US declare war on Yugoslavia, the other that it pull out — were expected-to fail, but a third, that would require Mr Clinton to obtain congressional approval before the deployment of ground forces, was gaining momentum with the backing of Republican leaders.

"This will hamstring our troops in the field," Congressman Martin Frost said as fellow Democrats issued a warning that such a move could even prevent the deployment of Apache helicopters against Serb units in Kosovo.

The White House found itself in the unexpected position of arguing that Congress was preparing to spend too much after Republicans said they were ready to double an emergency cost package but tacked on a number of vote-winning military expenses not directly related to the Kosovo conflict.

Mr Clinton told legislators that he opposed Republican plans to double the $5.9 billion (£3.7 billion) in emergency funding already requested to cover the operation's costs until September 30, but said he would accept a larger package including a military pay rise. Congress should "resist the temptation" to add other military costs to the bill since this could cause a critical delay, Mr Clinton said. Democrats accused Republicans of trying to use the military funding issue for domestic political advantage. "We're for winning this war, not ending it." a White House spokesman said. The two resolutions calling for a full declaration of war or a troop pull-out were tabled by Tom Campbell, a Republican. citing the long-disputed US War Powers law which re-quires the President to obtain congressional approval to keep troops in combat for more than two months.

We are at war and Congress has not declared war and that is unconstitutional," Mr Campbell said.

Under US law only Congress can declare war, but only the President, as Commander-in-Chief of the armed forces, can order in troops.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Woman dies in protest explosion

Athens: The Revolutionary Nuclei group said it had carried out a bomb attack, in which a woman was killed because of "the Nato murder of civilians" in Yugoslavia (Joho Carr writes). The explosion at the Athenaeum Intercontinental Hotel on Tuesday oight, hours before: Sir Leon Brittan, the European Commissioner, was to open an economic conference there, comes amid hostile to Britain over its role in the action against Belgrade. Salonika, railworkers blocked a train taking British military vehicles to Macedonia.

Refugees flee to Italy Gioia del Colle: More than 4,000 illegal immigrants fleeing the Kosovo conflict have landed oo southern Italian shores in the past five days and the authorities reception centres for the new exodus of refugees to the Apulian region are close to collapse (John Phillips writes). On Tuesday alone, L400 people, most of them women and children, were dropped oo the Salentine coast from speedboats and other small craft piloted by Albanian and Italian smogglers.

Kuwaitis raise £8.3m

Kuwait City: A live Kuwait telethon has raised £8.3 million for Kosovo refugees, Yussef al-Samit, the Information Minister, said. Several celebrities appeared on the telethon, dubbed "the day of solidarity with the people of Kosovo", to talk about the plight of Muslim Albanians in Kosovo. Emir Sheikh Jaber al-Ahmad al-Sabah has donated $1 millioo (£637,000) on behalf of the al-Sabah family, and four planes loaded with urgent relief supplies were dispatched to Albania. (AFP)

Turkish troops parade

Ankara: A Torkish soldier mans a gun on tank during a parade at Mamak Garrison on the ontskirts of the capital esterday by a unit that has been readied to take part in a possible Nate peacekeeping missio Kosovo. Some 1,000 soldiers supported by armoured personnel carriers and tanks an standby, the military Turkey has II Flos participating in the m campaign against Yugoslavia (AP)

Fuel smugglers thrive

Sofia: Bulgarian motorists are enjoying a lucrative trade in smuggling petrol to Serbia as Nato considers an oil embargo on Yugoslavia. Customs officials at the Bregovo crossing said about 25 tonnes of petrol a day is crossing the border in car tanks, coocaled cans and soft-drink bottles. Serbs pay $1 (62p) per litre for the fuel, which costs about 44 cents (27p) in Bulgaria. (AP)

Tom Wal

at the sac r Yugosia Deputy Pr

M:niste $(g^{(1)}, \dots, g^{(n)}) \in \mathcal{F}_{2n} \times \mathcal{F}_{2n}$ $f(x) = \frac{1}{2} \int_{\mathbb{R}^{2}} dx \, dx \, dx$ والوائز الإراف Commence to the second ್ ೧೮೬೪ಈ ನ Algert Birming Const.

رجع رمواني جرمان مادجد

N. 1-6 1085 150

r in the disease into 1,200 Alteritorie ್ರೀ ಪ್ರಭಾಗಕಾಗಿದ್ದಾರೆ うりが、生養から No. Paracraf He the formula to the ্যা নিয়ালয়। ia i kabiya d 1. 174 Mt 38 tion in how the a

are the factor of not grove Many.

$5.8% Octo 11

as SAYO ് 4.40 മാഗ അദ e man e describe describe 400 July 400

the Charge A

Stephen

M PROGESOR Hard Disk Drive # 17" Colour M TOTAL WILLIAM

- Cour Zoem Dieta Software: So you the efforthern on the - 35 SO CAS

DION DITHERMST SYSTEM

COST MARGINED. TENNAM

DURANT DURANT EAST & ESPERANT CASTELL · ` ` * E5 * E8 Twins 24.484 24.484 24.484

OPPHING THIS SAIDEBRY IN SEC.

A given a clear

his Government.
his Government huge different ball looked favourably upon some form of foreign intervention force in Kosovo.

The Yugoslav unional description of the Hugoslav unional description of the Hugoslav union and the Mr Draskoand been wrong here winistry said that Mr Draskoand been wrong here wich sviews had been "in contraaller this with the diction with the federal Govaction and the diction with the federal Govaction and the diction with the federal Prime Bulgaria that Minister and one of President
Minister and one of President
Minister and one of president
Minister and one of president Minister and one of the second many men, had decided that Mr Draskovic could no longer consite and property of the same his duties. Sources said that said that apart from Mr Milosethat, apart from Mr Milosevic's socialists, the lar-rogalists of Vojislav Seselj and the communists of Mr Minorogalists wife, Mira Markovic, were behind the dismissal. vic's socialists, the far-Right were behind the dismissar.

The interior of the in a hastily convened press onference. Mr Draskovic and that three Cabinet memsaid that three Cabinet memhours of bear of his Serbian Renewal bear of his Serbian Renewal Movement had resigned in the wake of his dismissal.

Aidee to the hearded poyel-

Aides to the bearded novel ist said that the news of his party sacking had reached his party

-- - Diège P

Tom Walker on the sacking of Yugoslavia's Deputy Prime headquarters only through the official news agency. Tanjug. That's the way it is," said one. admitting that she feared for Mr Draskovic's safety.

Minister

The regime's swift response leaves Mr Draskovic where most observers felt he was most naturally placed - in opposition. In his recent outburst he told Serbs that they had no chance of fighting off Nato, and had to face the reality of a foreign force, preferably under the UN flag, in Kosovo. He also blamed the state media for misleading the nation, although he tempered this with a heavy dose of anti-Nato rhetoric. Evidently it was not enough, and Mr Draskovic had been riding for a fall. What may have irked Mr Milosevic more than the suggestion that international that war crimes could have been committed in the province, and that a special commission should be set up to in-

Putting a brave face on the Draskovic dismissal, a spokesman for Nato said that it demonstrated there was a split in Belgrade. "It is the price you pay in Belgrade for telling the truth. This regime does not tol-erate dissidence," he said.

Mr Draskovic courted trouble earlier in the airstrikes campaign, when he lambasted the killing of the newspaper editor Slavko Curuvija as a cow-ardiy act. Those who ordered and committed the murder have taken arms against Serbia more destructive than all the bombs of Nato. Let Slavko be the first and last victim of those who want to initiate a mad circle of fratricidal murder." Mr Draskovic said.

He accused Politika, the pro-Milosevic newspaper, of inciting civil war and the liquidation of opponents. Mr Draskovic was first arrested in 1985 and jailed in 1991. Two years later he was savagely beaten and went on a hunger strike. He was not invited to troops could come into Kosovo . the Rambouillet peace talks.

Richard Gere, the Hollywood actor, is mobbed by Kosovo Albanians yesterday as he toors the refugee camp at Brazde in Macedonia. During an unannounced visit, he was reminded by an 11-year-old child who had fled Serb atrocities that there are some things fame, money and good intentions cannot buy (Stephen Farrell writes). The star of Pretty Woman and champion of Tibetan rights climbed out of his Oxfam Land Rover and asked Vlora Marevici, from Pristina: "Is there anything that you can ask me for that you need?" "I again," replied the child without hesitation. Vlora, whose mother, Mevlude, is believed to he trapped in Ko-sovo after sending the child ahead to the border with her grandmother, later sed she did know who she talking to t he seemed :e man". Aslyhat he hopechieve, the a said he plans meet Unitedfions human officials. "Fow I can juste refugees k that people cout them abund the worl

'I want to see my Mummy'

Refugees endure hours of misery as camps struggle to cope witlexous

MISERY has returned to the infamous Blace camp on the Kosovan border, where 65,000 ethnic Albanians were housed in squalid and in-sanitary conditions at the outset of the refugee crisis a month ago.

As more than 8,000 refugees

As more than 8,000 refugees poured into the Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia in two days, the largest number for weeks, hundreds of Kosovan refugees were forced to sleep overnight in the open air because there were not enough tents for them in the new transit camp being constructed on the buildozed site of the old Blace. Aid officials admit that between 400 and 500 refugees, including young children and elderly men and women, were left to sleep on plastic sheets and blankets.

Stephen Farrell sees a crisis unfolding as 8,000 turn up at Blace in two days

They cannot be moved to the larger Brazde, Stenkovec and other camps nearby because those too are "bursting at the seams". Others slept under hastily erected blue plastic sheeting draped from the side of tents, which would be totally inadequate if it rained, which happens nearly every day. United Na-tions refugee workers gave a warning that tension was rising in many of the camps, where people are crammed in together.

GRAND OPENING THIS SATURDAY IN BURNLEY, SALISBURY, STIRLING & BUTTON COLDITION OF A PEN 7 DAYS A WEEK. MOST OPEN SAM TO SPA MER-SAI

The security is getting worse every day because of the influx of refugees, the teots are squashed together and the sanitation is on the point of breakdown," said one UN refugee official.

On Monday 4,300 people arrived at the Blace crossing, north of the capital. Skopje, with many held there until 4am before space was found for them. Barely had this group been processed than another 3.000 to 4.000 arrived on one eightwagon train from Kosovo Polje and up to 20 buses. Two more buses and another 1.000 people arrived at two other crossings.

Aid workers planned to move 1.500 of the new arrivals in Brazde. the largest of the camps into new tents installed at Stenkovec. But they said Macedonia could not cope unless more people were evacuated to other countries. After queueing from 10am to 3am at the border before being ad-mitted to the Blace camp, Sanie Krosa, 29, and her daughters Anita. two, and Donika, eight months, slept under open skies with no bread or milk. "I don't mind sleeping outside myself, but I am wor-ried for my children," said Mrs Krosa, who left her home in Ferizaj a mgo and has spine interveieriod movingn village to: before beingon a bus to rder. "I am jund i have and just wante survive annut of Kosovo tieve Wills, gramme mr of Mercy Colnternatioyhich managhe Blace casid: "Until wive more ter camp can takimore becat are at overcaty. It is a critation, an emincy."

Dr Thomas Stuttaford eports on National lowel Cancer Week; he hay fever season; he profile of a nurderer; snake enom and strokes; nd drug advances or MS sufferers

Thi is no im to be quamish ducation at Eton Dxford. Arly sign of his diver in-terestss that while at Q he achiev first in mathematiods before 1g on to obtain a s a classic Greats. He serve the Black ch in the 1914-18 Werwards ming a biochemistmbridgel later Professor offics at Uniity College London

Hale's interest in the ics. and hinse of humour, seim well whe developed cancer of rectum and needed a comy. He assured the won a long, humorous pcabout his cancer and susted that now, af- Incer is ter hisostomy, he was godlikio now i am like le third two-facJanus/The only god whes his anus".

A comy is the artifi- MOSt cial ong in the abdosome patients men some patients with cectal carcinoma. bmmon fortun: an increasingly smalleumber, need if the UK they have their rectum anus removed.

On Iday this week Testell. the Mer of State for Publith. launch Nacional Bowellcer Week, mised by Colon Caloncern aupported by ten mancer chas at the House of Cons. Each on the United Kirl 90 new pits discover that tave cancerne colon and rectu Marses are detected bedeople haike J.B.S. Haldansed blood heir motions. Theing does nave to be profuseful-

At PHealth, we have healt

insur plans to suit every n And art of the Standard Lift p, Qality hearinsurance

GYOUR IMAGE TH' ROFESSIONAL TOUCH

TISICA red spot is a govern chat's recognised the world

OV)bserve outstanding: al performance for yourself via the lent. 10 LEICA R3.

Shutter speed as: 35 1/8000 of a second.

Versatile: 1 technology.

Available at you GA Specialist dealer

750 second sync spen Three light-metering modes .

from a day

Prime Health

dane explained: "I noticed I was passing blood I (only a few drops, not a flood)." The blood may be mixed with the motions, may appear as flecks on them, there may be bleeding at the time of going to the lavatory (as with Haldane), or, if the cancer is high in the intestinal tract, the faeces may be black, slightly shiny and sticky as the blood has been semi-digested during its passage. Colo-rectal cancer is also one of the causes of passing mucus with the motions and can produce a sensation that even after defecation the rectum is not empty. Other suggesove symptoms are abdominal pain or discomfort, particularly lower abdominal pain that lasts for more than two weeks, unex-plained weight loss or anaemia — usually obvious be-cause of severe tiredness. A persistent (once again, for more than a fortnight) change in bowel habit such as constipation or diarrhoea - needs to be investigated. If Haldane was now researching into diet as he did when at Cambridge, or into genetics as at University College London, his work could well have been applicable to his own disease. Research by Dr Ian Tomlinson, of the Imperial Cancer Research Fund, suggests that about 5 per cent of colorectal cancers are the result of five or ten single genes; in about 25 per cent of other cases a patient's genetic background may increase his or her vulner-ability to other risk factors, including diet, which could lead to the cancer. We should all be eating plenty of foods rich in fibre and starch and at least four or five portions a day of fruit and vegetables.

Dr Tomlinson is looking for 1,000

pairs of brothers and sisters who have either had, or have, bowel tumours, benign or malignant. Bowel cancers usustart as premalignant adenomatous polyps. Anyone who has had a bowel tumour and has a brother or sister can help in this potentially life-saving research by getting in contact with him. It will not be unpleasant: just a blood test collected in the patient's neighbourhood and a few questions.

To reduce the risk of cancer of the colon and rectum, we should cut down on fat, choose lean cuts of meat and more frequently choose poultry or fish rather than red meat. We should stay slim, re-main physically active and drink in helps stroke

Viper venom

sufferers

SHAKESPEARE achieved a rather greater reputation as a poet 350 years before Haldane. Few people of my generation can have completed their education without learning

the Second Witch's speech in Macbeth: "Fillet of a fenny snake, / In the cauldron boil and bake" which, as the witch says, makes for a charm of

Now a British tropical medicine expert. Dr Allistair Reid.

who learnt about snakebites in the paddy fields of Malaysia.

has been extracting that powerful charm from the venom of

The licence for the purification of viper venom was origi-nally held by Guinness, the brewers, but now belongs to Knoll pharmaceuticals. Venom is still used to make antivenoms, but is also finding a new use. Ancrod, a blood-thinning and anti-clotting substance that breaks down fibrin-ogen in human beings, is ex-

Ancrod may become invaluable when treating ischaemic

tracted from the venom.

the Malaysian pit viper.

powerful trouble.

moderation. Recent research has also shown that aspirin may reduce the incidence of colon cancer and it is likely that so too may the new anti-rheumatic drugs, the COX-2 inhibitors.

Haldane wrote: "I wish I had the wice of Homer / To sing of rectal carcinoma / Which kills a lot more chaps, in fact, / Than were bumped off when Troy was sacked." Bowel cancer is the third most common cancer in the UK. Most cases can be treated successfully if they are detected early. Don't panic The symptoms are more likely to be from irritable bowel syndrome, piles or diverticular disease than bowel cancer. But whatever your age, if you have persistent symptoms, see your doctor.

Dr Ian Tomlinson: 0171-269 2884; Color Cancer Concern Infoline: 0171-381 4711.

THE murder of Jill Dando has led to widespread discussion about the psyche of someone who can carry out such a

It has been suggested that the murder was typical of a contract killing. Hitmen are usually psychopaths or, in more PC terms, suffering from an antisocial personality disorder. They are indifferent to the laws and customs of society. Among other characteristics, they have no remorse, are indifferent to the consequences of their action, act on impulse, cannot bear to be thwarted and, if thwarted.

Original reports that the killer walked coolly away from his victim would fit a diagnosis of psychopathy. Hitmen usually plan their actions with care and, although psychopaths may act with a reckless disregard in some circumstances, a contract killer

would be unlikely to be wandering up and down the street

for an hour before the crime.

And unless he knew when Jill

Dando was due to return, he might have had to loiter in the the person is a stalker. In medical parlance, somebody who is a stalker is suffering from erotomania, one of the sub-types of delusional disorder. They are convinced that they are not only in love with the person, often someone in the public eve. but that this love is reciprocated, or would be, if only they could get to know each other better. Hence they stalk and try to contact the object of their desire by telephone, sometimes making huodreds of calls a day, or Another suggestion is that public gaze for a long time.

they often become violent.

ruthless act.

Hay fever? You don't have to suffer

LOVERS of London's parks are worried that the environment will be disturbed, even in some cases destroyed, by the increasing number of open-air concerts. These summer concerts coincide with the hav fever season.

Twenty per cent of Britons suffer from hay fever. From March to May tree pollens cause the allergy, but the season peaks in June to July when grass pollen is abundant. From August to September weeds are the main cause of trouble. Hay fever mainly affects the eyes, nose and throat, causing sneezing, running eyes and blocked nose. However, bay fever also makes patients feel rotten, so that, for instance, exam results are sabotaged, driving skills undermined and work suffers. Contact lenses may no longer be wearable and Antihistamines by mouth are the usual treatment of choice but they need to be taken prophylactically so that the attacks never develop. Anti-inflammatory drugs, steroids in the form of nasal sprays, should also be continued without a break for maximum effect. Nasal decongestants may be useful, but they can end up making the patient feel worse than when he or she started.

The singers in the open-air concerts may not wish to use steroids in a nasal spray, which can cause some inflammation. However, help is at hand, Rhinolast antihistamine hay fever nasal spray is now available over the chemist's counter without prescription and offers some immediate relief without the need for a summer-long course of a matter of urgency. A small advance in the understanding of some types of violence has emerged from the Section of Cognitive Psychopharmacolo-

gy at the Maudsley Hospital in South London. New brain imaging has revealed structur al differences in the brains aggressive oftenders wa research closer to finding the mentally disturbed.

biological basis for violence in Scans reveal differences in hippocampus and amygdala ...

key areas, such as the

These two regions of the brain are involved in emotion and are smaller in people with mental disorders, bringing

Tori

4 5 77 147

4.100 ل در دراز کام افتحا T. A. C.

DC 2011/01 A TAXABA self. Part ್ ನಿನಾದ 2002.13 ------1371 Carrier To : ::-> ... Rivers are all ottore Ar 100 11 1.000

Surer, etc. (348-35) 104 The An bus for

ore leader and with 4 (25%) 49 San San Line DO IDEN M_{N} wh 70.20 Thanner

Office and 20 18 11 11 much - er aged and er harselt CLEW LOOK TY THE GOLD in that are 13 Nights from £589 Indusce yourself in 7 riss of breathtaking scenery and culture on this (ascinaling four encountering religion, art & history. The Royal Polace at Polannaruwa, the sack discovered, must be treated as history of violence.

SRI LANKA EXPLORER

pointing at Sightya, the famous Temple of the Tooth at Kandy and the famous tea plantations at Nuwara Blya are just some of the jawels that will enrich your memory for evermore. Then enjoy 6 nights of sevenity at the Stadbad Hotel on a beautital poin tringed beach. The Perfect Combination'. 07 May 99 - 25 June 99 $589 02 Jul 99 - 27 Aug 99 . $879 03 Sap 99 - 10 Dec 99 $699

For reservations or more information call

Inside the mind of Jill Dando's killer

bombard them with letters.

All is comparatively well

unless the stalker also has features of another subtype of delusional behaviour - the jealous type. These people, often on inadequate evidence or no evidence at all, will be.

convinced that their subject is being unfaithful. People who are deluded in this way are so determined in their obsession that no amount of rational argument will overcome it. Occasionally, this "infideliinduce either suicidal or homicidal intentions. Doctors have the difficult task of exploring this possibility which, when is so upsetting that it may

HOLIDAYS

The symptoms iaclade loss af sex drive, erectile dysfunction, lack of virility, night sweats, aches and pains, depression, irritability, tiredness and loss of energy. If you suffer from any of these, call the WellMan Clinic now and arrange for a thorough physical examination and esultation with a qualified physician. Our specialists have the extensive experience necessary to diagnose your condition and recommend treatment. such as testasterone replacement therapy, if appropriate. Call 0171 637 2018 now for an appo

THE WELLMAN CLINIC of WEYMOUTH STREE London Wix 31 x

http://.www.wellman-clinic.demon.co.uk

MS drug reduces brain tissue loss by nearly half

White fangs: a snake being milked for its venom strokes -- 80 per cent of which are caused by a clot. Ancrod prevents further clotting, stimulates the dissolution of existing clots, and improves the blood flow in tissues affected by the stroke, thus restoring oxygen 10 damaged tissue

Knoll is even more excited more quickly.

about snakes than the witch in Macbeth. The company cannot be certain that Ancrod will ever be on the chemist's shelves, but it is sufficiently convinced to have invested in a new snake farm so as to expand the breeding and expansion of its stock of Malaysian

AS MULTIPLE sclerosis progresses the ossue in the brain atrophies. Interferon beta-la and interferon beta-lb. trade names Avonex and Betaferon, are seemingly near magic drugs in its treatment; they reduce the frequency and sevenity of relapses in patients with relapsing/remitting MS. in which the patient is recurrently affected but later makes a partial recovery. Avonex also slows the progress of disability in relapsing/remitting MS, and Betaferon in reducing the frequency and severity of relapses, as well as slowing the progress of the disease in secondary MS. At a recent conference in Toronto of the American Academy of Neurology, research workers from the Mellen Centre at the Cleveland Clinic, Ohio, presented details of a study which showed that the rate of brain-tissue loss during the second year of treatment with Avonex was reduced by 55 per cent. The Cleveland scientists have co-operated with radiologists from the University of Colorado and together they have shown that brain atrophy continues in MS patients even when they have only mild to moderate disability. It can occur before other symptoms of multiple sclerosis are detectable, and brain tissue loss continues even when the disease is in clinical remission. During the first year of treatment with Avonex there was no difference between those who were having treatment and those on a placebo.

But while beta-interferons offer hope to the tens of thousands of MS sufferers, cost has determined that it is rationed; it is prescribed only for those with definite criteria. Even in the earlier stages of the disease patients, very reasonably, want medication that gives the best chance of preserving their central nervous system.

 Multiple Sclerosis Society Helpline: 0808-800 8000

Before your next visit to the dentist you might want to chew on this.

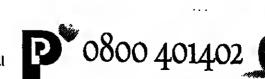

LEICA

Denplan

Denplan Care is the modern preventive dental care programme. With modest monthly payments you can budget for regular dental care. And with the emphasis on prevention it's less likely you will have nasty surprises. Talk to your dentist about Denplan Care. Or if you are not currently visiting a dentist call free for more information and a list of dentists in your area.

The Was out of office () his seemed in higher spirits than perpetual time a man just 1921 down his nd drink of h Cay But his kwas a see sight from a time the house time but up at cocatants or dinther mount, was pinched nason of purposeless deterhave and her eve- had a medical but the point of Manufacture District Property Machine her made me how they it is for former the Ministers of the male Manager of the more designation of a definition of the more bushed with their hald-Pale mirlahanise fea-and discommunitie embonpoint helland out taken her loss of perser being the action the age where her The tree half set off the meages the face the result was an eeric disso-

to think in the negative and certain who who think in the and citaling the ways dinking has much, in the old days kould put down a whisky soda or takes in the vicining after her ump bill day now she seemed to have adalishe to much before dinner There

APRIL M

1 2 C 0 2

25 gs

Hay feven

You don't have to supp

Margaret Thatcher and Lord Carrington: once, when she was explaining to President Reagan the stance that America should take on an issue, Carrington, as Foreign Secretary, slipped her a note saying: "Margaret, you're talking too much" y first impres-sion of Marga-ret Thatcher was positive: posiove: there was absolutely no side to this woman. She treated officials like fully fledged human beings who (at that stage of her premiership) were allowed their say. Foreign Office flannel, you learnt quickly, was unwelcome. As you talked the electric blue eyes bored into you as if probing for insinceriries or fuzzy thinking. I liked the way she preferred plain speaking, even when she simspeaking, even when she sim-plified things outrageously, and admired her "can-do" style. If you made your point with conviction and could prove you were right, she would take the argument while avoiding any appear-ance of doing so. Watching her in action it struck me that she was composed of two vital ele-ments: strong passions and a ments: strong passions and a sharp intelligence. The trickwas to bring the two together.

Sometimes she would say to me, in tones of reproof: "George, you look tired!" I longed to reply: "That's because I am." Later I noticed how often she said the same to others. Sometimes her commiseracion extended even unto her ministers. In the middle of the talks on the future of Rhodesia. Lord Carrington (then Foreign Secretary) went to secure her agreement to a crucial point. It we had flown in that morning from the ends of the earth. She listened while Carrington made his case, and we steeled ourselves for the usual battle. When he had finished all she said was: "You both look exhausted. Have you had lunch?" We hadn't, "Come upstairs and have a bite. The servants have gone but I'll make you scrambled eggs." Keener to secure her agreement than to savour her eggs, Carrington declined. The solicitude then evaporated while the point was thrashed out mercilessly. and finally agreed. Carrington took me off to a late lunch at

White's, by way of celebracion. As a minister I was to see that there was another psychology at work in all this talk of other people's riredness. What she was saying was that you were a man, she was a woman, you were a junior, she was Prime Minister, and vet, unlike you, she was never tired. Though she rarely looked it, with her blue clothes and pink, głowing skin, like a Barbara Cartland confection, this of course was untrue. She was often worn out. You could tell when she needed sleep beIn the fourth extract from his memoirs, George Walden describes how Parliament, the Tories and the country all realised that it was time for Margaret Thatcher to step down cause, like humbler mortals in a similar state, she talked too much. One person who was allowed to point out this self-evi-dent truth was Denis Thatcher. A model political consort, though not lacking views of his own (they were uncannily close to John Wells's "Dear letters), he never intervened in policy discussions, reserving his authority for strategic moments. In the middle of endless discussion over whisky sodas at 1 or 2am in Washington, Tokyo or Bonn, when Carrington and I were aching for sleep, Denis would suddenly announce "Bed, Mar-garet!", like a publican calling time. And to bed she would go.

In international meetings the compulsive talking could be an embarrassment. During a meeting with President Rea-gan, who was neither as articulate nor as well briefed as herself. Thatcher was explaining at length the line America should be taking, while Rea-gan sat listening, his jar of gum gums on the table, smiling his screen smile. All at once Thatcher shut up. Surprised at the sudden silence. 1 at Carrington, who passed me a note he had slipped in front of her. It read: Margaret, you're talking too much." It is hard to imagine any minister but him saying it. or Thatcher reacting as she did.

When Carrington agan to tone down and Willie Whitelaw left the his Star Wars plans, while giv-Cabinet and she became more confident, not to say autocraoc, no one would have dared. My experience as a diplomat, then an MP, led me to form my own conclusions about our foreign policy under Thatcher. The common view that she despised the Foreign Office and persistently disregarded its advice was largely myth -- one later to be encouraged and exploited by Thatcher herself. While ensuring that she was portrayed as being at permanent loggerheads with her diplomats, in reality she went quietly along with almost every recommendation on every big decision on foreign policy that arose.

It was Thatcher who said

rorists, and it was she who spoke warmly of the services to peace and reconciliation of Robert Mugabe, the Marxist and ex-terrorist leader, after he had become the first Prime Minister of Zimbabwe. In Hong Kong it was Thatcher who opened up the question of the post-1997 future of the colony with the Chinese Government, even though she had brandished the 1841 treaties during a visit to Tokyo to prove that Victoria Island belonged to us in perpetuity. And it was she who signed the agreement with China giving Hong Kong back to them three years later.

In the Middle East it was she who agreed to the European Community's policy of opening a dialogue with the PLO. More talking to terrorists. It was she who agreed to a leaseback arrangement over the Falklands with Argentina, whose rejection by Parliament was to lead to war. Sedulously disseminated rumours that she had been against the proposal all along made no difference. The fact is she endorsed it, when she could have stopped it in "No, no, no!"

Then there was Thatcher's stance on communism. In the Cold War she was not a goad on American policy, but a restraint. The Iron Lady spent astonishing much time prevailing on President Re-

> ing the impression that she stood shoulder to shoulder with him on every East-West issue. And when Reagan struck out on his own, stumbling towards a ban on all nuclear weapons in his meeting with Gorbachev at Reykjavík, which in the unlikely event of an agreement would have left East and West disarmed and the world free for Saddam Hussein and his ilk, she was hor-

As for Europe, it was she who signed the Single Europe-an Act and took Britain into the ERM on the advice of her Chancellor and Foreign Secretary, forbearing once again to say "No, no, no!" If the Cabinet was weighted against her, and if Britain's sovereignty and independence were at stake, as she later claimed, why did she not resign? There can be little doubt that, had she been in office, she would have signed the Maastricht agreement, 100, albeit under protest; and with the same opt-outs Major was to achieve. The one occasion on which she did not follow the diplomatic advice of the day to accept the unification of Germany with as good a grace as we could as a fait accomplishe was seen as dangerously out of touch with reality, a perception that had as much to do with her fall from power as the poll tax.

Margaret Thatcher with Denis and her daughter Carol

Idolaters of Thatcher as the only reliable guardian of Britain's interests face a conundrum. How was she brought. time and again, to do her diplo-mats' bidding? Either she was not perspicacious enough to see when she was being led by the nose by her officials (assuming she was) and was insufficiently strong-willed to resist; or she fell in with the "Foreign Office line" (say her Foreign Secretary's advice) because, as she was fond of saying in other contexts, there was no alternative.

As the 1987 election neared, my equivocal feelings about my future in politics grew. I did not see myself as an out-standing minister, not least because of a fatal inclination to see too many sides of a question. My real interests were cultural, and largely outside the reach of poliocians. Uncertain which way to jump, I left things to the last moment. Just before the end of the campaign take my re-election for grant-ed. Thatcher (I was told) did not understand the reasons for my resignation; had I tried to explain them to her, she would have understood even less. A No 10 lunch confirmed my impression that things were on the slide. There were six of us, including the Foreign Secre-tary, Geoffrey Howe, and the historian Hugh Thomas. Her strained relations with Howe were common knowledge, but on this occasion her contemptuous attitude towards him astonished me. I do not know what shocked me most: the way she treated him or his docile reaction. We were talking of Europe and different economic models. The slightest deviation from the Thatcher line and Geoffrey was slapped down. He lowered his head, got on with his lunch, then came doggedly back, to be slapped down again. These were not abrasive arguments, but personal insults. When he hazarded a view about the workings of industry he was told that if he ment of the party is a fantasy of the Right. MPs voted against her not just because she was endangering their chances of re-election, they threw her out because the constituency parties were losing faith in her, too. When I conknew so much about it, why didn't he go to work there? To speak to your Foreign sulted my constituency party Secretary in the way she did in officers on how to vote in the private would have been bad leadership election in a public enough. To do so in front of show of hands a majority came myself and an outsider was exout in her favour. Later I traordinary. She had reached talked to those who had sup-ported her; in private three the stage when no one dared tell her that she couldn't treat quarters said it was time for her to go. My guess is that in Parliament, the party and the country the view was the same. people like that. I wondered that Howe did not excuse himself and leave the room. In the event, his revenge was more dramaoc. Watching him knife her in the back in his resignation speech in the Commons not long afterwards was like seeing a battered wife finally

Somehow the fact that she had "lost it" communicated itself to the party at large. The way she went - Heseltine's challenge and the subsequent vote - was of limited importance. Her judgment was be-coming erratic, and sooner rather than later she would have had to go. That she was toppled by a parliamentary ca-

bal against the general senti-

ULTIMATE FAMILY PC PACKAGE Our promise

turn on a violent husband.

■ Extracted from Lucky George by George Walden, published by Penguin on May 6, £17.99; avail-able to readers for £15, includ-ing p8p, from The Times Book-shop, 0990 134459

TOMORROW

"If the Tories' laughter in the chamber annoyed John Prescott, he should have heard them in the tea room"

to you take the time:

- not jurgon - to cut out the middleman and cult

the cost of computers to visit us we probably have a parking, within 15 minutes drive of your home

any the right PC, call tells you

This Ultimate PC package feetures our high performance 450-3D DVD PC with 12 months Interest Free Credit massive 128Mb RAM memory and large 13Gb hard disk, it also includes PC-TV system. Epson 440 printer. scanner, office suite and much more for an amezing price of just £1096 +VAT.

Order Now Offer Ends 27th May

Pay Nothing Until May 2000

450-3_{D DVD}

I gave my secretary a letter to Thatcher saying I was resign-ing my ministerial job for family and personal reasons", with instructions to get it to No 10 on the evening of the close of the polls, so as not to seem to

Time Machine Exec PC Package 450MHz AMD NS-2 3D processor

13 Gb Hart dis 128Mb SDRAM 15" digital colour screen

SMb ATT SO AGPIZ Graphics

30 NOW! technology for advenced graphics perform SoundSinger 6ev 3D PCI Wavetable sound 4x DVD-ROM Drive

512K cache 56K PCI modern

Keytourd, Mouse, 3.5" Eoppydite, Video traine, Recovery diek & Andvins All software Backup CDs Included

PO-TVS Westh TV full screen or in a window whilst you work, download information from Teletad and capture movie clips (RRP E128)

Printer, Top Spec Epeon Stylus 440 PLUS

Advanced USB AA colous

Product Code Emc 408

PLUS orn and Nestra PRES Internst Pack - BM Speed Pack with Migraphone · Educa

OFFER ENDS 27th MAY

Special Price Digital Carners Option Superb Digital Camera (RSP) 5239); complete with A/C adaptor, Special price $108+V/AT =

we're on your side

The UK's Biggest PC Retailer NOW OPEN IN SMINISEN & CANTENBURY

Open: Mon-Fri 8.30em-Tyrn, Sel Sem-Sym Sen & Bank Holletry's 10em-tyrn

For details of your morest six Freephone 0800 316 2 317

Time for the Iron Lady to contempt towards

Howe

was

office Denis seemed in higher spirits than ever, perpetually like a man who had just put down his first drink of the day. But his wife was a sad sight. From a distance she looked fine but close up, at cocktails or dinner, her mouth was pinched in a sort of purposeless determination, and her eyes had a faraway look, like an actress endlessly on the point of delivering her curtain speech. Watching her made me think how easy it is for former Prime Ministers of the male sex to age gracefully, all of a piece, looking more and more distinguished with their balding pates, worldly-wise features and statesmanlike embonpoint.

Thatcher had not taken her loss of power well and was reaching the age where her over-immaculate hair set off the ravages of her face. The result was an eerie dissonance between age and vitality. She was also drinking too much. In the old days she would put down a whisky soda or two late in the evening, after her umpteen-hour day; now she seemed to have had a little too much before dinner. There was no arguing with her any more in fact it was impossible to talk to her. The moment you said anything she would grip your arm and, with a steadfast look, deliver herself of some pronouncement that sounded as if it had been borrowed from the archives. She had reached the point where she didn't know she was doing it. One evening, at a buffet dinner with an East European Prime Minister when she was on a drink-fuelled high.

Goodbye to all that: Thatcher's last day at No 10 in 1991

cle, a Permanent Under-Secretary in our group suddenly got up and left. I too was aching to get away and used the excuse of going to the next room to replenish my wine. There I found the man drinking alone, muttering to himself savagely: "I can't stand it any more. I just can't stand it."

Like everyone who had seen her in her best days, when she was dragging a recalcitrant country behind her as a mother does a moping child, I felt a little sentimental about her. The most vigorous and intelligent Prime Minister we had had in decades had reached a premature anecdotage. The last time

I saw her was after I had announced that I was giving up my seat. She greeted me by gripping my hand, fixing me with her ancient mariner's eye, and saying with more regret than malice: "George, you've lost your soul." It was an uncomfortable moment. She had, after all, given me a chance in office. Somehow the chilled blue eyes made you feel like a lover who had unjustly abandoned her, and that she was right to chide you.

Menzies, Mandy and marriage

Labour's Scottish success could benefit Ashdown's heir

t may come to be known as the Mandelson Effect. a formula whereby the addition of the words Peter Mandelson to any political speculation causes an immediate chemical reaction, a fizzing noise, lots of smoke and a powerful smell of rotten eggs.

A good example last week was the suggestion that Mr Mandelson had been brought in to advise Gordon Brown on the running of the Labour campaign in Scotland. Phew, what a stink! It was leapt on by rival parties as evidence that Downing Street was ma-nipulating events north of the border. Charlie Whelan, another arch spin-doctor, reckoned that Mr Mandelson had planted the story himself to show that he was back in favour, although the evidence for this was so thin that it seems to have been oxidised in

Now a few more particles of Mandelson have been scattered on to an already combusoble amalgam of rumour and innuendo, which could blow up in the faces of the Liberal Democrats. According to Donald Macintyre's new biogra-phy of Mr Mandelson, a secret meeting took place in the Hampstead home of Lord Irvine of Lairg, while Labour was in opposition, to hammer out a long-term pact with the Lib Dems. It was attended by Tony Blair, Robin Cook, Donald Dewar, Lord Irvine and, possibly. Gordon Brown, for Labour, and Paddy Ash-down, Robert Ma-clennan, Archy Kirkwood and Lord Holme of Cheltenham for the Lib Dems. An accord designed to secure the centre ground of British politics was drawn up. It included a deal to consider voting reform at Westminster, for the pardes to lay off each other in the election campaign, and to form a coalition at Holyrood if Labour failed to secure an overall majority. As soon as the story flared up, everyone turned and ran. Mr Dewar denied categorically that there had been any such deal. "I conducted no discussions with the Liberal Democrats nor have I any arrangements which predated this campaign," he said, though he did not deny that meetings had taken place. Jim Wallace, leader of the Scottish Liberal Democrats, said he knew nothing about it. And Alex Salmond, for the Scottish National Party, dashed off a furious letter to Messrs Blair and Ashdown demanding to know whether the meeting had taken place and, if so, what had been agreed.

It now emerges that there was such a meeting, indeed there may have been more than one. But, according to the Lib Dems, it was about something else. The party's campaign director in Scotland, Michael Moore, MP, said the meetings were held only to discuss proportional representadon, that they resulted in the so-called Cook-Maclennan agreement on voting reform, and this was a matter of public record. It had nothing to do with the Scottish party, which was independent; its policy was decided in Scotland not London. That was that.

I doubt if the explanation is comment@the-times.co.uk quite so innocent; the Mandelson Effect does not really work like that, and how Mr Moore can be so certain is not clear. The evidence would appear to run the other way. The Scot-tish campaign has indeed seen an absence of any real attacks by Labour against the Lib Dems, and as the SNP challenge has faded, the idea of a coalition has become firmly embedded. That may not sound dramatic, but to have the strategy decided in London, and so far in advance, could affect not just the Lib Dems' status in a Scottish government, but the party's future direction, and the outcome of its leadership contest. The conventional wisdom

thus far has been that Charles Kennedy, MP for Ross, Skye and Inverness West, is well ahead in the undeclared campaign to succeed Mr Ashdown. Mr Kennedy, who is at best lukewarm about closer co-operation with Labour, is said to have grassroots sup-port and to command the backing of party activists. But in London, the odds have been altering steadily in favour of Menzies Campbell, MP for North East Fife, and a supporter of the alliance.

The key influence here is no longer Mr Ashdown, but Tony Blair. Whatever the status of those meetings in Derry Irvine's house, it is no secret that the Prime Minister wants to cement a permanent relation-ship with the Lib > a key component of his aim to capture the centre ground of British politics and hold it against Tory incursion for the next generation. Co-opting the Lib Dems on to a key Cabinet com-mittee was one part of this. The chemistry between him and Mr Ashdown, who shared Dems. He sees it as the vision was another. Whether Mr Blair will eventually agree to pay the ultimate price of proportional representation to secure the Lib Dems' long-term support remains to be seen, but he is bound to favour a Lib-Lab pact in a Scottish parliament. It is a sort of dry-run for what might some day be a reality at

Linkliter

The fall in the SNP's fortunes has fatally undermined those on the Lib Dem Left, who at one time favoured a deal with the nadonalists, and is likely to aid those like Mr Campbell who advocate a continuing alliance with Labour. The Lib Dems' salvation, say the strategists, does not lie in taking it to the Left, but in shoring up the centre ground. The understanding with Labour may have to be more hard-nosed, but it will continue. Of course, all talk of a pact will be denied, particularly by the Scottish protagonists from both parties. But the deal is there, and it will be carried forward.

The only problem is the Mandelson Effect. It is so volatile that it can blow up just when you least expect it. It only takes someone to light the bunsen burner, give the test tube a couple of shakes, and the whole compound starts hissing and bubbling again.

Dr Toughlove

hen I lived in the United States in the 1980s, in the heyday of Thatcherism and Reaganomics, I knew a firebrand of a left-wing poliocian from Texas (yes, you can find any human oxymoron somewhere in America if you look hard enough). He had a characteris-tically colourful phrase for the futile, wishy-washy politics being advocated by centrist Southern Democrats such as Bill Clinton: "Folks in Texas know that there's nothing in the middle of the road except a white line and a dead armadillo." I thought about this remark in Washington last Sunday, as I sat in the audience at one of President Clinton's famous "seminars" on the polides of the future, this one called "The Third Way: progressive gov-ernance for the 21st century". Tony Blair was the principal supporting actor with Gerhard Schröder of Germany, Massimo D'Alema of Italy and Wim Kok of The Netherlands as guest stars. It was easy to sympathise with the cynicism ex-pressed by my Texan friend, as the President lobbed ludicrously softball "questions" about "opportunity, responsibility and community" at the other four leaders, who smugly responded with long strings of cliches about technology, the social contract, globalisation and "the new Left's voyage of rediscovery'.

But whereas cynicism is a perfectly healthy reaction to ideological fashions, and intellectual superiority helps to maintain the dignity of media commentators while simultaneously flattering their readers, the question that now seems worth asking is whether cynicism is an adequate response to a movement that has transformed the political world. Whatever may be said about the Third Way's intellectual content, leftisb leaders now head six out of the seven main advanced capitalist countries and 13 of the 15 states of the European Union. Not even at the peak of the Conservative ascendancy in the late 1980s could the Right claim either the ideological unity or the global sway represented by the five leaders on the platform in Washington on Sunday. As if to emphasise and confirm this global victory, the slogans of the Third Way are now being adopted by right-wing oppositions around the world in Britain, the Tories may be tying themselves in knots as they try to disentangle themselves from the unpopular individualism, social Darwinism and market funor How I stopped worrying and learnt to love the Third Way damentalism of the Thatcher years, but the Republicans in the United States seem to be making a much smoother transition to Clinton-style rhetoric. Supporters of George W. Bush, the Republican front-runner for the presidency, now openly tout him as a "Third Way politician". His hard-right detractors deride his 'compassionate Conservatism" as exactly the kind of self-contradictory slogan that typifies the ideological vacuum of the Third Way.

All right, I hear you say in exasperation, us what all this rhetoric means. Until last week, I would at this point have changed the subject or conveniently run out of space. But at the Washington seminar I had a revelation. I think I began to understand Third what the Way was about. I was struck by the contrast between the confident body language of these relaxed and good-humoured politicians and the extraordinary caution of their slogans. These were carefully balanced to satisfy conflicting political passions and remove all offence -"freedom and fairness", "rights and responsibilioes", "compassion and self-reliance", "economic opportu-nity and social justice", "global economy and local community".

Winning support, avoiding unnecessary controversy and seeking compromise are obvious hallmarks of this new politics, but there is more to it than that. Mr Blair, Mr Clinton and the others in Washington did not get where they were by shrinking from political battles. They have all been pugnacious and successful poliocal bruisers. Neither have they lacked intellectual self-confidence. On the contrary, the new Third Way leaders seem surprisingly certain that, with enough intelligence, effort and goodwill, it should be possible to solve or at least manage all the world's problems, from crime and unemployment in inner cities to massa-

As Mr Blair actually said at one point in Washington: "History does not set problems that humanity cannot solve." The others expressed the same basic view a little more circumspectly. In Herr Schröder's words, "the new poliocs is about discovering the right solutions not through ideology but through intelligent experimentation" or, as Mr Clinton put it more succinctly, "what we believe in is what works". As I listened to these bold assertions, it dawned on me that the distinguishing feature of the new left-of-centre politicians is their extraordinary self-confidence, not the ideological timid-ity of which they often stand accused. It is true these people are ideologically rootless pragmatists who borrow shamelessly from their opand ideas. But this pragmatism does oot necessarily reflect weakness. It is true that the Third Way's key selling point is that it tries to move beyond the contradictions of the old Left, which is politically unelectable, and the old Right, which is morally unacceptable. But when faced with a contradiction, there are two ways that a politician can respond.

The obvious way is to try to find a compromise that offers some sops to supporters of the two contradictory positions. This is the spineless kind of pragmatism, sometimes called "triangulation", of which new Left leaders, especially Mr Clinton, are usually accused: raise the minimum wage but leave more people without health insurance; ban a few sub-machineguns but do nothing about gun control; bomb Kosovo but don't risk a land invasion.

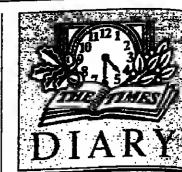

But there can sometimes be another, more imaginative way to deal with contradictory political demands. Instead of just striking a compromise between two opposing positions, it may be possible to reconcile the contradictions; instead of simply splitting the difference, a political leader can look for practical measures, and ultimately perhaps new ways of thinking, that move beyond the contradictory demands. In old-style Marxist language, which Third Way supporters would not, of course, dream of using, their movement seems to be a synthesis between the thesis of free-market conservatism and the anothesis of old-style socialism, rather than a messy compromise.

f one makes the leap of faith required to listen with sympathy, rather than derision, to the claims made by the modern left-of-centre poliocians, it is this faith in finding practical solutions that reconcile and synthesise opposing forces that seems to characterise the Third Way. Instead of simply accepting the contradiction between economic prosperity and social: justice, the Third Way proponents believe they can design policies to improve both economic growth and income distribution. Instead of simply offering the electorate a choice between lower taxes and better public services, they claim to be able to deliver both. Instead of making a choice between better education and more selection, they promise that both can be achieved. Instead of simply choosing between cutting welfare benefits and supporting more unproductive welfare scroungers, they say they can design policies that will force more people to work. yet offer better support to the genuinely needy.

Of course, when put in such general terms, the Third Way claims may sound dishonest and unrealistic. But it is in their detailed practical effects, not in their general philosophy, that the Third Way's policies will have to be judged. And unlike many poliocians of the older generation, it is when they discuss the practical details of their policies that many of the new leaders really come to life. It remains to be seen whether the Third Way's confidence in its own eleverness turns out to be iustified. To Conservatives, who are naturally sceptical about collective action, the Third Way's faith in the possibilities of efficient government seems hopelessly over-optimistic. But in this optimistic era, the efforts of the Right to redefine a genuine Conservative ideology seem even more hopeless.

anatole.kaletsky@the-times.co.uk

Earl blues

SECRETS of Earl Spencer's mar-riage to the lovely Victoria could be aired in court, much to the old boy's chagrin. While relieved that he will not have to give evidence during his former wife's bitter court battle with her previous divorce lawyers, he is concerned that the case will wreck their confidentiality deal when Victoria graces the stand.

The countess, awarded 1.8 million big ones in her South African lion big ones in her South African divorce, is suing lawyers for £1.6 million. "It's rather unfair," I am told. "I dare say the earl is not delighted by his marriage being dragged through the courts again."

Last time, small-minded gossips were treated to details of the earl's distractions with Sally Ann Lasson and a Chantal Collopy.

FOR those in search of God: the great deity can now be e-mailed at God@dow.cam.ac.uk. This gets one through to His local representative, the chaplain of Downing College, Cambridge, Bruce Kinsey, "Some Christians have a sense of humour," bristles my man with the harp. "It's an easy address. No one forgets it."

GOOD to see that Harold Pinter has not lost touch with his rough and radical roots. While theatregoers enjoyed the first night of his light entertainment. The Birthday Party (granted a strange West End revival), our Harold was absent. Now I know why. He and his other half, Lady Antonia Fraser,

found themselves at high table with Emma Rothschild and other refuseniks at Trinity College, Cambridge. Not that the cast was too distressed. I ran into the splendid Prunella Scales afterwards, who had clearly benefited from Pinter's unique theatrical analysis. "He came to watch when it was on the road in Richmond," she says. "I fear it was far too early in the run."

■ THE "It girl" phenomenon has just been taken to its logical conclusion: so perhaps its practitioners can now quit the party scene and retire to Gloucestershire with a bar-load of Fulham estate agents. One of their number. Cat de Rham. is throwing a photo exhibition consisting entirely of self-portraits. Blain's gallery says "the artist, in the honesty of her quest, bravely chose to shoot herself naked". While I admire such brave honesty, dear reader, please be content with this more modest work (above).

RUNNING into Ken Livingstone in his favoured Mayfair club the other day. I was taken aside to hear that he has won over the former Deputy PM, Michael Heseltine: "He said he wanted to get 'Tories for Livingstone' badges made," said Red Ken. Strangely, Hezza has a different take, calling Tony Blair's bete noire "one of the greatest jokes of modern times".

■ ROBERT MAXWELL is enjoying the dizzy heights of power. The old rogue's chopper — which used to land on the MGN office emblazoned with his lion logo - now flies ministers. The French Squirrel. based at RAF Northolt, boasts Bob's extra large seat, handy for fuller-figured ministers such as John Prescott. But they may feel Cap'n Bob's presence a little unnerving, as he was not renowned for his successful travel exploits.

MINUS his broken exhaust, Peter Mandelson has now found a new mode of transport — the Tube.

■ HUGH GRANT, nicknamed "Floppy" in Notting Hill, really does have a complex about his long locks. For promotion photo shoots. he was so worried about his hair that he had to drink three lagers and play Duke Ellington to relax-

JASPER GERARD

'Jill Dando's murder seems to be the latest excuse for another public outburst of the modern British disease — mourning sickness' when he told the Commons that Mick Hume

he murder of Jill Dando is a tragedy for her family. friends and colleagues, a genuine shock to many other people, and a legitimate news story. So why can't we leave it at

Why does what should be a moment for private grief have to be elevated into a semi-state occasion, complete with appearances from the Queen and President Blair? The orgy of emotionalism can tell us little about the life of the blameless Miss Dando. Her brutal murder appears to have become the latest excuse for another public outburst of the modern British disease - mourning sickness. Many have tried not just to report her death, but to sanctify her life, trying to endow an apparently inexplicable murder with some deeper meaning. Jack Straw, the Home Secretary, set the tone for the media coverage

Miss Dando "had done a huge amount personally in the fight against crime by her role, not least in Crimewatch UK". In yesterday's Times, Valerie Grove concurred that "Because she stood bravely in the studio appealing for help in solving crime, Miss Dando stood for right versus wrong". The article also compared her televised launch of the Kosovo appeal to the anti-mine campaigning of Diana, Princess of Wales. Posthumous attempts to depict

Miss Dando as a symbol of Good fuelled the speculation that her death may have been an act of revenge by the forces of Evil. The front-page headline in Tuesday's Express — "Was she killed by a hitman?" — was topped by the banner headline on Wednesday's Daily Mail: "Was Jill killed by a Serb gunnan?" When emotionalism rushes in the door, perspective goes out of the window. No doubt Miss

Dando was a warm and charming woman. But she was also an archetypal celebrity: somebody who is famous largely for being farmous, rather than for what they have done. As a television presenter who "stood bravely in the studio", she was no more responsible for solving crimes or saving Kosovo refugees than her friend Desmond Lynam is to blame for the football results. Everybody from Julie Burchill to the Mayor of Weston-super-Mare, Miss Dando's home town, has rushed to compare her to the late Diana. "Goodbye to an English rose" read one of the floral tributes outside Miss Dando's Fulham house. And while Tony Blair just stopped short of repeating his eulogy to Diana,

Sue Carroll of The Mirror did it

People's Princess," she told us. "Jill was the People's Presenter." Miss Dando was clearly no Diana, more Tesco Metro than Harvey Nicks. Yet those trying to recreate the morbid effusion whipped up after the death of the Princess insist that they were both like "the girl next door". Where "ordinary people" loved Diana for her vulnerability and insecurity. Jill was admired for for him. "If Diana was the what one former boss called her "extraordinary ordinariness". At one time, being weak might have been thought a reason for not getting the Hollywood treatment. Now it is a telling sign of our unheroic age that we should be encouraged to admire and emulate a Princess who called herself "as thick as a plank" and a celebrity who once described herself as "Jill Blando". The media must take their share of responsibility for encouraging much of the copycat mawkishness. The response of some journalists and broadcasters has gone way beyond the understandable sense of shock and loss at the murder of one their own. Both the BBC and ITN produced special half-hour programmes within hours of Miss Dando's death - something they never managed for the outbreak of war in the Balkans.

et the media are not ultimately to blame. Many people seem only too willing to be injected with another dose of mourning sickness. At a time when people feel disengaged from the old institu-tions that once held them together, public displays of mourning for a Diana, a Linda McCartney or a Jill Dando (complete with the new rituals of flower-laying, condolence-book signing etc have become rare opportunities to show some social solidarity.

Respect the grief of the bereaved, but don't indulge the rest of the circus. People may exhibit strong feelings during mourning sickness, but for most they are ersatz emotions, directed at people they did not know for reasons of which they are unsure. As Dr Oliver James said of the tears for Diana, "whilst the sincerity of the feelings are undoubted, their authenticity is not".

Meanwhlle, in Belgrade, they drag the body of an ordinary, innocent make-up lady from the rubble of the Serbian equivalent of BBC Television Centre. No tears or TV specials for her.

The author is Editor of LM magazine. lm@informinc.co.uk

ne stroughte thusai

MIND

1. 11 Sept. 6

Secess to Justice n night, ingi terjahan 化二二十二烷十二烷二烷 CONTRACTORS AND ST

4.1 Auß entlich 化二氯化物 建氯化 网络阿克尔克 化二氯化物 was dien. In and the street of the street o

and the second of part n into the token himset inn i die Landberger Grent un seus puertigas sinen Listen Vincente se pela as of four periods as The Arthur Specifical Control THE PROPERTY. 10 - 10 - 00 - 135 2011/03/03 (0.8010) TeX

THE REPORT OF THE ARMS If all it meets har na tre redebravajs The Art Article (Processing of the premiums the Telling in the second representation of erthy, can proceed - - - mended the fee For that the poorest and na a granda da di

or and prepared t The not they have then in a large inclined to offer of its certain that nest The mathematics of the first model to preach 1 (1) (1) does to is a sure or time of security is in the increasingly Francia are being out to sudent. The Train = hodraegled The Hankers, beer 1500s. At least 500 in all allows regularly of the problem does not Vin ria From The spratice the Manufaction (a) Special or all Yes writing's visit by The Passage the senior for the is nublicity ust how The Bayers The state of the s autresme de to a ora. They form a Tenging from Leanage the area address. v. da service manifers the state of the s The Will have

> GOOD BUSI Why companies sho

The Propagation of the work A many street and less correction offer Business of the Community the

NO PRESENT ALTERNATIVE

But Hague must take personal command of his policy review

In the immediate aftermath of Peter Lilley's address last week William Hague proclaimed proudly that his deputy had 'slayed the myth" that Conservatives were bent on the outright privacsation of key public services. There has been slaughter aplenty in Conservative circles over the past few days; Mr Hague's interpretation of events continues to appear extremely optimistic. The Tory leader did, however, take the opportunity of a speech last night m offer the sort of language on public-private partnerships that, had it been adopted by Mr Lilley, might have rendered his lecture mercifully uncontroversial. This may help to staunch his party's wounds.

There are certain other myths surrounding this sorry saga that still need exploding. The first is the myth that the Tories are entering the final days of Mr Hague's tenure. There is a hothouse atmosphere in Westminster at present. It will be reinforced by the latest MORI poll for The Times which shows that Tory support has slumped again and that, by a margin even greater than that in the electorate as a whole, their remaining voters are dissatisfied with Mr Hague's performance.

But a palace coup cannot take place without a credible alternative monarch. Kenneth Clarke remains an effective performer whose views on the single currency make it impossible for him to serve as leader. Francis Maude, the Shadow Chancellor, may have been a contender six months ago but the refusal of his much-heralded recession to appear has damaged his standing. He has also hurt himself by backing Mr Lilley within the Shadow Cabinet. Michael Portillo is not an MP and any attempt to create a by-election to boost his candidature, history suggests, is doorned to failure. There is no realistic alternative to Mr Hague as leader.

A slightly different dilemma exists with regard to Mr Lilley. The most superficially

obvious way in which the Conservatives could recapture the intellectual and political credibility lost last week would be for him to offer his resignation. This would be justified by the cavalier fashion in which he has treated his colleagues, both in the content of his argument and in assessing its consequences. But if Mr Lilley departed because of the dissent over his speech, the Labour Party could cheerfully portray his fall as the price that a Tory politician pays for uttering approving words about the NHS. This could be an even worse public relations disaster. There is thus at present no realistic alternative to Mr Lilley as deputy leader.

Nor will matters be improved by a change of party chairman. Three weeks ago Mr Hague could have still elevated Mr Portillo, by far the most attractive option, to that position. To turn to a potential rival now would look like an act of desperation. It would be easier to revisit this scenario if the Conservatives made unexpectedly strong gains in next week's elections. But if that happened, Mr Hague might conclude that he had no need to summon Mr Portillo to his rescue. There is thus little realistic chance that Mr Portillo can become Conservative Party chairman.

None of this means that Mr Hague should simply sit and wait for the current controversy to dissipate. Profound damage has been done and corrective measures need to be taken. His policy document, Action for Britain, scheduled for publication in September, has assumed increased importance. That text cannot afford to be late, vacuous, or timid. Mr Hague has effectively surrendered that process to Mr Lilley and this has been an unambiguous example of failed leadership. The Conservative leader needs to take personal charge of his policy review and drive it through to completion. He cannot afford to assume that there will be no realistic alternative to his continued command for ever.

MIND THE GAP

Access to Justice must mean what it says

Legal aid exists to ensure that no one is denied access to the courts for lack of money. But the costs of the current system have soared since 1949, well beyond successive governments' willingness to pay. That is partly because the system has been abused for ill-founded claims. The Lord Chancellor, Lord Irvine of Lairg, has recognised that lawyers are inclined to accept cases, regardless of their merits, on the basis that the taxpayer will always pick up the bill. That is why his Access to Justice Bill rightly seeks to tackle the problem of indiscriminate litigation. The Bill seeks to scrap all legal aid for personal injury claims. Instead, lawyers are to take briefs on a "no win, no fee" basis.

The taxpayer may be the winner from this arrangement, but will justice? There are two sides to any action. Those who go to law on the basis that if they do not win they need not pay their own legal bills must still face the possibility that, if they lose, they must pay the other side's costs. The Lord Chancellor envisages that insurance schemes will, however, develop to cover the risk of losing an action.

The development of an insurance market is a neat solution. But only if it meets two concerns. Insurance must be widely available and easily affordable. And, for those who cannot always afford premiums but who need justice, there must be a certainty that their actions, if worthy, can proceed. The House of Lords has amended the Bill in an effort to ensure that the poorest and most vulnerable potential litigants are not denied justice. Insurance companies are prepared to exploit this new market, but they have their own obligations. They are inclined to offer cover only if they can be certain that most cases will be won. The mathematics of insurance, and the need to spread risk, make such a calculation inevitable. It is fair to say that most cases which do not have a good chance of success should not be taken up. The insurance market could act as a surer judge of which cases are worth pursuing than lawyers who can rely on the taxpayer to fund speculative actions.

But there are still concerns. If an insurance market fails to mature then only those with very deep pockets will be able to pursue their claims. Some insurance companies are already refusing to deal with solicitors who lose too many cases. Even if solicitors do try to insure all their cases, they will still need to think carefully about the number of risky actions they take on. Injured people with cases which appear difficult may find it hard to find a solicitor. Then there is the cost factor. Even a standard personal injury claim is likely to cost more than £100 to insure.

The Lord Chancellor says that a 'hard cases" fund will be set up to protect such people. But he has refused to write such protection into the Access to Justice Bill. The House of Lords amendment seeks to rectify this perceived failing. It tries to ensure that a safety net will exist in the legislation to cover all deserving cases. The amendment is supported by the Law Society and the Bar Council. The Lord Chancellor should not just dismiss their campaign as special pleading. While the amendment for which both they, and leading charities, have campaigned may not be the most effective means of balancing access to justice and taxpayers' concerns, there is a need for Lord Irvine to provide greater reassurance. His worthwhile reform should not be blighted by a perception that it will benefit the many at the expense of a deserving few.

GOOD BUSINESS SENSE

Why companies should help the homeless

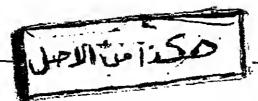

Governments should not need to preach family values. When they do, it is a sure sign that the staple unit of society is breaking apart, that in an increasingly fragmented culture people are being cut adrift. The fallout is only too evident. The streets of London are home to a bedraggled army of beggars trailing blankets, beer cans and pet dogs on strings. At least 500 people in the capital are known regularly to sleep rough. And the problem does not end at King's Cross or Victoria. From Reading to Hove, they sprinkle the commuter belt. They are to be found in all Britain's city centres. Yesterday's visit by the Prince of Wales to The Passage. London's largest day centre for the homeless, served to publicise just how severe this problem has become. The homeless cannot be stereotyped as a bunch of old alcoholics or aggressive scroungers too idle to work. They form a diverse community ranging from teenagers forced to flee abuses to former members of the Armed Forces. Food, a fixed address, access to washing facilities and a training in basic skills offer those who have stumbled a fresh opportunity to find work and self-respect.

This is where corporate leaders can offer essential support. As president of the charity Business in the Community, the Prince of Wales yesterday urged business executives to consider innovative ways in which to reinstate homeless people in society. These may begin with straightforward material contributions, financial gifts or donations in kind. Clothing companies, for instance, might provide interview suits. or hoteliers old bed linen. But less tangible generosity is even more welcome. Company employees have many skills to pass on. They can offer their time in mentors' roles. And employers, rather than discriminating against the ambitious simply because they are homeless, could seek out such people in job placement schemes.

Only through personal contact with those who live on the streets can the more conventional community come to understand them. As the Prince himself found last year when he met a former school-fellow selling the Big Issue, the jobless and homeless are no breed apart. The danger is that they can become just that, drawn into drug-taking and despair. For publicity-conscious companies, helping the homeless may not seem enticing. They should think again. A recent survey asked people what they considered the most appropriate ways for large companies to mark the millennium. Almost 40 per cent cited homelessness. As the business world well understands, success lies in consumer satisfaction.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

1 Pennington Street, London El 9XN Telephone 0171-782 5000

hapless Kosovans

From Group Captain Keith Chapman, RAF (retd)

Sir. The escalation of Nato's bombing campaign to include soft civilian tar-gets such as the TV station in Rel-grade (report, April 24) is not only a measure of its failure to achieve its original objectives, but also seriously undermines Nato's claim to the moral high ground.

Despite the propaganda and thetoric coming from Brussels, Washing-ton and Whitehall — including the optimistic assertion that Nato fortunes are set to improve dramatically with the deployment of US Apache helicopters (report, April 23) — the fact remains that bombing has done vir-tually nothing to alleviate the plight of the hapless Kosovo Albanians.

How many more missiles and bombs must be launched and how much more innocent blood must be shed before Nato's political leaders face up to the fact that they have dragged us into a war which no one can win? Common sense, if nothing else, cries out for an immediate end to the bombing and the simultaneous return of this complex problem to the only place where it can ultimately be resolved - the negociating table.

Yours etc. K. CHAPMAN, 9 Hedgecourt Place, Felbridge, Surrey RH19 2PJ. April 24.

From Professor Emeritus D. Cameron Watt

Sir, As a member of the generation that "learnt their politics in the postwar era amid hopes that the United Nations could preside over a new world order" (report, "Labour Left split by passions of war", April 21), I must confess that, in my experience, Tony Benn and Tam Dalyell are as untypical of the views of this generaoonal group on kosovo as they are of the views in the country generally.

Presenting the Orwell awards for political journalism on March 30, Baroness Williams of Crosby made one of the strongest statements in support of British policy over Kosovo I have heard. A radical journalist present said to me: "No one in our generation, remembering what we saw and learnt in Europe after the war, could stand by and watch what is happening in Kosovo today without doing something." He, 1 and Bar-oness Williams were all Oxbridge. vintage 1948.

Much the same image of generational solidarity emerged during the public debate of 1989-91 over the war crimes legislation; though here it was confronting our elders led by Lord Shawcross, the late Lord Beloff and

Yours sincerely, D. CAMERON WATT (Professor Emeritus of International History). London School of Economics and Poliocal Science. Houghton Street, WC2A 2AE. April 26.

From Dr C. Storer

Sir. Day by day the media carry har-rowing reports of children from Kos-ovo who have been separated from parents and of husbands who have been separated from wives, raising the question of whether the families can ever be reunited. Those concerned do not even know whether their loved ones are alive or dead. nor which country survivors may be in.

You carried an item on the Commonwealth War Graves Commission database on the Internet (article, Interface, November 11, 1998; report, January 22). Using that database, one can obtain details such as location of grave or memorial of any one of the millions of Commonwealth casualties from wars this century. It took me less than five minutes to locate an individual record, and I am an Internet

Could not the Government construct a similar database carrying the name and previous address in kosovo of all refugees seeking relatives? Presumably this could be built so that refugees could enter their own details as well as search for records of loved ones. Setting up such a database might cost less than one cruise mis-

If the Government does not start the project. I offer my services for data input if one of your readers volunteers to construct the website.

Yours faithfully. C. C. STORER. Deeping, Bevyl Road, Parkgate, South Wirral L64 6RR. chris@cstorer.freeserve.co.uk April 28.

Performance and pay

From Mr Robert Russell

Sir, Dr Alan Shrank (letter, April 26) accuses poliocians advocating performance-related pay for teachers of pur-suing policies "abandoned by those who have introduced them in the past", and claims that commerce is disenchanted with this policy.

Is he suggesting that employers should pay staff for simply turning up to work?

Yours faithfully R. C. RUSSELL The Granary. Bates Farm, Wittersham. Tenterden, Kent TN30 7PL April 26.

Nato and plight of Walden's 'donnish' political views From Professor P. B. Harris

From Mr Russell Wood

Sir. I have always regarded George Walden [book extracts, April 26, 27 and 28] as someone who is a complete academic and who is absolutely out of place in the political world. All the politicians he condemns, compared to him, are true poliocal animals.

For example, William Hague has a masterly brilliance in the House of Commons and easily outperforms Tony Blair. His reply to the Chancel-lor in the last Budget debate was ab-solutely outstanding. He is also an orator with Churchillan qualices of whom there have been very few since the war.

All of this, however, has been lost on the donnish George Walden.

Yours truly, RUSSELL WOOD, The White Cottage, Chigwell Village, Essex IG7 60B.

From Mr J. McCubbin

Sir, The recollections of George Walden make terrific reading. The writing is pithy and chock-a-block with flavour. They are insightful and gossipy.

The most astounding insight, however, must be the ease with which Walden could be persuaded to troop to the voting chamber of John Major's desire (April 26). That a man in high office, at the peak of his career, in the pay of the taxpayer, could be so cheaply won over against his better judgment is astonishing. That he claims it was because he was so squeamish about the other opponents of Maastricht beggars belief.

When he considered the consequences of a major treaty with such profound implications for the future sovereignty of the nation, in truth, weak-willed Walden was of no more service to the nation than the pagerworshipping backbenchers of the Labour Party.

Yours faithfully, J. McCUBBIN, Sandon House, Bakewell Street, Stoke-on-Trent ST4 5HJ.

Tories and free market

From Mr Roger Hole

Sir, You report (April 26) Francis Maude, the Shadow Chancellor, as saying: "In government we some-times sounded as if we were only interested in markets... But someone" suffering from cancer is a patient who wants to be cared for, not a customer within the internal market."

He seems to forget that in 1989, at the start of the Tory NHS reforms, page letter from Sir Duncan Nichol (then NHS Chief Executive) actually instructing all staff to look on all people using the NHS as "customers" - the word "patient" hardly appeared.

No one can be blamed if 15 pages of instruction stick in the memory rather longer than the occasional misunderstood comments of that Government, which he now seeks to correct as if they were just minor errors of presentation. In 1987 1 met William Hague for the first and only time: he seemed keen on the "internal market" for the NHS. A Tory decade of deliberate market policy in the NHS deserves a rather (NHS consultant, 1973-95). Wynd House, The Wynd, Hutton Rudby, North Yorkshire TS15 0ES.

From Mr Kenneth J. Jordan

Yours faithfully. KENNETH J. JORDAN, 2 Roeheath, Cinder Hill, Chailey, East Sussex BN8 4HR. ken.jordan@dial.pipex.com April 27.

New D-G for BBC

From Mr John Hambley

Sir, It is clear that the next BBC Director-General will be under constant scrutiny for signs of poliocal bias. This is an excellent safeguard of the public interest, and preferable to Sir Paul Fox's curious suggestion (letter. April 26: see also letters, April 20, 21 and 23) that candidates may qualify only after a lifetime spent hiding their poliocal sympathies.

Those qualities may not be found readily in those whose allegiances have either been concealed or have shifted with every wind.

JOHN HAMBLEY 4 St Elmo Road, W12 9EA. April 27.

From Mr Len Harris

Sir. Nigel Havers asserts (letter, April 23) that anyone who met Greg Dyke would know that policies has never reared its ugly head during his astonishing 35-year career.

My encounter with Greg Dyke took place 22 years ago, and I found him to be not just intensely political, but fervently so.

Middle Royden Kingswood Road, Shortlands.

Sir, George Walden's account of British polices circa 1997 may or may not be true, but in one respect it is caricature. As an observer of Hong Kong policies for 30 years I find his picture of Hong Kong under Chris Patten grotesquely inaccurate.

Walden sees a conflict between great forces, "democracy" Inever ex-plained in the Hong Kong context), and non-democracy. He refers to let-ters passed between the British and Chinese Governments as if these were the battleground of these rival ideologies. I see nothing more in these letters but a juggling of figures in a series of technical memoranda over the numbers of directly elected and functional constituency members in the final days of the colonial Legislaove Council.

Chris Patten did not set out to introduce "democracy" in Hong Kong. He moved incrementally simply by working within the limits of the 1984 Sino-Briosh Agreement, pushing popular representation to its furthest extent. Functional constituencies. or group representation, remained and remain to this day, and for the foreseeable future.

The real issue in Hong Kong is not the Legislaove Council and its composition, but the survival of the rule of law, now currently being thrashed out in the courts.

Yours faithfully. P. B. HARRIS (Professor Emeritus of Political Science, University of Hong Kong). 28 Queen Anne Square, Cathays Park, Cardiff CFI 3ED. April 27.

From Mr Tony Salter

Sir. Conservative politicians must be finding it hard to believe that George Walden was once their Honourable stronger admission of culpability if the Opposition is to be believed.

Yours faithfully, TONY SALTER, 38 Bennett Park. Blackheath, SE3 9RB. April 27.

Yours truly, ROGER HOLE

Sir. Peter Lilley is only half right when he says that "the free market has only a limited role in improving public services like health, education and welfare" (report, April 21). Its role is, indeed, limited but the Conservative Party has not yet found or reached those limits.

Pusillanimous leadership which puts more faith in focus groups than in rigorous and radical thinking will never find those limits. Nor will it be entrusted with the task by the electorate.

Pinochet extradition

The BBC needs a strong champion of viewers and listeners who will place programme-making above management consultancy and fight vigorously for public service broadcasting in the gloves-off competition of the next decade.

Yours faithfully,

He was the Lahour candidate for the seat of Putney in the 1977 Greater London Council elections. As the victorious Conservative candidate for Putney I had ample opportunity to witness at first hand Greg Dyke's socialist leanings.

Yours sincerely, LEN HARRIS. Bromley, Kent BR2 OHL. April 24.

From Mr Robert Rhodes, QC

Sir. Lord Lamont of Lerwick (letter. April 23) plaintively asks, regarding General Pinochet: "What sort of justice is it when . . . it is not necessary to consider whether there is sufficient evidence to warrant a trial?"

The short answer is that it is the justice that the Government of which Lord Lamont was a prominent mem-ber forced through Parliament when enacting the Extradioon Act 1989. Section 9(4). That sub-section provides precisely the matter of which Lord Lamont now complains.

Yours faithfully, ROBERT RHODES, 4 King's Bench Walk, Temple, EC4Y 7DL

From Viscount Montgomery of Alamein

Sir. Lord Lamont makes an important point about the damage done to Briosh justice by the most recent decision of the Home Secretary in the Pinochet extradition proceedings, especially in view of the implication of the law lords' statement that the number of cases of alleged malpractice had been reduced to a possible maximum of three (reports, March 25).

But there is further cause for concern with a Government that preaches openness but does not practise it. The Pinochet case can be discussed in the press, on the radio, on television, but not in Parliament where ministers claim it is "sub judice". Given that the decisions by the Home Secretary are strictly poliocal this seems a most curious manifestation of democracy.

Yours faithfully, MONTGOMERY, House of Lords. April 26.

Letters may be faxed to 0171-782 5046. e-mail to: letters@the-times.co.uk

Clue to man's 'hybrid' ancestry

From Dr Euan W. MacKie

Sir. Your report (April 21) about the discovery in the Lapedo Valley in Portugal of the skeleton of the four-year-old part-Neanderthal boy, about 24.500 years in age, arouses interest, not least because of the claims made about its great significance for our understanding of the reladonship between these archaic humans and the newly arrived modern people, our ancestors. The skeleton is positively said by Professor Erik Trinkaus to show interbreeding between the two groups, hitherto thought of as im-placably mutually hostile.

The most obvious physical feature of the Neanderthal people was their skull, with its heavy brow ridge and sloping forehead combined with a very large brain, yet the skull in this case is described as fragmentary. Is it really possible reliably to detect a hybrid individual primarily from limb bones, particularly when they are of an immature boy? The days are long gone when Neanderthals were thought to have had a shambling. stooping gait with bent long bones; these bones were very similar to ours, though somewhat more robust. Even if the skeleton does prove to be a hybrid, can we be as confident as Professor Trinkaus and agree that this is not a one-off "love child" but a sign of a more general mixing of the sub-species? Portugal is a long way west from the northward land route through the Near East followed by Homo sapiens when he left Africa (according to one view) and may not be typical. The straographical evidence from several rock shelters in the Dordogne is well interpreted as showing clearly that, somewhat earlier, there was an abrupt replacement of the Neanderthals by physically modern people and this evidence is not altered by the new discovery. Yours faithfully. EUAN W. MacKIE (Honorary research fellow), Hunterian Museum, University of Glasgow, University Avenue. Glasgow G12 8QQ. April 22.

From Mr Shaun Taylor

Sir, The discovery of a skeleton of a young child, apparently with charac-teristics from both modern man and Neanderthals, is certainly a setback to the old theory that humans actively participated in the extinction of their cousins.

If the boy's skeleton is the offspring of an interbreeding of the two species the question remains, as your repon suggests, as to why modern European DNA is not closer to Neanderthal DNA than DNA from other parts of the world.

Possibly, either the offspring of such couplings were sterile, as hybrid organisms frequendy are. Or the offspring were prone to die before they reached adulthood.

Yours faithfully, SHAUN TAYLOR. 204 Hatters Lane, High Wycombe, Buckinghamshire HP13 7LY.

EU patron saint

From Professor Emeritus Edward Garden

Sir, St Cecilia should be the patron saint of the EU (leners, April 14, 21 and 283. As the patron saint of music, which crosses all artificial, man-made boundaries, she could help to bring harmony to all the participaong countries of the Union. Furthermore, is it not about time that we had a woman in such a posicion?

Yours faithfully, EDWARD GARDEN, 91 Millhouses Lane. Sheffield S7 2HD. April 28.

Name of the game

From Mrs Angela Callaghan

Sir, You provided today two wonderful examples of people's names emin-ently fitting the jobs they do. In the Dr Stunaford article on obesity we had a Professor Michael Lean pronouncing on weight management; and in Birth days today, the Surveyor of the Fabric of Westminster Abbey has the charming name of Mr Donald Buttress. This makes a lovely start to the day.

Yours faithfully, ANGELA CALLAGHAN. 59a Lee Road, Blackheath SE3 9EN. April 27.

A Mir Welshman?

From Mr Anthony Moorman Sir. Peter Llewelyn, who is said to have agreed to pay for a week-long flight on the Mir space station (report, April 28), is described as a "space-mad Welshman" and as a successful "British businessman". I wonder whether he will be "successful Briosh businessman who buys trip to space" or "a Welshman who failed to buy space holiday"?

Yours faithfully, ANTHONY MOORMAN, 67a Boroughgate, Otley, West Yorkshire LS21 IAG

COURT CIRCULAR

WINDSOR CASTLE April 28: Mrs Mary Francis was received by The Queen upon relinquishing her appointment as Deputy Private Secretary when Her Majesty invested her with the Insignia of Lieutenant of the Royal Victorian Order.

The Queen was represented by the Hon Mary Morrison, Woman of the Bedchamber, at the Funeral of Mr Charles Martyn which was held at the Church of St Michael and All Angels, Hinton. Christchurch, today.

WINDSOR CASTLE April 28: The Duke of Edinburgh this morning departed from Jedda for London.

His Royal Highness this afternoon arrived at RAF Northoli. Brigadier Miles Hunt-Davis was in attendance.

CLARENCE HOUSE April 28: Queen Elizabeth The Queen Mother, Patron, today received the President, the Lord Campbell of Alloway, and members of the Colditz Association.

ST JAMES'S PALACE April 28: The Prince of Wales, President, Business in the Commurity, this morning visited The Passage Day Centre, St Vincents, Carlisle Place, London SWI. His Royal Highness, President,

Business in the Community, later attended the Secing is Believing Homelessness Seminar. The Prince of Wales this aftermoon opened the Dudley Stationery Distribution Centre, holders of The Prince of Wales's Warrant, at Crown Close, Wick Lane, Bow,

His Royal Highness this afternoon received the Prime Minister. BUCKINGHAM PALACE April 28: The Prince Edward, Trustee, The Duke of Edinburgh's Award International Foundation.

held a lunch at Buckingham His Royal Highness, Patron, Ocean Youth Trust, this afternoon met the outgoing Chairman, Mr Colin Sharman, and the incoming

Birthdays Today's royal today engagements Mr Andre Agassi, tennis player, 29; Mr Frank Auerbach, painter,

The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh will attend a service of the Royal Victorian Order in St George's Chapel, Windsor. After the service the Queen will give a reception in the State Apartments, Windsor Castle, for members of the Order and Medallists.

Sherborne School for Girls, Bradford Road, Sherborne, Dorset. The Duke of York, president, will attend a reception for the Associa-

For more details about the Royal Family visit the royal website at:

King Hussein of Jordan

A memorial service for King Hussein of Jordan will be held in St Paul's Cathedral at Ilam on Monday, July 5. Admission will be by ticket only and those wishing to attend should apply in writing enclosing a stamped addressed envelope, to: The Secretary, Anglo-Jordanian Society, 311 Lillie Road, London SW7 7LL. Tickets will be

College of Chiropractors

Mr Timothy Jay, President of the College of Chiropractors, wel-comed the guests at the official launch of the college held yesterday at the King's Fund, Cavendish Square. Sir Terence English, Baroness Fookes, Mr David Ashdown Newton of Braintree also spoke.

Chairman, Mr Alan Kingsley at Buckingham Palace.

BUCKINGHAM PALACE April 28: The Princess Royal this morning was received by President Mubarak at the Presidency, Heli-

Her Royal Highness afterwards visited the Integrated Care Society, The Princess Royal subsequent-visited the British Council, Heliopolis.

Her Royal Highness later visited the Association for the Protection of Environment (APE) project, The Princess Royal, President, Save the Children Fund, this afternoon visited the Regional

Her Royal Highness afterwards anended a Reception at the British Council Head Office, Agouza. The Princess Royal later visited Brooke Hospital for Animals, Zein Al-Abdein Her Royal Highness subsequent-ly unveiled a plaque outside The British Embassy, Cairo, to mark the Embassy's refurbishment.

The Princess Royal this evening attended a Reception given by the British Ambassador to Egypt (Sir David Blatherwick) at the Resi-

ST JAMES'S PALACE

April 28: The Duke of Kent, Chairman of the Trustees, this morning attended a meeting with the Trustees and Canadian Members of The Duke of Edinburgh's Commonwealth Study Group at Whitehead Mann, Hill Street, London WI.

His Royal Highness, Grand President, this afternoon attended the Annual Investiture of the United Grand Lodge of England at Preemasons' Hall. Great Queen Street, London, followed by dinner at the Savoy Hotel.

THATCHED HOUSE LODGE April 28: Princess Alexandra, Dep-uty Royal Honorary Colonel, this evening visited The Royal Yeoman-ry at The Duke of York's Headquarters, King's Road, London.

stable. Strathclyde, 69; Sir John

Holmes, diolomat, 48: Sir Kenneth

James, former diplomat, 73; Miss

Zizi Jeanmaire, dancer, 75: Professor David Johns, former Vice-painter, 67; Professor Heinz Wolff,

68; Mr Jonah Barrington, squash player, 58; Mr Dean Bell, rugby league player, 37; Baroness Chalk-er of Wallasey, 57; Mr Torn Clarke, former Editor, Sporting Life, 60; Mr Daniel Day-Lewis, actor, 42; Baroness Dean of Thornton-le-Pyl-The Prince of Wales will visit de, 56: Mrs Ruth Deech, Principal, St Anne's College, Oxford, 56 General Sir Peter de la Billière, 65, Mr Lonnie Donegan, skiffle musi-cian and singer, 68; the Earl of Elfongham, 60: Mr D.S. Elliott. tion of Leading Visitor Attractions at the National History Museum. former director, Museum of Mod-ern Art. Oxford, 50; His Honour London SW7, at 6.00. Israel Finestein, QC, former President. Board of Deputies of British Jews, 78; Dame Rennie Fritchie, former chairman, South and West Regional Health Authority, 57; Sir Patrick Hamill, former Chief Con-

> Chancellor, Bradford University, Sir Anthony Laughton, oceanographer, 72: Miss Elizabeth Law son, QC, 52; Mr Rod McKuen, poet and composer, 66: Mr Zubin Mehta, conductor, 63: Mr Johnny Miller, golfer, 52; Mr A.W. Nicol. former chairman, South Western Electricity, 66: Sir Fraser Noble. versity, 8I: Sir Ronald Norman former chairman, Teesside Development Corporation, 62; General Sir Patrick Palmer, Constable and Governor of Windsor Castle, 66: Miss Michelle Pfeiffer, actress, 42; Professor B.D. Ripley, statistician, 47; Lord Rothschild, 63; Mr Jeremy Thorpe, former leader, Liberal Party, 70; Mr David Tindle, > > bioengineer, 71.

The night sky in May

By MICHAEL J. HENDRIE ASTRONOMY CORRESPONDENT MERCURY is in the morning sky until superior conjunction on the 25th when it becomes an evening star but will be too near the Sun for observation Venus is a brilliant -4.2 magnitude evening star, not setting until shortly before midnight. Between mid-month and the 31st it crosses the main figure of Gemini to end May in line with Pollux and Castor, the three objects being almost equally spaced. Crescent Moon nearby on the 18th. Mars is in Virgo moving west-wards against the stars from night to night. Closest to the Earth on the Ist and -1.6 magnitude it fades to ·1.1 by the 31st as the distance between the two planets increases. Mars sets about 02h by the 31st. Moon to the north on the 26th. Jupiter is in Pisces and -2.1

magnitude rising by 02h by the end of May when it might be visible low in the east at dawn. Waning crescent Moon nearby on Saturn is Aries for the rest of the year but is too near the Sun for observation in May.

Uranus is in Capricornus and 5.7 magnitude, reaching a station-ary point on the 22nd. It rises at midnight by end May. Moon nearby on the 8th. Neptune is also in Capricorous and a fainter 7.9 magnitude Stationary on the 7th it rises less than an hour before Uranus. Moon nearby on the 7th. The Moon: Last quarter 8d 17h, new Moon 15d 12h, first quarter 22d 06h, full Moon 30d 07h. Moon near to Regulus in Leo on the 21st. Sunset on the 1st is at 19h 25m and sunrise is at 04h 30m and 03h 50m on the same dates. Astronomica twilight ends at 21h 55m and begins again at 02h 00m on the 1st. It lasts all night in the south (London) from May 20 until July 22 and in the north (Glasgow) from May I until early August.

As is widely known there will be a total eclipse of the Sun on the morning of August II this year, the first UK mainland total eclipse since 1927. The next is not until 2090, just before sunser! The path of totality crosses southern parts of Cornwall and Devon, Alderney, northern France and so across Europe and the Middle East to end in India. A partial solar eclipse will be visible widely on either side of this track and over the whole of the

The timing of the event will be given nearer the date, but whether or not one intends to be situated within the band of totality on eclipse day, the Sun will be partially eclipsed both before and after mid-eclipse. On the centre line of the eclipse in the West Country totality will last only two

School news

The diagram shows the brighter stars that will be above the horizon in the latitude of London at 23h (II pm) at the beginning, 22h (10 pm) in the middle, and 2lh (9 pm) at the end of the month, local mean time. At places away from the Greenwich meridian the Greenwich times at which the diagram applies are later than the above by one hour for each 15 deg west of Greenwich and earlier by a like amount if the place be east. The map should be turned so that the horizon the observer is facing (shown by the words around the circle) is at the bottom, the zenith being at the centre. Greenwich Mean Time, known to astronomers as Universal Time and expressed in the contraction of the contraction of the contraction of the contraction. 24-hour notation, is used in the accompanying notes.

will last about two hours and a sunlight. So it is only during the two minutes of totality that it is Only during the two minutes of totality is it safe to look directly at safe to look at the Sun without eve protection. At any other time it is unsafe to look directly at the Sun, except perhaps when it is very near the Sun without protecting the eyes with special filters. Then the Sun's photosphere, the bright "surface" that we see normally and which gives us daylight, is hidden by the Moon and in a clear sky it is possible to see the bright red the horizon and strongly reddened as at some sunsets. The fact that it is uncomfortable to look at the bright Sun enables us to go about our daily business; we just avoid narrow rim of the chromosphere, staring at it automatically though and sometimes a few prominences projecting from the Sun's surface. Also visible should be the much it is shining up there a good part of the time. But when something interesting is happening there is fainter and more delicate corona which may extend several times and take a chance. Do not be the Sun's diameter. This very bot and diffuse gas is normally invisi-ble to us without very special instruments, hidden by the scat-tered light from the much brighter As most of us will want to follow the partial phases of the eclipse what can be done to make this safe? It is not only the bright visible photosphere. As the sky suddenly darkens to twilight conditions the wavelengths that can damage the sight. Some filter material may dim the Sun to a comfortable level brighter stars and planets can often be seen.

During totality nothing would be seen through a filter dense of brightness but still allow danger-ous ultra-violet and infrared wavelengths through. One will not see or feel these until damage has been done. It is even more dangerous to look through any instrument that collects more radiation than the eye, for example binoculars, a telescope or a camera viewfinder unless special filters are fitted over the Sun-facing lenses. Filters should never be put just over the > eyes. Filters intended to be used with binoculars, telescopes and cameras must be obtained from a reliable source, be in good condi-tion and be used under expert There are safe ways of projecting the Sun's image on to a screen. Alternatively one can obtain one of the special safe filters that will reduce the Sun's glare to a comfortable level and screen out those invisible radiations. These can be in the form of cardboard spectacles. Next month I will eyepieces, the lenses closest to the suggest two ways of projecting the image and what to look for in obtaining suitable naked eye fil-

Luncheons

Eton College The Fellows of Eton College are pleased to announce that The Queen has approved the appointment of Dr Eric Anderson to be Provost of Eton in succession to Sir Antony Acland who will retire in the summer of the year 2000. Heathfield School, Ascot Heathfield School, founded by Miss Eleanor Beatrice Wyatt in 1899, celebrates its centenary in May. A stained glass window in the school chapel, designed and de by Patrick and John tiens, is to be dedicated at Even-song on Sunday, May 9. A Celebration Eucharist will be held at St Augustine's, Oueen's Gate, London at 2pm on Ascension Day, Thursday, May 13, Sister Veronica Ann. SSC (Ann Fellowes, at Heathfield from 1933-1940) will give an address. Centenary Fellowship Day for Old Girls will be held at Heathfield on Saturday, May 15, when a marquee lunch will be followed by Evensong conducted by the Rev Brian Pugh, Chaplain at Heathfield from 1988-1995. On Sunday, May 16, all parents have been invited to the school for Sports Day when there will be a dedication of the Foundation Stone for the indoor swimming pool complex to be built as a result of the Centenary Fund-Raising Campaign and opened in the summer of 2000.

HM Government Mr George Robertson, Secretary of State for Defence, was the host at a luncheon given by Her Majesty's Government yesterday at Lancaster House in bonour of Mr John Moore, Australian Minister for Defence. ПEX

Mr Peter Wheeler was the guest speaker the annual presidential luncheon of the Institute of Legal Executives (ILEX) held yesterday at Saddlers' Hall. Mr Paul T. Reed, president, was in the chair. Among those present were:

Annoting those present were:

The Lord Mayor of Westminster, the Master of the Rolls, Lord Clinton-Davis, Lord Hacking, Lord Thomas of Gresford, QC, Sir Nicholas Lyell, QC, MP, the Altorney General, the Solicity General, the Senior Master of the Supreme Court, Queen's Bench Division and Queen's Remembrancer, the Chief Master of the Supreme Court Tuxing Office, the Chief Chancery Master, the High Sheriff of Greater London, the Chairman of the General Council of the Bur, the President of the Law Society. The Federation of Environmental Trade Associations Sir Clement Freud was the guest speaker at the annual luncheon of the Federation of Environmental Trade Associations held vesterday at The Brewery, Chiswell Street, London, Mr Graham Garner, President of the British Refrigera-tion Association, was in the chair.

Cariton Cinb The Earl of Stockton, Mr Giles Chichester, MEP, and Mrs Angela Harvey were among the speakers at a luncheon of the Carlton Club Political Committee held yesterday at the club. Mr Simon Mabey, chairman, presided. Mr Fred Tuckman also spoke.

Mid-Atlantic Club Baron Bernard Snoy, Director of the European Bank for Reconstruc tion and Development, Belgium, Linembourg and Slovenia, was the guest of honour and speaker at a luncheon of the Mid-Atlantic Club held yesterday at Dartmouth House. Sir Peter Marshall, Chairman of the Joint Commonwealth Societies Council, presided.

Antiquaries of London

The following have been elected officers of the Society of Antiquares of London: President, Mr S.S. Jervis; Treasur er, Dr D.F. Renn; Director, Mr A.G. MacGregor; Secretary, Mrs S.M. Youngs.

The Society Medal has been awarded to Mr Howell Harris Hughes and the Frend Medal to Dr Marlia Mango.

Anniversaries

BIRTHS: John Arbuthnot, physician, Arbuthnott, Kincardineshire, 1667; Sir James Brooke, Rajah of Sarawak 1841-68, Benares, 1803; Thomas Trollope, writer, Bloomsbury, 1810; Alexander II, Tsar of Russia 1855-81, St Petersburg, 1818; William Randolph Hearst, newspaper proprietor, San Francisco, 1865; Sir Thomas Beecham, conductor, St Helens, Lancashire, 1879; Sir Malcolm Sargent, conductor. Ashford, Kent, 1895; Duke Ellington, pianist and band-leader, Washington, 1899; Michi-nomiya Hirohito, Emperor of Japan 1926-89, Tokyo, 1901. DEATHS: John Cleveland, Royal st poet, London, 1658; Sir Alfred Hitchcock, film director-producer, Los Angeles, 1980.

Women were granted permission to sit examinations at Oxford, 1885. A telephone link was established between Britain and Australia. British Aerospace was founded.

Meeting

Atlantic Council
Mr Alan Lee Williams, Director of the Atlantic Council of the United Kingdom, was the speaker at a meeting of the Atlantic Treaty Association held yesterday at Atlan-tic House. Members of the Diplomatic Corps and fellows and members of the council were night at Speaker's House in hon-our of Mr Ivar Hansen, Speaker of the Folketing. The Danish Ambassador was present. The other guests were:

Dinners

gnests were:

Mr Tom Clarke, MP, Mrs Irene Adams, MP, Mrs Jacke Ballard, MP, Mr Nessens, MP, Mrs Beage, MP, Mrs Beage, MP, Mr Cleve Beage, MP, Viscoomi Craigavon, Mr Jim Dowd, MP, Mr Neil Gernard, MP, Mr Strasopher Gill, MP, Mr Nick Harvey, MP, Sir Alan Haselburst, MP, Miss Anne McIntssh, MP, Dr Nick Palmer, MP, Mrs Joan Raddock, MP, Miss Debra Shipley, MP, Mr Alan Simpson, MP, Miss Bohr, Mr Man Singson, MP, Miss Rachel Squire, MP, Mr David Winnick, MP, Mr Shicholas Winterton, MP, Mr Okicholas Winterton, MP, Mr Okicholas Winterton, MP, Mr Oke Stig Andersea, Mr Jerenny Cresswell, Mrs Benie Dalsback, Mr William McKay, Miss Sarah Riley, Mrs Mayamn Sharr, Mr Jers Adser Spensen, Mr Robert Wilson, Canon Robert Wright and Mr Nicolas Bevan.

Air Chief Marshal Sir Richard Johns, Chief of the Air Staff, presided at a dinner given by the Air Force Board Standing Committee last night at RAF Bentley Priory to mark the retirement of the Air Officer Commanding-in-Chief Headquarters Strike Command, Air Chief Marshal Sir John Allison, and Air Marshal Sir Colin Terry, Air Member for Logistics. Lady Allison, Lady Terry and Air Mar-shals and their ladies were among those present.

Foundation for Science and Technology Lord Jenkin of Roding, Chairman of the Council of the Foundation for Science and Technology, presided at a lecture and dinner discussion held at the Royal Society last night. Lord Tombs, Mr Peter Beck and Professor John Durant were the speakers.

Forthcoming marriages and Miss C.J. Longfield

The engagement is announced

between James, son of the late Dr

James Gilmour and of Mrs

Gilmour, of Colwall, Hereford and Worcester, and Charlotte, youngest daughter of Brigadier and Mrs

Desmond Longfield, of Paccombe

Farm House, Downton, Salisbury,

The engagement is announced

between Adam, son of Mr Warwick

Greville-Collins, of Rouisn.

France, and the late Mrs Patricia

Greville-Collins, and Henrietta daughter of Mr and Mrs Guy

(Podge) Greaves, of Esher, Surrey.

The marriage will take place to

Pyrford, Surrey. on June 19, 1999,

of Matthew, son of Dr and Mrs

Andrew Griffiths, of Chiswick,

London, and Charlotte Anne, daughter of Mr and Mrs lan

The engagement is announced between Scott. elder son of Mr and Mrs CJ Leonard-Morgan, of Bromley, Kent, and Samantha, daughter of Mrs Bea Nash, of Cobham, Surrey.

The engagement is announced

between Charles, elder son of Mr and Mrs W.D. Moyle, of Ombersley, Worcestershire, and Joanna, younger daughter of Lieutenant Colonel A.W. Franklin, of Charlton,

The engagement is announced between Lord Sudeley, of Marylebone. London, and Mrs

Margarita Kellett, of Kingsclere,

The marriage took place on Saturday,

April 24, 1999, at St Cuthbert's between Mr Charles Boyd, younger son of Mr and Mrs David Boyd, of Haslemere, Surrey, and Miss Jill

Percy, elder daughter of Professor and Mrs Ian Percy, of Edinburgh. The Rev Tom Cuthell officiated.

Church, Edinburgh,

Mr A.W. Greville-Collins

and Miss H.C. Greaves

Mr M. Griffiths

Fidler, of Pyrford.

and Miss S. Nash

Mr S. Leonard-Morgan

Mr C.W. Moyle and Miss J.C. Franklin

Lord Sudeley

and Mrs M. Kellett

Marriage

Mr C.D.M. Boyd and Miss J.S. Percy

Parish

and Miss C.A. Fidler

Mr A.R. Clark and Miss L. Bingham

The engagement is announced between Andrew, son of Mr and Mrs Robin Clark, of Compton Bassett. Wiltshire, and Lara, youngest daughter of Mr and Mrs Charles Bingham, of Tavistock.

Dr I.T. Cook and Miss I.V. Gravett

The engagement is announced between lan Taylor, elder son of Mr and Mrs W.T. Cook, of Stannington. Sheffield, South Yorkshire, and Isabel Vérornique, younger daughter of Mr and Mrs R.I. Gravett, of Woking, Surrey.

Viscount Cranley and Miss L. Jones-Fenleigh

The engagement is announced between Rupert, son of the Earl and Countess of Onslow, of Temple Court, Clandon Park, and Leigh. eldest daughter of Mrs Patricia Jones-Penleigh, of Oakham, Rutland, and the late Edward James Jones-Fenleigh.

Mr A.R. Cross and Miss F.A. Miller Mundy The engagement is armounced between Andrew, only son of Mr and Mrs Harold Cross, of Waipukerau, New Zealand, and Flora, daughter of Mr Andrew Miller Mundy and Mrs Bridget Miller Mundy, of Harris, Western Isles. Dr J.D. Cundall and Miss J.M. Kent The engagement is announced between Jeremy, son of Mr John Cundall, of Sherburn, and Mrs Zeila Cundall, of Acklam, North Yorkshire, and Jane, daughter of Mr John Kent and Mrs Mary Kent, of Stafford.

Mr J.A. Gardner and Miss H.R. Holmes Daykin The engagement is announced between Jed Alan Gardner, of East Sussex, and Helena Ruth Holmes

Daykin, of Yorkshire, both now of Mr M.J.H. Gault and Miss A.E. Wherry The engagement is announced between Marcus, eldest son of Mr and Mrs Jonathan Gault, of Heathfield, East Sussex, and Amy. daughter of Mr and Mrs James Wherry, of Market Deeping, Lincolnshire. Mr D.J. Henness and Miss A.J.C. Hall The engagement is announced between Dominic, son of Mr and Mrs John Hennessy, of Wokingham, Berkshire, and Antonia, vounger daughter of Captain and Mrs John Hall, of Long Sutton, Somerset.

Shipwrights' Company

The Speaker gave a dinner last The following have been elected officers of the Shipwrights Compamy for the ensuing year:

Prime Warden, Mr Peter Tudball; Renter Warden, Dr T. John Parker; Third Warden, Vice-Admiral Sir James Weatherall; Fourth War-den, Mr David Cobb; Fifth Warden. Mr Alastair Farley. Company of World

Traders

The following have been elected officers of the Company of World Traders for the ensuing year: Master, Alderman Sir Roger Corle Senior Warden, Miss Susan Hugh-es: Junior Warden, Mr Bryan

University news

Leiterster The following will receive honorary degrees from Leicester University in July: Mr Tim Appleton, Master of Science:

Professor Dame Gillian Beer, Doctor of Letters: Dr Philip Campbell, Doctor of Dr Ken Edwards, Doctor of Laws:

Professor Fred Leckie, Doctor of Science: Mr Chris Moon, Master of Laws; Professor Sir Keith Peters, FRS,

Doctor of Science; Mr Raymond Seitz, Doctor of Sir Richard Sykes, FRS, Doctor of Science; Professor Sir Tony Wrigley, FBA. Doctor of Letters.

BMDS: 0171 680 6880 PRIVATE: 0171 481 4000

PERSONAL COLUMN

TRADE; 0171 481 1982 FAX: 0171 481 9313

"My food," Jesus said to them, "is to obey the will of the one who sent me and to finish the work he gave me to do." John 4.34 (GNB).

BIRTHS CHERRUY-On April 2nd, Good Friday, in France, to Amanda (née Brutton) and Franck, a son, Loick James, a brother for Laura and Lie

COE - On April 24th at The Portland Hospital, to Theresa Malin and William, a daughter, COILEY - On 24th April, to

Claire (née Woodrow) and David, a daughter, Sophi COPE - On 24th April 1999 at The Rosie Hospital, Cambridge, to Caroline

(née Swinburne) and

DE MEESTER - On April 25th at The Portland Hospital, to Angeline (née Burne) and Charles, a son, Chester Floris, a brother for Dalsy

GOW - On Monday April 26th, to Sarah (née Amos)

GOZZER - On 27th April 1999

at The Royal Shrewsbury Hospital, to Corinne (ose Sheppard) and Andrew, a

BIRTHS LOCKHART – On April 25th, 1999, to Lucy (née Lloyd) and Crispin, a son, Oliver MARDMENT - On April 25th 1999, to Louise (oée Harry Thomas) and Neil, a son, James Eric Harry.

MAYES - On April 26th 1939, to Laura (née Buchanan) and James, a son, Angus Alexander, a brother for

NEWMAN - On March 31st at Lewisham Hospital, to Anne (née Czarnowski) and Peter, a daughter, Victoria Anne, a sister for Longhes PULLEN-FREHICH - On April 26th at The Portland Hospital, to Karli Pullen and Michael Freilich, a aon. Falix Augustus, a SERPEN - On April 20th at The Portland Hospital, to Sensu (née Ciliz) and Emre, a daughter, Ria and a son, Hakan.

SINGH - On April 26th at The Portland Hospital, to Monits and Ranlii, a daughter, Ruhika, a sister for Rajvir.

vun SCHMIDT - On April 22nd to Sarah (née Fatchen) and Robin, a beautiful daughter, Isabella Claire. NESTERN-KAYE - On 27th April 1999, to Katy (née Armitage) and Nick, a son George Laurence, a brother for Jemima.

WOLRIGE GORDON - On 21st April 1999, to Sarah (née Edwarda) and Patrick, a son, Robert Patrick. DEATHS

> April, aged 72 at home. Dearly loved husband, father, stepfather, grandfather. Crems private. Service of private. Service of Thanksgiving in Chelford Parish Church on Friday 7th May at 2.45pm. No flowers please. Donations if desired to Cancer Research, c/o J A Whiston King Street, Knutsford, WA16 6DW. URGESS - Dennis Edward completed a happy life on St Georges Day, 23rd April 1999. Beloved husband of Gillis and a staunch friend, he died aged 67 after a brief illness borne with courage. Funeral has taken place. He will be greatly missed.

COLEMAN - Margaret, beloved wifa of Noel Coleman, loving mot belowed wife of Noel Coleman, loving mother to Rupert, Camilla and Jolyon Bates and adoring grandmother to Angharad Matilda. Bonella, Morgan and Atalants, died after a long illness on 27th April 1999. Fuperal Service at Putney Vale Crematorium oo Tuesday 4th May at Putney Vale Crematorium on Tuesday 4th May at 2.15pm. Flowers to Mears and Cotteriil, 167-169
Menton Road,
Wandsworth, SW18 5EF.
Donations to the P.S.P.
Association, The Old Road,
Road, Westernham

Rectory, Wappenham, Towcester, NN12 8SQ.

DEATHS

Walker peacefully at home on April 23rd aged 58. Much loved husband of Anthes and father of Edward, Amanda, Henrietta and stapfather of Neil and Angus. Funeral on Monday May 10th at East Pennard Church, Shepton Mallet, Somerset at 3 pm. Family flowers only. Donations If desired for the Countrysida Alilance or the British Heart Foundation to Forsey & Son F/D, 28 High Street, Butleigh, Glastonbury, Somerset.

DRAKE - On 27th April 1999 suddenly and peacefully at home Capt. Denis J.E. of Hurst, Berkshire. Friend and husband of Annette, much loved father of Tim and Rupert, Rest in peac Funeral arrangements c R. Aubrey Milles & Sons Funeral Directors, Wokingham, (0118) 979 7004.

DYSON - Frederick George on Sunday April 28th 1899 at Eastbourne Hospital. Funeral at Eastbourne Crematorium on Wednesday May 5th at 3pm. Family flowers only but donations if desired to RNLI.

To place death notices, acknowledgements or notices please call 0171 680 6880

EDWARDS - Dr John Ffoulkes peacefully at home on 22nd April 1999, in his 92nd year. He will be sadily missed by Norman Erica, Paul, Viv and Winnie and their families.
Frozers services to be held. Winnie and their families. Funeral service to be held at Oxford Crematorium. on Thursday 29th April at 3.00pm. Floral tributes and enquiries to R & H Barker, 40 Wantage Road, Didcot. 01235 510033.

FRASER - Colonel James Andrew Fraser, M.C., suddenly but peacefully at Raigmore Hospital, Inverness on Tuesday 27th April 1998, much loved husband of Pamela and loving father and husband of Pamela and loving father and grandiather. Funeral service and interment at St Ninian's Episcopalian Church, Glemnquhart on Tuesday 4th May 1999 at 2 pm. Family flowers only. Donations if desired at transfer a Medical Bonations it desired at service for Highland Hospice or forwarded to the Funeral Directors: John Fraser & Son, 17/29 Chapel Street, Inverness. Chapel Street, Inverness, GIL-Rachel Lucy, dearly loved daughter of David and Joy, died after a tragic accident on April 22nd aged 34, Private cremation at Mortlake Crematorium 11.00em on Thursday May 6th followed by a Service of Thanksgiving at Richmond Parish Church, 12 noon, Family flowers

unly, Donations if desired to The Shooting Star Trust Appeal for a proposed

Appeal for a proposed childrens hospics. Both c/o
T H Sanders & Sons, 28-30
Kew Road, Richmond TW9 2NA.

HICKE - On 28th April.

Brigadiar William Shamus
Francis OBE, late Kingk Own Yorkshire Light
Infantry of Slevyre, Terryglass, Co. Tipperary, pescalully aged 91 years.
Beloved husband of Pauline and much loved father of William, Jane and A.G. and grandfather of Christopher, Martin,
James and Rose. Devotedly cered for at Eingrove Nursing Home, Birr.
Funeral at Terryglass at 11am on Saturday lat May.
No flowers. Donations if wished to the Red Cross.

wished to the Red Cross. R.I.P. APP-Thomas Henry, on 26th April pencefully at home aged 72 after a brave home aged 72 after a brave struggle with Motor Neurone Disease and finally a stroke. Darling husband of Sue and touch loved father of Stephen, Kate and Joel and Grandpa of James and George. Funeral at St. Brides, Fleet Street, London at 12 noon on

Brides, Fleet Street, London at 12 noon on Friday 7th May followed by reception at St Brides Institute, private family cremation. Family flower only, but donations if desired, to MND Association, PO Box 246,
Northampton NN1 2PR.

Miles-WATSON - Sir Michael. Suddenly in hospital on 27th April 1999. Much loved father and grandfather. A service of Thankegiving will be held at Grazeley Parish Church on Friday May 7th at 2.30pm. Family Bowers only. Donations to MacMillan Nurses c/o Geoffrey Church & Co. Geoffrey Church & Co. Tadley. Tel 0118 981 4420.

ROGERS - Tony MBE. Died suddenly on Monday. April 26th, 1993, aged 63. Will be loved always by hi wife Dawn, degrest girls Kylie and Jules, and greatly missed. Funeral at St Mildred's Church, Tenterden, Kent on Friday May 7th at 1 pm.
Donations in lieu of flowers to Kent Cricket Board (Youth Board (Youter Development Scheme) or British Diahatic Association c/o T.W. Fuggle & Son, 20 Ashiord Road, Teaterden, Kent TN30 SQU. Malcolm Sandeman, son of the late Major M C Sandeman. The Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders, and Mrs H M Sandeman. Much loved uncle and grast uncle and irlend and counsellor to many. Funeral zervice at All Saints Church, Babhacombe, at 12 noon on Friday 7th May, followed by interment at St Mary's Church, Kingskerswell, Family Kingskerswell, Family flowers only. Donations, if desired, for the RNLI, Torbay Branch, may be sent to Maunders Funeral Service, 27 Well Street, Paignton, Devon, May he wast in beace.

ANDEMAN - On April 22nd 1999, peacafully at Torbay Hospital, the Revend Canon Arthur Alastair Malcolm Sandeman, son of

SMITH-CARRESTON - On April 27th 1999 peacefully in hospital Philip SmithCarington aged 73 years.
The beloved Brother of John and Norsen, adored Uncle of Shions, loved and respected Great-Uncle of Alexander and Petrins.
Private inmity funeral.
Service of Thanksgiving in London to be announced

SUTCH - Barbara on 27th
April of Overbury House, Norfolk, wife of the into Cecil Moore, mother to Pamela and Richard, grandmother of Tanya and David, Funeral Service on Friday 30th April at 9.30am at St Faiths
Crematorium, Family ematerium. Family wers only but donat in iteu for R.N.L.I. may be seat to Broadland Funeral Services, 102 Norwich Road, Wroxham, Norwich NR12 SRY.

STALLYBRASS - Margaret
Ross (Margo) née Bigland.
On April 28th pescalully to her 87th year at Kings College Hospital. Beloved wife of Bill, mother of Andrew and Peter and mother-in-law of Eliane and Annie. Family cremation at 11.00am
Saturday May 1st at West
Norwood Crematorium.
Memorial Service same day at 2.00pto at All Saints.
Church, Rosendele Road, West Dutwich. Flowers to James W Constabla F/D, 55 Honor Ogk Park, Forest
Hill, London SE23 1EA

Hill, London SE23 1EA. Tel: 0181 291 0811.

STOODLEY - Mary Ellen (née Thomas, 'Nell'). Much loved by son, Brian and Monica and heloved gran of Katy, Penny, Charity, Angharad and Christabel died peacefully on April 25th aged 98. Funeral Service: 2 pto Tuesday May 4th at St Michael and All Angels Church, Berwick. Donations to R.N.L.I. or flowers to Hatoe & Co.,

TOOBY - Rits, peacefully 21st April. Greatly loved and missed by her extensive fen club. Funeral 3.15pm, 10th May, Reeding Crematorium. No flowers please. Donations. Amnesty International. WHITE - Françoise, formerly Rigby, on April 26th 1999 peacefully at Oxford Besumont Nursing Home. Funeral Directors Resves and Pain, tel 01865 242529.

WANTED

TICKETS FOR SALE

Ghis, RRM, All Pop. Ibaco Engley & Sport. 0171 536 0781 ALL TICKETS ENGLAND Y SWEDEN

PREMIERSHIP SOCCER
WINNELEDON DEBS CHAND PRIXS, R ASCOT PHANTOM, MANA MA ETC 0171 283 4040 CREDIT CARD HOTLINE

GEOFFRI WIGODE

in the state of $\underline{\mathbf{x}} = \underbrace{\mathbf{x}}_{i} \cdot \underbrace{\mathbf{x}}_{i} \cdot \underbrace{\mathbf{x}}_{i} \cdot \underbrace{\mathbf{x}}_{i}$ and the second

A .20042.77

-- " ..." ..."

mount. A

......

2000-01-25

1.

No table (Section

mouth a se

And Arthurson

A . / 1/2

Transfer of

L. David market in 5 7 11.1 100 Acres 1 Sec. 2 39. 40 that in 1-7-40 in he as 100-2002

Takan ka Land a see ago Was a series THE CHANGE All and only the Caron and an ASS 2007 as web as b remained a British res men, day TOTAL STREET the actions reference is Sanirda n of that day's

.2 552

Strongs.

1.00

er national

-: Nis

Som where

RETS FOR NALE

OR SALE

PERS

Unnec

His wi

clong with a

FLATSHARE SHARE-AFIAT LES A pro-saure squary 1 floys; Es Am 1034 0271 464 413 W2/Lant Gate, 2 mins Park Las hope may 57 share 2 bed, 2 beth G35pw Teb C171 407 9

SITUATIONS WANTED

ANNOUNCEMEN

COU THE THE CHIPPE Patrick series (Court of Mrs I Norman, Court PO Box 495, VI Tel: Olf I H

The second of th mingen big gan i neiten So. gig alle erenne gen b

To place death notices, acknowledgements or notices

please call 0171 680 6880

MAJOR-GENERAL J. M. H. LEWIS

Major-General J. M. H. Lewis, CBE, wartime sapper and staff officer, died on March 6 aged 79. He was born on April 5, 1919.

AFTER a varied war, in which he took part in the planning of Chindit operations in Burma, Mike Lewis found himself in the early 1950s involved in the largest building project ever undertaken by the British Army. This was the construction in Germany of a new headquarters for Northern Army Group at Rheindalen, near Mönchengladbach. Joint Headquarters — JHQ for short - was designed to accommo-date not only units of the Bridsh Army of the Rhine, but also German and Dutch elements of the army group. Since Germany was the most important Cold War posting for the British Army, it required the construction of what amounted to a small town to house 9,000 families of serving military personnel. When it was completed. to drive through the barrier at plain into an English small town atmosphere, complete with red-brick houses, familiarly named streets, shops and neatly trimmed civic flowerbeds.

The site at Rheindalen had been virgin woodland at the end of 1952 when work began, yet the whole complex was ready by July 1954. During these two years Lewis was principal staff officer to the chief engineer in charge of the venture. Colonel Harry Grattan, who had rebuilt Quetta after the earthquake of 1935. Lewis was appointed OBE for his work on the project.
John Michael Hardwicke Lewis

was the son of Brigadier Sir Clinton Lewis, a sapper who became Surveyor-General of India. He went from Oundle to the Royal Military Academy, Woolwich, from where he was commissioned into the Royal Engineers in 1939.

In 1940, being a highly proficient skier, he resigned his commission to serve as a guardsman with the Rheindalen was to pass out of the countryside of the Lower Rhine special unit in which all members had to be able to fight on skis. It was raised to support the Finnish Army against the Soviet Union which had invaded Finland in November 1939. But before the unit could sail the Finns had been deleated and Lewis returned to the life of a supper officer. Later in 1940 he joined the 18th Division, which was sent to Singapore. In February 1942, a few days before the fall of Singapore, he was one of the few selected to escape in the very limited shipping available. Selection was based on the potential usefulness of the individuals to the war effort elsewhere.

After a hazardous journey via Sumaira and Java, with the Japanese never far behind, the party requisitioned a flat-bottomed Chinese river steamer and with a scratch crew set off for Ceylon. They arrived safely despite three near-misses by Japanese torpedoes. Lewis was next sent to India to Wingate's Chindit headquarters.

There, and later in Burma, he was involved in planning special forces operations until the war ended. After the construction of JHQ in Germany he served as second in command of 22 Engineers Regiment in Tripoli, after which he had two years as Commander Royal Engineers in Gibraltar. There, helped by his wife Barbara, he devoted his spare time to the historic library, which had been founded by Pitt the Younger, and is housed in a fine Georgian building. Neglect had led to serious deterioration of valuable books, and Lewis set about getting the library into good order and arranged the installation of air-conditioning to prevent further damage.

Among his later jobs were two years on the international military staff of Nato, based in the Pentagon, which gave him an insight into the differences in the approach to defence problems taken by the Americans, French, Germans and other Nato allies. His final appointment was as Assistant Chief of Staff (Intelligence) at SHAPE. There, in the words of a contemporary. "He managed the usual oghtrope of relacions with the Americans and Canadians on the one hand, and the European members on the other, with singular skill and grace." He had been advanced to CBE in 1970 and retired in 1975.

In retirement Lewis devoted himself to his interest in art, which stemmed from his coming from a family which had produced five generations of professional arrists. He published three books: Michiel Marieschi: Venetian Artist (1967): J. F. Lewis, RA, 1805-1876 (1978) and The Lewis Family. Art and Travel (1992).

The study of J. F. Lewis led to his being invited to address the Royal Academy. He was also a regular lecturer for the National Association of Decorative and Fine Arts Sociedes From time to time too. his views were sought by auction houses and by scholars.

Mike Lewis is survived by his wife Barbara, and three sons.

GEOFFREY WIGODER

Geoffrey Wigoder, author and encyclopaedist, died in Jerusalem on April 9 aged 76. He was born in Leeds on August 3, 1922.

 * de.

· · · · · · · · i hele

Marriage

Jigitraici.

. ംനാണ് ശ്രീ

1.1.27

4 ompani

GEOFFREY WIGODER was part of the small Anglo-Jewish elile who went to the newly founded state of Israel in the late 1940s to help to shape its intellectual and professional life. In Jerusalem he teamed up with his Oxford mentor, the Anglo-Jewish historian Cecil Roth, to make his mark as an encyclopaedist. They pro-duced the one-volume, 2,000page New Standard Jewish Encyclopaedia, which remains an indispensable companion for students of the Holy Land. Ten years later. in 1966, they set to work on the 16-volume Encyclopaedia Judaica, one of the major Jewish cultural achievements of this century. In each case Wigoder started as Roth's deputy, but on his death in 1970 he took over as editor-in-chief. For the Encyclopaedia Judaica he scoured the world for experts oo the most abstruse reaches of Jewisb learning. He marshalled an army of 1.800 contributors who ranged from a rabbi in Puerto Rico to a member of the Bulgarian Academy of Sciences in Sofia. The Encyclopaedia is on the shelves of every academic and many a suburban and provincial general library.

He came well primed to the task. Geoffrey Bernard Wigoder was the son of a dental surgeon in Leeds, a first-generation immigrant from Lithuania. He went to Leeds Grammar School, and moved from there to study medieval Jewish history at Trinity College Dublin. After gaining his MA, he went on to Oxford lo do a

With that he joined the Jewish Theological Seminary. the conservative rabbinic training college in New York. The establishment of the state of Israel in 1948 and his chance meeting at the seminary at about that time with a young lady called Devorah Mc-Dwyer cut short his ambioon to be a rabbi.

After marriage the couple settled in Jerusalem where Wigoder's first job was in the English department of the Israel Broadcasting Corporation. He soon took charge of all its overseas operations, became a BBC correspondent and wrote for The Yorkshire

To supplement his salary. Wigoder joined the Hebrew University in Jerusalem and set up its oral history department, as well as becoming director of Israel's Film Archive on Mount Scopus (his personal collection of films and videos ran into thousands).

After the Encyclopaedia was published, he went on writing scholarly works, such as Jewish Art and Civilisation, The Story of the Synagogue and Jewish Christian Relations in World War II. as well as newspaper columns for The Yorkshire Post, The Jerusalem Post and many others. He also helped to found the Israel Diaspora Museum in Tel Aviv.

In his late sixties he ducked retirement and set out to carve a new career for himself in Christian-Jewish relations. He was a regular contributor to the Catholic weekly The Tablet, and only last year he gave the Cardinal Bea Lecture in London.

As a companion he was fun as well as formidable. And he remained at heart an expat Briton, reading The Times every day, sending cuttings from it back home to his sister, the actress Theima Ruby, and refusing to go bed on a Saturday night without news of that day's result from Leeds United. His wife survives him, along with two sons.

AL HIRT

April 27 aged 76. He was born on November 7, 1922. ike his fellow-horn player Harry James.

Al Hirt, trumpeter, died on

Al Hirt was a formidable and versatile technician who found a lucrative niche in showbusiness. Relucant even to accept the label of jazz musician, he preferred to describe himself as a "pop commercial" performer. Based in his native New Orleans, he remained a talismanic figure in "Dixieland" jazz, a style which continues to attract a huge following without much in the way of media coverage.
His club, Bourbon St South, was for many years one of the city's landmarks. Hirt played for thousands of visitors intent on discovering something of the roots of the Big Easy's musical heritage. When he pulled down the shutters for the last time in 1983, blaming the rising crime rate for a fall in the number of tourists, he found himself at the centre of controversy, and subsequently apologised to the mayor over the tone of his remarks. Nevertheless, he continued to perform at venues in the French Quarter, and when Pope John Paul II visited the city four years later, it fell to Hirt to play Ave Maria in his honour.

The son of a policeman. Alois Maxwell Hirt studied at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, a grounding which stood him in good stead in later years, when he recorded a Haydn Trumpet Concerto with Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra.

Nicknamed "Jumbo", he was a physically imposing individual. His powerful attack is said to have been the result of learning to play a pawnshop trumpet which had been damaged during makeshift repairs and which as a result required exceptional lung power.

An admirer of Harry James and Roy Eldridge, Hirt played in swing bands after serving in the Army. He went on to work with Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey and Ray McKinley, among others, before deciding to return to New Orleans. Traditional jazz was enjoying a revival at this point, and along with the clarinettist Pete

Al Hirt performing at a music festival in Kansas City in 1963

Fountain, Hirt began to build a strong following. In the early years, however, he and Fountain made ends meet by taking day jobs as exterminators with the A&M pest control company. Their partnership continued on and off for decades after Fountain settled into his own club at the Hilton. Hirt's transition to national fame at the end of the Fifties included appearances on the immensely popular Lawrence Welk Show on TV and regular bookings in the high-paying lounges of Las Vegas. By 1961 he was performing at the inauguradon of President Kennedy. He enjoyed spectacular sales as a solo artist on discs such as Horn A-Plenty, and was also regularly paired with performers as varied as Ann-Margret. Honey in the Horn, released in 1963, reached No 3 in Billboard's album charts that year. His debut at Carnegie Hall two years later yielded another successful recording, hy which time he had also veered towards the country market with his hit Java. In 1970 he suffered a lip injury - always a serious when he was apparently struck by a brick during a Mardi Gras parade. It was some months before his playing returned in all its vigour.

Kalaga C79 ali jama propin (all) 5 duors £109 St Wagon (all) £139 Top Cara 0171 493 0666

Defiantly unfashionable, Hirt had an indirect hand in nurturing what has become the most famous dynasty in jazz - the Marsalis clan of New Orleans. The pianist Ellis Marsalis was a member of Hirt's band in the Sixties. and it was during an engage-meni at Bourbon St South that Hirt - seated at a table with two greats, Miles Davis and Clark Terry — gave Marsalis's young son, Wynton, his first trumpet. Wynton Marsalis later recalled that Davis told Hirt: "Don't give it to him. Trumpet's too difficult an instrument for him to learn."

Hirt and his first wife, the late Mary Patureau Hirt, had eight children. He leaves a problem for a trumpeter widow, Beverly.

ROLAND HUNT

Roland Hunt, CMG, diplomat, died on March 24 aged 83. He was born on March 19, 1916.

ROLAND HUNT'S career spanned the turbulent period of the ending of the British Empire and the beginning of the Commonwealth. He served in many parts of the world, and his experiences ranged from trying to prevent the island of Anguilla from breaking away from St Kitts and Nevis to commentating on cricket in Pakistan.

Roland Charles Cohn Hunt was born in his grandparents' Highgate house, shortly after his father's capture on the Western Front. He and his two brothers were brought up in an austere Oxford home where his mother ran a very tight ship; even her knitted socks could be found stored and labelled ('Roland 1925'). After the war, his father became an inspector of schools in Oxfordshire.

The Hunt boys were educated at the Dragon School, where Roland revelled in classics, cricket, music and acting: as Laeries he scored an unscripted victory over Hamlet when the graveside fight led to the Prince's retirement with a bloody nose. He went on to Rugby with a scholarship, continued to act, and toured Scandinavia in Shakespeare. He then won a scholarship to The Queen's College, Oxford, where his curly hair moved one elderly don to regret that Hunt was not a girl.

In 1938 Hunt joined the Indian Civil Service, then spending a year on "Empire Studies at Oxford, which encompassed horse-riding in the Parks, but no political education beyond talk about troublemakers hoping for inde-pendence. Hunt realised that a career in India was likely to be brief, and when war broke out he applied to join up hin was told that governing India was more important. Accordingly he was shipped out, followed in a highly irregular manner by his wife Pauline, whom he had married that September.

His career in India was indeed foreshortened, lasting until 1947. He enjoyed his spell at the hill station Coonoor where the ogers still roamed, though his work as a collector meant sometimes going down into gardens to collect the taxes hidden in holes in the ground. But by 1946-47, Hunt was in the Secretariat in Madras, hving in a spacious house overlooking the Adyar River and trying to ensure that the supply failures which had caused the great famine were not repeated.

Leaving India, he entered the Commonwealth Relations Office and was sent to South Africa, where he helped to negociate the Simonstown Treaty, which secured collaboradon between Britain and South Africa after the withdrawal of the Royal Navy from its base there. In his final report home in 1955, he forecast that the apartheid regime would not survive for long. Malaya was one of the few

Commonwealth countries to gain independence in the 1950s. As Deputy High Commissioner there. Hunt struck up such a good relationship with the Prime Minister. Tunku Abdul Rahman, that when Benjamin Britten's entry to the competition for a new national anthem arrived, the Tunku descended upon his cottage and insisted that Hunt play it on the piano.

Agreeing that it would not do, they tentatively proposed some modifications and returned the score to Britten. No more was heard, and a local dance tune was chosen in 1962 Hunt returned to Pakistan as Deputy High Commissioner, working partic ularly with British companies involved in civil engineering projects, and trying to ease Indo-Pakistan relations, which blew up into another war in 1965.

In that year he became High Commissioner in Uganda, where relations between the Prime Minister, Milton Obote, and the Kabaka of Buganda - "King Freddie" were dangerously tense. Unfortunately, the Kabaka made a public visit to the High Commissioner's residence to appeal for Briosh succour for his regime, making it seem that Hunt supported his cause. As a result the Kabaka was exiled to Britain, where he died after completing his memoir The Desecration of My Kingdom. On his return to Whitehall in 1967, having been appointed CMG. Hunt worked on what were then less controversial issues, such as Caribbean banana quotas and relations between the Falkland Islands and Argentina.

He was made High Commissioner in Trinidad in 1970, and enjoyed a peaceful period in this final posting until 1973 He and his wife had a special way of hosting parties anywhere in the world, usually with music and acting games. and preferably coinciding with the Oxford and Cambridge Boat Race.

His wife died in 1989. He is survived by three sons and two daughters.

PERSONAL COLUMN

	TICKETS FOR SALE	FLATSHARE	ANNOUNCEMENTS	FLIGHTS DIRECTORY
		SHARE-A-FLAT Lord A prof. flat-	RELIABLE Hunny requested for our	Datastia
. • ′	CHAPEST IN LONDON Phaseom,	SHARE-A-LAI LEL A prot. 1-10.	two boys (6 years and 15
	Chicago, Salgon. All pop & sport. We deliver. 0171 930 5686	share agency. 1 Boyal Exchange Ave. 8CSV 0171 464 4120	months) in Germany, in the Ma-	Dights for ATOL ASTA Tel 01626 382300
- .			nich ares (Lake Stamberg). Ex- perionce and references are re-	01626 382500
	the state of the s	white and the 2 mins Take &	quired as well as reliability an sophistication. In desiring with ENGLAND V Sweden, URFA Cham-	Wi2/Lanc Gata. 2 mins Tube & Park. Lux hage new F/F first to chara. 2 bed. 2 beth (see).	children was are affectionate.
•	W/Cup, Cricket W/Cup, Asout, All	gara 2 bed, 2 beth (wee), 6286pm. Tek 0171 402 9384.	children you are affectionate, caring and resolute at the tame	ANNOUNCEMENTS
	plone Langue Pinni, Rughy W/Cup, Cricket W/Cup, Acout, All Gennd Prix. Lion King, Wimble-	E20000. THE OLF 1 402 730 L	time. Your faceign languages in-	ANNOUNCEMENTS
	don Dobs, Major sporting events, theatre 0171 394 8263 CCs.		time. Your faceign languages in- chate Garman, possibly French. You are independent in terms of time and flexibility and accum-time and flexibility and accom-
	OFFICIAL Wimbledon Tennis		pany the family while travelling. Please respond to box ac. 6073
-	Championships Debeuture sents, available 7al 0171 394 8283	SITUATIONS
		WANTED		DXPD
			FLIGHTS	TIDO
	FOR SALE	20 YEAR OLD Male student moods	DIRECTORY	URG
	FOR SALE	work to Portugal Good with chil-	DAGGOTONI work to Fortugal Good with chil- dren, hard working, polite and willing by deputy head boy of		}
		public school requires 4 weeks		NE
•	A MITHUATE Newspaper Original	work in Fortugal to assist with Fortugates degree at Newcastle	COSTCUTTERS on Dights & hole to
•	Seperally presented. Freephone 0800 906609.	University Summer 99, If you	tions. Diplomat Turvel Services
-		University, Summer 99, If you can help please relephone 0115 950 7800 for more details.	Principa, USA P most destina- tions. Diplomat Travel Services Leds 0171 720 2201. ARTA 25703 IATA ATOL 1385	The land of the la
1		950 7500 for more decision.	Zaros Interpretation	If you have manageria
•	Park, new stadium, best location Tal 01222 709637 Fex 01446			let REACH find you a
	Tel 01222 709637 Fez 01446			part-time, expenses-only
1	700662	ANNOUNCEMENTS		close
		ANTOONODE		People like you are un
	THE THEES - 1791 - 1999 other ti-			voluntary organisatio
٠.	ties available. Ready for recess-	The state of the s		Volumery organisation
• •	tation - also Sandays' Bemoun- ber When 0181 763 6363 or	The second secon		including Scotland, V
	Call Free 0500 520000	THE PROPERTY OF	GOOTLY III	Why not talk to one of or
		COURT 9	SOCIAL	this free volunteer place
	YORK, PENNANT, state, limestone	MI	CONT AND MANDEACES
	& Microcokto, Comptones, & Cloter	FORTHCOMING MARRI	AGES AND BLANKAGES	For details - in confide
	tiles. Cobble sers, stone	Please send Court page and	concernents by post/fax to:	please write, e-m
1	troughs, musicinery service. For & internet del. Holley Bextail 01380 850039 (Witte)	Mary I Marriage Court & Spe	al Advertising, The Times.	1 1
	01300 80003A (M1979)	PO Box 495, Virginia S Tel: 017) 782 7347	treet, Landon, El 935.	700
		Tel: 91/1 /62 /34/	FEE: 41/1 /42 //25	re
		Please include in a	Il correspondence:	_~~
	FLATSHARE	The same of sister one of	the proties concested or a	finding toluntary jets for equ
٠,		perent a daytime and hos	ne telephone minuter and
11		iii add	ess.	Bear Wharf, 27 Bar
		Advertisements for the Cour	t page most be received two	Tel: 01
	MAIDA YALE Double :m in lovely	working days prior to publica	tion and are accepted subject	e-mail: volwo
	airy flat to share with part 27 yr old female, 5 mins Warwick Ave-	to confi	resistion.
7	old female. 5 mins Warwick Ave-	tii	The second second	websile: ww
7	otd female. 5 mins Warwick Ave- mus, nr to investy restaurants! shops. Would suit friendly h in- dependent female. 53 10 ms oct.	Advertising Rate is £1	7.04 per line inc VAT.	Websile: WW

EXPERIENCE RCENTLY NEEDED

you have managerial or professional experience, let REACH find you an interesting and satisfying pert-time, expenses only voluntary job with a charity close to home.

People like you are urgently needed to work with voluntary organisations in most parts of the UK including Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland. Why not talk to one of our local Representatives about this free volunteer placement service in your area? For details - in confidence and without obligation please write, e-mail or phone us. Today.

reach ling tolunusy jobs for experienced managers and professiona

Bear Wharf, 27 Bankside, London SEI 9ET Tel: 0171 928 0452 e-mail: volwork@buinternet.com websile: www.volwork.org.uk Registered Charity Na. 278837

THE SALMON POOL

SPRING has been late this year, cold and wet. Even by mid-April the alder huds were little more than buds, and only the primroses. which grow so quickly on the red sandstone, and the anemones, and the colour of the buds not yet unfolded, show that it is spring and not writter. And all the time violent showers of rain and sleet.

To the salmon fisher the rain is at once a blessing and a curse. The usual cold, dry, bright Easter means no water, either no fish, or fish which will not rise. Therefore it was a pleasure to see the full river. But, alas! if it once begins to rain the habit, like other ba habits, is not to continue. So, when the river is falling and clearing, and one hugs oneself at the thought of the sport to come, it again rains heavily on the hills, the river rises again and colours, the fish start once more on their opward journey, and there is no take till the water falls again - which may be when the fisherman has gone sadly back to London.

Still and all, the rain, though it came down capriciously and spotled what might have been a record, did give us three days of glorious sport. And it gave us what is the essence of salmon fishing, the sense of

ON THIS DAY

April 29, 1925 当

A typical "feature" of prewar days when there were no pictures, and no double column headings to embellish articles on nature, fashion, gardening. motoring, science and so forth.

fighting with the elements, which makes February and March fishing so attractive, but which is often denied to the Easter fisherman. Your dry-fly man wants as little wind as possible - the trout must be approached with delicacy and accuracy - the day must be calm and bright.

But the salmon is a mighty, fierce fish, and half the pleasure in pursuing him is the sense of power with which the heavy rod forces the fly over the tumbling river into the wind. exactly to the place where it should go.

Therefore, if he gets three days out of ter when the water is right, if the lish are taking, and if the fight with the elements leads to victory, the salmon lisher is a happy man.

The first pool is fished more by routine than with hope of success. It used to be good, but the bank has fallen in, and not many fish have been caught there lately. We do not spend much time on it, but shuffle as quickly as we can in our waders to the second, a small pool called, oddly enough, the Luggage Pool, because (as is carefully explained) "some collegians who were camping out on the bank once lost all their luggage there." It is difficult wading among the big boulders, but one need not go far. It is one of those places which, for some unknown reason, salmon seem to like so much — where two main streams meet in a V. The fly is cast beyond the farther stream, the rod held well out, and the fly hung so that it swings round into the point of the V. One cast, two casts, three casts; then, as the fly comes round, a gleam of gold, not silver, for the water is still slightly coloured, and the scream of the reel. "You didn't see him the first time," says the gillie, as he prepares the gaff, to the fisherman struggling painfully to shore with the point held high. And I was glad I had not. Who knows but that I would have struck too soon? Three leaps, a stubborn struggle, and he is on the bank - 19lb.

6

■ William Hague battled for his political life last night by delivering a pledge of loyalty to Margaret Thatcher and her inheritance. As he struggled to contain the crisis that has hit his leadership only days from the most important elections since the Tories lost office. Mr Hague met all Tory MPs and promised to Pages 1, 14, 23 consult them more in future....

REF

Draskovic is dismissed

■ Vuk Draskovic, who has criticised President Milosevic and claimed that Belgrade was ready to accept a peace deal over Kosovo, was dismissed as Yugoslavia's Deputy Prime Minister yesterday. His sacking came days after he publicly declared that Mr Milosevic should acknowledge Nato could not be defeated. He also urged the Government in Belgrade to stop lying about the country's deteriorating economy

Tory poll blow

Support for William Hague has Thousands of bright children are dropped sharply among Tory supporters, who rate Tony Blair more highly as a leader, according to a MORI poll. This is a further blow as Mr Hague tries to as-...... Page 2 sert his authority...

Millonaire accused

A millionaire paid a hitman £20,000 to murder his former partner after she won custody of their two children, a court was told yesterday. Derek Goldsmith wanted care of their son and daughter, it was alleged ... Page 3

Green site battle A town that saw one of the fiercest A distinguished surgeon who was environmental battles of recent years was yesterday facing another upheaval after Vodafone won approval to build its world headquarters on a green site....Page 4

Fiancé's grief The fiance of the murdered TV presenter Jill Dando spoke of his grief and incomprehension at her death. "I cannot understand why they would want to kill someone and as perfect as Jill."......Page 5

Ode to a new era

Poetry was assured of its place in the Millennium Dome when Simon Armitage was appointed poet-in-residence. He will spend six months on a 1,000-line ode to Poll in the balance The wounding of eight Israeli sol-tribunal was told ...

diers in Lebanon and another in the West Bank over the past two days has added urgency to Israas gentle, kind and well-meaning el's which moved into top gear with the launch of television cam-

Revenge of the swots

let down by schools and ostracised by classmates as "swots", according to MPs who say successive governments have neglected

the most able pupils in their efforts to raise standards.....Page 8

The Lord Chancellor faced a fresh

onstaught over legal aid cuts

when the Bar turned its wrath on him. The Bar is urging the Government to amend the Access to Justice Bill to preserve legal aid for vulnerable groups Page 10

made an OBE for helping to save

Lord Tebitt's wife after the Brighton bomb was dismissed after a series of life threatening blunders

during operations, an industrial

... Page 13

Surgeon tribunal

The Bar v Irvine

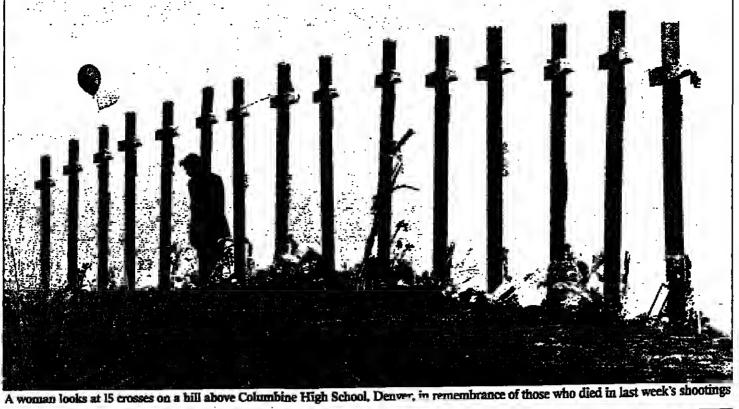

Nuclear secrets stolen

Almost every nuclear weapon in the US was compromised when a scientist suspected of spying for China transferred data from a se-

The prince and the pawpaw

Fresh research into a Van Dyck masterpiece suggests that homegrown tropical fruit may have been everyday fare on the royal dining table in the time of Charles I. A pawpaw featured in the painter's The Five Eldest Children of Charles I (1637) is believed to be the earliest recorded image of the exotic fruit, discovered in the early 17th century, in this country.......Page II

THE TIMES CROSSWORD NO 21,090

Nethercott knew: Ray Nethercott. the Allied Carpets managing director wno surprised the City by resigning last Friday, knew about the accounting irregularities that shook the retailer last year, it was claimed yesterday Page 27 Henry sacked: National Power, the country's biggest non-nuclear generator, has sacked its chief executive, Keith Henry Page 27 Lifeline thrown: Laura Ashley has been cast a second financial lifeline by the billionaire Dr Kay Peng Khoo who stands to take control of the ailing retailer....Page 27

Markets: The FTSE 100 rose 5.2 to 6598.8. The pound fell 0.11 cents to

$1.6153 but rose 0.03p against the euro to 65.84p. The sterling index was unchanged at 104.1.....Page 30 ship is on the verge of making referoce and their assistants use radio communicationsPage 49 Cricket: The first championship match of the season at Canterbury had everything that a Kent supporter could ask for except a more encouraging performance from their Snooker: John Parrott paid tribute to the abilities of Ronnie O'Sullivan after he was beaten by him in the quarter-finals of the Embassy world championship......Page 50 Bryant's Eye: Who knows what pole vaulters get up to when they are halfway to heaven and ready to freefall back to earth? It's not so easy to catch them if they bend the Football: The FA Carling Premier-

Cinema 1: David Cronenberg's

new movie eXistenZ is an amiably intriguing sci-li romp, while Nell Jordan's thriller In Dreams has a knockout opening......Page 36 Cinema 2: The famous Julia Roberts smile is firmly in place as sbe talks about playing a filmstar in the new romantic comedy Notting Hill opposite Hugh Grant......Page 37 Play time: Cate Blanchett delivers all the dramatic goods in the Almeida Company's revival of David Hare's Plenty, plus a bizarre Lear and a musical in Nottingham Bad news: How the BBC got it terribly wrong when covering the murder of Jill Dando. Plus The Place's John Ashworth, godfather of modern dance

TOMORROW IN THE TIMES MEDIA Proving the critics wrong: David Yelland. left, talks about his year. at The Sun

■ EDUCATION

American children who fail basic tests are being forced into classes during the summer.

Scotland, Glasgow, Cent Highlands, Mo-ray Firth, Angyli: cloudy, locally misty for a while, light rain; brighter, sunny spells later. Light var wind. Mex 16C (61F).

Bordins, E'burgh & Dundee, Abendeen:

FEATURES

Mad and bad: "New brain imaging has revealed structural differences in the brains of age entire offenders with mental disorders," says Dr Stattaford. So will researchers find a biological basis for violence in the mentally disturbed? Plus, bowel cancer; the hay-fever season; multiple sclerosis from his memoirs. George Walden describes how Parliament, the Totime for Margaret Thatcher to step

Balkan hatred: The importance of myth and symbol for the Serbs. Plus, reviews by Roger Scruton; Malcolm Bradbury; Peter Preston; Jonathan Dimbleby; Russell Celyn

MAYEL

Best buys: Villas and apartments in converted farmhouses in Tuscany; cruising in the Far East for five days_

ful sit-in led by a Buddhist Law sect in Beijing to go on all day because the group represents a popular social movement. China's leaders are hoping to control a phenomenon which presents a challenge of uncertain dimensions to Communist Par-

ANATOLE KALETSKY

Go, Maggie: In the fourth extract ries and the country realised it was .Page 21

BOOKS

... Pages 40, 41

China's leaders allowed the peacety rule. - The New York Times

Preview: A big new series offerine

"a natural history of the solar system", no less. The Planets (BBC) 9.00pm) Review: Just how dispiriting was the opening show of Hale and Pace's new variety series. hans .Pages 50, 51 OPINION ...

THE PARTY

seiness, page 31

No present alternative Hague cannot simply sit and wait for the current controversy to dissipate. Profound damage has been done. He needs to take personal control of his policy review. He cannot assume that there will be no realistic alternative to his commandPage 23 for ever

Mind the gap

The Lord Chancellor's worthwhile reform of legal aid should not be blighted by the perception that it benefits the many at the expense of a deserving few..... Page 23

Good business sense

For publicity-conscious companies, helping the homeless may not seem enticing. They should think

But at the Washington seminar I had a revelation. I think I began to understand what the Third Way was about... .. Page 22

MAGNUS LINKLATER

It may come to be known as the Mandelson Effect, a formula whereby the addition of the words Peter Mandelson to any political speculation causes an immediate chemical reaction, a fizzing noise, lots of smoke and a powerful smell of rotten eggs...

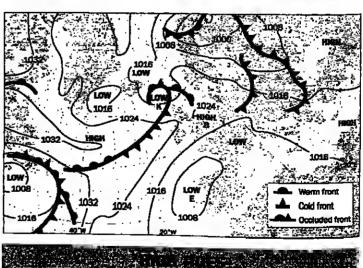

MICK HUME

Miss Dando was dearly no Diana. more Tesco Metro than Harvey Nicks. Yet those trying to recreate the morbid effusion whipped after the death of the Princess insist that they were both like "the girl next door"... Page 22

Major-General J.M.H. Lewis, wartime sapper; Al Hirt, trumpeter; Geoffrey Wigoder, author; Roland Hunt, diplomat Page 25

Plight of hapless Kosovans; George Walden's memoirs; man's "hybrid" ancestry. Tories and the free market; BBC Director-General; Pinochet extradition; EU patron saint; names fitted to jobs; businessman's trip to Mir

Changes to chart from noon: low E fills in situ; pressure remains on the low side across much of central and S Europe. Low K moves east, deepens; high B loses its identity

fast rdiff vonport	6:30 10:21 6:16 5:03	3.9 12.5 3.4 11.7	12:48 18:51 22:50 18:37	4.0 12.7 3.2 11.8	Liverpool London Bridge Lowestoft Margate	10:36 1:06 9:08 11:42	9.0 7.0 2.3 4.6	22:54 13:30 20:59 23:46	9.0 7.2 2.4 4.5
ver blin mouth senock which lyheed ii (Albert D) acombe g's Lynn th	10:27 11:26 4:34 11:50 11:17 9:42 5:41 8:16 5:40 1:54	5.2 8.3 4.0 5.2 3.8 5.3 8.1 8.4 5.2	17:24 22:40 23:20 16:55 23:31 22:01 17:46 17:44 14:15 At time	5.3 6.4 3.8 5.1 3.7 5.3 8.4 6.8 5.2	Militord Haven Newquey Oban Penzance Portland Portsmouth Shoreham Southampton Swarsea Tees Walton-On-Neze	5:30 4:22 4:59 3:54 5:45 10:34 10:36 10:20 5:38 2:54 11:12	8.5 8.6 5.2 1.7 4.3 5.8 4.2 11.9 9.8 4.1	17:48 16:40 17:25 16:12 18:15 22:54 22:53 22:36 17:54 15:05 23:24	6687528460410271

Total number of lives saved so far this year: Total number of lifeboat launches so far this year: Cost to RNLI per day: Cost to taxpayer:

To make a donation, telephone:

478 £222,000 £0 0800 543210

DVI ifeboats

to underw Ashley iss By Fraser Nelson WHILE SEPTEMBER

Service (See

rial c

Heary a

College for

THATE: MIN

A STATE OFFI

Thomas s

nic Asserta

LAST YOUR W mullikan kik territor of the

CONTRACTOR SO my an inti

इस्लोधकात्राः व रि

با بر بنوسیل state it en

क्षाच्या । सा

िक्तिकर्त (

C Dist

.

سج ٠

25.7

.

1.75

2504.

1.1.2 Park

64 C (N)

 $(x,y,y,z) \not= z$

.....

5 Aug 183

 $\pi = \xi (\psi) :$

ready spent iller cast a raised whe " line by Dr asked for D -בקוחים צ"י year. It also " "FLITE bank overdi අතුරුවල් (ල expired last Tescue rum has i nes E43 mail O which ex or Knee If there is CONTRACTOR ion million s Will eff-Group US at 13n aprices Khoo will ta analyst said Vertical te-City institut dimbing or Sight, its support this West Bas Maiaysians Laura Ash Fair for reported a lo Marking L or the year fier remprovemen A37 (5) hon loss last

The Table . 11 15 US

KAREL VAN

ion's Comper day demandi defice that it ever a seniou neu Roser is Mr Van M mation as the भ्यां प्रश्नेष्ट्रशंका हे hy the British decreasing stays approved by Speculanor stated contin-Rover produc

ACROSS muddle (5). sion to ponder (6).

4 Not being served some egg or cream (3-5).

10 One polishes off something to Expression of surprise about

i Theologian has a hard concluread on beach (9).

11 Ruler absolutely banning son in military HQ (5).
12 Pronounced downfall of regime

13 Independently ring three times with different directions (2.4.3).
 14 Liberal planning Norfolk holiday? (5-6). 16 Archbishop of Canterbury once 18 Fairy 16 finally has sex change

(3). 20 Heavy re-edit ordered? Come off it! (3,4,4). 22 Cause amazement about money needed up front for pastries (9).

Solution to Puzzle No 21.089

old record's high class (5).

25 Unaccompanied, about to sing piece from Gondoliers (9).

26 Tragic scene of evil, in English tradition (8).

Believe it may need extending, if one's short (6). One that's near getting fit for blue (9). 2 Skin spots fast disappear when iodine's absorbed (7). Leaves producer in American ski resort (5).

Finally dance, as a finishing touch (3,4,7). Daughter needs to change in manner when woeful child appears (9).

7 Sue has one extra place inside 8 Taken in, defeated - executed

9 Work both ways to locate issue for one's counterpart (8,6).

15 Wife and child I left only roof as 17 Statesmen arranged financial review (5,4). 19 Enemy, father said, may give us the slip (4-3).

21 It could give girl lift, on getting engaged at last (7).

22 Appropriate fabric provided by mate of this seaman? (5).
23 Short spell in which I relax here? (5).

Times Two Crossword, page 52

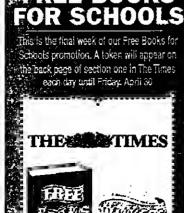

TUMES NEWSPAPERS LIMITED, 1999. Published and printed and ficensed for distribution in electronic and all other derivative forms by Timas Newspapers Ltd, PO Box 495, Virginia Street, London Ef 9xN, elephone 0171-782 5000 and also printed at Killing Road, Prescot, Merseyside, L34 9HN, elephone 0151-546 2000, Thursday, April 29, 1999. Registered as a newspaper at the Post Office.

World City Weather Othe Maconic

AA Car reports by fax

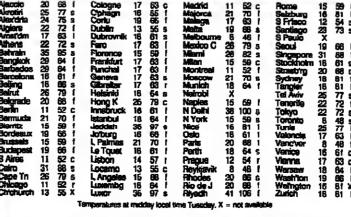

NEWSPAPERS SUPPORT RECYCLING Pecycled paper made up 45.03% of the raw material

☐ London, SE England, Midlands: cloudy, misty start: brighter later, some sun. Fresh NE wind. Max 15C (59F). cloudy start, some sun by afternoon. Mainly dry, Light variable wind. Max 19C (66F). Li NE, NW Scotland, Ortioney, Shettand: overcast, misty with occasional rain and hill tog. Mod SW or W wind. Max 13C (55F). ☐ E Anglie, E England: cloudy, misty start; some sun later, coast might stay cloudy, Mod/ fresh NE wind. Max 16C (61F), colder at coast. ☐ N Ireland; cloudy for a while; surmy spell: later. Mod N to NE wind. Max 17C (63F). Cent S, SW England: sunny spells. Breezy. Fresh NE wind. Max 17C (63F). ☐ Irista Rep: early mist, then bright, surmy spelle; cloud in N. Light var wind. Max 21C (70F). ☐ Outlook: early mist in south tomorrow, then ☐ Changel Is: dry with occasional aunshine. Fresh NE wind. Max 13C (55F). ☐ Wates, NW England: cloudy for a while; some sun later. Light wind. Max 18C (64F). some sun; showers will edge across Channel Rein in N will then spread to other are cooler, showery in north. Lakes, Johl. Cent N. NE England, SW

0.01 Lends Lerwick Leuchers Littleham London 0 05

Yesterday: highest day temp: Lianbedr, 21C (70F); lowest day max: Tynemouth, and Leerning. 8C (46F), highest rainfall: Wick, 0.08ins; S highest sunshine: Manchester 14.2hrs

73

BUSINESS EDITOR Patience Wheatcroft

Business, page 31

RES

A) F S

建美生

智力学ではつ

AMATOLE KALEN

MAGNUS LINKUR

MICK HUME

DETUNE

عكدا من الاص

THURSDAY APRIL 29 1999

Nethercott sacked over 'scam'

Nat Power chief goes in shake-up

BY CHRISTINE BUCKLEY INDUSTRIAL CORRESPONDENT

NATIONAL POWER, the country's biggest non-nuclear generator, has sacked its chief executive and is to review strategy in an effort to revive flagging confidence in the company.

National Power also gave warning yesterday that it was reviewing its dividend policy, which is expected to result in a substantial cut, and that profits would be hit by the sale of the Drax power station. The sacking and shake-up have reignited bid speculation in the City and the shares rose 15p to 496%p.

Keith Henry was told to go by the board after a series of apparent U-turns in National Power's strategy, a poor performance in the share price and mounting criticism from investors and unions.

Mr Henry, who joined the generator four years ago from Brown & Root, is expected to get a pay-off of nearly £1 mil-lion. Last year he earned an £859,924 package and was given performance-related shares worth £313,000. He has 244,898 share options but 49,582 of those have a strike price higher than the current share price.

Although National Power said that Mr Henry resigned, it is understood that he did not want to leave but was given no ontion at a boardroom showdown on Tuesday.

His departure comes at a difficult time for National Power as it seeks to find a buyer for ing, analysts now expect annual pre-tax profits to be cut by £100 million a year once the sale of Drax is completed, although the station contributed £200 million to operating profits in the year to March 31. The generator is also to review its capital structure, triggering ex-

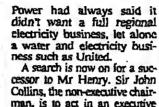

Henry: told to go by board

Collins: long look at strategy

pectations that it could mount a share buyback after the sale

Things started to go wrong for National Power in March last year when it issued a £130 million UK profits warning because of the end of the coal contracts. This was followed by an international profits warning in the autumn. The generator further shook confidence in February this year when it emerged that it had been in merger talks with United Utilities. National man, is to act in an executive role until an appointment is made while Graham Brown, the managing director, will be-come chief operating officer. Sir John, who is chief executive of Avestey, wants someone with different skills to those of Mr Henry. Mr Henry was seen as a build and buy chief executive whose vision was unhinged by the Government's order to sell power stations and by the changing UK electricity market.

One name likely to be in the frame is John Devaney. former head of the Energy Group, who left the company shortly after its takeover by Texas Utilities. Mr Devaney would be seen as more focused. and determined than Mr Henry, who has for long been compared unfavourably with the forthright Ed Wallis, chairman of PowerGen.

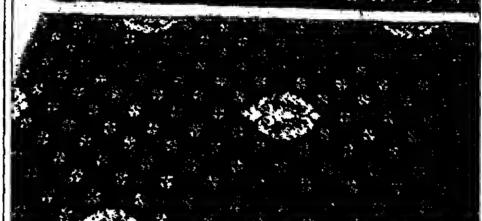

Sir John said: "I will be taking a long look at the strategy and seeking the right person for the job. We will take as much time as necessary." Peter Atherton, analyst with Dresdner Kleinwort Benson, said Mr Henry's removal put National Power properly into play as a bid prospect after months of expectation because of its poor performance. He said: "The management team has disappointed the investment community too much over the past 16 months."

Ken Jackson, general secre-tary of the AEEU, said: "It is to be hoped that National Power now achieves stability and purpose. The company clearly has enormous potential but that has not been achieved yet."

National Power is to set its final dividend at 19p (18p), making a total of 28.6p (27p).

David Pout, left, with Ray Nethercott, who was sacked by Allied Carpets on Friday

Managing director lied to the board, says chairman

BY FRASER NELSON

RAY NETHERCOTT, the managing director of Allied Carpets who quit the company last Friday, was sacked it emerged yesterday for alleged-ly lying repeatedly about his part in the accounting scandal that hit the company last year. Julian Lee, chairman, said the board has evidence to prove Mr Nethercott was aware about a "phantom sales" scam that came to light in July last year. Mr Nether-con has had his contract terminated without compensation. Mr Lee said: "I had always though: I had known Ray quite well, but clearly I didn't. He told the board be had no idea about the goings-on. I was ex-tremely surprised and shocked to learn this was not the case."

It is unclear whether Mr Nethercott may be liable to prosecution by allegedly mis-leading Arthur Andersen, the auditors who resigned over the affair. Paul Manser, partner at law firm Taylor Joynson Garrett, said Section 17 of the Theft Act, outlaws company directors making false statements with the intent of misleading shareholders. He added that Section 233 of the Companies Act states that directors who knowingly approve false ac-counts are guilty of an offence. Allied Carpets admitted last summer that its store managers had been marking a carpet as "sold" as soon as an order was placed. The practise, known as "pre-dispatching", is not illegal but violated company policy that sales should not be marked as completed until delivery. The scam flattered trading figures and led to £3 million charge against profits last year.

Eight months ago, David Pout. finance director, resigned with a £221,000 payoff. He said he had no knowledge of the scam. Steve Barber. sales manager also left with £156,000 compensation.

Commentary, page 29

Jude

Obscure

Arts, page 36

Time to pull the rug Oil sets the pace Equity prices: Unit trasts:

Graham Searleant on false Messiahs

STOOK MARKET FISE All Share...

USRATE

MORCH SEA ON Bren#15-day(Jul)... $16.10 ($15.65)

London close ____ $282.45 ($282.15)
* denotes midday trading prices

Chairman ready to underwrite Ashley issue

By Fraser Nelson

LAURA ASHLEY yesterday sold its loss-making US stores for just $1 and was then cast a further financial lifeline by Dr Kay Peng Khoo, the compa-ny's Malaysian billionaire chairman, who has agreed to underwrite another rescue

The £24.6 million rights issue is likely to see Dr Khoo raise the 40 per cent stake owned by his MUI Asia empire, to 60 per cent.

The sale of its disastrous US venture sees Laura Ashley retaining debts accrued of £34 million. Goldman Sachs, its merchant bank adviser, has been looking for a buyer since last September. The $1 paid by its management is understood to have been the only offer received. It was told it was in danger of being put into receivership unless it sold the US shops. Laura Ashley has al-ready spent the £44 million it raised when it originally asked for Dr Khoo's help last year. It also had a £50 million bank overdraft facility which expired last Friday. The company has now negotiated a new £43 million overdraft facility which expires next April.

If there is no support for the 199 million shares being issued at 13p apiece then MUI and Dr Khoo will take them up. One analyst said yesterday: "The City institutions will not be climbing over each other to support this rights issue. The Malaysians are welcome to it." Laura Ashley yesterday also reported a loss of £31.9 million for the year to January 30, an improvement on the £49.3 million loss last time.

Commentary, page 29

Unigate lifts bid for Terranova

UNIGATE, the food and dairy group, looked odds-on last night to win in its hostile attempt to take control of Terranova, the prepared foods business spun out of Hillsdown Holdings last year (Robert Cole writes).

Unigate raised its 125p-ashare cash offer to 150p late yesterday, and revealed that it had secured a promise from Phillips & Drew, the pension fund manager, to support the new offer. The offer is final unless a rival bid comes in of 160p or more. P&D speaks for 13.1 per cent of Terranova. Crucially, however, in late trading. Unigate raided the market to acquire a 29.9 per cent stake in Terranova for it-self. Together with P&D's 13 per cent and 5 per cent acceptances on the earlier bid terms. Unigate can count support from 48 per cent of Terranova stock. Terranova said it is "considering" the revised offer. Its rose to 148%p from 139p yester-day. Unigate added 13p to close at 438%p.

Business rate rises 'put City jobs at risk'

By MARTIN WALLER

LONDON businesses face having to pay an extra £800 million a year when the new business rate comes in from April next year, according to research by two respected property consultants. There are fears that significant job losses will result.

Organisations such as the Corporation of London and the London Chamber of Commerce and Industry are warning that the capital will be particularly badly hit this time around

Although the new rates have yet to be set, research by Gerald Eve and CB Hillier Parker suggests that Central London could have to find an extra £4 billion over the next five years. In the City, the evidence suggests that rates bills could rise by 70 per cent, while occupiers of new buildings could see even higher rises. Stepher O'Brien, chief executive of London First, the inward investment agency, said a gradual phase-in of increased rates is essential if London is to compete with other European and world cities.

Opponents of the present system are also calling for an additional levy of 1/2p for every pound paid across the country in business rates. This would be set aside in a special fund to alleviate the highest increases. Without any reform, said Mr O'Brien, "pressure may be re-newed on existing businesses to relocate outside central London. One major consequence of this would be the potential loss of a large number of jobs."

LINKS

Austin Ruse

EU to investigate Longbridge deal

Van Miert inquiry

By SIGRID AUFTERBECK

KAREL VAN MIERT, the European Union's Competition Commissioner, yesterday demanded that BMW produces evidence that its "Hungarian option" was ever a serious alternative to building its new Rover model at Longbridge. Mr Van Miert has called for the information as the Commission launches an investigation into whether the aid granted by the British Government to ensure production stays in Birmingham should be approved by Brussels.

Speculation has increased that BMW's stated contingency plan of moving new Rover production to Hungary was just a ferred location." ruse to squeeze financial support from the Trade and Industry agreed last month to grant BMW. Rover's German parent, aid of about £150million.

Stefan Rating, a spokesman for Mr Van Miert, said: "Since the automobile industry is a sensitive sector with existing overcapacities, the limits that apply for subsi-dies are particularly tight. To be eligible for aid, BMW must prove that investing in Britain would be substantially more expensive than elsewhere outside the EU."

Jürg Dinner, a spokesman for BMW. said: "We had informal talks in Hungary about specific sites therebut we always made it clear that Longbridge was our pre-

Tony Woodley, the union negotiator at would have enough evidence to convince the Commission about the Hungarian option. "Once Mr Van Miert sees the facts, he will learn that there had been a serious competing bid from the Hungarian side."

If BMW fails to produce any evidence, opposition to the subsidy will mount. Wendelin Widukind, head of Porsche, threat-ened in March to challange the aid pack-age. Only last week, Ford was eager to point out that production of a new model at its Dagenham plant, which will increase production there by two thirds, will be launched without subsidies.

Rail firms 'must help little-used services'

By ARTHUR LEATHLEY AND FRASER NELSON

THE profits of Britain's richest train companies are set to be squeezed to save little-used rail services in Britain's more remote areas.

Gordon Brown, the Chancellor, has refused new money to prop up loss-making rural rvices, some of which could be closed or replaced by buses

Instead he has told John Prescott, the Secretary of State for the Environment, Trans-port and the Regions, that any extra financial help offered to weaker companies must come from within the rail industry. Money is expected to be clawed back from the most profitable train companies and from fines imposed on poorly performing operators. Mr Brown's ultimatum comes as most of the 25 train operating companies are preparing to renegotiate their licences and amid fears that some operators may be close to collapse. Three bus and rail combines

- FirstGroup, National Ex-

Australia S Australia S Austria Sch. Belgum Fr Canadia S Oyprus Oyp £ Denmark Nr Egypt Finish Mikh. France Fr Germany Dm. Greece Dr Hong Kong S Iceland Indonesia Ireland Pr Israel Sik tuly Lra Ispan Yen Metra Netheridis Gid. Netwey Yer Foruge F Ess S Africa Rid Spain Pla Sweden Nr Sweden Nr Sweden Nr Sweden Nr Sweden Nr	Bank Buys 2.578 64.366 64.366 64.366 5.73 9.57 10.42 3.129 13.38 13.99 12.487 7.79 0.881 3.532 3.08 13.19 207.70 0.881 3.122 207.70 10.43 263.79 14.32 14.32 14.3	Brink, Sets. 2.40. 20.20. 259.40. 2.326. 0.8489. 10.97. 5.12. 8.62. 9.64. 2.887. 42.18. 12.499. 1.1597. 6.538. 2.875. 190.17. 2.85. 12.25. 2.94.49. 9.47. 2.45.1.22. 2.374. 602.22. 3.22. 3.22. 3.
Turkey Lita	645852	602924
USA $	1.727	1.584
Rates for small den	ommation I	anknotes only as supplied by Ba rates apply to traveller	rciays Bank 's cheques.	Rates as et close of trading yesterday.

press and Stagecoach - oper-ate more than two thirds of the rail network and ministers expect these groups to dominate the round of negotiations beginning this summer.

Ministers are worried that little of the £1.6 billion railway subsidy is directed at struggling rural services. In contrast recipients of some of the largest subsidies include South West Trains and Great Western, owned by Stagecoach and FirstGroup respectively.

Regional services in Wales, the West, the North West and North East are under the greatest pressure as passenger growth has not matched that on intercity or London services. As Treasury subsidies decline year on year, there are fears that at least one train company will go out of business. Treasury officials fear the collapse of an operator would damage confidence in the industry. A Whitehall spokesman said: The sums done at privatisation are wrong. There is no point basing negotiations on spurious figures and some firms are going to need help. This is not a climbdown but a pragmatic approach to a problem. The shift in strategy would allow more open cross-subsidy of loss-making lines by other companies within the same rail group — prevented under rail regulations. For instance, Prism Rail's WAGN company reported a £14 million profit, while its Wales and West franchise lost £4 million.

A spokesman for the Railway Forum, the rail industry's umbrella body, said: "The time has come for a careful assessment of how to provide socially necessary rail services. Some of these companies need help but if a station is serving one passenger every three days it is fair to question whether resources are being channelled in a way that best serves the rural community."

Colin Birrell, head of the Edinburgh Woollen Mill shops, on which Grampian Holdings is to focus, along with its Malcolm transport operation. Grampian saw pre-tax profits of £10.3 million (£29 million) after losses in husinesses it is leaving. Its year's payout is 7.6p (7.2p).

Travis buys Keyline

BY CARL MORTISHED

TRAVIS PERKINS is buying Keyline, the builder's merchant chain, from CRH for £181.5 million in a cash deal that will propel Travis Perkins to second in the builder's merchant sector in the UK.

The fifth-largest chain in the UK with 101 branches, Keyline will enable Travis to consolidate its grip on the heavy side of the market (cement and bricks) and will strengthen its position in the North and Scotland. The combined group will have sales of £932 million, or 11 per cent of the market.

CRH appointed Warburg Dillon Read to auction the business after the Irish company concluded that it could not achieve significant gains in the UK without a lengthy and expensive struggle. Keyline has just 3.7 per cent of the UK building materials sector and comparatively weak margins.
The decision by CRH to pull out of the UK merchant market signalled the final act in a struggle for dominance between the three largest players in the market: Wolseley, Meyer and Travis Perkins.

Wolseley, which focuses on the light side of the market. selling plumbing and heating products, remains the market leader but Meyer has now been pushed into third. Both Wolseley and Meyer have made large acquisitions recently.

Travis Perkins yesterday predicted savings of £15 mil-lion a year in the third year after the deal, with reorganisation costs of £7.5 million. Keyline had operating profits of £14.6 million last year after sales of £309 million.

reveals its policy models

The Bank

By Alasdair Murray. ECONOMICS CORRESPONDENT

THE Bank of England will today respond to criticism that it has taken a too mechanistic approach to setting monetary policy by publishing for the first time a full description of its economic models.

The Bank has at times come under fire for apparently relying heavily on its own economic models to fine-tune interest rates, and in particular, the forecasts contained its Quarterly Inflation Report.

However, the report today emphasises that the Bank adopts a "pragmatic and pluralist" approach to setting monetary policy with interest rates ultimately decided by the "judgments" of the MPC.

The report, Economic Mod-els at the Bank of England, emphasises that aside from its core macroeconomic model. the Bank also uses a series of other smaller models to test and explore the complexities of the economy.

However, these models simply provide tools for the MPC and only form part of the decision-making process which also includes evidence such as reports from the Bank's regional agents.

"Just as spades on their own cannot dig gardens, models cannot make forecasts — still less decide, policy," the report says. Even the quarterly inflation charts, which City analysts have often argued seem to dictate the Bank's interest rate decisions, only provide a general consensus on the outlook for the economy and some mem-bers of the Monetary Policy Committee may disagree with the conclusions.

The Monetary Policy Committee today also publishes a separate report describing how it views the potential impact of the interest rate decisions on the economy.

The report, written in response to a request from the Treasury Select Committee. again emphasises that the Bank prefers a pragmatic approach to policy-making and that it does not adhere to any strict economic orthodoxy.

WEBSITE http://www.benierfenstend.co.uk

New watchdog plan for accountants

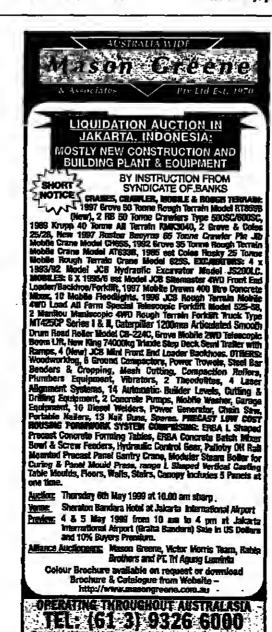

a thing of the past from the turn of the year when a new regulatory framework is implemented. The new regime will be majority-controlled by representatives from outside the profession.

Ian McCartney, the Trade and Industry Minister, said yesterday that a new eight-person foundation will be set up to oversee regulation of the profession, while an independent review board will act a SELF-REGULATION in the watchdog. These new bodies accountancy profession will be will cover the investigation and prosecution of disciplinary cases in which there is a public interest. They will also cover the setting of auditing and ethical standards," said Mr McCartney. He added: "At least 60 per cent of the membership of these new bodies will represent consumers and users of accountancy and be nominated by leading financial and consumer institutions."

Accountancy, page 33

AUCTIONIERS, VALUERS AND BROKERS

BUSINESS ROUNDUP

Double for Stanley with £12.5m deal

STANLEY LEISURE, the bookmaker and casino operator, is to acquire Vickers Bookmakers, a privately owned company with 31 betting shops in the South West, for up to £12.5 million. The announcement came the same day as Stanley posted the offer document for its recommended £36.4 million acquisition of Capital Corporation, the London casino operator. A fall in margins in its bookmaking division meant pre-tax profits in the year to May 2 would be "not less than £23 million" compared to analysts' forecasts of about £26 million. However, it said it expected margins to "return to normal levels over time". It said it was also positive over the effects of a draft order on casino deregulation laid before the House of Commons last week. The order calls for an increase in the number of jackpot machines per casino from six to ten, the introduction of limited advertising and further relaxation of membership conditions. Shares of Stanley lost 54:p to 2484:p.

Bioglan booming

BIOGLAN PHARMA, the recently floated skincare specialist, is expecting another year of strong growth after debut results that showed a 59 per cent increase in pre-tax profits to £3.4 million.Placed at 245p last December, Bioglan's shares yesterday climbed 4p to a new high of 340½p, valuing the business at £270 million. Bioglan's preferred measure of underlying earnings increased by 117 per cent to £9.2 million, on sales 86 per cent higher at £43.4 million. Earnings per share were 18 per cent lower at 2.62p.

Tempus, page 30

Sedgemoor sells out

SEDGEMOOR, the electronics and computer parts distributor, is selling up to Acal, its larger rival. The recommended bid is a mix of cash and paper which values Sedgemoor at 50.8p or £77.9 million. The offer of £10.65, plus one new Acal share for every 30 Sedgemoor shares, equates to a premium of 30 per cent to the 39p that Sedgemoor was trading at three months ago when it received the approach. Derek Crook, Sedgemoor chief executive, will be joining Acal.

Inchcape's online step

AN ONLINE car-buying service will today be launched by Inchcape, the car distribution company. Inchcape will base the Internet service on the brand and technology of Autobytel—the US online car-buying company quoted on the Nasdaq stock exchange—under a 20-year licensing deal. The service will let consumers compare prices and specifications of new and used cars from 250 Autobytel franchised dealers. They will also be able to download mad tests and reviews of cars. will also be able to download road tests and reviews of cars.

Vibroplant approach

A LEAP by shares in Vibroplant has forced the plant hire group to admit receiving an approach by Jeremy Pilkington, chairman and chief executive, and Neil Stothard, finance director, with a view to taking it private at 70p to 75p a share. This would value Vibroplant at £32.3 million to £34.6 million. Mr Pilkington is a director of Ackers P Investment Company, Vibroplant's 51.3 per cent owner. The shares rose 7p to 65p.

Sony profit falls 20%

SONY has seen net profits plunge by nearly 20 per cent. The Japanese electronics group, maker of the Walkman personal stereo, reported net profit for the year to March 31 of Y179 billion (£927 million), down from Y222.1 billion the previous year. It forecast that its current-year net profit will fall to Y110 billion as sales begin to wane for the PlayStation games conole, which generates nearly 40 per cent of operating profits.

Scottish Radio buys

SCOTTISH RADIO, the radio group whose main interests are Radio Clyde and Radio Forth, yesterday bought Parkin Advertising, a Bristol outdoor contractor, for £8.9 million. Parkin made pre-tax profits of £610,000 in its year to March 31, on sales of £3.59 million. Scottish will pay £8.7 million in cash, and £500,000 in shares. It said: "This is a positive step forward in our planned expansion in the outdoor sector."

FOR YOUR FINANCIAL SPREADS ONLY FREEPHONE : 08000 96 96 20

Financial Spreads is the brand new, independent and totally dedicated financial spread betting company backed by the market leader, and biggest name in sports spread betting. Sporting Index.

And we are licenced to thrill

You'll be amazed at the huge range of markets available for you to bet on - the FTSE 100 Index. Wall Street, DAX, Nikkei, Hang Seng, CAC - then there's currencies, interest rates, oil, metals, commodities, and options - you can even bet on individual company shares. (Yes, there are bonds, James, bonds, too!) Just as Sporting Index put the sport into sports spread betting, we'll be putting the 'fun' into 'funancial' spread betting!

We welcome all bets, big or small, enabling many more people to enjoy the excitement of spread betting.

We offer armited risk bets, credit facilities, the highest standards of service and we're open from 7.00am till 9.30pm Monday to Friday.

A single telephone call to one of our experienced traders will enable you to place your bet immediately. There are absolutely no fees. costs or commissions involved and we pay all the betting charges. Be assured nobody does it better! Simply call the Freephone number above and Moneypennie will send you an account application form and more information.

APPLY TODAY. FINANCIAL SPREADS IS THE ONLY COMPANY SOLELY DEDICATED TO FINANCIAL SPREAD BETTING Sky News Text: p271 www.finspreads.com

REUTERS:DEAL

Spread bets carry a high level of risk to your capital. Only speculate with money you can afford to lose. Spread betting may not be suitable for all investors, therefore ensure you fully understand the risks involved and seek advice if necessary.

0800 661111

How many application forms for children do you require?
Metarlumship to child
F residence

Date of Birth

ScottishTelecom Com

The second secon 10 20 ACTION AP re Transiti A SECTION OF THE PARTY OF THE P on the But Ammed gran was the Barrier STATE OF STA

್ಲಿಸ್ಟ್ ಕ್ಲೀ ಇದ್ದರ್ಶಾತಿ

A NAME OF THE PARTY OF THE PARTY.

Contraction of the contraction o

1966年,1965年196年19

· Santana

ICI sells paints business to PPG provide Most Ostillar

ALCOHOLDS A transfer filling 17.3 Acker. 18 11 17 4 15 1 Total Comment further The second second sites 7.707 - - - in initiate Pr. 170 PS an um dage

77.9

i in

18 4 2

75.7

Surface and theme beast-Government ICES attention of the word in LYST TO S was duringe remain. 12 ... 300 Election Automatica, & 77.3.32 Arm Arminian softense THE WAR COMMITTED PRINTING 24 en ordere for the course of n die Comment der Germanne der lar iminion and Asia. The hall will contribute more of arres crofts of £ 40 mg/jby . I ama the deal the contract of · To a cultural effection of auto-incare the new year.

و دستان 📏 📜 🖯 m aftemptthe industry TOU DIVE : Learlier in TERROR TO en in les le minor mate 2000 22 Patrices from ICI in · E/T ferrar - 18 compa-Ser Ci Posteut Pears Nobelin the 71 Secretary of the Course 3br-: $9 Editor mined applier he mini milieram in contings Walter S Brown and and wid by The toy CAPTIFIE'S HO committee taken with the second second walter y EBTIDA inter the many fraparty and Connurings It o pu Have that Residence of the First aras sha dian in the dispersion िया सेक के ti Hunterium and PPG. It all the no nuvers for the halognonicals busi-

Reserve to the front

esse and its acrollias busihe when the ther have ale of about 115 billion

sure yest merge the Desses ing that th The me would hav Quire Firs Was termi

they were on the fina

have doub

DUS

BUSINESS ROUNDUR uble for Stanley h £12.5m deal

oglan booming

'd germoor sells ou

scheape's onlines

imediam approad

* construction falls 20

Section Radio but the chairman of Allied Carpets. Despite being an accountant and having been bissfully unaware of the long-running accounting irregularities that have caused Allied such difficulties. Mr Lee has no intention of desert-

Mr Lee has no intention of deserting his shareholders.

They may not find this a source of great comfort. Mr Lee remained in the chair of textile argument Holles as it desertile. company Hollas as it descended into receivership. He took over as chairman of the business in 1993. In 1996 he was proclaiming that Hollas was on track to be a leading clothing supplier. despite appearances to the contrary. Less than two years later, it

Mr Lee may have been better able to take the disappointment than some of his shareholdershe had made £3 million after leading the buyout of Bricom from British & Commonwealth Holdings and selling it on. Brit-ish & Commonwealth, however, did not survive for much longer.

Mr Lee was the chairman of Allied Carpets when it came to mar-ket in 1996, the prospectus signed off by the chaps at Arthur Andersen, his old firm. If the auditors could not spot what was going on at Allied, then perhaps it was not surprising that the chair-man missed the trick. But Arthur Andersen is the company's auditor no longer.

If executives are out to hood-wink the auditors, they can often

Time to pull rug from under Lee succeed. It happened at Wickes. for instance, where a complicated system produced different invoices for different audiences. The Allied accounting rules seem to have been such that Sherlock Holmes might have found it hard to spot the discrepancies. As the £2 million black hole was exposed, executives bowed out but Ray Nethercott remained at his desk. He may not have been the best at selling carpets, but he excelled at keeping things under them. In August last year, as the Allied Mercotter of the second of the sec under them. In August last year, as the Allied share price sank to 53p because of the scandal, he wowed that "the rebuilding process starts today". But it did not Yesterday Allied was looking even more sickly, its shares at just 39p. Last year venture capitalist Alchemy was proffering a bid at 55p but found its offer spurned after an initial friendly reaction.

reaction. Shareholders will not see the like of that again. Allied's prob-lems now go well beyond its accounting systems and straight to sales. Lord Harris of Peckham would have taken the firm out of its misery if the competition authorities would have allowed. Instead of that, he is simply taking the business. The carpet king has no qualms about hitting a competitor when it is down and Carpetright is offering promotions that Allied cannot afford to

COMMENTARY by our City Editor

Mr Lee may have senled his ample frame into the managing director's chair, but he will need to move fast to fight Lord Harris.
Shareholders might feel inclined to suggest that he bows out with his managing director and does not risk another Hollas.

What hope for lovelorn Laura?

There are celebrations all round at Goldman Sachs, as even the humblest telephonist looks forward to a band-out of shares that should yield a hefty bonus in future years. Were she in kindly mood, she might contemplate blowing some of that future wealth in advance on a Laura Ashley outfit, That Laura Ashley is still afloat is testimony to the remarkable skills of the investment banking house and its star turn, John Thornton, in particular. But the Malaysians who were persuaded to save Laura from bankruptcy by the then chair-man, one John Thornton, must be wondering what on earth they saw in her.

Now MUI is faced with putting £25 million more into keeping the old girl afloat. Their intention must be that, once they emerge as the majority owners of the business, they will be able to take it private so that they can conceal further indignities from public view. Mr Thornton will then be absolved from his current non-executive directorship and be able to wipe out the whole sorry episode — if Sir Bernard Ashley will let him.

If the irrascible Sir Bernard had been able to accept that Ashley stopped being a family business the day it was floated, the picture might look very different now. Instead, he interfered and the company suffered a rapid succession of managers.

The current incumbents face a difficult task, even if they will be soon addressing it away from the glare of the public spotlight. Lau-ra may still have her fans, al-though by now they must be confused as to whether she stands for pretty prints or modern tailor-ing of the kind favoured by Anne ing of the kind favoured by Anne Iverson. But shoppers are not splashing their money around, as Arcadia made clear yesterday. The tenor of the statement from the company was not quite as gloomy as the figures it reported, but chief executive John Hoggers are the factors to the statement of the statement was far from subsat about the prospects on the high street. Arcadia has cut back its forecasts and is keeping prices in check.

Its high street chains may face a toughening up of the competi-tion as Philip Green gets to work on the Sears businesses that he now owns. Mr Green would find erner was far from upbeat about ning them than the previous man-agement, but the chances are that he will soon be pocketing the proceeds from selling them on to others. Mr Hoerner must be wonder-ing whether he should stand back and risk a sharper competi-tor getting hold of his rivals or dig deep and buy them himself.

Burns goes to extra time on penalties

teering the new Financial Services Act onto the statute books was never going to be an easy task but expecting Lord Burns to knock it into shape with-in just four weeks was asking the impossible. The former Permanent Secretary to the Treasury is a man of many talents but distill-ing the concerns of a Joint Committee of both Houses of Parliament over one of the more controversial pieces of proposed legislation would be a rushed job with a six-month timetable.

Lord Burns does not have the luxury of that but he has been allotted another month. The issues of concern that have arisen were predictable. There is some worry over the definition of market it hard to make a worse job of runabuse, a failing which is probably more easily discernible in practice than it is on paper. Those drafting the legislation feel sure that a Clapham omni-bus-riding IFA or broker would recognise market abuse when he met it.

The issue of greatest concern.
however, remains the disciplinary powers with which the new authority is to be endowed and the fears that these might amount to a breach of human rights. Lawyers have exhibited unusual generosity of spirit in pointing out their suspicions on this front now instead of waiting to take on the cases that might be generated were the Bill to go un-challenged. Lord Burns should use his extra time to ensure that the disciplinary system will be speedy and fair, even if this makes it more costly.

subsidy for each worker employed in manufacturing industry in Italy was 62,302 and in Germany it was €1,569. For the UK, the figure was just €381. The Long-bridge workers could argue that they deserve more.

ICI sells paints business to PPG

By CARL MORTISHED INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS EDITOR

ICI is selling an industrial paints business to America's PPG for £425 million in a deal that will further reduce its borrowings after this month's £1.4 billion sale of the titanium dioxide and polyurethane businesses to Huntsman.

PPG is acquiring ICI's refinish coatings, used in vehicle damage repair, and Grow Automotive, a North American solvents and thinners business, as well as a variety of industrial coatings operations in Latin America and Asia.

The deal will contribute a pre-tax profit of £190 million for ICI and the deal, will have a neutral effect on earnings over the next year. PPG has been attempting to build up its industrial coatings business over the past year, and earlier in ings business from ICI in Germany. The US company lost out to Akzo Nobel in its attempted bid for Courtaulds and missed acquiring Herberts, the coatings business which was sold by Hoechst to DuPont.

ICI's debt burden, taken on when the company acouired Unilever's fragrance and flavourings businesses, will fall to £2.3 billion after the disposals to Huntsman and PPG. It is still seeking buyers for the halochemicals businesses and its acrylics business which together have sales of about £1.5 billion.

TI tops up with Walbro of the US in £356m purchase

By PAUL ARMSTRONG

TI GROUP, the specialist engineering company, has made a $570 million (£356 million) recommended takeover bid for Walbro, a petrol tank maker listed on Nasdaq.

The purchase, which is expected to enhance earnings from next year, is aimed at ena-bling TI to meet vehicle makers' demands for integrated fuel systems. TI makes flowlines for transporting fuel to the engine and Walbro specialises in tanks made from advanced composite materials and petrol pumps. Wallow reported earnings before interest, tax, depreciation and amortisation (EBIT-DA) of $79 million last year from sales of $678 million. The price includes $388 million of assumed debt, most of which stems from Walbro's heavy capital investment programme of the past three years. .TI will also incur a $25 million cost to buy out Walbro's management under that company's change of control provi-

Sir Christopher Lewinton the TI chairman, said that about $9 million of this would be paid to Frank Bauchiero, Walbro's chief executive.

The total offer represents an earnings multiple of 7.2-times Walbro's 1998 carnings on an EBITDA basis. It is pitched at a premium of more than 60 per cent to Wal-bro's share price shortly before the bid was announced.

TI chairman Sir Christopher Lewinton, right, with finance director Martín Angle. The deal includes $388 million of debt

Sir Christopher said Walbro would meet TI's internal hurdle rate, which is a 15 per cent return on investment within three years of purchase. He said the deal would make TI the first company in the world to supply a totally integrated fuel system. The composite materials used to make Walbro's tanks meant it would also be able to offer significant environmental advantages over its competitors. This was because there was less scope for hydrocarbons to escape. Sir Christo-systems business was worth $6.5 billion a year, of which TI would have 15 per cent. Michael Blogg, an analyst with Charterhouse Securities, said he had revised his 2000 forecast earnings growth for pher said the integrated fuel TI from 11 per cent to 14 per systems business was worth cent on the back of the deal. Mr Blogg said TI could be expected to lift Walbro's margins significantly from the current level of about 6 per cent.

Tempus, page 30

M&S to leave

MARKS & SPENCER has ended its disastrous 26-year foray into Canada, announcing yesterday that it would close its 38 stores within a year.

The move, which will cost M&S £25 million, has placed a big question mark over the future of the group's stores out-side the UK, many of which also incur heavy losses.

M&S's Canadian arm has crawled out of the red just once since its creation in 1973. prompting questions from analysts yesterday about why the company was so slow in addressing the problem. It made an £8.3 million operating loss in the year to March 31, 1998. An M&S spokeswoman said the decision had been prompted by the expiry of many of the store leases held in Cana A strategic review of M&S's activities is due to be unveiled

Subsiding subsidies KAREL Van Miert's days as Competition Commissioner in Brussels may be numbered but he is not going to let that stand in his way now that the government subsidy for Rover has caught his attention. But as he huffs and puffs be might take note that be-tween 1995 and 1997 the average profits slump

By Fraser Nelson

Arcadia shares

rise despite

SHARES in Arcadia yesterday rose 14 per cent as the Burtons to Principles retail group said it came out of the Christmas sales slump in better shape than the City expected. The shares jumped 32hp, to 2721/p even though Arcadia turned in interim profits more than halved to £23 million (£50.3

The company said that its sales growth returned in February and March, but stopped short of giving a figure.

Arcadia had been expected to be among companies hardest hit by the downturn in retail sales because it pays top rents for places in most UK high streets and retail parks. John Hoerner, chief executive, said that the group lost about 1.5 percentage points in gross margin to shift unsold stock after Christmas, but had maintained its market share Analysts are divided on the share performance. Some question whether a £3.7 miltion charge for an Internal shake-up should have been put as a one-off item. Others say Arcadia is being chased by fans of its Internet retail service, which has more than half the UK online market. Mr Hoerner said: 'These could not be described as good profit figures by any stretch of the imagination, but they are obviously better than some people were expecting."

Arcadia shares have fallen 14 per cent in the past ten days. Basic earnings per share were 19.5p (31.2p). The interim dividend is held at 4.7p.

Merger

By MATTHEW BARBOUR

Tempus, page 30

approach lifts Partco Canada

By Paul Armstrong

SHARES in Partoo rose 30 per cent after the car parts and crash repair company reported it is in possible takeover talks for the second time in less than ten months.

The talks centre around a possible £178 million bid — 245p per share — for the company, representing a premium of 36 per cent to the closing share price on Tuesday, the day before the talks were announced. Last year Partco rejected a £420 million merger approach from Finelist.

Analysts yesterday ruled out Finelist as a possible suitor because of its weak balance sheet. Another candidate is GE Capital, the US financial services company. Another possible bidder is Ford, which took over the Kwik-fit chain for £1 billion earlier this month. Partco is one of Kwik-fit's main car parts suppliers. Shares in Partco closed up 531/2p yesterday at 2331/2p.

First Leisure and Cannons halt talks

By DOMINIC WALSH

TIMES www.fimes-money.co.uk

CANNONS GROUP and First Leisure yesterday abandoned plans to merge their health and fitness businesses - just two days after announcing that they were discussing a deal.

The merger, under which Cannons would have issued new shares to acquire First Leisure's fitness division. was terminated after the sides said they were "unable to reach agreement on the financial terms". A deal would have doubled Cannons's market value side would elaborate, although it is understood that the amount of debt First Leisure wanted to inject into the enlarged group was one of the issues. One analyst said: "Cannons is only in the market for deals that are earnings enhancing. What First Leisure brought to the table clearly wasn't earnings enhancing."

It is understood that three First Leito more than £500 million. Neither sure executives would have joined the enlarged Cannons board, including Patrick Henchoz, the head of its fitness division. Mr Henchoz last week received £4.3 million from the sale of a minority stake in ISL Leisure, one of First Leisure's subsidiaries. First Leisure paid a total of £13.8 million to buy out the 23 per cent of ISL it did not already own, the balance of £9.5 million going to Nash Sells & Partners, the venture capital group. Cannons, formerly known as Vardon, may consider a move on Pinnacle Leisure, which abandoned plans for a £70 million flotation last year and is considering a possible trade sale. Cannons said: "Cannons is an acquisitive compa ny and is the strongest pure health and fitness company in the market financially. There are plenty of opportunities." The failure of the talks heightens the pressure on Michael Grade, the First Leisure chief executive. The sale had been expected to result in a break-up of the company. Analysis expressed con-cern at the lack of action. First Leisure shares closed down 7½p at 246p while Cannons was unchanged at 1921/2p.

IOD convention, page 32

business.matters@demon

whatever the size of your business, the internet will help you compete, you'll be able to deliver fast, efficient service warldwide, quicker than you can lick a stamp. ond at demon, we have a range of options to meet the demonds of your business including dial-up, ison and leosed-line access, when your needs grow, we can continue to help . after all , nearly 100,000 businesses olready rely an deman to handle their internet needs . so if you want to accumulate, communicate, stort by phaning demon on 0800 027 9199 or write your name, campany and address onywhere on this od and send it to freepost deman.

Demon Internet 0800 027 9199

www.demon.net emoil:netsoles@demon.net

A ScottishTelecom Company

MICHAEL CLARK

Oil companies pump out good gains after reports

OIL shares took up the baton from telecom stocks by dragging the rest of the equity market back into positive territory after a nervous start.

Overnight support by American investors for oil-related companies set the pace reflecting the latest rise in the price of a barrel of oil. Sentiment was flavoured by a bullish report from the American Petroleum Institute which revealed that US crude oil stocks had fallen by 4.7 million barrels in the week to April 23. Year-onyear, crude stocks were also down 6.6 million barrels.

The report fuelled further gains for the price of oil on world markets where a barrel of North Sea Brent crude was changing hands at $16.28. That is in stark contrast to the low of just under $10 a barrel reached earlier this year.

Among the leaders, BP Amoco jumped 3612p to E11.60. Shell 934p to 45414p. while among the exploration companies Ranger Oil stood out with a rise of 15p to 270p. Share prices generally lacked much of the sparkle seen earlier in the week despite a strong overnight performance by the Dow Jones industrial average and opening gains last night.
The FTSE 100 index managed to reverse an early to-point deficit and, at one stage, again breached the 6.600 level. But it was running out of steam towards the close following two consecutive days of impressive gains. In the event, it closed 5.2 up at a new high of 6.598.8. The FTSE 250 index also rose 5.0 to 5,813.7 as the total number of changing hands shares reached 1.18 billion.

The life assurance operators managed to post some useful gains with Prudential Corporation climbing 50p to 9194p after highlighting the success of its Egg banking operation. It has achieved its five-year target plan of 500,000 customers and £5 billion of savings in just six months. Warburg Dilion Reed, the broker, has been pushing the Pru as a "buy".

Encouraging trading statements lifted Sun Life & Provincial 284p at 5774p and Royal & SunAlliance 14p to 5274p. vanced 141:p to 4691:p. Speculaove buying hoisted Independent Insurance 26p to 2581/sp.

British Airways firmed Ip to 5041/2p after becoming the

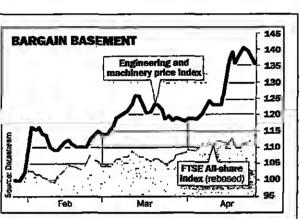

Frank Sytner, chairman, saw shares of Sytner Group rise 11p to 212p on the back of a positive annual meeting first non-financial company to raise extra funds with an issue of euro-denominated fixed interest stock. The issue of £300 million (£200 million) has a nominal value of 625 and a fixed coupon of 6.75 per cent.

British American Tobacco put on 22p at 505p ahead of first-quarter results later today which should see pre-tax profits come in at between £280 million and £295 million. down from £311 million. The profits warning from Stanley Leisure, down 5½p to 2481/p. where margins in its horse racing operation have come under increasing pressure also took a toll of rival Ladbroke, 184p off at 2934p. J Sainsbury retreated 3kp to 400kp as HSBC Securities, the broker, reiterated its "re-

BARGAIN hunting is the name of the game these days. Some investors have been happy to plough their money into fashionable sectors such as drugs, telecoms and high-tech. Others would sooner seek out value among those companies left behind in the bull run.

Charterhouse Securities, the broker, maintains engineering and machinery is performed the FTSE All share by 10 per cent and restored value to those levels not seen since August 1998.

But Michael Blogg, at Charterhouse, insists that there is still value to be had. Comments made by Bodycote Lnternational at the time of its results were misinterpreted and the shares, down 121/2p to 9871/p, have scope for im-

Others on his shopping list include FKI, up 11/2p to 174p. McKechnie, 5½p dearer at 4471/2p, and Vitec All three companies are strong management.

duce" recommendation and target price of 350p for the shares. It has also lowered its rating for Tesco, lp lighter at 186%p from "hold" to "reduce" now that the price has reached

Hong Kong: Hang Seng

Amsterdam:

Sydney:

Frankfurt:

Brussels:

Paris:

SMI Index

FTSE Eurotop 100 -FTSE All-Share -FTSE Non Financials FTSE Fixed Intered

its target of 187p. An upbeat trading statement lifted Ocean Group 10p to 963p. Shareholders at the annual meeting were told that trading in the first quarter had lived up to expectations for the freight forwarder. The group is looking for suitable acquisitions to develop its air and sea freight activities. The price has more than doubled since hitting a low of 4721/2p in October

Bullish comments at the annual meeting had investors beating a path to Sytner Group, up 11p to 212p. The mo-tor distributor says 1999 has got off to an encouraging start with profits well ahead of budget and the corresponding period last year. But some cautious comments about current trading left United Carriers 21/2p off at 2012p. The haulier reported a decline in volumes but said it was too early to say whether it was temporary or a growing

AIM-listed Artisan (UK) touched 9½p before ending ¼p better at 8p. Rosenoble, a private company, has bought 12.8 million shares, or 15.4 per cent. At the same time, Stephen Dean, chairman, has bought an additional 929,135 shares for his adult children's family trust. He now controls 24.9 million shares, or 29.9 per

☐ GILT-EDGED: Bond prices were dealt a blow by the cool reception given to the latest auction of 30-year index-linked stock. The issue of £500 million nominal of Treasury indexlinked 2030 was only 94 per cent subscribed. Other indexlinked issues suffered with losses stretching to £4 in places. News of the auction also left the June series of the long gilt nursing a loss of 38p at £116.08 as the number of contracts completed reached 44,000. Among conventional issues. Treasury 8 per cent 2021 shed 9lp at £145.12, while at the shorter end Treasury 7 per cent 2002 was 9p lighter at £105.76. chips were mixed in early trading with cyclicals strong. At midday the Dow Jones industrial average was up 14.03 points to 10.845.74.

MAJOR INDICES 10845 74 (+14 03)

.575.53 (+1.12)

5348 61 (+1.11)

41226 (+11 0)

_.6598.8 (+5.2) _.5813.7 (+5.0)

3041.84 (+2.53)

..153 87 (-0 48)

...0.6584 (-0.0003)

RECENT ISSUES

111

Br Smaller Co's VCT (100) 95

Fleming I & G Units 2006 648

Br Smir Cos VCT Wrts Cairngorm Euro Restruct Cairngorm Restruct Wrts

Edinburgh Inc & Val Edinburgh Val Zero Dv Pl

Gartmore High Income

Halitax Non Cum Pl

Northern 2 VCT

Sherry FitzGerald Sports Internel

Caltura r/p (125)

Versalite n/p (05)

Cars Milling ... 971: Independen ... 2581:
Finelist Grp ... 1701:
Bowater Inc ... 31311
Ariam & Harvey ... 1671:
Alexandra ... 1471:

Ennex International n/o (IRSp) 212 + 12 Mice Group n/o (80) 2612 + 12

MAJOR CHANGES

rucming in TI GROUP should have little difficulty convincing the market that its $570 million (£356 million) acquisition of Walbro is a winner. Once the jargon has been extracted, TI's concept is simple. TI already makes the pipes delivery systems around the globe. Tl, under the guidance of Sir Christopher 67 per cent over Walbro's share price prior to the deal. More relevantly the price is equivalent to 7.2 times 1998 earnings before interest. tax, depreciation and amortisation.

TEMPUS

its were ugly. Profit margins were cut in half and sales seem to be going nowhere.

The interim dividend was maintained at 4.7p. which indicates that the underlying picture is every bit as grim as

But none of this satisfactorileap in the share price to Fuelling fresh growth which supply fuel from the petrol tank to the engine. Walbro manufactures petrol tanks. Putting the two together will enable TI to offer vehicle manufacturers a one-stop shop for fuel Lewinton, has bought wisely. Its purchase price of $20 a share represents a premium of

It is obvious that Walbro is not Wall Street's best friend. It has invested heavily - perhaps excessively for a company of its size - in stateof-the-art manufacturing equipment but its shareholders have tired of the company's promises of jam tomorrow.

Moreover. Walbro's investment programme is responsible for the fact that $388 million (£241 milion) of TI's purchase price is assumed debt.

However, Walbro shareholders' loss is TI's gain. Walbro's production capacity leaves plenty of room for expansion and TI can draw on Walbro's technical knowledge. There is ample scope for TI to lift margins.

The acquisition is likely to be earnings neutral for TI this year, leaving the stock trading on a prospective earnings multiple of 14 times. This represents fair value now, but the earnings boost which will flow from Walbro in 2000 puts TI on the buy list.

in January.

from the 134p price plumbed

On occasion investors have to resign themselves to the fact that they work from a position of imperfect knowledge. We do not know what the excitement is but the gut says something is going on, share price leap. Pre-tax prof- 272½p, or the strong recovery ly explains yesterday's 32½p perhaps on the acquisition leap in the share price to front. Hold on.

ET IN HADES?

Arcadia

IT IS odd, even in these days of helter skelter sbare prices. Yet stock in Arcadia, the renamed and reformed Burton clothes shop, rose nearly 14 per cent yesterday. That made it the biggest riser on the day among the 350 largest quoted companies.

True, the share price has weakened in the past couple of days and part of yesterday's performance can be put down to a correction. Arcadia's reference to Internet trading may also have fired sentiment. But it must be becoming de rigeur these days for retailers to have healthy Web distribution channels. Internet exposure among serious retailers struggles, already, to be genuinely differ-

Yesterday's interim profit figures gave no comfort and could not have fuelled the

Builder's merchants AFTER Yuppies, Dinkies and Skis (pensioners who Spend the Kids' Inheritence) comes the Biddy. The Biddy is the homeowner who, when renovation and decoration is required, says to him/herself: Buy It, Don't Do It Yourself." Biddy culture goes some way to explain why DIY sheds have struggled to attract custom. Self-employed joiners, decorators and plumbers - the Biddy out-sourcers - do not buy from the retail sheds, but from builder's merchants. Shares in the builder's merchants have stormed away this calendar year. Meyer International, one of Tempus's 1999 new year tips, has done very nicely, adding 26 per cent since January.

Wolseley is up by a similar yesterday bought CRH's builder's merchant business, have risen from 355p in Janaury to 606p

DOLLAR RATES

1.5283-1.5295 1.4752-1.4762

6.9690-6.9710 0.9356-0.9384

7.7503-7.7508 118.68-118.73

now. CRH's Keyline has been a headache for the Irish company for ages, but with the focus of being part of a pure merchant it should do better.

More widely, local competition between merchants is not as great as among DIY sheds, but the jobbing builder still buys in relatively modest bulk and wants to source locally. Biddies, therefore, hand merchants crucial pric-

There is more to be had at Travis, Wolseley, and Meyer. Bioglan

BIOGLAN PHARMA'S Terry Sadler is keen for the City to know that his company is not some spivvy biotech outfit but "a real company with real sales and real profits".

So it is, but it is also one that is currently valued at 130 times its fully diluted earnthough this falls to a mere 84 times if you take Bioglan's preferred measure of eps, and to about 50 times on

Apr May Jun Jul Aug Sep Oct Nov Dec Jan Feb Mar Apr

FTSE All-share

The fragmented dermatology market provides Bioglan with plenty of opportunity to grow. Acne gels and eczema creams are too small to excite the interest of "big pharma", which is why Bioglan was able to pick up Zeneca's portfolio of products for £16 million last year. Bioglan, therefor, can continue its rapid growth by rolling out into continental Europe and the US.

None of this, however, is enough to justify the 95p rise in the shares since Bioglan's float last December. The market attached considerable value to Bioglan's drug delivery technologies that allow medicines to be taken via aerosols and wax sticks. The Bio-sphere technology for controlled release of proteins looks particularly interesting. But many of these projects re-

A decent company, but at 340%p the shares are pricey.

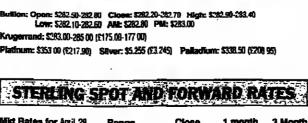

900 950 1000 1050 260 300 160 200 180 200 85's 111's 181 50's 83's 124 146's 8G (346)
8Style
(550)
8 Bo
(155*)
Discore
(125*)
Discore
(1310)
GLES (1015)
GLES
(1015 ABSLISIC 11928-1 Blue Cre C*4111 Br Aero C*479 Br Felom C*1078) Cardway 1780-2 Cardway 1780-2 Cardway 1780-4 Gallaher C*3541 Gallaher C*3541 Gallaher C*3541 Cre C*501 blue C*501 Cre C*501 Lassano C*500 Lassano C* 0ec 695', 633', 576'; 500 6400 6500 6500 6600 6700 6750 4001 763°. 402°. 442 353 % 316 252 % 252 % 223 193 % 166 % 479 449 4185 3665 3585 296 273 51614

Japanese Gort Bood	116.08 115.70 107.32 107.32 114.57 135.05 134.22 94.810 94.600 97.405	53294 0 0 11295 1056 50 9679 21894 18974 25177	81579 0 0 38117 0 6 163965 193813 148741
Sep 99	107.32 114.67 135.05 134.22 94 810 94.600 97.400	0 11295 1056 50 9679 21894 18974	38117 (163966 193813
Japanese Govt Board Am 99 134.95 135.08 134.83 569.99 734.16 134.76 1	135.05 134.22 94.810 94.830 94.600 97.400	1056 50 9679 21894 18974	183968 193813
Sep 99 734 16 134 76	134.22 94 810 94 830 94.600 97 400	50 9679 21894 18974	183965 193813
Sep 89 94.830 94.830 94.830 94.830 Dec 83 94.860 94.850 94.570 94.850 94.850 94.870 94.850 94.870 94.850 94.870 97.815 Sep 99 97.410 97.415 97.400 Dec 99 97.225 97.225 97.235 May 00 97.225 97.235 97.235 97.235 97.235 Jan 00 97.210 97.100 97.100	94 830 94.600 97 400	21894 18974	193813
Sep 99 97 410 97 415 97 400 Dec 99 97 225 97 225 97 205 Mar 90 97 295 97 205 97 270 Jan 90 97 210 97 100		25177
3-Mith Eurosavies in on 98 930 serven serven	97.210 97.280 97.200	21856 11471 16200 7930	205447 215099 134295 119523 57444
	98 970 96.880	10385 8107	100192 67383
Sep 99 97.400 97.400 97.400 Doc 99 May 00 97.270 97.270 97.270	97 400 97.405 97 210 97 280 97,200	11 10 0 9	104552 91789 62107 62219 62359
FTSE 100 Jun 99 5620 0 6641.0 6601.0	6635 0 6685 0	22068 300	195137 6897

LONDON FINANCIAL FUTURES

Base Rates: Clering Basis Discount Market Loans: Treesury Bills (Dis):Buy 1	Q/might hugh: 5'	1	Low 51 41, 3 min 4%	¥	feel, foed: 5%
Prime Bank Bills (Dis):	1 mth 5'+5'x	2 mth 5'-5'4	3 mth 5'e-5'e	6 mth 5'e-5's	12 mth
Sterling Money Rates: Interbank: Overnight, open 5', close 5';	5'z-5'ı 5'z-5'ı	5=5: 5=5:	5'-5's 5'-5's	5-5-	94-92 9 - 94
Local Authority Deps: Sterling CDs: Dollar CDs: Building Society CDs:	5% 5%57 4.82 5%-5%	88 5-5- 88 5-5-	5-5- 5-5- 489 5-5-	5-5- 5-5- 495 5-5-	5-5- 5-5- 5.20 5-5-
FUROV	AUM	ONEW	TEDAS	ITS PE
	of all the second	7	d - d - d - d - d - d - d - d - d - d -	1.44 410
Currency	1 mth	3 mth	6 मसी	12 mth	Cell
Dollar:	4" 5-4 "p	5-4%	9 -4 %	5°r-5′u	5-4
Sterling:	55-54	5'+5'z	5-54	54-54	54-44
Euro:	2 1-2- 2-2	24-24	24 5- 55 F	2°-2",	2:ds-2:pr
Yen; Canada:	" ₂ ,2	المهترا	1'- '-	1'-	1-par
	4"-4"=	4"-4 -	4"4"-	4-45	5'-4'-

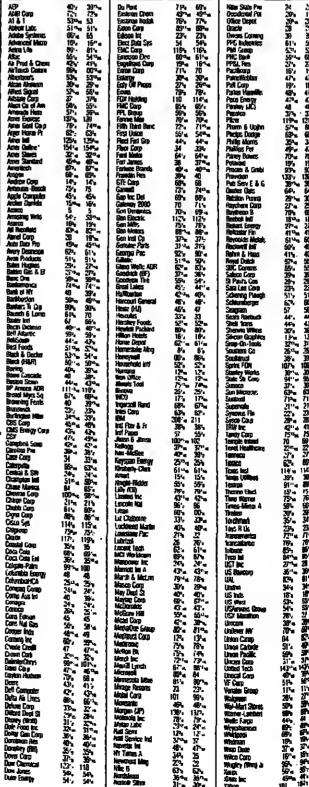

GOLD PRECIOUS METALS (Baint & Col-

Mikt Rates for Apri	28 Range	Close	1 month	3 Month
Copenhagen	11.253-11.298	11.283-11.298	la-leDf	3,-120
Luro	1.5180-1.5200	-1.5182-1.5197	0.13-0.15ds	0.42-0.45ds
Montreal	2.3833-2.3920	2.3833-2.3864	0.15-0.07pr	0.36-0.230
New York	1.6146-1.6194	1.6146-1.6156	0.062-0.042pr (
Osio	12.552-12.613	12.585-12.600	la-lads
Slockholm	13.468-13.559	13.535-13.559	4-140	9-3-0
lokyo	191.91-193.26	192.33-192.55	ئۇيە ^ت -ۋا	2 2 2
(urich	2,4344-2,4442	24411-2.4442	7 ₆₋₁₋₈ 7	2%-2%0

3)	854	Kinglisher	15,76
ASDA Gp Abbey No	27,951 2,116	Ladoroke Land Secs	14,54
Alince & Leic	3,216	Legal & Gn	1.14 6.38
Affled Dom	2.468	Liayds TSB	6.43
Apled Zrch	4,827	Marts Sor	9,17
Armescap	1,200	Mars	1.94
AB Foods	915	Nat Gnd	7.87
AstraZeneca Bk of Scot	3,655 4,486	Nat Power	10,37
BAA	2,437	Narwich Un	1.65 3.26
Barctays	3,495	Orange	1.76
Bass	1,573	P&O	4,47
86	11,698	Pearson	327
Billian	4,070	PowerGen	1.05
BOC	739	Prudential	11.50
Books	5,238	Railtrack	3.3
BP Amoco BAs	16,152	Reckiti Col	. 71
BA	24,688 13,308	Reed Initi	1,57
Bri Am Tob	9.405	Rentoldi Reuters	13,53
But Energy	3.300	Rio Tinto	3,94
BSky8	8,455	Rolls Royce	11,50 2,67
BT	11,765	Ryl & Sun	4 34
CEU	1.539	Ryl Bk Sct	4,38
COLT Telecom	442	SA Breweries	1,17
Gable Was	3,484	Savebury	9.51
Cadbury	2.899	Schoders	23
Cariton Cros. Centrica	2.428	Scot & New	7.33
Corneses Go	11,245 1,688	Scol Sihn Engi Scol Power
Daily Malf A	132	Securitor	5,74
Diageo	4,799	Serra Go	59
Oboons Grp	3,912	Sem Treat	51
EMAP	172	Shell Trans	78 34,18
EMA	3.935	Smiths Ind	72
Energis	930	Smi(I) Beh	72 11.35
Gen Elec	13,820	Stagecoach	3.79
GNN	2,075	Std Charts	5.07
Glaso Well	4.385	Sun Lite	3.25
Gragenta	1,536	TeleWest	5,10
GUS	2244	Tesco	33,63
Hanson	808 3,749	Thames W Unitever	61
i ici	1,487	Utd News	23.44 2.50
Imperal Tob	689	Urd Urthipes	1.15
HSBC	2834	Vodatone	2:11
Halitax	2,796	WPP	5.53
Hays	1,776	Vinitimean	1.45

New Sale Pwi Orders Depot Orders Depot Orders Depot Orders Depot Orders Comming Prid Garage Prid Garage Prid Garage Prid Res Prid Garage Prid Garage Prid Res Prid Garage Sale Commission Sale Commissi

to the train 172 Sec. or 160 نوبز therve found a pile of evidence

12 10 May 1 34.000 4, 37,000 Der Bre 46,000

Sugar Services Transferences

the total the Ship vings

 $\omega_1 \otimes \gamma_2 = \omega_2 \gamma_1$

38°51. . . 145 (A) (A) (111) (C) (

TAY STANK

ARES SATE

2010/03/03

. - -

1

 $||v|| = N \Delta x$

.....

*** ** ***

10.00

11.20 14.5

 $u\in \mathbb{T}_{n}(Q_{n}^{m})$

- 1.4-2 - 1.4-2

. 1

$45 L.

100

8.35

100

3 ...

وران والدائر

27 1

There is a

ing record to

 $(\pm 2) = -3$

April Comment JEST ATTENT Date: 18 (a) 电重数 沙克 Piere u $x_1 \in \{0, \frac{1}{2}\}$ ings in it pariners i and the sec May 64, 415 ngar er i g and mo a ramito wines the asked to a 语 网络饭 one reason Harkad mo fore they w 47 CBP/3 through a iint partner

because of statt in the the straining 1 - 34 m downsy, a Digat who i racis that al a mounth $\sim 3c + h_{M}$ "Los wyres" aheaked with ung ar umb minimun Totaly, wh čave john in

TRULY ME Palitice of Simsenfrom, ar effort m 1774 Page 20 San San An he sæmet go the way busi Creat Att DE TOWNS ME Tun was per were to the co क्षा क द्वीक व of mime ser

 $\mathcal{G}^{\alpha}\mathcal{U}_{\overline{G}}(\mathcal{A}_{\overline{G}}) = \mathcal{A}_{\overline{G}}(\mathcal{A}_{\overline{G}})$

The great partnership passes away

n 1998, Goldman Sachs went from strength to strength, earning more than a billion dollars in each of the first two quarters. Only 24 months after rejecting the notion of becoming a public company, the tandscape - the firm's fortunes, the markets. and its competition - had changed entirely. In December 1997, Jon Corzine (senior partner) had publicly stated that the majority of partners wanted the firm to remain private and that the issue of a public offering would not, he believed, be on the agenda in 1998. But the ram-pant bull market, which saw the Dow rise from 7.400 to 9,200 during the spring and continued to increase the valuadons given to investment banks, as well as rapid consolidation in the securities industry, contributed to the firm's decision to reconsider its private status in a project aptly named Echo. From 1995 to 1997, Goldman Sachs had watched Morgan Stanley merge with retailbased Dean Witter; Salomon Brothers combine forces with Smith Barney and Ciobank: Union Bank of Switzerland join with Swiss Bank Corporation; and Bankers Trust purchase niche mergers and acquisidon expert Alex Brown.

- 40881

WALLESTREET

But perhaps the biggest threat to the firm's continuing existence as a private independent investment bank came not from these mergers but from Merrill Lynch's purchase of the massive Mercury Asset Management. Goldman Sachs may or may not have wanted to buy Mercury, but it probably did not have the option to do so. As a private company, with no stock, it would have been extremely difficult for the firm to spend the more than $5 billion Merrill Lynch paid for the British fund manager, Early in 1998 Goldman Sachs had considered purchasing a stake in Garantia, the premier Brazilian investment bank, but the deal fell through. As other opportunities like this arose in asset management or bargains cropped up in the battered Asian economies, the firm was hamstrung without public shares to use as an acquisition currency. Some of the financial opportunities, as in the case of Merrill Lynch taking over bankrupt Yamaichi Securities or Salomon Brothers's investment in Nikko Securities at a time when the value of Japanese assets was depressed, would be shortlived, depending as they did on economic conditions that might soon change. The partners needed they were to capitalise on this window of opportunity.

"Structure follows strategy" was the watchword of the firm's newest committee, established in March as a sub-committee of the operating committee. Hank Paulson (vice-chairman) led a group of eight department heads in a review of the firm's strategy. The strategy committee was charged with surveying the terrain for the next five to ten years. imagining the world of 2008 and determining what kind of instituoon Goldman Sachs would be when it got there. As they had done before the 1996 meeting, the partnership and operating committees held a joint meeting in New York in May to hear the strategy committee's report. This was a very different meeting than the one that had taken place two years earlier. And although most of the faces in the room were the same, the outcome would be endrely different.

At this two-day meeting the strategy committee laid before the most senior partners a plan for vigorous expansion. The re-port rejected the notion of Gold-man Sachs joining the ranks of banking behemoths. The firm would not rush out and combine forces with Chase Man-hattan or JP Morgan, as had often been speculated, Goldman Sachs did not need to be a supermarket of financial services the opportunioes in its existing client and proprietary businesses were deemed more than ample for the firm to grow.

Coldman Sachs would con-timue down the path it had been on, albeit at a much faster pace. The firm had ambidous plans for expansion. Over the next five years the firm planned to double the number of people working in its clientserving business, which, it believed, would more than double the amount of revenue it earned. Building the firm's asset management through organic growth or small purchases, which is what the firm had done to date, was rejected in favour of much more agressive acquisitions, particularly in Europe and Japan

Many of the important strategic arguments - the possibility of making a large acquisition, defraying parmers' risk, and facilitating rapid expansion — strongly suggested a sale. The lone hurdle was the cultural issue. One current narmer feels that the issue boiled down to: "How do you walk in here the next day and look a guy in the face who has worked here for eight to ten years and tell him you've just taken away his opportunity to be a partner of the firm?"

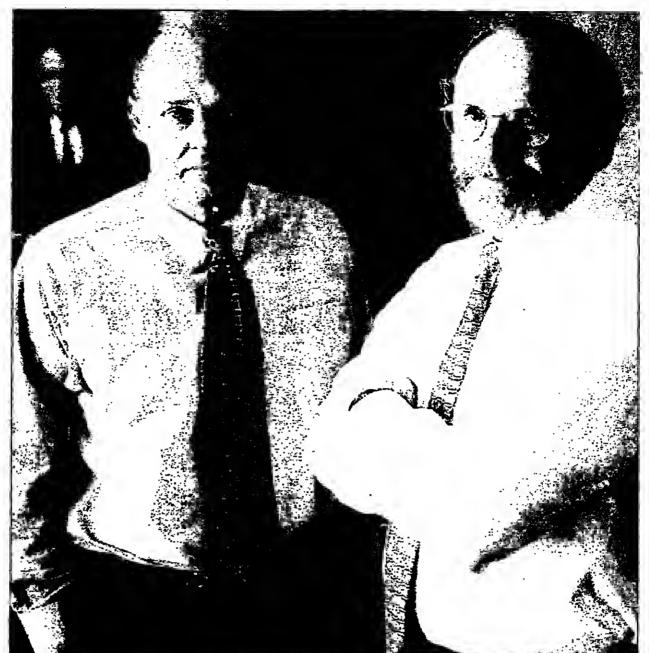

Tension built as the fateful meeting approached. Corzine told all employees early in June that they needed to hang on a little longer until there was resolution and that the management was glad to be facing this decision in a period of strength without the backdrop of financial anxieties. He also announced that Paulson would be named co-chairman and co-CEO of the firm, a position equal to Corzine's. It was a return to the past, to a management formula that had worked so well for the firm before.

oing into the June

12 meeting many felt the decision Everyone knew that in 1996, Corzine, Paulson, (Roy) Zucker-berg, and (Robert) Hurst had supported a sale, and many be-lieved that they would again, yet there were widespread reports of opposition by the youngest members. (John) in the two previous partner-ship-wide meetings on this sub-ject, no one doubted that management would not proceed with a sale if it lacked the overwhelming support of the firm's owners. And because of the division within the executive committee, the threshold for support among the partners would need to be high - a simple majority would not suffice. There was one crucial difference from the two earlier meetings. In 1986 the newest class of partners had only been on the job for six days and had almost no equity. In 1996, the equity of new 1994 partners was also relatively small, since 1995 was not a particularly strong year. But when the 1996 partners were asked to consider a public sale in 1998 they had already booked one record year and a second looked more than likely; therefore they would have much larger capital stakes to sell. Although it is always the most junior partners who are disadvanraged by a sale, in 1998, in part because of the inflated valua-

ON TUESDAY, Goldman Sachs will float on the New York Stock Exchange, so ending 130 years of partnership and turning hundreds of senior executives, including Hank Paulson, left, and Jon Corzine into multimillionaires. Twice before, in 1986 and 1996, Goldman came close to ending its partnership structure, but pulled back from the brink. In the first of two exclusive extracts from Goldman Sachs: The Culture of Success by Lisa Endlich, the story of how Goldman finally decided to become a public company can be told.

tions the stock market had placed upon investment banks well into the summer months, for this group the economics would be compelling. Goldman Sachs's 190 partners retreated on Friday, June 12, to the IBM Palisades executive conference centre north of New York City, where they brick and omber complex on too of a hill. Security was high, with extra plain clothes security guards on duty, and the entrances to the compound were closed. The location of the meeting had been kept secret, and many members of the press congregated at the Arrowwood conference centre, assuming the meeting would be there. Even with the extra security one journalist climbed over the fence and another tried to infiltrate the meeting using a fake ID card. As rain poured down outside, the partners faced what Paulson called a decision of "grave importance . . . one of the most important things the firm will ever do." As had been the case in 1986 and 1996, the format of the two-day meeting included a presentation by the committee studying the firm's options, a 50-page folio of financial scenarios, and an open and spirited debate by the entire partnership. No one expected there to be a vote at this gathering; there was no formal proposal and nothing to vote on. The partnership would signal its interest to the executive committee, and later, if it was deemed to be the will of the group, a specific proposal would be drawn up on which the partners would then vote.

Paulson spoke at the first session on Friday morning, and his words set the tone for the next two days. Paulson's goal was to make all partners in the room re-examine their posicion and rethink any assumptions they might have held before the meeting. Partners remember that he made both cases, for going public and for staying private, in an exaggerated manner, causing everyone to consider the repercussions of their viewpoints.

> TOMORROW man's role in the rise and fall of Robert Maxwell

In the evening, the partners met for a barbecue and what was billed as an entirely social evening. The atmosphere was a little like that in a college dormilory, as many partners watched the NBA playoffs on TV, while others milled in and out of game rooms and congregated in small groups in hallways and on stairs to discuss the burning issue of the moment. On Saturday morning Corzine as the old Comintern elections.

An audible groan went through the City audience at the Reuters/Tempest Consult-ants award ceremony yesterday, the third time that Merrill Lynch pipped Warburg Dillon Read to the top.

Even worse is the polarisa-don of analysts. Of the 1,300 idenofied by the survey, half re-ceived no votes at all from any fund manager. (Cue another groan, more heartfelt this time).

The top 10 per cent now ac-addressed the group on a subject close to his heart - fair-ness. But first he felt a responsibility to read a letter he had received from John Weinberg and John Whitehead (former chiefs of Goldman Sachs) the previous afternoon. The two Johns were opposed to the partners' selling the firm. They be-lieved strongly that "If it ain't broke don't fix it". Both were committed to the notion that the partnership was one of the things that had made the firm finished there was a round of great and that it would be a misapplause from the floor. take to tamper with it. Corzine had spoken to Weinberg, who had assured his successor that he would support wholeheartpartners argued. A global busiedly whatever decision the part ners made. Those who heard Corzine speak remember that he annotated these remarks by reminding those assembled that Weinberg as well as other former Goldman chairmen. Robert E Rubin, and Stephen Friedman had each, along with their management committees. at some point recommended that the firm go public. Cor-zine, who had been a member of each of those management committees, had supported the proposal each time and, with-out strongly advocating it now. supported it again.

By mid-morning on Saturday the leadership was done talking, and it was time to hear from the partnership. What followed was an impassioned debate, but nothing like the emodonal response that had poured out in 1986. As had been the case in 1986 and 1996 the floor was opened for discussion and more than 100 partners stated their point of view. A discussion began in which the arguments, many of them eloquently framed, emerged in phasised his or her support for the outcome, whatever it might be, and after each speaker was

Goldman Sachs would never let a client have the capital structure the firm itself had, some ness hoping to expand to more than 20,000 employees cannot rest on a capital base that has no permanence. In a risky cyclical business it makes no sense to expose the resources of a handful of people to the whims of the world's capital markets.

Those for and against felt that they had the issue of strategy on their side. The firm would not be able to make a large acquisition without stock, and without this ability it might be relegated to being a niche player, unable to compete for all of the top business

The discussion, which was expected to end before lunch, went on until 2pm, with people going out to get food and re-turning to eat at their desks. After the long open session each partner was asked to fill out an anonymous writter questionnaire for submission to the executive committee asking which ownership format they preferred and why.

On Saturday afternoon at about 2:30 the meeting adjourned and the partners left the conference centre, some driving back to the city, some to the airport. They did not know what would happen next; the fate of the firm had been left in the hands of six men of differing opinions. There had been the overwhelming sense that a majority of those present supported the idea of selling the firm, but Corzine and Paulson had made it clear that a supermajority would be needed. The execuóve comminee cloistered itself for the next 30 hours to review, reflect, and decide. They emerged from this meeting unittheir belief that Goldman Sachs should sell a portion of the firm to the investing public. A detailed proposal would be drawn up for the partnership to vote on during the summer, and anticipating that there would be more than sufficient support from the partnership and hospitable markets, the firm would have an initial public offering in the autumn of 1998.

Some were cynical about the firm's decision to go public. The same question asked two years earlier had yielded a resounding no. Partners talked endlessly about the value of partnership, but at the height of the greatest bull market in history they were willing to relinquish control of their firm. Others saw it differently, viewing the firm's continuing status as a private partnership as the result of inertia and nostalgia. A partnership, they believed, is an obsolete structure with which to operate a vastly expanding, glo-bal, risk-taking enterprise. The money, which they intended to spread to every employee of the firm, would only strengthen the organisation. Those who supported the change pointed out that far from being greedy, Goldman Sachs's leaders pushed for this move in 1996. when the firm would have sold for not substantally more than its book value. Some limited partners wor dered about the wisdom of a public sale. Among those re-tired from the firm are partners who, when faced with the opportunity to sell as general partners, declined on the grounds that the partnership made the firm great. One limited partner went so far as to say: "A lot of us think there's a big danger here that you could kill a goose that over the years, had laid an awful lot of golden eggs. Why in God's name would you want to tamper with something that has worked so well?" On the other side, many limited partners had voted to sell the firm in 1986, or supported the idea in 1996, but from the standpoint of personal gain their tim-ing had not been perfect. Pub-licly. Friedman characterised the move as a way to husband scarce parmership capital. "We're in the longest stock mar-ket boom and the biggest one in history," he said with some prescience. "What you do is you store up your seed corn in the event of a bad period. One hears the rumour there used to be a time when stock markets went down.

n the day following

ment, its co-CEOs

were on the defensive. A barrage of press specu-lation on how rich they and their partners would become had, they felt, missed the point of the sale. "Contrary to what you might read, we are not doing this because of the money. This is not about cashing out. Corzine asserted vehemently. "We intend to be the pre-eminent, independent global investment bank. We are going to be tough, and we will have the capital to compete." Paulson emphasised that the firm would not merge with a big bank or retail operation. The firm would use the capital provided by a public offering to do more of what it already did well, as a vehicle for growth. Some of the post mortems mourned the passing of the last great Wall Street partnership, decrying the end of an era. Yet the importance of this transition, while historically in-teresting, is minimal to the in-dustry. Did it matter that the industry leader was a private partnership able to conduct its business without focusing on the short term and the smooth flow of recurring earnings that stock markets applaud? Probably not. Goldman Sachs had wly but surely been ready ing itself to become a public company. Now that the time for change had arrived, the transformacion could be smoother and simpler than at any time in the firm's history.

☐ Goldman Sachs: The Culture of Success is published by

Little Brown, price £20

Trust fund

I HAD the impression that the not enough time to see individmerger between Deutsche Bank and Bankers Trust was taking ages. But it seems the deal is advancing too fast for Bankers Trust, which has to make extra payouts to staff who will not be retained in order to comply with EU law.

The requirement is that everyone involved must be in-terviewed to assess if there is a post for them in the merged firm. Unfortunately, there is ually all 2,500 Bankers Trust staff in the City and the other 1.000-odd in Edinburgh, and anyway, it is already pretty clear who is not wanted on the voyage, so to speak.

They've found a

Some dealers are on contracts that can be terminated at a month's notice, on either side - but only if they are "interviewed" first. The bank has checked with Brussels, and the way around this is to pay them a minimum of three months' money, whether or not they have jobs to go to elsewhere.

TRULY bizarre scenes at the Institute of Directors' annual convention. The organisers, in an effort to enliven proceedings, had crafted an interlude in which children acted out little scenes giving their views on the way business operates. Enter Mr Sock. The impromptu star of the Albert Hall was perched on the shoulder of one of the young narrators to give prompts and a sort of mime version of what was going on. Mr Sock, however.

was just that, a hand in a sock, and was understandably limited to waves and other such simple gestures. None of which made a lot of sense or were much appreciated by an increasingly embarrassed audience. One senses that like Peter Mandelson, speaker at last year's convention, Mr Sock will not be asked back.

Prize bore THOSE surveys of which brokers and merchant banks are most popular with the fund managers are becoming about as exciting and unpredictable count for more than two-fifths of all votes cast, and most of them work for the top three brokers, the two above plus BT Alex Brown. And those top three get two-fifths of all the commission earned by the City. No show

THE first award at the Tempest/Reuters ceremony, for the fund manager most popular with finance directors, went to Donald Tosh at Legal & General. When he was called to pick up his award, there was an embarrassing silence.

Donald Tosh? Is Donald Tosh here? Nope. Tosh and the rest of the UK equices team at L&G chose yesterday for a morale-building "away day", at which they lock themselves away and think deep strategic thoughts. Or something like that.

SOME excuses you simply cannot make up. The West Anglia Great Northern rail line, from King's Cross to Peterborough, has an excellent performance record. However, under "events outside our control" the operator this month admitted to: "Nude trespassers on the line."

Mutual aid

THE Yorkshire Building Society has dug the Bradford & Bingley out of a hole by agreeing to sponsor the Building Society ties Association annual conference next month. The B&B had promised the money, but this week's surprise vote for conversion means that I doubt anyone from there will dare to show their face in Harrogate.

But the money was still due until the Yorkshire decided to step in. Derek Roberts, chairman, says the only problem is filling the extra table of ten at the BSA dinner. Don't be discouraged. Harrogate in May sounds fine to me.

> MARTIN WALLER city.diary@the-times.co.uk

How many telecoms managers does it take to

When telecoms managers recently voted Energis No.1 for quality of service', It was a real commendation from the people who really matter. Not a claim, not a promise, but proof that we are committed to delivering quality of service to our customers - day in, day out.

And our commitment to service doesn't stop there. Our incernet company, Planet Online, has been named as the top business ISP*, while our national network has consistently been rated as the most reliable.

Energis is the only rational telecoms provider to dedicate its all-round expertise solely to business. So, whether voice, data or e-commerce, isn't it time you thought about changing to us!

call us now on 0800 316 0613.

www.energis.co.uk

ENERGIS

,750 TMA

members can't be wrong

voice+dataforbusiness

Young warns of US trade war

A NEW trade crisis is looming between the UK and the US following the banana wars, Lord Young of Graffham, President of the Institute of Directors, said yesterday.

Lord Young told the 2,500 delegates at the loD's annual convendon that tempers would flare again between the two countries over Europe's decision to ban the import of US beef because of fears over the effects of hormone treatment and increasing worries over GM foods. He said: "We might see this as a health risk but Washington will see this as a pure protection. We are turning Europe into a Fortress Europe for Food."

His comments follow the World Trade Organisation's backing for US penalties imposed on some European goods, such as batteries, candles and toiletries in retaliation for Europe's imports of Caribbean bananas.

Lord Young gave warning that trade was being ignored as world leaders tackled the crisis in the Balkans. "It would be ironic if there were to be an even bigger falling out of the partners of Nato that pro-

ACCOUNT

HALIFAX INSTANT SAVER: ...

£100:000+ £40,000+

£20,000+

:£40.000±.

FO DAY GOLD

1250x00045

£25,000±

Monthly Riciona Option 210030004

£5,000+

SOLID GOLD

£25,000+ ... £10,000+

£10,000#

45.000+

MATURED FÉRIOS ACCOLINT

OSED ISSUES

NA pellabe to ree customers) Special Reserve Boud

£10,000-Hajitan Extra One Year Maturity Bond

ACCOUNT

BONUS GOLD

CHITTEE SAMER

Vicality tricino Option £10,000+ £2,0001

Lord Young of Graffham said tempers would flare over the decision to ban the import of US beef because of fears over the effects of hormone treatment

duced the next crisis, the one that would overshadow even the tragedy of Kosovo."

Philip Lader, the US Ambassador to the UK, admitted that there were differences between 5.40. 5.30.

4.25 8.55

2.65

3.15

2.95

2.70

538

4.00

4.25 3.85 3.75

4.15

6.50

New interest rates for Halifax customers.

The Halifax announces new interest rates for savings customers.

UK rates

Effective from 1st May 1999.

Rates payable to Halifax non-resident and non-personal savers are advertised separately.

5.60 5.46 5.27 5.18

5.08 4.70 4.36 4.17 3.49

2.60

3.95 3.60

5.50

4,00

2.30

2.76 2.28

Bonus Accounts

Rates shown do not include bonus, except where stated.

4.25 4.00 3.65 3.55

271

4.41 4.07 3.78 3.69

2.90

CURRENT

Halifax ISA Saver

Please note current interest rates for Halifax ISA Saver will be held until 30th June 1999. New rates which will apply from 1st July 1999 are shown below.

the two countries. Mr Lader, who was also at the IoD, said: "Given the magnitude of trade relations between the UK and the US it is not surprising that occasionally there will be differences of opinion. But I hope that we can put disputes in the context of otherwise succesful US/EU trade relations." Mr Lader was last month summoned to see Stephen By-

3.60

3.91

1.88

2.45

2.14

1.68

1.60 1.52 0.40

3.20

3.00

2.72

4.20

3.04

2.04 1.64

2.02 1.62

4.00

4.16

3.40 3.20

2.92 2.84

3.14

2.79

2.16

NET P.E. %

RATES FROM 01/05/99

2.35

3.06

2.86

2.10

1.90

3.75 3.40 2.70

5.25

5.00

5.20

5.25 5.00 4.65

5.24

RATES FROM 01/07/99

5.75

RATES FROM 01/05/99

270

5.75

250 270 236

2.00 1.90

3.80 3.80 3.44 2.73

5.20

ers, the Secretary of State for Trade and Industry, over the banana issue. Mr Byers told him that the US's behaviour was completely unacceptable. Yesterday Mr Lader said that after earnest negotiations, the disputes between the two countries could eventually be seen as "irritations". He said he was trying to "lower the decibel level" over the trade rows.

Get an Internet grip, says Gates

BILL GATES, chairman of Microsoft, yesterday said that chief executives must get to grips with the Internet and digital technology rather than delegate such skills amid concern that the UK is lagging the US in the use of technology.

Mr Gates told the Institute of Directors that the US was ahead of other nations in electronic commerce and in adapting to technology because many start-up businesses had embraced it at an early stage. making it integral to their activities. He said that the greater risk-taking attitude among US businesses also helped company leaders to take up the full potential of technology. However, he said that British business, although behind ent from those of banks.

TECHNOLOGY

US business, was ahead of most countries in exploiting technology.

The Microsoft founder said it was "imperative" that businesses put technology top of their priorities because it was fast changing the way business operates. He said: "There is a real need for this to be not just something that junior people talk about. The management needs to get involved."

Mr Gates said that companies needed to obtain advice on how technology could best be used in their sectors. Retailers' needs would be very differ-

Grade criticises negative attitudes

ecutive of First Leisure, yesterday attacked negative attitudes to the leisure industr "at all levels from oational Government downwards".

Praising the industry for employing 2.5 million people and accounting for 10 per cent of GDP, Mr Grade said: "So do we make a song and dance about our nightclubs, or bowi the rest of the world over with our skills at creating state-ofthe art tenpin centres? Don't be silly — this is Britain!"

Mr Grade went on to criticise "archaic planning regulations". He complained: "The fate of the leisure industry is in the hands of legislators and regulators who don't know it exists, don't know its potential and therefore cannot understand its problems."

LEISURE INDUSTRY

He launched a general attack on Britain's lack of appetite for innovation and new ideas in business. He said it was a "deep malaise which has for too long infected the British pysche".

> REPORTS by Christine Buckley

Boards are abdicating to false Messiahs Saxon fashion has developed or most businesses, a board of directors is an unimaginable luxury. If owner-managers aspire to more than the legal minimum, it is usually to get expensive professional advice for the price of an occasional lunch. As the best or mosi ambidous expand, all sorts of new issues of accountability to an ever-widening circle of shareholders and outsiders build up. A col-lectively responsible board becomes ever more vital.

Aside from stock market flotation, there are few clear staging posts on the way to the instinutional status of the Prudential, ICI or Glaxo Wellcome. That is why the role of the board, who should be on it. relations of managers and non-execuoves, or the chairman and the chief executive are subject to endless dispute and covered in acres of flannel that still cannot hide the gulf between theory and reality.

On his retirement from the chair. Sir Ronald Hampel rechair, Sir Konaid Hampel revived a 30-year ICI tradition of railing against ignorant critics. Fund managers now make boards "tick boxes" to show they are complying with silly rules laid down by committees headed in turn by Sir Adrian Cadbury, Sir Richard Greenbury and, yes, Sir Ronald himself.

Maybe the rules were bad. Perhaps they obscure other cultures that can be equally effective, though all must stand scrutiny.

SEARJEANT

The issue that dominated the original Cadbury committee was how to stop one person from having complete control of a top company and running it into the ground. Names such as British & Commonwealth, Polly Peck and Maxwell Communications head a long list.

One obvious solution was to separate the roles of chairman and chief executive. Yet many top groups, including the oil majors. Anglo-Dutch Unilever and the old ICI iiself, had a strong management cadre from which one chairman for a limited term. At the other extreme, some of our dozier financial institutions had, until recently, a non-executive board filled with top strategy-setting City types ruling a chief general manager who had emerged the hard way by decades of effort. Changes of culture and the transition from an entrepreneur are perilous. In top companies, it is agreed. the board should set strategy, and management implement it. But a bizarre Anglo-to try to recreate venturing beginnings by turning chief executives into Messianic boss figures. To make things worse, non-executive directors then evolve from supportive advisers into Pharisaic judges eager to find any hint that a Messiah might be false. This may be what put off heart-murmuring Dick O'Neill, who was due to take over from Martin Taylor as chief executive of Barclays.

Mr Taylor had been more strategist than manager. Combining both roles is usually too much, as the codes acknowledge. Yesterday Yesterday Keith Henry was fired as chief executive of National Power, seemingly because its strategy was in a mess. Had the board been properly run, its chairman, Sir John Collins, should have been the first to go. He should resign pronto or return his pay.

The entrepreneur manager in the mould of Lord Weinstock is a rarity in the UK. Even he needed supportive chairmen and a close management group. He also left succession problems. So did Mike Blackburn. larger than life architect of the now ailing Halifax. Here the board has risked a contplete change of culture. A new chief executive from insurance is teamed with a was not on the board, though he has clubland connections.

Sir Dennis Stevenson. who will absurdly chair two FTSE 100 companies, is the latest incarnation of that patheoc English invention, the star non-executive, trusted in the City to be put in charge of any company needing a financial makeover. The paucity of capable strategists is attested by the continuing prominence of ageing Young Turks of the 1960s Industrial Reorganisation Corporation and will be made worse by the demise of the London merchant bank.

They seem to achieve transitions more easily in collegiate Japan and more ele gantly at shareholder-led BMW. If a figure like BP's Sir John Browne turns up, all the better. Big companies should be capable of being chief execuove at WH Smith, is a better model than Rand V Araskog, who ruled ITT as chairman, president and chief executive officer to = 121 run by competent managers and chairmen with no pretensions to Messianic status. Richard Handover, the unassuming second choice as prove he was in charge.

Harnessing the airwaves

t is usually only large media companies or maverick music enthusiasts who undertake the complex and expensive process of setting up a radio station. Technology is making it increasingly affordable and straightforward, however, for all kinds of businesses to set up temporary radio stations as part of their marketing strategies. Companies that have used socalled "limited licence radio" include TG1 Friday, the restaurant chain, Lakeside, the Essex shopping centre, and The Rugby Evening Telegraph. Limited licence radio has also been used to promote events such as the Machine Tools and Technology Association's annual conference at Birmingham's NEC. The process of bidding for a temporary licence - which gives the holder the right to broadcast for up to 28 days — then getting hold of the equipment needed to set up a station. is becoming simpler thanks to a handful of tiny high-tech media companies that specialise in organising broadcasts. One such is Show FML

Show FM approaches the Radio Authority (RA) on behalf of its clients, and attempts to justify why they should be given licences. Although the cost of applying for a licence is tiny (a £200 application fee, plus about 580 a day), bidders must convince the RA that proposals "broaden will choice".

Of course, companies have to step up their marketing activities to boost awareness of their temporary radio stations, although Show FM argues that simply putting a huge mobile radio studio in a crowded town centre often does the job. But how effective are tempomuch do they cost? Research carried out by Mirror Group, the national and regional newspaper company, suggests that limited licence stations can achieve market share of up to 31 per cent, within a ten to 12-mile rary radio stations, and how broadcast radius. The total cost to the client, meanwhile, is typically tween £800 and £1.500 per day.

according Show FM. Given this relatively modest cost (it can cost up to £70,000 for one full-page advert in a nadonal newspaper) - and the fact that much more airspace is about to be made available by the RA when digital radio arrives - means limited licence radio stations look likely to become an increasingly important part of many companies' marketing strategies

☐ WORKERS will soon be able to reproduce their office desktons on their laptop or home PCs, thanks to software from Sun Microsystems. The software, called i-Planet, creates a "virtual workspace" by allowing workers to access their office software applications, calendars, personal files and e-mail, via the Internet.

☐ LUCENT Technologies, the telecoms equipment manufacturer, has invented a device that can speed-up the process of downloading files from the Internet, and ease Internet congestion. IPWorX "detects and anticipates" Internel traffic volume. and is able to replicate Web pages without the viewer noticing anything but the lack of waiting time, Lucent says.

CHRIS AYRES

DELL PCs FROM £799 DIRECT FROM THE FACTORY.

Free offers now when you order online.

BE DIRECT

POINTS TO NOTE. AER stands for Annual Equivalent Rate and Bustrates what the interest rate would be if interest was paid and compounded each year. Interest will be paid net after the lower rate of income tax (currently 20%) has been deducted unless you have completed a registration form and made a declaration to comply with Inland Revenue regulations. The net rates shown, which are only examples and have been rounded assume the lower rate of income tax has been taken off. All inferest rates quoted may change. †Special rates of interest on certain accounts paid to savings customers who appear in our records as being under 21. If your savings account balance is less than $50 you will not receive any interest unless you appear in our records as being under 21. "Full account conditions and details of when interest is paid, and how to qualify for the YESSA Gold, Halifax TESSA, Halifax TESSA 2, Bonus Gold and Monthly Saver bonuses, are available from any Halifax branch. Halifax plc, Trinity Road, Halifax 29th April 1999

6.00

Reith Daniels on the

or a constant pres

77.4

Trace.

 C_{i}^{} $\rightarrow -C_{i}^{}$

N. 18 . 18

Running just to aand still

Tarper. to a first

Court of Appeal Adverse 1 at the one harrows a Black-

Tell to the

100 Bulletin المهارية المنافقين 2071 1286 - N. T. A 500 N

11 gram.

MAN DE WES

AND COMMO

Title and the

A20 . X

2012 Co. 10

المناسات مترز estativa are ner ansolu Commission (19) District the plant. ----farm coneach untill 77700 ಟ್ರಾಗಣದ ಚಿನ್ನಾರ $10 Art 5 104 STATE OF THE stance be

> 33 SATA like to a 71.440 granted an (Ourt by parte Input pri lusussem Line with

1.3.12 Tillian

Command Course

in the free days. And the second s

The state of the s

And the second of the second

भार के प्रशासक The state of consideration) train and and sufficie attal salative to errorio. 3 175 ∴i kalih an -41.00 (SI $(a_0) \in \mathbb{Q}_{2N_{\mathbb{Z}}}$ A Transport Wing an ap-

Mr Keen ≓n: Mr.Ω الإسلامية FORD II and the App 4-4ರ್ಷ ಕರ್ನಾ 'ದಿಸಿದರ ಇದಿಗಳು Contract to The appropriate 1-1-1-1-1-1 arri kan an والمراس مكسا Pradiction of

E TIMES THURSDAY APRIL 29 1999 How far will tax tide rise?

Keith Daniels on the subtle forces that are exerting pressure for fiscal harmonisation throughout the EU recently addressed an au-dience of UK executives on the issues surrounding attempts to promote harmonisation of corporate taxa-tion throughout Europe. To my surprise, although the more was well understood, there was little appreciation of the degree to which UK tax law has already been influenced by the European dimension.

However, all those present sensed a hidden agenda to raise the burden of corporate laxes as high as practicable, and the focus moved to the rates of corporate tax charged throughout Europe. Rates, though, are not the key driver in this debate. The tax base to which they are applied is far more signif-

As Gordon Brown has shown on more than one occasion, the Government can raise additional tax revenue by careful manipulation of the tax base while cutting headline rates to attract favourable media coverage.

The top-down approach to European tax harmonisation, as tried in Germany, has seemed to run into the buffers and other issues have emerged to attract the media's attention. But is that the end of the matter? In my

We have ceded part of our

Running just to

ASK most senior people in the Big Five accountancy firms what worries them

most and they tend to re-spond: "Recruiting more good people to keep growth running at high levels."

Certainly, the message seems to have hit home at KPMG. It has a poster cam-paign running that shows an athlete bursting through the winning tape in a heady mix of stand still

sovereignty to Europe al-ready. Principles of Europe-an law can be used to chal-lenge domestic legislation, and UK courts are becoming more confident in giving rulings based on these princi-ples. Harmonisation of the tax system by judicial inter-pretation will take a very long time, but the process will grind on and common interpretations will result.

The much-criticised proposed directive on a common system of applying withhold-ing tax to interest has caused a stir, particularly in London's eurobond market. The essence of the directive is to counter evasion of personal tax due on undisclosed deposits held outside a tax authority's jurisdiction.

However, as originally drafted, the directive would potentially cause the eurobond market to seek a new home outside the EU, and thousands of jobs would be at risk.

The national veto could be used to defeat the European Commission's proposals, but clearly it would be preferable if an accommodation could be reached that did not require use of such a blunt instrument. This attempt at harmonisation can be seen as an unwelcome visitor com-ing through the political front door. Yet there are oth-

telephone number of KPMG

Commuters walking across London Bridge into the City have been puzzled that one of these massive posters has been stuck on the roof of a barge moored beside the bank

This may seems to be an odd place to have a poster. Not so, II is placed directly opposite the glass walls that constiof the Thames below.

Consulting.

Keith Daniels says court rulings may foster harmonisation

er more subtle harmonisation steps occurring at the po-litical back door.

A fundamental principle of international law is that one nation will not normally enforce collection of another's tax. Last year, the Commission recommended a directive amendment that. if adopted, might require the Inland Revenue prospectively to enforce collection of,

HISTORY was made at the

Scots ICA annual meeting. For the first time, an accountancy body has voted to allow non-accountants, lay people, on its council. People were casting around as to who might qualify for the two places that will be set aside for less numerate

Representatives of consum-ers' bodies and the like were suggested. But the institute really doesn't have to look that far. Sean Connery is tub-but interested people.

ANY OTHER BUSINESS

Bonding

say, Italian tax from a UK company operating in Italy

— a big change in policy, with overtones in terms of harmonisation.

The most significant difficulty for advocates of harmonisation is measuring the tax base. Quite apart from differ-ing fiscal codes, there is not, as yet, a uniform measure of accounting profits through-out the EU. International acthumping his way around the hills and glens at the moment with a view to doing worrying things with a claymore to opposing politicians. The actor would certainly shake up a

ACCOUNTANTS are famously those people who never own up to their real occupation at parties. But it may all be changing. There is another business which, by all accounts, reckons that its image

Image problem

council meeting.

ing in credibility, but it may be many years before universal recognition is secured.

The information age will also have its effect. With modern electronic communications, does each company in a group require its own support services? Shared service centres are becoming a reality, with one company in a worldwide group providing, say, the accounts func-tion to all group members. Differences between jurisdic-tions are thereby highlight-ed, which may influence in-vestment decisions.

ax competition, too, will play a part. Glo-bally-tnobile investment will be drawn to jurisdictions with attractive fiscal regimes. Losers will complain of unfair competition. but eventually will play the same game or face damaging economic consequences. A common currency may be a precursor to further political, social and economic integration in Europe. The Big Bang approach to tax harmonisation is unlikely ever to succeed, but there are other agents. Court rulings, international accounting harmonisation and integration of big multinationals will all influence the pace and direction of change.

Just as an incoming tide. harmonisation will eventually reach a high water mark.

Keith Daniels is President of the Chartered Institute of Taxation and a KPMG partner has plummeted as low as it can go. And that is information technology. According to a report in MicroScope magazine, the chief executive of Cap Germini in the UK has taken to the conference platform to thunder that "this industry is not just hut intelligent and educated And Alan Stevens, chief executive of EDS in the UK, took the doom-laden talk to its logical conclusion. "We have lost the battle with accountancy," he said. 'That has a much better image than we do."

made up of techies and nerds

ROBERT BRUCE

Judgment call on internal controls

There is but one problem with the Turnbull report. The appliance of judgment is considered old hat. This is placency will no longer be possible. The system will have to be embedded in the company. Boards of directors will have stringent is unfortunate because the report depends, quite rightly, on the directors of listed com-panies reaching conclusions based on judg-ment and then communicating them to shareholders.

The whole area of internal controls has been fraoght for the same reasons. While other areas of corporate governance have been sorted out so that a combined code now exists and is in force, the business of internal controls has had a coovoluted

It has gone through many permutations since it was advocated by the original Cadbury code. But now it has come home in a good and challenging form. Once it was suggested that only financial internal controls should be subject to corporate governace guidance. Now it has been widened to include eveternal controls basket. So directors will now have to have a review system em-bedded within the company enabling them to reach a view oo everything from risk management and fraud to health and safety and environmental factors.

rything in the burgeoning in-

The report, named after its chairman, Nigel Turnhull, the Rank Group's finance director, states that "a company's system has as its principal aim the management of risks that are significant to the fulfilment of its business objectives with a view to safe-guarding the company's asguarding the company's as-sets and enhancing over time the value of within companies. As the senior partner of shareholders' investment". In short, this one of the largest firms put it to me last stuff deals with the heart of a company. If this goes wrong then the company goes down. "Internal control," Turnhull will tell you, "takes governance right into the heart

This may not go down well with company directors. Nor will Turnbull's view that the result of the processes that his report unleashes "forces the board of directors to understand the business".

To an outsider this may seem odd, What are directors doing there if they do not un-What Turnbull is getting at is that many directors take a similar view to Sir Ronald Hampel of ICI when he ran the Hampel Committee on Corporate Governance. Underlying it is the idea that companies shoold be prosperous and all this corporate governance stuff just gets in the way. Turnbull knows that directors ought to understand the internal controls, but they tend to just assume that these things happen.

With the new guidance in place, this com-responsibilities to assess the effectiveness of those systems and ensure that all weak-oesses are being remedied.

They will have to monitor changes in the system and then disclose their findings in the annual report. There they will have to report that they have reviewed the system's effectiveness and disclose any material failings and what they have done, or intend doing, about them.

The intention is to avoid "boilerplate" cororate governance statements where a verbal formula clouds any understanding. Roger Davis, the head of professional affairs at PricewaterhouseCoopers, was the deputy chairman of the Turnbull commit-tee. He is an enthusiast for companies explaining clearly. "If you pick up ICI's report you find it is all boilerplate," he said. "The shareholders cannot make anything of it."

een ent. tely nal nis-

am ew tri-ids. uld uth nti-

The report is a hreak-through. But the enthusi-asm for judgment being exercised and its results being reported goes against the grain of the corporate Company directors, and their auditors, both inter-nal and external, have come to hate the idea of judgment these days. Partly, it is the problem of liti-gation. If you exercise judgment and things go wrong, then the lawyers will be set upon you.

week, society in general is now much more intolerant of failure. People come under greater fire for failure. So they prefer to fol-low rules they can then either cite or blame. depending on the results of their actions. And that makes them safer should litiga-

Once upon a time, accountants used their judgment first and then, only secondly, checked to see if the chosen solution was in line with the existing rules. Now the process tends to be the other way round. This makes the place of the Turnbull report a difficult one. The hope is that companies will see greater benefit in explaining things to stakeholders and increasing the worth and stability of their husiness by so doing. If everyoue instead pulls down the shutters and goes off to consult the lawyers then husinesses are hardly likely to retain their dynamism. It is time for arguments on the issue of how judgment gives you a competitive edge.

tute London Bridge City. home of the consulting busiachievement and triumph. The message reads: "Know ness of rival firm Pricewaterhow it feels" and gives you the

Law Report April 29 1999

Court of Appeal

Court of Appeal Adverse possession claim fails

Before Lord Justice Nourse, Lord Justice Buxton and Sir Christopher Staughton

[Judgment March 31] A beneficiary of an unadministered estate who was in possession of land comprised in that estate for a period exceeding 12 years could not maintain against the other beneficiaries a daim to adverse posses sion of the land for the purposes of section 15(1) of the Limitation Act 1980. Paragraph 9 of Schedule 1 to that Act applied to prevent a right of action from being treated as accruing during that ome. The Court of Appeal so held dis-missing an appeal by the defendant, Mrs Josephine Hartley, from the judgment on a preliminary is-sue in favour of the plaintiffs, Mrs Ann Earnshaw, Mrs Marion Robinson and Mrs Lucy Fielden, by Judge Barry sitting in Halifax County Court on January II, 1999, that had the effect of defeating the defendant's claim to title by adverse possession to Height Top Farm, Cornholme, Todmorden, West Yorkshire. Paragraph 9 of Schedule 1 to the 1990 Act provides: "Where any setiled land or any land held on trust for sale is in the possession of a person entitled to a beneficial interest in the land or in the proceeds of sale (not being a person solely or absolutely enotied to the land or the proceeds), no right of action to over the land shall be treated for the purposes of this Act as accruing during that possession to entitled to a beneficial interest in the land or the pro-Mr Paul Creaner for Mrs Hart-

Regina v Snaresbrook

Crown Court, Ex parte Input

Before Lord Justice Kennedy and

On an appeal from a magistrates court, the crown court was obliged to provide proper reasons for its de-immediately after it, so that a de-lendant could know the reasons as soon as reasonably possible, see the naure of the criminality found to exist and properly to consider whether to appeal.

Court so beld when allowing an application by Input Manageme

Ltd for judicial review of the deci-sion of Snaresbrook Crown Court (Judge Katkhuda and justices) on June 15, 1998 not to provide Input with proper reasons for their deci-sion to reject its appeal against convictions before Redbridge Justices

ion 33(I)(a) and (c) of the Health and Salety at Work etc Act 1974 of:

Input was convicted under secon November 4, 1997.

The Queen's Bench Divisional

Management Ltd

[Judgment March 4]

LORD JUSTICE NOURSE said that the property had been ac-quired in 1948 by William Hyde Hartley who was married to Mary Hartley. They had a son and three daughters. Mr Hartley died intestate in 1965, his widow becoming the sole legal and beneficial owner of the farm. Thereafter the son, not then married lived with his mother at the farm until her death in 1983. She also died intestate. No grant of letters of administration to her estate was obtained at thal stage. Thus, by virtue of section 9 of the Administration of Estates Act 1925 her real and personal estate, including the farm, vested in the President of the Family Division until administration. After Mary Hartley's death the son concinued to live at the farm or his own. For present purposes it was to be assumed that he was in possession of it. In October 1995 the son married the defendant and made a will appointing her sole ex-ecutrix and devising his estate to her absolutely. The son died in Novernber 1995.

Thereafter the three daughters the plaintiffs, sought the sale of the farm, maintaining that they were each entitled to a quarter of the ret proceeds. The defendant main-tained that the son and she successively had been in adverse posses-sion of the farm since Mary Hartley's death in 1983, a period of more than 12 years, and that she, by succession and in her own right, had acquired a possesssory due to it. In 1998 the daughters obtained a grant of letters of administration to

(i) failing to discharge its duty under section 3(1)(a) as an employ er to ensure so far as reasonably practicable that persons outside its employment were not exposed to health and safety risks and and sufficient assessment of health and safety risks to persons outside its employment under section 3(1)(a) and (b) of the Management of Health and Safety at Work Regu-

Mr Kevin De Haan for the applicant; Mr David Travers for Red-bridge London Borough Council;

the respondent did not appear and

LORD JUSTICE KENNEDY

said the applicant company en-gaged a contractor to install a one metre mirror ball at its nightchub.

Following faulty installation, the ball fell, injuring two people and the applicant was convicted.

On appeal to the crown court the applicant argued that because it had done all that was reasonably practicable to ensure safe installation by employing reputable con-lations (SI 1992 No 2051).

was not represented.

(ii) of failing to make a suitable adverse possession as a prelimi-nary issue, upheld the plaintiffs' case that the defendant's claim to adverse possession was on any footing defeated by paragraph 9 of Schedule I to the 1980 Act.

Mr Coulter argued that at all material times the farm was "in the possession of a person entitled to a beneficial interest in the land or to the proceeds of sale", namely the son, and the plaintiffs were oth er persons "entitled to a beneficial nterest in the land or the proceeds

Mr Creaner's contrary argument was based on a literal interpretation of paragraph 9. He pointed out, correctly, that it was ex-pressed to apply to settled land, which was not this case, or to land

He said that while the farm was vested in the President of the Fami-Division it was not held on trust for sale so that paragraph 9 could not, and did not apply during that

Further, it was argued, even if it could be said that the farm was held on trust for sale, neither the son nor any of the daughters had a beneficial interest in the proceeds of sale, but only a right to require ate to be duly administered and to receive a quarter share of the net estate on compledon of the administration: see Commissioner of Stamp Duties (Queensland) v Livingston (1965) AC 694) and in re Leigh's Will

Bearing in mind its purpose and pretation of paragraph 9 was unacceptable. Its predecessor, extractors, it had complied with its duty under section 3(1) of the 1974 Act and had not breached its duty

At the end of the hearing, the judge and justices retired and upon return the judge announced that the court found the allegations proved, was not proposing to give reasons, and that the sentence would be increased to a fine substantially greater than that given to cant for reasons for the decision to dismiss the appeal and increase the fine, the judge merely said that the applicant ought to have checked that the ball was working properly. No proper reasons were contractor and the applicant, who could have been considered less cul-

After leave to move for judicial review was granted, the judge sent a note signed by himself and prepared some time after the appeal to the Divisional Court. His Lordship said that the court could not have en for the disparity of sentence

Following requests by the apoliunder the 1992 Regulations.

Appeal court must give reasons

The broad effect of those provisions could be said to have been the reintroduction of the doctrine of non-adverse possession among beneficial co-owners of land, allow ance being made for the trust for sale which the Law of Property Act 1925 had made an inevitable feature of such ownership. Against that background it would be wrong to give paragraph 9 the literal interpretation which Mr Creaner put on it. Although it was no doubt correct to say that the President of the Family Division, while the farm was ted in him, was not a trustee of it and that it was not held on trust for sale during that period, it was presumptively so held and it would be artificial for limitation purposes to distinguish between the state of affairs existing before and after the rant of administration. II would be equally artificial for limitation purposes to hold that afer the grant had caused the trust for sale, under section 33 of the Adnistration of Estates Act 1925 to take effect; the son and the daughters did not have beneficial interests in the proceeds of sale. As Mr Justice Buckley had said in In re Leigh's Will Trusts (at p282) a person absolutely entitled to a share of an unadministered estate did have an interest of a kind in the assets comprised in it. Such an interest was a sufficient interest for the purposes of paragraph 9.

Lord Justice Buxton gave a con-curring judgment and Sir Christopher Staughton agreed.

Solicitors: Waddington & Son. Burnley: Ursula Bagnall & Co.

regard to the note as it was not sup-ported by affidavit nor signed by

Even if it could, the applicant ought to have been provided with proper reasons at the time of the decision or immediately afterwards. His Lordship, adopting the reasoning of the court in R v Secretary of Ex parte Nelson (unreported, May 11, 1994), said that the applicant could be and reasonably contemporaneously what the reasons were in order that he could be assured and have no suspicion that there was no subsequent rationalisation.

see the nature of criminality found by the court to exist and properly consider whether to apply for a

The crown court failed to fulfill its obligation to give reasons with-in a reasonable time and what was done subsequently was not a satisfactory substitute. The case would

Soliotors: Downs, Dorking: Mr

itted to a differently consticase to be stated.

tuled crown court.

Eddie Davie. Redbridge.

ht in have known as soon as

State for the Home Departm

the other justices.

Before Lord Bingham of Cornhill. Lord Chief Justice, Mr Justice Jowitt and Mr Justice Astill

Judgment March 26 Where a company and its directors were convicted of offences under the Health and Safety at Work etc Act 1974 the court should ensure that the financial penalties in posed were appropriate to mark the eravity of the case.

Although in a small company the directors might also be the shareholders so that any double punishment should be avoided, the natties fixed should make clear that directors had a personal reibility which could not be shuffled off to the company.

In considering the period over which a financial penalty might be ordered to be payable, the court could properly fix a longer period in the case of a corporate defendant than in the case of an individual defendant.

The Court of Appeal, Criminal Division, sitting at Birmingham, so held when

(i) hearing an appeal against sen-tence by Rolleo Screw and Rivet Co Lid following its pleas of guilty to offences under section 2(1) and 3(1) of the 1974 Act in respect of a serious incident of asbestos contamination in 1997 and

 (ii) hearing applications for leave to appeal against sentence by the company's directors, Bernard Rose and Philip Rose, who had pleaded guilty to the same offenc-

The company was fined £40,000 and ordered to pay £30,000 costs. Judge Harris, QC, directed that £5,000 of the total be paid within the first 12 months, and the bal-ance at the rate of £1,000 a month. The total period for payment, in the absence of accelerated payment, was six years and five

Mr Bernard Rose was fined £6,000, to be paid at £1,000 a month and was ordered to pay fined £4,000 and ordered to pay £2,000 costs.

The Court of Appeal refused their applications but reduced the sum payable by way of costs to £20,000 by the company. Mr Kevin Hegarty for the comcany and the directors: Mr Mark Eades for the prosecution. THE LORD CHIEF JUSTICE, giving the judgment of the court, re-ferred to and gave unqualified sup-port to the observations of Mr Justice Scott Baker in R v F Horse & Sons (Engineers) Ltd (The Times November 27, 1998; [1999] 2 All ER 249, 253 to 255) which amounted to a clear and correct statement of the principles which should guide the court in the present kind of case.

His Lordship turned to the question, raised squarely by the present appeal, of the period over which a fine might properly be ordered to

Earnshaw and Others v Hartley: Mr Barry Coulter for the plainley: Mr Barry Coulte court should sanction and that there was no distinction to be

> His Lordship said that it was plain from R v Ofliver ((1989) 11 Cr App R (S) 10, 15) per Lord Lane, Lord Chief Justice, that the court there was at pains to avoid stipulat drawn for that purpose between a personal and a corporate defending any period which should not be exceeded in a proper case. Nonetheless with a personal defendant, with a fine hanging over him, there were arguments for keeping the period of that continuing punishment within bounds

Those arguments were much weak-er, if indeed they applied at all. en one was considering a corpo rate defendant. There was not the same sense of anxiety as was liable to afflio an individual, and it was acceptable on proper facts and in appropriate o'rstances for a fine to be payable by a company over a substantially longer period than might be appro priate in the case of an individual His Lordship would, however accept Mr Hegarty's further sub mission, that the court should avoid a risk of overlap. In a small company the directors were likely to be the shareholders and therefore the main losers if a severe sand tion was imposed on the company The court had to be alert to ensure that it was not in effect imposing double punishment On the other hand, it was impor tant in many cases that fines should be imposed which made it quite clear that there was a person al responsibility on directors and that they could not simply shuffle off their responsibilities to the corporation of which they were direc-

The proper approach to a case of the present kind in principle was to pose two questions: What financial penalty did the of-

2 What financial penalty could a defendant, whether corporate or per sonal, reasonably be ordered to

That second question inevitably raised the question of time.

Turning to the instant case the court concluded on the first question that the total penalty imposed on the company and the directors of £50,000, split as to £40,000 paya-ble by the company and £10,000 by the directors, was, in the circum stances, appropriate recognition of the gravity of the offending.

On the second question, the company had submitted that its means were such that together with the costs order the total sum of £70,000 payable was grossly excessive and not an amount is could meet. The court had been supplied with a quantity of accounting material, not all before the judge, which caused it to reconsider the time for

As already indicated, a longer period for payment was acceptable in the case of a company than

Penalties on guilty companies

ROBERT

BRUCE

more severe course to order a larger sum over a longer period than a smaller sum over a shorter period. since the former course might well give a company a greater opportunity to control its cash flow and survive difficult trading conditions. If, despite a long period, the company had the means or chose to pay sooner than it needed, that was the court would reduce it; not by reducing the fine, but by reducing to some extent the sum of costs to be paid, from £30,000 to £20,000, thus shortening the overall period of payment from six years and five months to five years and seven months.

Solicitors: Charles Russell: Mr Stephen Swan. Southwark.

Two of the best

The Open University's innovative Law Programme is the result of a partnership between the Open University and The College of Law. Unrivalled in their own fields, they have now joined forces so you can gain a Qualifying Law Degree and fit your study around your work or family

The College of Law has trained over half the solicitors in practice in England and Wales today, as well as offering training for barristers and is the country's largest provider of legal education. The Open University has huilt a peerless reputation for helping adults study successfully - based on the OU's unique method. supported open learning.

The OU Law Programme offers four courses: Understanding Law • The Individual and the State Agreements, Rights and Responsibilities Ownership and Trusteeship: Rights and Responsibilities

Taken together, these courses cover all the Foundations of Legal Knowledge required to complete the academic stage of legal training. They can count towards a Qualifying Law Degree when taken in combination with other OU courses or with transfer of credit from previous studies. Alternatively, you can take any law course, out of

We will provide you with a personal tutor, specially produced texts, video and audio materials and the chance to meet fellow students.

To find out more send now for a copy of the Open University Law Brochure, using the coupon below. Or call the OU hotline on The College of Law Z 0870 900 0309.

Complete and send this coupon to: The Open University, PO Box 625, Milton Keynes MK7 6AA.

☐ Please send me information on the Law Programme. ☐ Tick here if you have contacted the OU in the past. J TitleInitialsSurname ..

. Postcode

.Date of Birth/...../19.....

0870 900 0309

OU Hotline (24 hours)

Website: http://oubs.open.ac.uk/law

N 4-0857

. ১.১ ১লেরে

FOCIO MIGRIS LTD 148 40 ... 405 75 ... 141.22

- 0.10 349 - 1.22 . . - 0.02 0.55

KOLIC BEYERAGES

HES, PUES & RES

DING MATERIALS

Shaker Make Person and de-Accin 52.51 52.77 0.08 39 61.27 0.01 39 50 61.27 0.01

El Carlo de la Car

THEATRE Blanchett excels in night of Plenty

THE

DANCE The man who makes the world turn

PAGE 39

NEW MOVIES: James Christopher sees future shock played for laughs in the amiably flesh-crawling eXistenZ

Cronenberg's tricks of the light has never let good futuristic movies. In his latest creation, eXistenZ, he shows no signs of relenting. As in his previous film, Crash, there are bits that make you wince. But here the horror is infinitely more playful and as fabulously barmy as anything he's dreamt up before. How much of eXistenZ is knowing comedy, and how much of it is just inadvertently corny, is the most enjoyable puzzle of this intriguing film.

The near future is crawling with mutant swamp life from poisoned rivers. Society is hooked on virtual-reality computer games. The corporations that make them are the multizillion-dollar powerbrokers. The new superstars are the game designers. And the ulti-mate nerd is Jennifer Jason Leigh's grungy, reclusive Allegra Geller, the creator of eXistenZ, a game that taps so deeply into its users' fears and desires that it blurs the boundaries between reality and escapism. The rules of the game, indeed its very point, are defined by the players themselves: their morals, their principles, their psychological ties. It's virtual existentialism.

When anti-game fanatics attempt to assassinate Leigh she is forced to flee in the company of Jude Law's marketing trainee, who has never played a computer game in his life. Leigh needs Law to enter the game with her to assess the damage done to her priceless computer pod, a sort of organic vibrating jelly. The problem is that the pod plugs straight umbilical cord and a socket in the spinal column. Getting one of these fitted to the less than enthusiastic Law- "I have this phobia about having my body penetrated" - Is one of the funniest and squelchiest moments in the film. As in his last original script, Videodrome (1982), Cronenberg is mesmerised by the thought of fusing flesh and machine. But the beauty of existenZ is that it is disturbingly close to reality. The game transports Law and Leigh to a sort of urban warehouse land where they are pursued by corporate spies and a bloodthirsty, extremist group of "realists" out to collect the $5 million bounty

"Cronenberg the philosopher is really Cronenberg the illusionist", but you can't hold Jude Law and Jennifer Jason Leigh responsible for the ultimate failure of existenZ number of eye-popping twists. Law and Leigh become labourers on a production line where grubby workers hack up mu-tant frogs for biotech parts. and take their lunch breaks in a ghastly Chinese restaurant. Here Law, after chomping his way through the equivalent of Naked Lunch, uses the gristle and bone to construct a gun which he uses to murder the waiter with a well-aimed human molar, Ian Holm's crackpot German inventor and Willem Dafoe's gas station mechanic, flashing his familiar manic toothy grins, pop up

The real problem lies in like arcade cameos.

plugged into my nervous system. The moody, sexy Leigh is convincingly obsessive: Law is endearingly bemused. But in a film where absolutely every-thing is not as it seems, it is impossible to get involved. There are nags and teases that itch away long after the final cred-its have rolled, but Cronenberg the philosopher is really Cronenberg the illusionist. Neil Jordan's paranormal chiller, In Dreams, also plays with levels of reality. I have never seen a more sturning opening, in which police divers search for the victims of a serial killer in a town that lies like a grave at the bottom - the murder of an only child - Bruce Robinson's script fails to live up to this masterly visual suspense. Annette Bening plays a housewife whose dreams of orchards and frightened children turn out to be premonitions of a serial killer's intentions. But the fact that no one, including her busband (Aidan Quinn), believes her is the film's real nightmare. Her psychiatrist, Stephen Rea, sees madness where he should see clairvoyance. The camera charts Bening's disintegration with the slick, predatory feel of a stalker. It is an extraordinary performance by Bening. who has to lose her mind in the killer's imagination to prove her sanity. You can see the hysteria in her eyes and hear the fear plucking at her throat as her dreams are besieged by

You can also see exactly what beguiled Jordan. Dream logic is one of the most powerful tools of suspense. Unfortunately it doesn't always chime with the prosaic business of a Hollywood plot. The moment Bening's fears are made flesh - the moment, in fact, that weet creations of Amanda marriages sinking into what her song Dance terms "comfortable despair. Songs as haunting and ethereal as Ship

in a Bottle pin down stray emotions as precisely as an

This might sound like an ex-

Standards old and new are carefully filtered into the mix.

tine. She and the worldly

Lorenz Hart made a good com-

Jacques Brel provides another source of inspiration, nota-

McBroom.

Robert Downey Jr's madman steps into frame - is the moment Jordan's bubble of suspense is popped. The magic evaporates. The horror turns to schlock. What's hinted at but never explored is why Bening should be the conduit for Downey's diseased thoughts. Therein lies the better film.

al Kilmer stars as a blind masseur in the first of the week's three sticky, slowburning romances. At First Sight, based on a true case documented by Dr Oliver Sacks, is potentially the most interesting. Having falleo in love with a New York architect, Mira Sorvino, Kilmer is persuaded to undergo an operation that might restore the sight he lost as a toddler. The suspense is pinned to the statistic that only 20 such successful reversals have taken place over the past

200 years. As the title implies, it is a success. But, rather than leaping about with delight, Kilmer is traumatised. Images slew across his sightlines, sickeningly out of focus. His blind assumptions about the world are shattered as he crashes into shop windows, looks blankly at faces and freaks out at parties. It's a powerful performance, full of petulance and frustration. Understandably, the director, Irwin Winkler, is far keener on exploring Kilmer's dislocation than massaging the tedious love interest. Needless to say, so is Kilmer. Sorvino's thankless task is to pick up the pieces and act confused. The result is a romance that is horribly lopsided and under-cal students than lovers. Somehow I can't see Germaine Greer or Andrea Dworkin breaking into a muck sweat over Marshall Herskovitz's feminist romp set in 16th-century Venice. The Honest Courtesan is such a frothy package it dissolves almost as soon as it reaches the screen. Frustrated in ber love for Ru-hand, of more interest to medifus Sewell's roaring aristocrat. Catherine McCormack's lowborn poet sets about carving her glamorous emancipation in Italy's glossiest brothel, the Venetian Court. Under the expert tutelage of her mother (Jacqueline Bisset), McCormack's lusty virgin is primed and briefed like James Bond, "Courtesans are the most educated women in the world," instructs the unflappable Bisset. They can seduce a man at 20 paces with their mind." Hmm.

Her great cleavage helps.

Having learnt how to devour bananas as if they were the crumbliest, flakiest chocolate bar in the world, McCormack beds a procession of drooling senators and fat bishops, and even spanks the French King into submission. To spice up the grand ro-mance, Sewell is sent packing to Cyprus to fight a war, the Plague promptly arrives and kills 56.000 people, and the inquisioon bowls into town. There's clearly something here for everyone.

Paul Morrison's Solomon

& Gaenor is a sharp antidote to the above frippery. In a Welsh mining town, circa 1911, an illicit romance is meticulously batched between a young Jewish immigrant Goan Gruffudd) and prim local girl (Nia Roberts). They are both poor as peanuts. He sells cloth for his stern parents. She fills tin baths for her Protestant coalmining father and her brute brother, the wonderfully named Crad (Mark Lewis Jones). Snatched kisses lead to passion in the hayloft. But Solomon's refusal to reveal his Jewish identity - he calls himself Sam and won't introduce Roberts to his parents — puts him in a morally intolerable position. The stakes couldn't be higher, what with strikes, pit closures and the suspicious

LINKS -

Details of new and old film releases can be found on https://wedb.com Pier 99 with Jonethan Rose: 88C1. Wednesday, 11.10pm Barry Horman's Film Kinget, Sky

West End, 15, 92 mins Futuristic horror from David Cronenberg In Dreams Empire, 18, 100 mins Neil Jordan's nightmare thriller At First Sight Plaza, 12, 129 mins

eXistenZ

Warner Village

Val Kilmer as blind beefcake The Honest Courtesan Virgin Haymarket 15, 111 mins Soppy Venetian romance

Solomon & Gaenor Screen-on-the-Hill 15, 104 mins Love among the coalmines The Waterboy Odeon West End 12, 90 mins College freak makes good

Knock Off Virgin Trocadero 18, 91 mins Rip-off

Crad nursing fists the size of jack-hammers.

The dung inevitably hits the fan. There are humiliations, batterings, heartache and raging blizzards to be negotiated. Thomas Hardy would be hard-pushed to pen a more angst-ridden melodrama. But. despite the final excesses, the romance bolds firm around an enchanting performance by Roberts's mousey temptress, whose emotions ring as true as her grim surroundings.

here is nothing enchanting Frank Coraci's film. The Waterboy. A college football team from "Retardsville, Louisiana" ends a losing streak when the simpleminded weed who dishes out the water turns into a nuclearcharged demolition man. Adam Sandler plays the 31-year-old incompetent routinely humiliated by crosseyed team-mates. Even respectable old ladies could be forgiven for giving him a casual kick-ing. Fuelled by grudges and bent out of shape by his mothet (Kathy Bates, reprising for the umpteenth time all the perverted charms of her Misery character). Sandler becomes the hero of the Southern mis-

Despite the nonsense it is surprisingly full of gut laughs. Henry Winkler is wonderful as the depressed coach, terminally on the point of tears, but Sandler has neither the class nor wit to clone Tom Hanks's similarly challenged ingenue in Forrest Gump.

Even hardcore Van Damme fans will wince at his latest stunt fest. Knock Off is a numbing medley of kung fu fights, sadistic Russians and double-dealing with CIA agents. Jackie Chan has made pig's ear out of it.

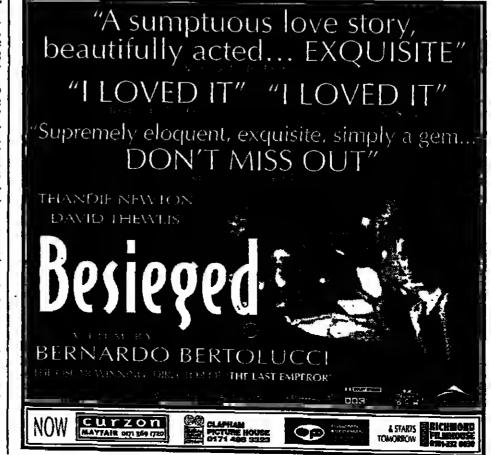

mented waltz that is Carousel. Not that the West Coast singer-songwriter's work can be de-Inexorably gathering speed, until the words testered on the fined purely by age or gender. edge of gibberish, the song What she captures so adroitly is the wistfulness of dreams debrought all of McBroom's actferred, ambitions unfulfilled, ing skills to bear.

Hurt's so good

A more sedate waltz tempo underpins Errol Flynn, the poignant vignette inspired by her father, the Hollywood actor David Bruce. Barbara Cook has made this song her own: McBroom stole it back Where most cabaret singers veer towards the conversational, she favours a more theatrical stance, abruptly leaping into the upper register to add emphasis.

Earlier, she had signalled another telling change of gear when she dipped into her high school past to treat Carole King's Will You Love Me Tomorrow as a glowing ballad stripped of artifice. Silberman, who has just guided classical pianist Jean-Yves Thibaudet through an album of Ellington melodies, enjoyed his solo moment in the spotlight with an uptown treatment of Don't Get Around Much Any More. Very debonair, very Dukish an artform out of this kind of film. Van Damme makes a c is mot ar shall are a s

CLIVE DAVIS

Possesse

1771. TILL 1891

116 312

to the working

45,000

1 (a)-

in the parties

TO GATT

To the proc

Addis English

a transfe

TO SHORE

The second

To levice in The hop on the Music

plub tal transfer Carticle

THESTANDARD

and symptom

July 171 Mile

10 1 0 78% Sec. 18 N. 4 i- whate لين وروي - - C. 30 772 المنتخبة والما Day 10: S. See 量はど " 477.76s VICIO.

.

1.7

August X: 17.5 ा १५-५४६ स्टब्स्स च सर्वेशनचा न्यांन ا اختفادتها ا 5000 T Monthly Manth To the and the uning to s

10.00

CLASSICAL CDS: Anci like :

Within State mate m 3D Subh THE OF S जेक्ट द en elimentatio Se acre - राष्ट्र -इस i simingerjer A Committee h sanama a giga

RUD S) rapito: Concern itus/Da ويعاربون L'a Capi THE Da NAMES T - Aug. 12 To French Number · Marie

Comes to , lavorin Control of -.v Ruderv Stole and C 12 12 Scient 20 V. Par the make

"The smile is not a skill, it's a gift," Julia Roberts says. "If you want to appreciate somebody for that, then appreciate my parents"

What's she got to smile about?

Rather more, it seems, than her character in the forthcoming comedy Notting Hill, or so Julia Roberts tells Matt Wolf n the new romanoc comedy Notting Hill. Julia Roberts plays a hugely successful film star, an Oscar-winning actress whose shining smile is worth $15 million a movie. In real life. Roberts. 31, has yet to win an Academy Award (although she has been nominated twice, for supporting actress for Steel Magnolias in 1989 and the following year for her career-making role as the hooker in Pretty Woman). At the same time, her value has gone up to a reported $17 million a picture for her forth-coming Runaway Bride, which reteams Roberts with her Pretty Woman co-star, Richard Gere, and its director, Garry Marshall. Nonetheless, it is tempting to re-gard Anna Scott, her latest screen heroine, as some variation on Roberts herself. So it comes as a surprise not just to find that Roberts in the flesh comes across as considerably more articulate and self-possessed (and even more beautiful) than Anna, but also to hear the actress distance herself from her character: whatever else Notting Hill may or may not be, its star says it is not to be taken as a convenient essay on art imitating the worries of

"Just because you share an occupation with someone doesn't mean you're the same person," says Roberts, still energetic at the end of a day of interviews in the city where she spent several months filming Notting Hill last spring. The screenwriter Richard Curtis, Roberts says, "wrote a very specific type of actress in a very specific situation who has very precise ideas and values: I had to just reconcile the differences between us and not to judge her choices, because I didn't always agree with them."

Some actresses might balk at speaking lines in which their character envisages a future when both looks and popularity have faded. woman who looks a bit like someone who was famous for a while," Anna tells the English dinner table cronies of her newfound paramour Hugh Grant)

I don't have those concerns at all," says Roberts. "But, agaio, we are different people. Anna is still unsure of her own worth, whether as an actor or as a person. What is written about her concerns her a lot more than it would concern me:

she's a lot more fragile."
It may be, 100, that after 13 years in the profession - most of them near the top of it - Roberts understands the workings of an industry that is increasingly fixated on youth and on, well, locating the next Julia Roberts. "I just know who I am and what I want and why I want it," she says. "As you become an adult, you gather information and life experiences which help to form the person you are and what you aspire to

Of Anna's frets, Roberts contin-es, "I don't have those concerns and I never have, although that's not to say that one day I may not wake up and feel some of the insecurity that she expresses." And not to forget, as Roberts points out, that the scene is constructed as a contest to see which dinner guest can be most self-deprecating.

> ⁶ I feel liberated and inspired by my life,

Roberts acknowledges her own career ascent that long ago found her surpassing older brother Eric in the renown sweepstakes and has now positioned her as one of only a handful of actresses within striking distance of the $20 million-a-movie (or more) earned by the likes of Nicolas Cage, John Travolta and Mel Gibson. (A third sibling is a stage actress based, like Roberts, in Manhattan.)

Has fame been a trap, as Notting Hill suggests it has for its main character? That notion, she says, "makes you guys" — ie, journalists — "seem so powerful. I think there is an essence of truth to it but I don't feel trapped and I don't feel like anybody has the power but me, and that's not said as a challenge. I feel liberated and inspired and empowered by my life and the choices that I make and part of the choice is what t do, and I find it freeing, not trapping."

The public, though, clearly prefers Roberts happy, flashing that now-celebrated grin that her Stepmom co-star, Susan Sarandon, has compared to "the sun coming out". But Roberts insists that she be allowed to pursue darker screenpaths and invokes her involvement. in the unsuccessful Mary Reilly to make her point. With that film, Roberts recalls, "people were saying, Why is she so dour?' But what on earth does Mary Reilly have to smile about: getting up at 4am and spit-shining shoes? Should I be sing.

ing a little song?" In any case, the Roberts smile is not a skill, it's a gift. If you want to appreciate somebody for that, then appreciate my parents. If people are going to support me, or pretend to support me, my belief is that they must support my desire to be a good actor, and in order to be a good actor it is my obligation to my desire to ary different things. If I did the same thing all the time, how quickly would people get bored? They would be like, 'She's smiling again; oh God, that smile."

are next month Roberts. gets serious again, playing the title role of a secretary who becomes embroiled in the biggest civil action suit ever-in Steven Soderbergh's Erin Brockovitch, a Universal film based on a true story. "The reason I do a movie is the same as it was ten years ago: she says. "I like it or I don't, period: I respond on some level which is all my own regardless of what seems to be public demand."

And what about the real question posed by Notting Hill: could a film star ever fall for a mere mortal; as-Anna does for the travel bookshop owner, played by Grant? "Look, as a working actor one is far more likely to meet and spend one's greatest amount of time with other actors: But separate and apart from that, I don't believe we are what we do: I'm not actor-Julia: I'm Julia, If you are with the right person and you have that amazing well of communication and support, then anything is understandable."

Notting Hill opens in London on Possessed by low-tech chills

THE EXORCIST Warner, 18, 1973

in Dreams

the Honest

- Cran

3 gement

intho:

I THINK the country's moral fabric can survive the rental release of this horror show. long banned on video. It's the tale, if you need reminding, of the battle for the soul of a possessed young girl (Linda Blair). A modern remake would go to town depicting the child's violence; director William Friedkin prefers bursts and snatches. And just look at the low-tech bile flying from the girl's mouth: it looks about as harmless as baby food. Blair, 14 at the time, writhes and scowls nicely, but the face that haunts is Jason Miller's. as the Jesuit priest with a faitering faith.

I WANT YOU

PolyGram, 18, 1998 IN A depressed seaside town Rachel Weisz's hairdresser suffers the loving gazes of a silent 14-year-old refugee and the unwanted attentions of her former boyfriend, now on parole after a murder conviction (Alessandro Nivola). This latest film from hot British director Michael Winterbottom, inspired by the song by Elvis Costello, is his most European yet in style, dazzlingly shot on Hastings locations, with surreal atmosphere galore. Available to rent.

NEW VIDEO RELEASES

LES MISERABLES

Entertainment, 12, 1998 VICTOR HUGO's huge novel turns up here in straight dramatic form, inevitably much abbreviated, directed by Bille August. No great artistic heights are scaled, but at least the story takes less time to watch than to read. Liam Necson is disappointing as the former prisoner Valiean trying to shake off his past; Claire Danes looks out of place as the girl raised as his own child: Lima Thurman suffers sweetly as the ill-fated Fantine; and Geoffrey Rush impresses as no-won't let bygones be bygones. A rental release. ■ SILENT SHAKESPEARE

lice inspector Javert, who

HISTORIANS and Bard fanciers, rejoice. Here is a wonderful tape that dips into the National Film and Television Archive for seven silent stabs at filming Shakespeare, three from Britain, two apiece from America and Italy. Primitive? Of course. But you still gaze in awe at these fragments, featuring Herbert Beerbohm Tree as King John (filmed in 1899), an energetic Richard III from Frank Benson (shot on Stratford's stage in 1911), and the Italian Ermete Novelli, most impressive as King Lear. Fine prints, considering the material's age; sensitive musical accompaniment.

STILL CRAZY Columbia TriStar, 15. 1998

MILDLY amusing British comedy about the attempted comeback of Strange Fruit, a long-disbanded 1970s British rock band. Bill Nighy is the ego-inflated lead singer, Jimmy Nail strums a mean guitar. Stephen Rea jerks out chords on the keyboard. Timothy Spall bashes the drums. and Billy Connolly drives the bus. They are good enough company, and director Brian Gibson knows a thing or two about presenting music in films. If only everyone were not so tethered to the script's compendium of cliches. A rent-

GEOFF BROWN

Plowright firing on all cylinders as the rival queens of Scot-

Donizetti upset convention

by making the soprano the vil-lainess while assigning the souful victim to the mezzo.

Plowright is full of fire as Elizabeth, breathing vengeance on all who flout her will. The dark tones in her voice as well as the chilling strength of the upper register show how right she was for the part. This may be Donizetti, but the role de mands the qualities of a Verdi

Baker does not indulge in too much self-pity as Mary, sto-

David Rendall and John Tom-land and England.

easyJet FLIGHTS FROM £34 RETURNS

10 European cities to choose from

© Euro branks: Nice £59 Athens £79 return

© UN breaks: £34 return from Scotland to London.

eaders can buy flights to ten European cities from just £34 return with easyJet. The fares, listed, are only available on the net. You can travel between May 4 and July 15 (some dates and flights are excluded, see terms and conditions on the Website). Readers over 18 can buy return flights for up to four people with just one complete set of tokens. Simply collect ten differently numbered tokens, eight from The Times and two from The Sunday Times. Tokens will appear every day until Sunday, May 9, 1999. A bonus token will appear in The Sunday Times on Sunday. Attach the tokens to the booking validation form which will appear in The Times on Saturday.

HOW TO BOOK

Log on to www.easyjet.com. Click on to the The Times offer button and enter the password EASYEVERYTHING • Only flights tagged PROMO FARES apply to this offer. If sold out, other flights tagged REG FARE will be offered automatically Departures must be from a UK airport Promotional flights available on a first-come first-served basis. Weekend flights sell out first, so have alternative dates easy.let is a ticketiess airline. Keep a record of your confirmation number for check-in Flights are nonrefundable and nontransferable. Name and/or flight changes not permitted. You must be over to book this offer.

AT-A-GLANCE SPECIAL OFFER FARES GUIDE DESTINATION TIMES RETURN FARE DEPART FROM 634 Edinburgh London Luton £34 Glasgow London Luton £34 Aberdeen London Lutor €34 Belfast London Luton £34 Scotland/Ireland London £39 London Luton/Liverpool Geneva Amsterdam £49 London Luton/Liverpool Zurich £49 London Luton £59 London Luton London Luton £79 Fares from Scotland and Belfast to London Luton are also £34 return. Full terms

CLASSICAL CDS: Ancient French music; new Danish; passionate Italian

CHORAL

MACHAUT

Clerks' Group/Wickham Signum SIGCDO11

* * * £14.99 WAR, plague and a schismatic

papal court this is the world of the 14th-century composer Guillaume de Machaut as presented by the Clerks' Group and Edward Wickham on this enticing disc, the first of a series of three to feature a particular medieval manuscript. and other music by one composer from that manuscript.

So Machaut's motets are inset here within a framework of anonymous Mass music associated with Avignon from the lyrea Codex, the prime source for ars nova music. Much of it is recorded here for the first time: the Clerks' Group is already well-known for championing neglected Renaissance repertoire, and its cunning programming enriches its fresh performances, recorded in an airy church acoustic.

CDs reviewed in The Times can be ordered from the Times Music Shop on 0345-023498

The performers are alert to both the play and the passion within this music - as, for instance, a sensuous and intimate motet comes up against an exuberantly expanded Sanctus, or as a mischievously archaic ditty faces the public splendour of a post-Mass exhortation.

HILARY FINCH.

ORCHESTRAL

RUDERS Symphony No 2: Piano Concerto Hind/Danish National RSO/

Schonwandt/Stenz Da Capo 8 224125 * * £14.99 THE Danish composer Poul Ruders sprang to fame here in 1996, when his witty Concerto in Pieces was given at the Last Night of the Proms. The recent Second Symphony, which comes to London tomorrow (played by the Brunel Ensemble at St John's Smith Square). presents a very different face of Ruders - though not necessarily a more typical one. Cast in a single movement lasting 28 minutes, it is hardly comfortable listening, but in Michael Schonwandr's reading makes a powerful statement about our troubled gent trumpet tattoos obtrude, followed by a long, disjointed horn theme. A background texture of ever-increasing complexity offers little respite, and insistent drums gradually make their presence felt. This is but a portent of the final relentless onslaught, underpinned by savage percussion. The Piano Concerto (soloist:

times. Halfway through, ur-

Rolf Hind) is less oppressive, though textures are sparse in the extreme. Ruders's control of materials is masterly, however, and there is much to enjoy as well as admire in Markus Stenz's account.

BARRY MILLINGTON

OPERA

■ DONIZETTI Mary Stuart Plowright/Baker/Rendall/ Opie/Tomlinson/ENO Orch/Mackerras. Chandos CHAN 3017(2) (2 CDs) * * * £19.99 CHANDOS, zealous in the cause of opera in English, has acquired some of the recordings made during live performances at the Coliseum in the early 1980s. Few evenings

Donizetti's Mary Stuart. Here

ic in the final act after giving as good as she gets at the famous, if fictitious, meeting between the two monarchs outside Chatsworth. It is a female-dominated work, but dramatic soprano.

linson seize their opportunites as rival courtiers. Charles Mackerras is the superb conductor: would that he had given us more Donizetti while at the Coliseum. more glorious than

JOHN HIGGINS

★ Worth hearing Worth considering

★★★ Worth buying

LISTINGS

LSO's Pushkin tribute

ARTS

THEATRE

Lear with a difference

RECOMMENDED TODAY

Guide to arts and entertainment compiled by Marit Hargle

LONDON

A SAINT SHE AINT: Barry Cryer and Jessica Martin in a parody MGM musical by Dick Vosburgh and Denis King, Ned Shemin directs. King's Head (0171-226 1976). Opens tonight, 7.30pm, (5)

PUSHKIN MEMORIAL in honour of the Russian poet, born 200 years ago, the London Symphony Orchestra under Missian Rostropovich performs Russian music by Tchallovelky and Protofiav, as well as a UK premiere, a Violin Concerto by Rodion Shichednin, with Maxim Vengerov as soloist. Barbican (0171-638 8891). Tonight, 7,30cm, 8

Ulrika Jonsson treads the boards in Birmingham

HANOVER BAND. The acclaimer soprano Catrin Wyn-Davies joins the period band in this concert simed at period band in this concert aimed at capturing the aimosphere of Paris at the start of the lest century. Works by Méhul, Arriage, Beritoz and Beethoven teature. Maithew Best conducts. St John's (0171-222 1081), Tonight, 2

ELSEWHERE

BIRMINGHAM: The Pejama Game 8 a time-packed musicel by Richard Adler and Jeny Ross, starting Urifla Jonsson, Anita Dobson and John Hegiey, Simon Callow directs, with choreography by David Birdley, designed by Frank Stella. First major British revival for 40 years.

Repertory (0121-226 4455). Opens tomght, 7:30pm. [2]

COVENTRY: Declar Dornellan's awardwinning production of Tale Winter's Tale for the Maly Theatre of Si Petersburg, Five-week British tour starts here. With English surities. Warwick Arts Centre (01203) 524524). Tonight-Sat, 7.30pm.

GLASGOW: To commemorate the 50th anniversary of Richard Strauss's death Alexander Lazarev conducts the Royal Scotlish National Orchestre in a concert performance of the composer's emotionally turbulent opens Elektra based on the Greek myth. Royal Concert Half (0141-287 5511). Tonight, 7.30pm. (5)

MANCHESTER: The distinguished volinist Pinches Zukerman opens his concert here with something of a curiosity, a work by Mozart's youngest son Franc Xaver. This is followed by pieces by Takemitsu and sometas by Schumann and Brahms. Marc Nellong accompanies on the pieno. Bridgewater Hell (0161-907 9000). Tonight, 7.30pm. §

NEW WEST END SHOWS

Jeremy Kingston's choice of theatre showing in Londo ■ House full, returns only N Some seats available 🗆 Seats at all prices

■ PLENTY: Cale Blanchett plays David Hare's heroine in her years of dissent from 1943 to the 1980s. Jonathan Kent directs first major revival for 21 years. See review, right. Albury (0171-369 1740).

THE BIRTHDAY PARTY: Prunctes Scales and Timothy West head a strong cast in Pinter's first full-length play, merkerably joining comedy and menace. Joe Harmston directs. Piccadilly (017):389 1734). My (0171-369 1734).

SLEEP WITH ME: Penny Downie, Jonathan Hyde and Adrian Lukis star in Hanil Kureishi's trag-comic satire exposing the cheotic lives of a group of irlends, Anthony Page directs. Cottesloe(0171-452 3000), (3)

■ MAMMA MAL! Enjoyable musical that Jells a tale of three fathers of a bride st order to steer a barmy way through a torget of Abba hits. Prince Edward (0171-447 5400).

SUDDENLY LAST SUMMER: Shelia Gish plays the venomous mother and Rachel Wess the traumatised nece in the famous 7ennessee Williams shocker. Seen Mathies directs. Comedy (0171-369 1731).

MAKING NOISE QUIETLY: Dominic Dromgoole's Oxford Stage Co opens a London season with Robert Holman's trilogy of short plays where strangers meet at a time of war. ingers meet at a unit of the half (0171-369 1735.

THE GIN GAME: Dorothy Tutin and Jose Acidend play old folk in a retirement home whose card-playing styles echo their sad lives. Frith Banbury directs the Pullizer winner. Savoy (0171-836 9889).

☐ THE DISPUTE: Superb production by Neil Bastlett of his translation of Manwaux where four impresented addescents meet the world and each other for the first time.

Lyric, W6 (0181-741 2311).

☐ Ci SPRING AWAKENING: Theetre 28's highly praised production of Wedekind's once barned play of schoolboy love, abortion and parental hypocrisy, Saphan Henry directs, Tristan Bates (0171-240 3840).

FILMS ON GENERAL RELEASE

James Christopher's choice of the latest movies

NEW RELEASES

8mm (18): Nicolas Cage, in his most magnetic rule ever, plays a private pleasure nonetheless.

BESIEGED (PG): Berrardo Bantolucci's louch in this strange romance between bavid Thewiss and Thandie Newton is exquisitely light and subtle. A vintage romance and a thrilling time.

MESSAGE IN A BOTTLE (12): A corked romance with Kevin Costner and Robin Wright Penn. A tear-jerker

THE BRYLCREEM BOYS (15): Unbelleveble Irish beloney set in a Kildere prisoner-ol-war camp in 1941 With Gebriel Byrne, Joe McGenn and Angus MacPadyen. Terence Ryan is

OUT OF THE PRESENT (U): Russian space documentary. A seriously slippery account of endurance. Andre Ujica directs.

DANCE WITH ME (PG): A kitsch feast for Come Dancing enthusiasts with a fittle Latin heartache on the side.

MISADVENTURIES OF MARGARET (15): Brian Skeet's urban formance throws Parker Posey and Jeremy Northam into a dismal, sex-obsesse potboller. It's ewful.

CURRENT

AN IDEAL HUSBAND (PG): Ofver An tip-AL notation of 3.0 over Parker's sumptions homege to Wilde's ever-leshionable play is bljacked by Puper Everat's madly chaming Lord Gorting. With Jeremy Northam and Cate Blanchett.

HAPPINESS (18): Poisonous but gripping black comedy about dismal urben attempts to find heppiness. Todd Solondz's film walks ar originel, edgy line between fantastic humour and ghastly habits.

PROMETHEUS (15): Tony Harrison's dense, awesome film-poem is a work of surreal gentles and andless leyers. Michael Feast is carrip and compelling as Zeus a flurity who looks at what exactly we have achieved and

A CIVIL ACTION (15): Meaty courtroom drama with John Travolte and Robert Duvall in sparking form as two sharks in a multi-million dollar case about looks dumping. Steven Zailian directs.

Cate Blanchett's Susan Traherne with Debra Gillett as her bohemian friend and Julian Wadham as her put-upon husband in Plenty hether or not Plenty is David Hare's finest play, and there are sage voices who make that certainly has one great strength. Does anyone write better parts for women than Hare? And can you think of a character who makes more demands on an actress's mind. heart and stomach than the one that, 21 years after the premiere of the play, Cate Blanchett robustly tackles for the Almeida company?

Crazy pieces of Cate

When we meet her Susan Traherne it is London in 1962, and she is a middle-aged Foreign Office wife about to leave the husband whose career she has ruined. Then the scene switches back to occupied France in 1943, and we begin to see the reasons British agent, meeting a spy who has dropped by parachute into Gestapo country, and, despite the tears that suddenly erupt from a seemingly controlled Blanchett, she feels purposeful, significant, even patriotic. Hare's point is that we emerged from the Hitler war believing that England would soon flow with milk and honey. "Plenty" was promised; but, by the time Hare's darting, cinemade narrative has reached mid-1962, what has mainly been delivered is thwarted dreams.

This seemed a pretty simplistic summary of recent history back in 1978 - didn't Hare's political friends get their hands on our education system, for instance, and make an awful hash of it? - and it does so still. Yet the writing is always lively and often funny, and the central role (in a production sponsored by AT&T) more than that. Susan is a muddle and a puzzle, a conformist rebel and a destructive idealist. Her war left her longing for a nation fit for heroes. It also made her tricky and callous, restless and self-absorbed. Blanchett gives us more of these contradictions than either Kate Nelligan, whose 1978 Susan erred on the intellectually incisive side, or Meryl Streep, whose big-screen Susan ondheim had a go at turning this Aristophanes comedy into a musical, but it didn't work. And Fiona Laird's attempt (sponsored by Sainsbury's Checkout Theatre) is a real mess, seldom funny, un-exciting and a punishment to hear.

You could say that her translation honours the script in keeping dozens of the passing references to political events in Athens in the final year of the Peloponnesian War. If you wish to know what the reactionary author thought of the democratic leaders in 405BC you may be able to catch a remark if the actor's mike is properly attached and adjusted. But you would also have to be sitting where these supposed aids do not turn actors' voices into babble and squawk.

streeped about altogether too forfornly. We watch her moping over the advertising copy she has been hired to write, firing her gun at the affable prole who has failed to make her pregnant, raging at the perversity of Suez, smashing her posh flat in useless protest against the wealth she thinks is killing her, and impotently trying to rediscover that lost youth in France. All this asks Blanchett to be svelte and assured, bitter and brassy. crazily aggressive, and, as when her doomed hopes of motherhood enter

Her nerformance r

The plot tells of an Athens in need of a clear-sighted man who will save the city. A knockabout Dionysus journeys down to Hades to find one, crossing the lake where the eponymous amphibians croak their famous "Brekeke-kex, ko-ax, ko-ax," The recently dead Euripides and the older, grimmer Aeschylus compete 10 be my regard both for the play, which can seem didactic, and for the character, a far more intriguing lady than Hare priggishly suggested when he said he was showing "the struggle of a heroine against a deceitful and emo-tionally stultified class". Add Maria Björnson's series of period-picture sets; throw in able performances from the rest of Jonathan Kent's cast, including Julian Wadham as Susan's put-upon spouse. Debra Gillett as her bohemian-drifter friend, and Richard Johnson and Jeremy Child as senior diplomais; and you have Plenty enough to enjoy. BENEDICT

NIGHTINGALE This review appeared in some editions of What's Yiddish for Bard?

place in the li

Godf

1 11/19

*- 2-

- KI ST 1997

 A_{σ}

....

4.7%

1.2275

ar parties

1-12-67

1.15

177.134

thing his

9-4-19

27

. . .

1.1

ab

turn

Don

fino

The was (Mingray)

Age (Manician anemie) is Tear .

siuding .

inus veus

sand the I

PARY 278

de

Te

Th

CONTRACTOR

and a August

THE STREET

A Dicke h

⊸≟ De Kee

A carrie Sag

Tr. Raf Ho

and gore

WITE SERVE

A TANKSON THE PERSON NAMED IN

Same 1

Company Report

्रच्या । रिकारी

are who ar

-CAL WILL

Битереал ег TOURS (त्रा सम्तर्भक्तः ---The same of the same mpc's histo वेदार्थ क्या छह

The The I

F 370'590

للذيالة المتلاعي

ear as a woman? Well, we get used to that. Lear living in 1 1930s New York? Plus ça change! Lear as a female Yiddish star of the Thirties New York stage? Time to explain.

Julia Pascal's charmingly quirky new play is both a free reworking of Shakespeare and a homage to the lost world of Yiddish theatre. The language of the shtetl, given dramatic form in Eastern Europe and exported by emigrants to New York, gave voice to a rich and varied theatrical tradition until its culture was wiped out in the war. Pascal takes us on a whistle-stop tour of the full range, from sparkling music-hall comedy and plaintive song to improvisation, while showing an endearing lack of reverence for her subject. Her play opens with three terrible actors auditioning for a Yiddish Hamlet, each of whom mangles the inevitable to-beor-not-to-be soliloguy to predictably awful effect. But Pascal also offers a moving snapshot of prewar Yiddish culture and its clash with the American way of life; and this is where Lear comes in. Her Lear is Esther Laranovska, once the most famous Yiddish actress on Broadway. Turned 60 and losing her health, she decides to hand over her theatre business to her three

Yiddish Queen Lear Southwark Playbouse

One, Channa (read Cordelia), says she wants nothing, and gets nothing; the other two, Gail and Rachel (Goneril and Regan), take it all and buy themselves a new nightchub. When Esther interferes in their twisted persent the state of the sta sonal life, they throw her out on the street, where she busks and sleeps rough with her loyal friends Annie and Joseph (the Fool and Kent, loosely) until Channa whisks them back to Europe. As in Lear, though here with a chilling historical twist, things end ill for all.

The two ldioms rub along well for the most part. Esther is played by Ruth Posner (herself a survivor of the Warsaw ghetto) with a touching blend of distraction and dignity. Of the rest of the cast, all of them strong and idiosyncratic, the three sisters are best. The lovely Natasha Pollard makes a sweet Channa: Tiffany Papageorge as Rachel and particularly Amanda Boxer as Gail are gloriously selfish and bitchy.

NIGEL CLIFF

ters double up on roles with no change of costume - but shortage of cash need not mean poverty of invention. When Jonjo O'Neill turns from playing Dionysus's Belfast-born slave to a leather-jacketed Euripides he elects to keep the same accent.

Laird's chief concern seems to be to get energy into her song and dance routines (the music is also hers). Inevitably the style embraces various pop genres, with Jonathan Kemp's Aeschylus favouring gospel and Euripides hurtling into rap. The words are incomprehensible, of course and without words and a sense of imminent danger the play collapses into pointless, mirthless silliness.

JEREMY KINGSTON

ROCKY

Show

VICTORIA PALACE See listings

FINAL PERFORMANCES

MUST END

22 MAY

₫.

OPERA & BALLET

COLISEUM 0171 632 8300 (24h/) 7ont 7:30 (LAST PERF

THE ROYAL OPERA at Sadier's Wells Box Office: 0171 865 8000 24-Hour Hotine: 0670 842 2226 PAUL BUNYAN

THEATRES

cc 20hs (£1 bkg led) 0171 344 0055 Gps 413 3321/0600 614 903 YOLL FOR A TICKET M.O.S.

The No

STELL THE HOTTEST SHOW Mon-Sat 8, Wed & Sat Male 3 MANERY VILLE WIRELA 0171 369 1740(344 4444 Denti Hareb PLENTY Directed by Jonathan Kent +Set 7:30pm, Thur & Set Mat Spin

344 4444, Groups (12+) 0171 416 6096413 3921

BEAUTY AND THE BEAST The smash hit musical A MAGICAL EXPENSE OF SPECTACULAR SPECIAL EFFECTS, AMAZING COSTUMES AND BEAUTIFUL SONGS

THEATRES

Running Base 2 has

(big lee) Gps 0171 494 6464/413 3321 7M EPIC FOR OUR EPOCH E.SM The Royal National Theatre Production WILLIAM PHILIP MARLORIE GAUNT WHITCHURCH YATES AN INSPECTOR GALLS WILDLY BLAGINATIVE. URGENT AND THRELLING Gon TUTSTANDING Hot Tickets Mon-Fri 7.45, Set 5 & 8.15

LYNIC 0171 494 5045cc(bkg fee) 0171 344 44440171 429 0000 TANGO PASION with a Company of 25 Dancens, Singers and Octobers TANTALESING, SENSUAL AND DELICIOUSLY WICKED or the transfer of the second of the second the emotional equation, oddly vulner-able; and Blanchett gives us the lot.

If she occasionally pushes zaniness towards melodrama, she has a builtin excuse, which is that, as she herself says, Susan likes to lose con-

Hop off, squawking chosen, mouthing chunks of their verse at a pair of scales to see which

> Two and a half millennia ago an audience would have relished the allusions and understood what Aristophanes was proposing as the city's only hope. What chance have we of distinguishing between forgotten leaders and quotations from lost tragedies, even if half the sentences uttered were not scrambled in the journey from stage to audience?

Evidently the production has been mounted on a lean budget - charac-

will carry the greater weight.

LYCEUM BOH-CCQ4maj0870 606 9449 017/416 6080344 4444420 0000 715 9EASON'S SEMARTON The Royal Mallomit Theatre Production Flodgers & Hammassish's OKLAHOMA! ALDWYCH 0171 416 6000 cc 0171 957 HAYMARKET, THEATHE HOYAL 1171 800 8000 oc 344 4444 (+bkg fee RICHARD MARSHA PRINCE EMPARE 0171 447 5400 GET BACTITIATTI 244 4444 (no lee) MAUMAA AMA IS HEAVERY DUMINO THE BIGGEST HIT IN LONDONS A GLORIOUS EVENING CLARS OLD WC 0171 404 5372 E1 1mg ENSON EXTENDED UNTIL 25 SEPT NICOLAS LE PREVOST CRITERION 369 1737/344 4444 ST MARTINS DIT! 855 1443 Even 8, 7un 2.45, Sat 5 & 8 AGATHA CHRISITE'S ROYAL ALBERT HALL VAUDEVILLE 0171 836 9967 1/420 0000(bkg feet) Gros 0177 416 6075/413 3327 "Lioyd Webber's best sleav sleave Phanton" D.Tel THE REDUCED NIGHT OF 1000 SHAKESPEARE COMPANY MASON Tomor 7.00 SEMELE STELLA GONET VOICES THE MOUSETRAP AMADEUS NEIL SIMON'S THE COMPLETE TROPICS OF WILLIAM SHAKESPEAFE MAMMA MIAI 1000 singers from nerest Creet Britain with Internation WHISTLE DOWN THE WIND TREES SCHAPER
STREES SCHAPER Highly Theatrical & superbly decoded by FETER HALL' Gon CRACKING MISTROUT D.Tel
EVERTURE, BUST GO' NOW Ever Mon-Sar 7.50 Mar Wool & Sar 3.00 47th YEAR THE PRISONER OF Vincer Of 4 Literator Offsier Awards for Outstanding Marsiani Production Boat Manical - One Standard Award OH WHAT A REALITERS, EVENING O.M., Guerd, Times, Ind., etc. Even 730 Mail Wed & Sait 2.30 100 standard seats & Sait 2.30 100 standard seats & Sait 2.30 THE MEMORY OF WATER identified) identified) identified)
identified
Sun at 4pm, Sun at 4pm
Laugh, I namy died Times
GO NOW 5.Times TREST NEW MUSICAL IN TOWN D.M. By Shelegh Stephenson Directed by Turry Johnson DROP-DEAD FUNDY Expres "Completely, completely brilliant" Capital Radio New booking to Murch 8000 Mon-Sat 7.45 Mats Thur & Sat 3.00 The ABBA musical
The FEEL-GOOD FACTOR OF A GREEK ISLAND HOLIDAYI
SHIPLEY VALISHTIME MEETS
PROMES FROM HEAVEN GOT relates and special appearance from Michael Crowford, Hostar SECOND AVENUE The audience has a ball_you are best double with imaginer' Mats Wolf Mor-Set 7.45, Wad & Sat Mats 3.00 oc folio feet 0171 930 8300 oc folio feet 0171 344 4444420 0000 Groups 0171 413 3321/ 0171 435 5386 BUDDY SUNDAY 2 MAY AT 8.00FM Don't colss if S.Tel Unit, Sat Eres 7.30 Matines Sat 2.30 Tuechays only at hom
The Collection History OF AMERICA (statiged)
Booking 'Il September '98 www.reduced—abakaspeare.co.u LAST 4 WE APOLLO SHAFTESBURY AVE 0171 494 5508/944 4444 MARK LITTLE IO DEFENDING BOYAL ALBERT BALL PALACE THEATRE 0171 454 0009 co Since (sing had 017) 544 4444 (bing Mon-Sat 7.30 Mats Thu & Sat 3.00 0171 589 $212 Tickets $15 to $40 HER MAJESTYS 24tr 494 5400 The Buddy Holly Story
BRILLIANT' Sun
BUDDY 100 shoulty seals @ 55 beld "E the day bloe-Tear eves & Wed Main at 80 8 WEEKS ONLY TO 26 JUNE PTRICE OF WALES 0171 836 5057
0171 420 0052 od 24hm 344 444
"FALL OF URGENT PASSION AND VITALITY, WEST SIDE STORY STELL HITS HOME AND HITS HOME HARD O.746078Ch
Less 7.65, Met Thora & Sei 3.00
NOW BOOKING UNTIL SEPT 6TH NODA CELEBRATES 100 YEARS OF big bejo:344 4444420 00000ee) Grp 404 5454413 3311/436 6686 ANDREW LLOYD WEEDERTS VICTORIA PALACE feet grps 9171 413 2511 THE WORLD'S BIOST POPULAR 0171 834 1317/344 4444 (no fee) Tim World's Greatest Rock and Rell Moslesi ANTIQUE & ART THE CAVEMAN MUSICAL THEATRE WONDERFUL STUFF Sun 761 7ute-Thurs 80 Fri 6.30 & 8.30 Set 5 & 8.30 DRURY LAME THEATRE ROYAL
SS or big last 24% 7 days 0771 494
5000344 4444420 0000 Grps 494
546443 33110070 841 0941
MISS SAIGON
THE CLASSIC LONE STORY OF OUR TIME?
NOW BITS 10711
REFERINGAMENT VIEWS LES MUSERABLES CYCEDA 0870 243 9000 gaing last Groups 0171 415 6083 Disney presents THE LLON KING THE PHANTOM OF HOWARD KEEL TOPS THE BULL in a Thibute to the Musicula Bank Heliday Mon at 8,00pm by Rob Becker 'Upromicously lessny' D Tel 'ABSOLUTELY BESLUANT' NOW BY ITS 14TH RECORD BREAKING YEAR EVER 730 Meds Thu & Set 2.20 THE NEW Servinys 4.00pm. Note 1/2 price Stubject to avaluability ALL SEATS 1/2 PRICE FRI 5.00 PERF 19th TREMOPHART YEAR Over 5.500 Performances THE OPERA ROCKY HORROR SHOW John Gray (Men are from Mars..) fon-Thurs 8, Fri 8.45, Sat 6 & 8.45 New booking to 2nd October Directed by HAROLD PRINCE
NOW BKG TO JUNE 2009
Even 7.45 Man Wed & Set 3.00
Apply to Box Office daily for resume and Wed Mat availability ROYAL COURT Duke of York's 0171 585 5000 cd24hrs 420 0005 Beet New Pley Oliviar America 1939 THE WEIR Starring JASON DONOVAN
Fast, Favoy, Sug* D.Mell
Mor-Thu 8.00, Fri 5.30 & 8.50,
Sat 5.00 & 9.30 Performances begin 24 Sept GOOD SEATS AVAILABLE FOR THURSDAY MATRIES ANIMAL CRACKERS APOLLO VICTORIA CC 0177 416 i United was of scale exall daily from B.C. for ove performances 6055 0:24hrs 0171 344 44440171 420 0000 Grps 416 6075|413 8321 Andrew Lloyd Welther's STARLIGHT EXPRESS CXEEDS 0771 484 5040 E1 big led Groups 0771 484 54540670 240 1205 RUFUS SALLY SEWELL DEXTER Now beaking "Ill the year 2000 Mac: Brothers' Musical Cornedy MASTERS OF MAYREM' Times Mon-Set 7.45, Mate Wed & Set 3.00 Final 4 weeks - Ends 22 May by Coupr Me Pherson Mon-Sat 7.30 Wed & Sat Met 3.30 EMEATHTAKING YEART Even 7.45 Mais Wed & Sz. 3pm Good seals avail for Wed Mat Latecomers not admitted until the internet CHECH APOLLO Ha SAYOY THEATRE 0171 896 8886 PEACOCK THEATRE 0171 ass 1222 Sadien's Wells in the West End HOT MOUTH Whitehali 0171 389 1735/344 4444 BOtto big feet 0670 506 3400 cc(+big feet 420 0000344 4444 Gips 0171 416 8075 Lesfe Bricuses & some perfs - apply B.O. DOROTHY WYNDHAMS 366 1736344 4444 MAKING NOISE SEE IT AND YOU STILL WON'T BELIEVE IT DUCHESS 0171 464 5075 oc 0171 430 0000 (big led) Gyds 0171 464 5454 DAMD SARA WATTHEW BURKE KESTELMAM MARSH ACKLAND 1900 TONY AWARD SEST PLAY
1907 OLIVER AWARD SEST COMEDY
ART STANDARD AWARD
ART NATIONAL THEATRE 80 0171 452 3000 Grps 0171 452 3010 MACBETH Eres 7.45, 7us & Sat 3pm Tickets from £12.50 TWO GLOWING, GOLDEN PERFORMANCES S.Time HY's Call Vocal Sen GOTELTA 'A real beauty. Separty D.Med Sea 7.30, Thurs/Set mats 2.80 24hr oc blog fee 0171 420 0000 OLIVIER Tont, Tomor 7.00 TROILUS AND CRESSIDA by DOCTOR DOLFTTLE It is superior extension to Times Transfert & Sun II, Mark Sed & Sun II, United Mary (Even 7.30 Mate Set 2.30 NOW BOOKING TO MARCH 2000 THE GIN GAME Starting PHELIP SCHOFFELD
THES IS A SURE-FRE-HIT ITV
PURE PLEASURE Doby Mail Book, music & lytics by Lesie Britanne CAMESTEDEE 494 5080/418 8080/844
4444/420 0000 (+10kg feek/arps 494 5454
418 6075/413 3321/436 5368
DAFFIEM DAY 26 Dissay
GREASE Mon-Sai 7,45 Mets Thur & Sat 3.00 A new play by Yesenine Rece Trans by Christopher Hempton Summingly brilliant and funny Tintes Exes & Male Wed 3, Set & Sun 5 COPENHAGEN ALISON STEADMAN 50 Vetted Stands Poundhouse 0171 424 9800/544 4444 DE LA GUARDA MAP EIS IN ADVANCE - BOOK William Shekespeers. LYTTELTON Tont, Tomor 7.30, THE FOREST a comedy by Statespace's Globe Theater
Acolversery Season
13 May - 25 September 1999
BO 0771 401 1919318 4705 (240x)
Julius Casser
The Conserr
The Conserr
Antony and Coopsess
Associated Coopsess
Associated Coopsess
Associated Coopsess PHOENIX BOXCC 0171 369 1783 Dir by MICHMEL BLAKEMORE "Mederly performances in a performatic Times 11th Way - 8 weeks only Tue-Ther Spm, Fri & Sal Spm, Sun Spm STELLA GONET BEST MUSICAL Alexander Ostrovsky in a new version by Alan Ayekbourn. COTTESLOE Tont, Tomor 7.30 JULIA SAWALHA NOW IN IT'S 6TH SENSATIONAL YEARS 'A Mouster HE'D, Mirror Mon-Set 7.50pm, Wed & Set Met Spri BOOKING TO THE WILLENSUM 01444 482514 Directed by Steven Piralet Objection America Plays & Playsrather Novello America
WILLY RESSELLS
BLOOD BROTHERS Mon-Set 7:30 Male This & Set 2:30 MEMORY SLEEP WITH ME a new play by PERFORMANCE FORTUNE BO & CC 0171 838 ROYAL SHAKESPEARE COMPANY WATER "_Brings the audience to its foot and rearing its approval" D Med Eves 7.45 Mets Thurs Spm Sat April FORMULA! COMEDY 0171 369 1731 NOW IN ITS 100 HIT YEAR STRATFORD 01789 295622/ 0541 541051 NEW LONDON Drury Lane VIC2 80 0171 405 0072 oc 20ks SUDDENLY LAST SUMMER LONDON PALLADENIA (17) 494 SHAFTESBURY 07000 21 12 21 0870 890 1111,0171 344 4444 (bisp test MELLITELOK 5030344 4444 (big feet Grps 0171 494 5454413 3321 SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER HUNES 344 4444 Gra 405 1567/412 3311 THE ANDREW LLOYD WESSEY T.S. ELIOT RYTERNATIONAL AWARD WINNERS MUSICAL RST: A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S THE WOMAN IN BLACK BY SHELAGH by Terrossee Williams
With Shells Gish and Rachel Welez
Directed by Sout Methics
POTENT AND RIVETING DREAM Today 1.30 & 7.30 Sec VOLPONE Today 1.30 & 7.30 LONDON 0171 838 8891 'A CENUME CAUSE FOR CELEBRATION' SEC Radio 4 PACCADE I Y 0171 388 1734344 444 STEPHENSON Adapted by Stephen Maleirat. The scott ficiling and chilling CATS RENT Barbicare THE LION, THE WITCH AND THE WARDROBE Today FROM START TO FINISH DAME play for years' O.Mail Mon-Sat 8.00, Mais Tue 3.00 & Set 4.00 OF THE WEEK TIME THE BIRTHDAY PARTY 549 7.45 Main Tim & Set 3.00 TEVER IS STELL REPORTIOUS D.Tel Mon-Sit 7.30 Wed & Sit Main 2.30 NOW BOOKING TO OCT 1989 'U.ST SUPERBY Daily Mail Non-Set 730, Mets Wed, Set 3.00 NOW BOOKSHS TO 2009 Mon-Sat Bper; Thu & Sat Mets 4per 11.00am Pic ROBERTO ZUCCO Today 2.00 & 7.15 BY HAROLD PINTER CHICAGO BEWARE - BUDE PARTS Good seeks and for Tyes high Mon-Set Spec, Thur 3pm, Set 5pm GANTECK 0171 494 5085/344 4444 SOME SEATS AVAIL FOR WEDS MAI ROBINERR STACE PRESENTS The New

Romeo and Juliet 27 APRIL-8 MAY

adapted from William Shakespeare $-3.18-22~\mathrm{MAY}~1999$

MEMCASTLE PLAYBOOSE, HAYMARKET, HEWCASTLE GROS TYPE - BOX GASTLE GIPT 220 Sest

THEATRE

What's

Yiddish

for Bard?

Fiddish Queen Lear

The Playhouse

vich a difference

Bad news, badly done BROADCASTING: Peter Barnard on the day interviewed her only once, by telthe BBC got it terribly wrong when ephone, for The Times. The in-terview was for a piece about lo-cal radio and I wanted to speak to someone of her stature who had started out in the make-the-tea, read-thenews milieu that local radio was in her day and, to a large extent, remains now.

Dando was in some far-flung location, filming for BBCI's Holiday pro-gramme, when she got the message that I would like to speak to her. An arrangement was made that she would telephone me at 3pm one day. The call came no more than three minutes after that time. She began with a profuse apology for being "late". Much has been said and written in the past few days about Dando's humility and lack of affectation and I think that my experience of her con-firms both. She was also a person with a sense of proportion, so one must wonder what on earth she would have made of the coverage of her murder on the day that it hap-

Radio 5 Live was essential listening on Monday afternoon, but there were moments - too many moments when some listeners must have echoed the feelings of a letter in The airing of first draft

Flawed

he second operatic of-

covering the violent death of one of its own coverage of the event was out of all pro-portion . . . " Yes, I am afraid it was. lan Payne's afternoon show on 5 Live bore the brunt. Let it be said right away that Payne and his producer were in an extremely difficult position. given that the story of the day concerned someone virtually every BBC broadcaster knew. It was understandable that such people would have their emotions on show. There is, however, a requirement to respond to tough situations with tough decisions. Restraint is everything, hype must be ruthlessly expunged, exaggeration has no place. A story such as Dando's murder tells itself and should be allowed to do so. That did not happen on Monday, when we were treated to the worst excesses of the

The result was coverage that became embarrassing, save for the moment when Nick Ross, Dando's co-presenter on Crimewatch UK and an outstand-

Times yesterday from a reader who ing broadcaster of consummate moder-said that the "effusiveness of the BBC's anon, came on the line. The exchange began along these lines. Payne: "This is the worst day ever, isn't it?" Ross: "I wouldn't quite go that far..." I should think not.

On every BBC news bulletin that 1 heard or saw, Dando was referred to throughout as "Jill". This was unprecedented. It was also proof that the BBC had allowed its own relationship with Dando to come between it and the story. The use of the first name on its own amounts to editorialising, for it puts the subject of the story in a category separate from all others. This was news for grown-ups being treated as if it were an item on the children's programme Newsround.

In the evening BBCI ran a half-hour tribute to Dando, fronted by Desmond Lynam. It was dreadful, a thrown-together collage transmitted in haste to be repented at leisure. Just when we needed Dando the three-dimensional person, we got more of the two-dimensional presenter we already knew. It the BBC, which hardly ever puts out tribute programmes so soon after a death. Why did it happen this time?

My mind went back to the sudden, though natural, death of Brian Redhead a few years ago. An important sto-ry, but one that was seriously over-cooked on the Today programme, which at times that morning sounded like an in-house network rather than a national broadcaster. The same impression was conveyed on Monday. It was, quite simply, too much. I liked Dando, as a presenter and as a person. The enthusiasm with which she recalled, during that conversation with me, her training at Radio Devon demonstrated that here was a household name who was proud of her roots rather than (like some) trying to bury them beneath the luxuriant foliage of Dando was a good journalist and a warm presenter. Her murder was and remains both a tragedy and a major news story. But she was hardly a towering presence on the broadcasting landscape and she would have been the last person to claim any such status. Unfortunately Dando's sense of proportion was absent from the coverage of her own death by her own em-ployers.

John Ashford at The Place: "I don't think it's made a difference, but I've had a good time"

Godfather of modern dance rifle and drill hall in Central London, has long been one of Britain's most important dance and choreographic centres. It was here, in 1969, that the arts philanthropist and Martha Graham devotee Robin Howard found a permanent home for his Contemporary Dance Trust. Howard's initiatives remain the energy source for most of British modern Nearly 20 years later, John Ashford received Howard's seal of approval when he was hired as director of The Place's intimate, 300-seat theatre. Today it is primarily thanks to Ashford that, as a performance venue, The Place has become a mecca for fans of both home-grown and global dance. A singularly savvy pro-grammer, this dapper 54-yearold has carved out a niche for himself as the UK's godfather of new contemporary moves.

Ashford has instituted handful of ambitious, annual themed seasons including Re: Orient (contemporary dance from the Asian Pacific, together with work by Asian-British artists). Spring Loaded (a three-month celebration of the diversity of British dance) and Resolution! (a platform for shorter works by emerging artists from the UK and abroad lasting seven weeks). The theatre's first job is to offer a platform to British work." Ashford maintains. "Yet, when I arrived, I felt that as dance has an international currency there should be an international aspect to the programme. I had to find devices to invite that work. The Turning World was the vehicle." The name is lifted from T.S. Eliot's Four Quartets: "At the still point of the turning world ... there the dance is." Conceived in 1990, this annual season of international dance and dance-theatre was destined from the start to terminate in 1999. "It was always billed as a season 'dancing to the edge of a millennium."

Ashlord says, "and then we'd stop and think."

A decade on, it's easy to map out just how far The Turning World has travelled. Think of it as a kind of multicultural passport, transporting London audiences to a panorama of new kinetic landscapes. Although performances are centred on The Place, additional and significant sites have been provided by the South Bank The world is proper part in it in the next." about to stop turning for John Ashford of

The Place.

Donald Hutera finds out why

Centre, Sadler's Wells and, this year, the Institute of Contemporary Arts. Working with programmers from those venues. Ashford has been instrumental in importing work by nearly a hundred artists from almost two dozen countries, including Japan, Tunisia and, this year, Brazil, which will send the Deborah Colker company, and Australia, which is > my decision to end it. Ten years. That's all?

It was represented by Meryl Tankard's Australian Dance Thea-

A majority of artists, includ-ing a sizeable number of repeat visitors, have hailed from Europe Belgium's Wim Vandekeybus and Anne Teresa De Keersmaeker, Spain's Vicente Saez and, from Germany, Rui Horta.

shford casts the Euro connection in a political light. We've and gone to the north and gonen Scandinavian work, south for Spanish and Portuguese work, and east to Slovenia. Hungary and the Czech Republic. The geographical spread is very important to me. The more people there are who are knowledgeable about what happens in other European countries - whether through dance or by another means — the more we are likely to come to terms with Europe's history this century, and get on with playing our Neatly, the conclusion of The Turning World coincides with a major refurbishment of The Place. The National Lot-tery, through the Arts Council of England, has awarded the complex just over £5 million for a revamp that will com-mence in June and be completed by late spring of 2001. The King's Cross Partnership has also given £750,000 towards the 25 per cent matching funding the project requires, leaving The Place to raise an additional £900,000. All this will translate into easier and more welcoming access, a new cafe and proper bar, new toilets, lifts and dressing rooms, and a block of state-of-the-art studios. The building work is un-likely directly to affect dance programming until next June. when the theatre space itself will undergo its facelift. Ashford started out wanting to be a theatre director, and in the late Sixties worked with the likes of Caryl Churchill and David Hare. He was also founding theatre editor of Time Out magazine. But his interest grew in dance. "So I took two years off to research dance here and throughout the world, just using contacts I'd made in theatre. I didn't read about it, or study it. I just looked at it."

The passion Ashford developed for recognising and nur-turing new talent is fuelled by The Place's several choreographic residency program-mes and seasons like The Turning World, but Ashford's dedication reaches beyond that. Some stuff you just have to be committed to through thick and thin," he explains. There are one or two artists. like Slovenia's Iziok Kovac, whose work we've supported all the way for reasons which are not only to do with the quality of that work."

He professes to have no regrets about The Turning World's imminent demise. "It was my decision. Ten years. That's all. During that decade

He pauses. "No, that's not true. I don't think it's made that much difference. But I've had a very good time." The Turning World runs from May 4 to June 12 (0171-387 0031) much more international work has been presented in London. Perhaps when others saw that we could successfully attract audiences for work that was absolutely unknown, they felt more confident about taking the same kind of risks."

fering in the City of London Sinfonia's "Greek Myths" tribute to Richard Strauss came in the form of the first version of Ariadne. It's not such a rarity as his wrong headed but riveting reworking of Idomeneo: this marriage of Molière's Bourgeois Gentilhomme and the Ariadne chamber opera was fully and memorably staged at the Edinburgh Festival two years ago. In fact it is a perfect-ly valid alternative: sharper. more alienatory, but near-im-practicable in terms of personnel and budget.

Tuesday's versioo was semi-staged, with the halfhearted, hangdog routines for the commedia troupe making one wish it had been in purely concert form. The Molière was replaced with a genial narration which was written and delivered by Nigel Douglas in splendiferous 18th-century costume. He had some good jokes about new and old money.

OPERA
Artesta est Casos Banca

much appreciated by an audieace in which, as someone unkindly remarked, the braying classes were well represented There was nothing oo the subject of what the opera might be about - a pity - and nei-ther the blind nor the deaf could have mistaken this ele-gant, soigné M Jourdain for a social climber.

One good reason for performing Ariadne I is Strauss's witty incidental music for the play, but unfortunately the CLS was having an off-night - far too many fluffs - and Richard Hickox gave little indication of why he wanted to conduct this piece fast, unyielding tempos, a depressing, indeed incomprehensible absence of nuance, lack of concern for internal or external balance in this most fastidiously scored music. Things went a little better bashing through the purple passages in the opera, but not much. So, thank beavens for the sumptuous of tooe, as delicate of phrase as the conductor allowed, heroic in delivery. She's a perfectly lovely singer. The only criticism of Cyn-dia Sieden's Zerbinetta is that she made it sound far too easy. It is, of course, much harder in this version, the fi-nal section of her aria a tone higher with forests of top Es and a top F sharp. Sieden flung it all off with insouciant ease in a truly virtuoso per-formance. Adrian Thompson was a robust, verbally incisive Bacchus, and Roderick Wil-singers, led by Christine Brewers magnificent Ariadae.

Nigel Douglas had the last word: "I'm afraid I slept through most of that." I'm afraid that for much of the time I rather envied him.

liams made his mark in Harle-

RODNEY MILNES

New interest rates for Halifax customers.

The Halifax announces new interest rates for savings customers.

Non-resident and non-personal rates

Effective from 1st May 1999.

Rates payable to Halifax UK savers are advertised separately.

$ 41, 45 (1.5) 18 (1.5)	:1	Non-resi	dent ratesf		7	es"
	CURE	ENT	RATES FROM	01/05/99	CURF	ENT	RATE	S FROM Q1/05	5/99
ACCOUNT	AER %	CROSS	AER %	GROSS P.A.	AER %	GROSS BAL %	AER	GROSS p.a. %	NET 94 %
BOW GOLD					200		*:
100,000	505	5.05	4.85	4.85		_	1.4 - 1	_	_
250 MO	465	4.65	4.55	4.55	* * 2 × *	_		_	_
£5000+	4.30	4.30	4.20	4.20		_	. n . 2	_	_
2200000	4.10	4.10	4.00	4.00		_	102 64	_	_
25,000	3.40	3.40	3.30	3.30		·	3.0	_	_
isthij kaine Option		W-144	44.75				W 100
03000-	505	4.94	4951	4.75	N. Paris	_	71.34	_	_
E30.0803	4565	4.55	436	4.46	100	_		_	_
C25.000	39	4.22	4.20	4.12	41.	. :	ત્રી છે.	_
	4.09	4,02	4.00	3.93		/	4 4 4 4 1	_	_
LIDAO.					1	- J		_	_
4500	5.40	3.35		3.25		· · -	100	-	- or people *	1		1 3 3 3 3 3		1
(589)	3.20	3.20	2.95 m	2.95	3.35	3.15	2.90	2.90	2.3
MIG OOCH	2.00	3.00	2.75	2.75	3,30	3.10	2.85	2.85	2.2
	2.80	2.80	2.55	2.55	2.85	2.85	2.60	2.60	2.0
500	245	2.45	2.70	2.20	2.45°	2.45	2.20	2.20	1.70
or strik become Ophon	4.9		10.1		1		W. 7.
25,000+	3.20	3.15	2.95	2.91	3.25	3.11	2.90	2.86	2.2
ENGRO!	3,20 3,80	2.96	2.75	2.72	336	3.06	2.85	2.81	2.2
25,000+	280	2.76	2.55	2.52	235	2.81	2.60	2.57	2.0
	280 245	2.42	2.20	2.18	2305	2.42	2.20	2.18	1.7
4 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7 7			- 1	4.10	1
CRED COOL	4.2.2		No.		2 10
SIDIO	2.05	2.05	1.65	1.95	2.00	2.00	1.90	1.90	1.5
#50004	1.95 1.85	1.95	1.85	1.85	3.98	1.90	1.80	1.80	1.44
	1.85	1.85	1.75	1.75	23.	1.75	1.65	1.65	1.3
	0.50	0.50	0.50	0.50	~ 0.50°	0.50	8.58	0.50	0.4
SETRESHIPE CHECKE ACCOUNT					4.		4
30000	427	4.20	4.06	4.00	3,65	3.60	3.44	3,40	2.7
25,000)	agt.	3.95	3.80	3.75	3.24	3.20	3.03	3.00	24
1900	338	3.60	3.44	3.40	2.98	2.95	2.78	2.75	2.2
and the second	243	2.90	273	2.70	2.68	2.65	2.43	2.45	1.9
0.00	1,00	1.00	1.00	1.00	2000	1.00	1.00	1.00	0.8
			4. 4. 2			2.00	1
Manual TESSA	1,558	5.50	5.32	5.25		-			_
MAGGERSTELL	400	4.00	3.80	3.80	2	-		-	~
APLEED PLANES ACCOUNT					1. O.		- 4.7
nadap-4	283	2.80	255	2.55	200	200	255	2.55	2.0
22.000	2.30	2.30	255 205	2.05	2.30	2.30	2.05	2.05	1.6
and the state of t	1.0		35.75		1		1 1
TANK THE PROPERTY OF THE PARTY	250	2.76	9200	2.52	12.88	2.76	2.55	2.52	2.0
The state of the s	220	2.28	205	2.03	2.0	2.28	2.05	2.03	1.6
2000 2000			1.0		12.00
	B		N / 100			2		200	0.44
22700-		-	1.3	-	3.20	3.20	3.00	3.00	2.40
£5084	A STORY	-		_	Z.65 ·	2.65	- 245	2.45	1.90
		_	11 (12)	-	0.85	0.85	0.85	0.65	0.6

Bonus Accounts

	Retes					-
	Non	resident n	stes†		Non-personal rates*
CUR	RENT	RATES	FROM OL	05/99	CURRENT		RATES FROM 01/05/99
AER %	GROSS	AER %	GROSS	AER Incl. Conditional Botas %	AER %	GROSS	AER %	GROSS	AER incl. Conditional Bonus % 	NET P.Z.
46.7.		474			100
4.35	4.35	4.10	4,10	5,10	4.10	4.10	3.85	3.85	4,85	3.08
400	4.00	3.85	3,85	4.85	3.85	3.85	3.70	3.70	4.70	2.96
3.78	3.70	3.50	3.50	4.50	3.55	3.55	3.35	3,35	4.35	2.68
3.60	3.60	3.40	3.40	4.40	3.45	3.45	3.25	3.25	4.25	2.60
4.35	4.27	4.09	4.02	_	4.09	4.02	3.85	3.78	-	3.02
4.93	3.93	385	3.78	-	3.85	3.78	3.70	3.64	-	2.91
8.70	3.64	351	3.45	_	3.555	3.49	3.35	3.30	-	2.64
3.60	3.54	3.40	3.35	-	3.45	3.40	3.25	3.20	-	2.56
276	2.75	256	2.55	5.09		: ~		_	_	_
1						:	1.36
	5 20		E 05	5.65		_	[13] ·	_	_	_
3435		745			10.00	_		_	_
3.81		5.00	_		67. (1)	. –		-	_	_
	A25 400 276	CURRENT AER GROSS P2 4.35 4.00 3.70 3.60 3.60 4.27 4.58 3.93 3.64 3.54 2.75 2.75 5.30 5.30 5.70	Retus shown do not not not not not not not not not no	Retus shown to not unclude by Non-resident rates	Non-resident rates	Non-resident rates	Non-resident rates CURRENT RATES FROM OL/05/99 CURRENT	Non-resident rates Non-perso	Non-resident rates Non-personal rates	Non-resident rates Non-personal rates

POINTS TO NOTE. AFR stands for Armust Fourielent Rate and Blustrates what the interest rate would be if interest was paid and compo POINTS TO NOTE: AER stands for Armad Equivalent Rate and Blustrates what the interest rate would be in rearest was pain and compounced each year, Interest will be poid net after the lower rate of income tax (currently 20%) has been deducted unless you have completed a registration form and made a declaration to comply with inland Revenue regulations. The net made shown, which are only examples and have been rounded, assume the lower rate of income tax has been taken off. All interest rates quoted may change. Special rates of interest on certain accounts paid to savings occulomers who appear in our records as being under 21. If your savings account balance is less than £50 you will not receive any interest unless you appear in our records as being under 21. The non-resident interest rates are payable to individuals who are not ordinarily resident in the IXR and who complete an appropriate declaration form. "Borus Gold, Solid Gold and Liquid Gold non-personal accounts (such as accounts held by clubs, charities and companies) are no longer available to new customers. ""Full account conditions and details of when interest is paid, and how to qualify for the YESSA Gold, Halffer TESSA, Halffex TESSA 2, Borus Gold and Monthly Saver bonuses, are available from any Halffest branch.

Halifax plc, Trinity Road, Halifax 29th April 1999

BOOKS

The literary bunfight of the century

Malcolm Bradbury finds he's off the shelf of this modern library - but that he's in very good company

t's a none-so-curious fact that whereas the great works of fiction from the first half of this century have acquired a firm place in the literary histories, been widely studied and placed in the chronicle of modern literature, those of the second half have not been set in much shape or order at all. This is partly because they are considered as contemporary. Yet 50 years, in literary terms, is a long time. It's also partly because, where the liter-ary endeavours of the first half-century have a certain aesthetic clarity, those of the second look much more fragmentary. All canons are in perpetual dispute. Still, if we consider who were the major writers of English-language fiction to the great cultural break of the Sec-ond World War, then a fairly clear from rank can be drawn up: say James, Conrad, Law-rence, Stein, Woolf, Joyce. Ford, Faulkner, Hemingway. Dos Passos, Waugh, Their great project would be the transformation of Victorian fiction, with its "loose baggy monsters", into a fiction of modernism and modernity. We are talking, in short, about an age.

The postwar period has not yet taken shape as an "age". It has seen a new set of revolutions in modern English-language fiction, not least beTHE MODERN LIBRARY Ed. Carmen Callil and Colm Tóibín cause of the great irruption of American and other literatures. It contains its fair share of major talents. Yet the reputations are still disputed and its aesthetic developments don't look clear. Ten years back the term "Post-Modernism" served to suggest an artisric direction, taking us from the fiction of Beckett and Nabokov to that of Pynchon and Barth. But it has dissolved into a debate over vaguer matters: gender revision, post-colonialism, a transformation less of art forms than of subject maners and cultural origins.

Picador, £12.99

That makes shaping a canon more difficult. We do it, of course; and at no time more than when a century and millennium is turning. The Callil-Toibin Modern Library is one way of going about this. A user-friendly book, it partly acts as a listing of listings - giving us, for instance, accounts of past winners of the many prizes that nowadays go towards making literary reputations (the Booker, the Whitbread, the CNA, the Commonwealth, etc.) much as publication in avant garde magazines once aided the reputation of the Listings (prizes, guides, cul-ture supplements and so on) are now the way most artistic information is transacted. As with contemporary literary criticism itself, they are more concerned with pluralism and cultural eclecticism than standards of judgment. This book is not concerned with critical solemnities; in places it shows a dislike for academic styles in judgment. Enthusiasm, we're told, is its driving force; the books are chosen for readers "of every age and taste": "its purpose is to celebrate the writ-ers we have loved best, and to proselytise on behalf of their novels: sources of entertainment and enjoyment as satifying as any Hollywood movie, football match . .

The editors' listings are called passionate, idiosyncratic; they remind us they're neither English nor American (Callil is Australian, Tóibín Irish). Thus they have good reason for taking an eclectic cosmopolitan view of modern fiction. As they rightly say, some of the most important fictional writing now comes from anglophone writing else-where, from Australian and Canadian to Indian, African and Caribbean. They express justified impatience at the poor availability of many of these works, though the neglect has significantly if selectively diminished lately.

This provides the most refreshing side of the book, interesting entries you didn't expect to see: Bapsi Sidhwa, Kushwant Singh, Oscar Hijue-Scots. Irish (but not Welsh), Australasian, Canadian (but not South African) writing gets high rates of entry. So do genre writers: P. D. James and Ruth Rendell, Patricia Highsmith, John le Carre and Stephen King. So why not fan

I'm glad to see a number of books that matter to me: William Gaddis's The Recogninons, William H. Gass's volume In the Heart of the Heart of the Country, B. S. Johnson's novel-in-a-box The Unfortunates, Wilson Harris's Heartland. There are some works of real triviality and the one-page-per-book entries vary greatly in quality. Some are deft in judgment: others are no more than publishers' blurbs, and many titles prove "electrifying" or "engrossing".

As an absence myself, I am naturally interested in the significant absentees. Tolkien is directly excluded (and some may indeed prefer Stephen King). But it seems odd to be without one of the finest novels published here in the period. John Fowles's The French Lieu-tenant's Woman. Peter Ackroyd, John Berger, Lawrence Durrell, Vikram Seth and Angus Wilson fail to make it. So do Paul Auster, John Barth, Richard 8rautigan, Robert Coover, John Hawkes, Isaac Bashevis Singer, Gore Vidal and Richard Wright.

The book is provocative and interesting. Its best use is to start an argument about an era that, at least in calendar terms, is closing (though since it uses passionale liking as the criterion it's hard to argue over terms). As it turns out, it has been a major period for anglophone fiction, and the novel itself has survived most of the disasters said to be awaiting it. Now it finishes the century in good shape. This book's great use it that this is

On the crest of awave

Serbia in the grip of a deadly myth

ing aspects of our curperversion of objective reality. The West is determined to see through these operations against the dictator Milosevic: yet Nato still ducks the issue of pre-settlement ground forces. the majority of Kosovans are being driven out, not massacred, and the presence of opposition leaders in Milosevic's Government suggests he is at worst an evil autocrat.

But these pale compared to the wilful unreality of the Serbs: the Kosovans are being driven out by the KLA and Nato; the pictures of refugees are faked: the Serbs are acting in self-defence. Most depressingly of all, even the most liberat Serbian voices seem to be without a word in defence of the simple humanity of the people victimised in their name. How can they be so obtuse?

Noel Matcolm has already dissected the Kosovo myth. Anzulovic's target is its overarching myth, "Heavenly Serbia" - the notion of the Serbs' preference for moral purity over military victory - and how it has led to genocide in the t990s. Thomas provides a straightforward analysis of how Slobodan Milosevic came to, and maintained, power. Taken together, Heavenly Serbia and Serbia under Milosethe apparent unreality of the voices of even moderate Serbs.

It is hard not to think that Serbia is stuck in some kind of cultural, historical and political adolescence. "Heavenly

SERBIA UNDER MILOSEVIC By Robert Thomas C. Hurst & Co., £14.95 ISBN 1850653674

HEAVENLY SERBIA By Branimir Anzulovic C. Hurst & Co., £25 ISBN 1850653429

Serbia" is always right, particularly when outsiders indicate otherwise, and never more so than in cataclysmic defeat. Though the myth was useful in explaining Serbia's partly consensual Ottoman occupation, its application to 1990s Europe smacks of pathological self-indulgence. Thomas argues convincingly for Serbia's lack of political development. Political discourse has failed to move on from symbols to policies. and Milosevic has shanghaied the symbols. The largely urban "Happening of the Citiseemed to show a growing political maturity. But so strong is the hold of the symbolic, and Milosevic's grip over the media and the rural population. that he could launch the crackdown in Kosovo in February 1998 simply to strengthen his election deadlock. Is there anyone who can lead the country to maturity? Rarely can a people have been so ill-served by its elites. Its intellectuals were instrumental in supplanting communism with an unpleasant nationalist credo. Its literati churn out Nietzschean paeans to violence (Vuk Draskovic. the Deputy Prime Minister, is the author of a work called Knife). building on oral tradition and the 19th-century Montenegrin Prince-Bishop Njegos's hymn to ethnic deansing. The Mountain Wreath. Its political opposition has yet to move beyond squabbles over whether Dayton is a betrayal of Greater Serbia; of its leaders only Zoran Djindjic, president of the Democratic Party, emerges from the shenanigans of the 1990s with any credit.

Control in his sights: Milosovic exploits his grip on the media and the rural population

The difficulty is that the myths and symbols have a near-universal hold over Serbs, and Nato has acted at a time when the political discourse is too immature to resist their lure. Neither work is perfect; Anzulovic has a dire chapter on the implications of Western acceptance of the myth which repeats old canards, while Thomas's book reads like a dry textbook-inprogress. Yet both are essential for anyone who wants to know why the Serbs don't see things our way, and to work out how to deal with them.

LINKS

www.law.org: regularly updated site detailing human rights abuses in Kos the Serbian Ministry of Information

Tolerance isn't as laid-back as all that here can be few more eminent figures in the world of ideas than Leszek Kolakowski. Now in his 72nd year, Kolakowski has held distinguished positions in America, Britain and his naspeeches continue to play their part in shaping Western culture. Philosopher, historian, theologian, political scientist and literary critic, he exemplifies a type of intellectual already rare on the Continent, and almost non-existent in the English-speaking world. His most important book - the three-volume Main Currents of Mandsm - effectively put an end to the intellectual pretensions of Marx and his followers, while, in his imagina-tive studies of the religious worldview. Kolakowski has made an exemplary attempt to overturn the cynical materialism of modern philosophy. Freedom, Fame, Lying and Betraval is a collection of short and lucid essays. Abstract thoughts about freedom, God and human nature are interwoven with concrete observations about the trials of modern life; and the author's humane and tolerant worldview is tested against the harsher human realities. There are no footnotes; the great philosophers are rarely mentioned, and modern scholarship is ignored. But the reader feels that he is in the presence of a deeply serious and learned thinker who has the rare gift of speaking simply about complex things. At their best the essays are little gems of applied philosophy; even when their light is dimmed by hesitation, they are both useful to the general reader and challenging to the ROGER SCRUTON

FREEDOM, FAME. LYING AND BETRAYAL By Leszek Kolakowski ISBN 0 14 028044 8

Kolakowski's experience of communism has left him with a deep revulsion towards that evil creed. But his philosophy is not defined by this revulsion; on the contrary, it is a search for some positive alternative. The result is a synthesis of Roman Catholic theology with a liberal-humanist morality. Whether this reconciliation of opposites is possible may be doubted; but Kolakowski is determined to make the attempt. It is, he implies, the best that we can hope for. Catholics are often accused of intolerance. But as Kolakowski points out, tolerance is not merely compatible with strong beliefs; it actually requires them. To tolerate something you must also disapprove of it: otherwise what looks like toleration is merely indifference. When gay activists accuse Catholics of "homophobia", they are trying to make disapproval into a crime. While pretending to attack intolerance, they are actually displaying it. Here is one point where the morality of liberal humanism has let us down. Kolakowski is surely right in this. In my experience the most intolerant people are liberals: people who can tolerate any belief whatsoever, provided it is not seriously held, and who therefore demonise everyone who really disagrees with them.

Kolakowski's essay on God goes straight to the heart of modern doubts and soothes them with lapidary words. God is "that place to which Reason, the Imagination and the Heart are persistently drawn". He is the goal of our thinking and desiring, and without Him we cannot realise our potential. That there is Good in the world counts, for Kolakowski, far more in favour of God's existence than Evil counts against it. And he implies that the chaos and violence of our times is a direct result of our loss of faith. He does not exculpate the Church for its experiments in violence; but he points to the virtue of an institution that can publicly confess to its faults.

ere and there Kolaty: in the essay on travel he sees this modern vice as a healthy expression of curiosity, rather than as what it is, a self-centred determination to be other; while in his account of violence he makes no mention of the concept of "structural violence" with which sociologists wage war on the institutions of social control. Nevertheless, the essays offer a sustained adventure of ideas, and the moral sense is kowski misses an intellectual opportuni-

MAGNUS MILLS, busdriving Booker shortlistee. fears no comparision. The author of The Restraint of Beasts has a new book coming from Flamingo in September, All Quiet on the Orient Express, publishers usually provide their reps with notes on "competition" (Helen Dunmore up against Sebastian Faulks, for instance) — so who is Mills up against? George Crabbe. Thomas Hardy and Franz Kafka, those wild 'n' crazy guys . . .

■ PICK a genius, any genius. out to unknown authors. The Arts Council of England is giving awards of £7,000 to 15 writers with "work in progress" - who they were. Marina Warner, Michèle Roberts and Don Paterson read through hundreds of anonymous works and picked the best. The winners will be lifted from obscurity on May 27: lan McEwan presents the cheques at London's Imagination Gallery.

■ BERNARD CORNWELL has always spread his talents, giving his books on Sharpe and the "Rebel" series to HarperCollins and his Arthurian trilogy to Penguin. Now he'll put all his books under the HarperCollins roof for a seven-figure deal, with the publication of Stonehenge: 2000 BC in time for OVERHEARD in a pub from a man recommending reading to two 18-year-olds: Books give you a lovely balance between your own experience and the world's experience." Could anyone put it better?

■ books@the-times.co.uk

Poet going somewhere, despite himself our poets: they had to be prophets and lawgivers at once. Then we asked too little: they had to be as much like us as possible make poems that were indistinguishable from drab prose. Now, with our best poets, a balance has been struck, the lessons of both modes internalised. Michael Hofmann in Approximately Nowhere (Faber, £7.99; ISBN 0 571 19524 5) is still balf in love with poetry as description and enumeration:

the velvet curtains slowly turning to dust on the woodwormed rail.

of bin-liners and suitease (our 1961 cardboard family 'Revelation'), the Olympia Traveller I lugged around Mexico and two pairs of boots The trouble with this is that it tries to suggest that attention to detail is attentiveness to the world. It also, in a very English way, tries to suggest that cold description hides deep feeling, as in the opening poem, Tea for my Father, which ends: He likes it very strong, with in mugs, and sweetens it himself. He puts it on the window-sill in front of his table, and lets it go cold. Later on. I come and throw academic philosopher.

Interestingly, that poem is dated 1979. Gert Hofmann died in 1993, and the first part of the book consists of poems in his memory. The coy selfconsciousness of lines like Later on, I come and throw it out" have gone. In their place is a new attentiveness, not to detail but to the immense complexity and confusion of life

The new south east cemetery is approximately nowhere ten stops by underground then bus zigzagging through the suburbs

The lack of punctuation makes palpable the sense of how death always escapes us. The poet accepts that and builds it into his poem. Epithanaton, the masterpiece of the collection, is still happy to enumerate ('Sprays of pluperfect flowers at your head, the swanky brass tag at your feet"), but is open to people and situations as well: A custodian (one of your

A custocuan (one or your characters, morbid and fussy and phlegmatic) took out the alarmingly long screws from the coffin, as though someone would try very hard to get out or — you would have said — in

This is as funny, rich and painful as a passage in Beckett. And that combination is to be found throughout the volume: in the fine Kleist in Paris, in the pains of adultery and betrayal.

Michael Hofmann is one of our finest translators. He moves with ease between German, English and American cultures and idioms. Less extreme than his father, more at ease in the world, but with his father's compassion for the broken and defeated. be grows in stature with each succeeding book.

GABRIEL JOSIPOVICI

Weater Dress Carlotter 4.12.4 المالية المتحاولين ALCHTER 1114 Spannystra

3.7

15. mg. 1

March 1995

A 16 1

Causo:

· Same

would be Rish to rude summer of uni-To Edward Medical thruch. other exerci-4 2 1 5 1 4 CTIZT # July Willer and larged w 1---" " " AN. N APPARA, pr

r diak fin. 47 8 28 429 To Charles With ATTEMPT ! _ T a a Truch La

The original parties ur three h - end magger de me ain A What for a ান মাজি 🗺 ion i Presimo of and an lab Farm a count A Land Land of the Party of the ंदि चळळळाळ Some sig Planer this

Dietabate m wild to write pr

Dying

ISBN 1861591 098

God wouldn't believe in Dawkins, either

Is science 'the truth' or merely a system of belief?

A history of its institutions begs the question

n Samuel Johnson's great dictionary the first definidon of "science" is simply "knowledge"; the history of how it has decayed into a paranoid and destruc-dve system of specialised applications is the history which this volume attempts to trace. It charts the course by which what was once the "servant of nature", to employ Fran-cis Bacon's phrase, became the usurper and maligner of nature.

It must be noted at once that contemporary science is not an all-encompassing reality. It is a system of beliefs competing with other systems. It is an enterprise in ome and is, in other words, an activity which changes direction or shape and sometimes even goes into reverse. One of the strengths of this volume, in fact, is the extent to which it illuminates how science alters according to the country or culture in which it is practised.

Certain cities encourage certain types of scientific methodology:

throughout the 17th and 18th centuries, for example, London and Paris were engaged in internecine warfare for pre-eminence in experimen-tal matters with London encourag-ing pragmatic applications. And the authors of this book suggest that the 19th-century invention of the "campus" and the "graduate school" in the United States created a suitably enclosed and hierarchical environment for research. In fact science has for most of its existence depended crucially upon institutions, generally male-domi-nated, and thus has become an aspect of patriarchal society. The culture of learned societies was co-opted by the State and became that of "official institutions" which supported "the forces of rational enlightenment, progress and modernisation".

Measurement itself becomes coopted as a State activity - "The State established measures of assets, animate and inanimate", according to the authors of this book. "better to control them" - and thus the concept of precision was directly related to acquisitiveness and power. The authors once more sug-gest that "measurement signalled industry and improvement. The introduction of uniform clock time. with the use of mechanical clocks, regimented life in ways unknown to any previous generation.

There are other very interesting

dic survey. The connection between science and Protestandsm, for example, is firmly made, it is true that the founders of the Royal Society. including Sir Isaac Newton. were practising alchemists and as-trologers — and it is also true that this aspect of early experimental science has remained obscured in most histories of the subject. But the history of science in the last decades of the 17th, and the early decades of the 18th century is wholly implicated in the Protestant ethic.

chapters in this almost encyclopae-

One great intellectual historian has suggested that "Puritanism, and ascetic Protestantism generally ... played no small part in arousing a sustained interest in science". The rejection of scholasoc authority, the sustained examination of God and nature beyond the corrupting interpretation of priests, the faith in human perfectibility - all blossomed in a consuming rever-ence for science and technology. In similar fashion individual "cabinets of curiosities" became collections, which then turned into state-funded museums where the taxonomy of knowledge was displayed; the temples of the 19th century, "monumental and imposing", which evoked "connotations of dignity, antiquity and permanence", when in fact they were organised upon distorted and temporary misinterpretations of the world.

In this context it is interesong to note that in the 1870s one or two brave souls dared to question the truth and purpose of Darwinism that, in the words of one opponent, was quackery designed "to refer all effects to the same cause" - before being silenced by the scientific establishment.

The social order and the scientific system have become so clearly imolicated with each other that they cannot now be separated. There is no such thing as "pure" science, only that which has become the "servant" of the State rather than of

There is a very interesting chap-ter here on the relationship befor an tween science and slaughter. It pos-es the question, "Why should warri-ors have a professional interest in identity abstract knowledge?" to which the only possible answer is that ab-stract knowledge is an instrument of power and of oppression. Ab-RUSSELL CELYN JONES stract knowledge has no perpetra-tors and no victims; it represents a TAKING LIVES supposedly impersonal force which can effortlessly master the world. The authors note how physicians conduct a "war" against disease By Michael Pye Phoenix House, £16.99 known as the "surgeon-general". This is in certain respects not an easy book to read; the level of cliche is high. Writers thunder, sands shift, struggles are deadly and tomes are unwieldy. But if ever there was an occasion to divorce style from content, Servants of Nature represents it. It is a challenging, and necessary, book.

while bomber pilots master the guidance of their missiles with "surgical precision". The principal med-ical officer in the United States is

SERVANTS OF NATURE By Lewis Pyenson & Susan Sheets Pyenson HarperCollins, £24.99 ISBN 0 00 223852 X

On the crest of a wave

DANCING NAKED IN THE MIND FIELD By Kary Mullis Bloomsbury, £12.99 ISBN 0 7475 4376 3

tille stita

THE biochemist Kary Mullis won the 1993 Nobel Prize for-PCR (polymerase chain-reacnon) which gave new meaning to DNA. Thereafter known as the Surfer Scientist, he has been high on a wave ever since. Now he gives us his Joe Schmoe attitude on life, love, alien encounters and the ruthless careerism of the scientific establishment. His view is that the bastards are out to get ya. For all the California Weird. Krazy Kary knows a thing or two.

Love lines

ARTHUR RIMBAUD By Benjamin Ivry Outlines, £6.99 ISBN 1 899791 71 X

WE are mostly adjusted now to the significance of a poet's sexuality in any assessment of his work, though there is an argument against categorisation of gays in a literary ghetto. lvry's short biography is dedicated to Rimbaud as an "exceptional being dedicated somaocally and psychically to homosexuality" and deals fully with Rimbaud's violent, passionate affair with Verlaine. The muse of lyric poetry doesn't discriminate against poets - only criocs and readers do that. lvry is on the side of Erato.

No nonsense

MIND, LANGUAGE AND SOCIETY By John Searle Weidenfeld & Nicolson, £12.99 ISBN 0 297 64300 2

SEARLE'S subtitle, "Philosophy in the Real World", is a dunking clue to his belief in external realism and Enlight-enment idealism. His admits that his distaste for Post-Modernism is unfashionable. but at least he is confident of the material existence of the ground on which he sturdily plants his feet. He's a real bruiser for reality: in this short book, he punches his weight in defence of common sense against the effete, affected, artificial constructs of relativism.

All that jazz

A PORTRAIT OF DUKE ELLINGTON By Stuart Nicholson Sidgwick & Jackson, £20 ISBN 0 283 06338 6 THE current fashion for biography, exemplified by George Plimpton's recent biography of Truman Capote, as a cut and paste compilation of oral testimony from the subject himself, his friends, family and associates, and with minimal authorial linking narra-Ove, is perpetuated here to im-mediate effect. Compiled from first hand sources, it takes jazz back to its roots, profiling The Duke, one of its pulymathic reats, in this centennial year of his birth. A terrific rap.

IAIN FINLAYSON

The moral is: there are no morals

Peter Preston wishes Christopher Hitchens would forget about Bill and Sid and move on to other things

hristopher Hitchens is that cherishable rarity, a man of the Left who writes with Right has sought to make its own. His Vanity Fair essays often turn polemic Into an art form. He has the historic swagger of the old English pamphleteers. But, alas, this is a rather sad little book.

Its ostensible purpose is to reveal William Jefferson Clinton as a compulsive fornicator, liar, bully, employer of scumbags, friend of mobsters and shameless political compromiser. Yes, quite: but what's new? Surely there's no market left for the standard Rees-Mogg thesis with added adjectives? What's new is the last five pages (out of 112) and they have almost nothing to do with Clinton and everything to do with the author's awful predicament.

A few weeks ago some of Washington's grandest political commentators put on a cabaret where they sang barbed songs about the great and not-so-good. Thus the President, sitting there in the audience, smiling, "Caught by the DNA" (to a Springsteen beatl. Another song featured one "Christopher Snitchens".

The story behind the sneer is simple enough. Hitchens went to lunch with his "old friend" turned White House

NO ONE LEFT TO LIE TO By Christopher Hitchens Verso, £12 ISBN 1 85984 736 6

aide, Sidney Blumenthal. Sid told Chris that Monica was a compulsive "stalker" who the gallant Bill had fended off and Sid knew because Bill had told him personally. Much later, Sid was hauled before the Senate and asked whether the lies about stalking were White House ones. Oh no, he said. Oh yes they were, said his old "friend" Chris to the House Judiciary Committee, dishing the lunch table chat. Clinton walked away unscathed. Blumenthal stayed stuck in a perjury mire. Here's the kind of judgment call that journalists have to make from time to time, an ethical dilemma which can punch you on the nose if you get it wrong. Was Chris wrong to snitch on Sid? Perhaps. The source was a chum talking off the record. Any practical judgment at the time of the snitch was that it would make no difference: Clinton, lies or no lies, was already certain of acquittal. But these personal/ professional conundrums are the devil to deal with and you can make out a good case for testifying truly when called.

The trouble is that Christopher Hitchens doesn't make that case. He makes a six-egg omelette of a defence in which he is "taken hostage" by Blumenthal's information and resolves at the last "that the pact a journalist makes is. finally, with the public. He lectures us on the "great, anni-hilating" tactics of Stalinism. He finds, equally, that "Clintonism poisons everything it touches". And here is what is so sad about this slim volume. It is a work of absurdly conflated self-justification. It tells you rather too much about the bleeding ego of the author - and thus not much of interest about its supposed subject.

Bill Clinton, for Hitchens's purposes, has to be portrayed as one of history's great mon-sters. Monica has to be "a defenceless and vulnerable young woman". The supporting cast, from Vernon Jordan to Colin Powell, has to be uniformly repulsive. The poor have to be thrown into the gutter while the rich fawn on

It's enough to make anyone clutch his head in his hands: Clinton faces scandal yet again

the destroyer of the New Deal. This is a Ben Jonson version of Beltway life designed to shed a kindlier light on our hero, who stood out against corrosive tyranny - and paid for his bravery by being laughed at in Washington

Time to move on. Clinton is bombing Belgrade (and that doesn't fit the thesis). Sid is no friend of Chris any longer and forgetfulness blooms again in Washington. Much. much better books await the Hitchens touch. There now, can we all calm down?

LINKS "National Committee" that lobbled to impeach Clinton first time around. devoted to stopping "the witch hunt www.tarpleyweb.com/nomitian: describes itself as "The Moruca

WHAT'S in a name? Big trouble when it's not your own. A young Dutchman witnesses the accidental death of a stranger in Florida and sees a perverse opportunity. He muri-lates the face, breaks the teeth and swaps watches with the dead man. Mariin Arkenhout is now Seih Goodman, for a while at least. As his bogus identity is about to be rumbled in New York, he kills someone to assume another identity and moves on. The places he goes, the jobs he performs are described in a twilight prose to contrast with the graphic details of the murders. But everyone has secrets that only surface after death. For the imposter this can be very compromising. Arkenhout's third victim is Professor Christopher Hart, an art historian who had stolen some valuable paintings. The Liber Principis, from a London museum. Archivist John Michael back, no further questions asked, and traces Arkenhout to Portugal. Simultaneously the Dutch police are closing in on Arkenhout after a chance sighting by his mother as he was travelling through Am-sterdam on his way to Portugal. But that is all I should reveal of this engaging plot. In a way. Costa is in the same business as Arkenhout. museums being the mausoleums of misplaced identity.

And from the moment Costa is revealed as the narrator his own identity problems become as central to the story as Arkenhoul's. The prose, moreover, is striking. Take this one descrip tion of a fire: "A bush burst out in neon orange, then the red and orange licked their way to the edge of the road and the tall, dry grass stems went off like sparklers. The brambles ran like fuses into a hedge.

Costa just wants the pictures

Pye's concerns cononue to broaden out to include Portugal's recent political history and classical archaeology. So many themes and changes in character and point of view require sustained concentration from the reader, as does Costa's slightly awkward explanarions as to how he acquired information about Arkenhout while dealing with him as Hart.

The air shook so you could hear it, like a ship when the engines start turning."

But these are minor criticisms. Precise and absorbing. Taking Lives is also surprisingly moving for a thriller.

A rural idyll not mired in sentiment dam Nicolson is both a refugee from the city and a columnist. It would be easy, therefore, to rush to judgment about this account of urban exile on a farm in the Sussex Weald. Mercifully, though, this book is not another exercise in metropolitan archness and angst. On the contrary, it is a delight: beauti-fully written, acutely observed and laced with self-mockery. After the failure of his first marriage. Nicolson was on his uppers, psychologically as well as financially — a collapse of self-esteem which he recounts with no trace of false sentiment. His epiphany came after a late night trudge through London which was aborted when a gang of teenagers threw bleach in his eyes and mugged him. Supported by the saint-like Sarah, the woman for whom he had left his wife, he began his search for a Postmodern Arcadia and ended up falling for Perch Hill Farm: a dreary house, some as-bestos buildings and 90 acres of unpromising farmland on the edge of the Sussex Weald.

So far, so predictable. What makes this particular love affair with rural England unusual is Nicolson's ability to interweave mud-spattered anecdote with poetic observation.

So he rages against a neighbour who pours tarmac on an

DIMBLEBY

PERCH HILL By Adam Nicolson ISBN 1 84119 054 3

ancient cart-track to protect a voluptuous BMW, but he is touched by a meeting of farmers trying to save a local market and who inhabit "faces in which the wind had broken the veins" He also has a fine sense of the absurd. Eager for freerange eggs, he buys the birds and builds a palace of a hen-coop, but its inhabitants soon fall from grace as the author nooces that the eye of a chicken is "about as warm and responsive as a 100-watt bulb". And when his ewes break through a fence, they not only contrive to vandalise a car but he has to fork out £3,000 in damages.

Nicolson sees the countryside's romance without romanticising it. Photo from Images

At his best, Nicolson is a chronider in the class of Richard Jefferies or John Stewart Collis. Like them, he describes the land and the people who work on it with precision and insight. And, like them, he wears his learning lightly. As an environmentalist who knows that "an oak tree 60 foot high may drink 15,000 gallons of water a day", he instinctively nurtures the concept of "sustainability" but approaches its meaning without once using the term or belabouring the point. Nor, incidentally, does he pontificate about the rape to which the landscape of southern England has been subjected, though it dearly dis-mays him.

Nicolson is not ashamed to wear his heart on his sleeve. One hot afternoon, when butterflies "cruised and flickered" across a field and a wood was "needled with birdsong", he lay in the grass and buried his nose in "the sun-warmed turf. breathed it in, smelled how good it was, knowing that he was right to have made the move. In moments of such bliss, he appears to inhabit a world where the human spirit and nature are at one and where he is able to discover "the undersense, those deeper connections" to which he is drawn again and again.

As he and Sarah become ever more rooted in their areadian refuge, Nicolson reflects with characteristic self-depre-cation that "the whole experience was a blunder into truth". It is a tale well told and a truth worth the telling.

LINKS

Lewinsky On Line Fan Club". THE BOOKSHOP HISTORY OF THE WORLD Intelligent, accessible and visually sumptuous, this remarkable book has changed our way of viewing history. Times readers can buy this new edition for only £40, £10 less than the normal price. over 1.3 million copies sold workdwide • over 520 computer generated colour maps • 150,000

100,000-word glossary CALL: 0990 134 459 CALLS C Fax +44 1326 374 888, e-mail: bookshop@the-times.co.uk

words of main lest and captions

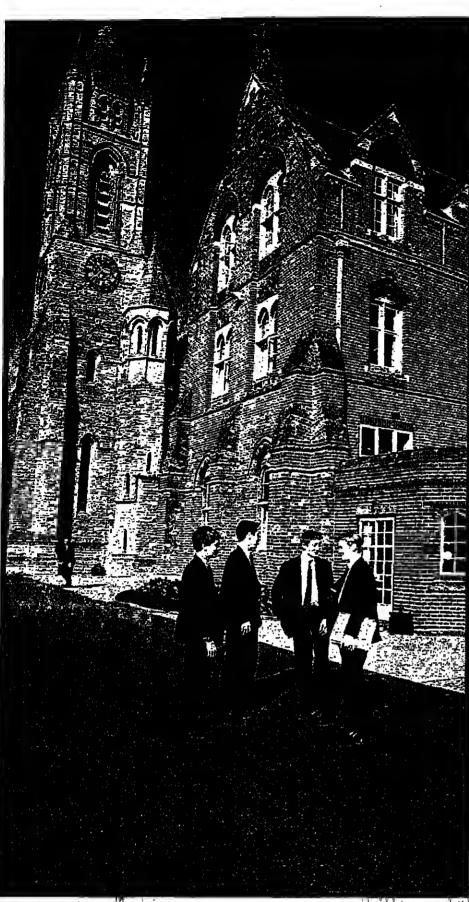

● FREE UK postage and packing ● Delivery in 28 days Or post coupon to: News Books, FREEPOST, PO Box 345, Falmouth, TR17 2BR Rease send me these books (order additional titles on a separate sheet) Title/Author

uddress
enclose Yesse w Yebit my	rife you	# n	am	e and	ade	tes	s or	n Uhe	bac	ok of	ali c	he	ques
						_					_			1	 ٦π
		L.	4		. 	. 	_	_	_	_		 	.
nnt Na					_										 _

by airmeit in Europe, surface to rest of world. (Airmait outside Europe add 35%.) The suggested retail price of a book can be subject to change by the publis without prior notice. Tick box if you prefer not to receive details of other offers

Sponsored section

From Victoria to the millennium

Victorian Gothic architecture provides a genteel façade for a modern academic outlook hough dressed most-ly in the garb of Victo-rian Gothic architec-ture, St Edward's is not afraid to grasp the torch of progress. Tradition is respected, but the future is embraced and the school provides a system of education that denies isolation yet retains the bonds that hold a school together. It acknowledges that academic and sporting success (at which the school excess) are not the be-all and end-all of education. The school aims to have a broad intake. A common entrance mark of 50 per cent. as an average of all the papers, is needed for entry — below the level required by many "metro-politan powerhouses" but it fits St Edward's philosophy.

fits St Edward's philosophy.

"We like a range of pupils and that includes a broad intellectual range as well as a wide range of talents, be they sporting, artistic, musical," says David Christie, the Warden (headmaster). "Children get a leaster advention the more they better education the more they mix with people of a wide range of abilities and background; this prepares them better for the future."

In The Times A-level school league table last year the school came 35ist in the country. And with 15 Oxbridge places being awarded to pupils in 1998 (out of about 90), the children's intellects are not suffer-

Mr Christie's philosophy and enthusiasm stem from his teaching experiences. One of the few public school headmas-ters with a background in the state sector, he originally taught at George Watson's in Edinburgh.

He then trained teachers at Moray House College, also in Edinburgh, which moulded his thoughts on schooling: "The old style of teacher training was a difficult, frustrating task. Things have changed, thankfully." From there he went to the European School in Luxembourg, teaching the children of European civil servants. With its emphasis on languages and understanding other countries' cultures, it was a

Mr Christie was the head of before joining St Edward's in 1988. He has just returned from a sabbatical in the US. where he lectured on the Scottish Enlightenment's influence on America in the 18th century, and his dynamic approach

For 136 years St Edward's School has played a unique part in Oxford life. Its new sports centre, to be shared with the public, is a groundbreaker. George Pendle presents a two-page report to education has prompted Last year 31 scholarships and many changes at the school. from coeducation to the funding of the new sports complex.

"I want to provide more and more facilities for the pupils so that they can develop their different intelligences and their different skills working together with other people, communicating with other people. I want them to be fit for life."

St Edward's primarily offers a boarding education, (there are three times as many boarders as day pupils) but even day pupils are at the school from 8.30am to 9pm. From September there will be ten houses—seven for boys, three for girls. The fees—£4,750 a term for boarders and £3,380 a term for day pupils - are not cheap. But there are many scholarships on offer for academic, music, art or all-round skills.

exhibitions were awarded. With a pupil-staff ratio of 8 to I and a staff turnover of less than 10 per cent a year, the school is neither stretched for resources nor understaffed. It has links with Oxford and Oxford Brookes universities: indeed several pupils are sons of dons. Many an Oxford don, says Mr Christie, has cycled over to the school to give talks. The pupils also have the chance to use the university's famed Ashmolean and Science

Within the school, departments are equally up to speed with information technology. Foreign language classes spend at least one lesson a week in the computer room, on which £300,000 has been spent in the past two years. Ian Rowley, the head of modern languages (one of the school's most successful areas) sees IT as a great benefit. He says: "Using computers allows students of different academic ability to work in the same classroom without holding each other up or going too quickly. Thus, it enables stu-dents to be challenged at their own rate. When it comes to grammar, using the computers helps to sweeten the pill. It

t Edward's has certainly given greater priorithe past ten years than it had previously. "The world has changed; gone are the days when mere attendance at a public school guaranteed the opening of doors," says Mr Christie. "I'm glad that people are taken on their merits. The world is more competitive and children must be more flexi-.. ble. We have a good number of very able pupils; we also have pupils of average ability that is the environment in which people learn best. "I believe in breadth, in preparing people for the future. I want them to have a good life. to feel happy and confident about themselves, able to take that can happen while pupils are having a worthwhile, inter-esting and fulfilling time at the school. Any school that looks only to the future and forgets that five years has to be spent

A look back in honour

n 1863 Thomas Chamber lain, a High Church clergyman. founded four schools in Oxford as part of the "Oxford Movement", a religious movement advocating traditional forms of wor-ship, George Pendle writes, Of the four schools founded, only St Edward's remains. having moved north from its original site in the city centre in 1873 to Summertown, where it straddles the Woodstock Road. The area was developed in the late 19th St Edward's soon disposed of the OM's dogma, while retaining the magnificent Gothic architecture that had come with it. Almost in defiance of its past the school oow has a woman chaplain and, most liberally of all, optional chapel attendance for pupils.

"We do not make pupils attend an act of worship on Sundays," David Christie says. "We have people here of every faith and none." Although St Edward's has never been a large school (its pupils have in recent years numbered around 600), it has nevertheless produced an impressive list of old boys. Kenneth Grahame was one of the first pupils at the school. Its verdant setting left a great impression in his mind and was possibly the origin of his classic tale of riverbank life. Breaking out of the late-Victorian stuffiness that had created the school, he wrote the escapist The Wind in the served in the world wars. many giving their lives. The chapel is a shrine to their endeavour, the walls being engraved with their names. Two of St Edward's old boys gained recognition for the roles they played in the RAF during the Second World War. Wing Commander Guy Gibson became a hero for clude ion Snow the television

Old boys: dambuster Guy Gibson, novelist Kenneth Grahame and actor Lord Olivier

HISTORY

Douglas Bader was also a pu-pil at St Edward's. He is remembered in the names of school buildings and was a friend to the school up until his death. Laurence Olivier was another old boy and played his first Shakespearean role at the school (Puck in Dream), instigating a theatrical tradition that continues to this day. Other old boys inthe famous Dam journalist and George Fen-Busters' raid in 1943. Sir ton, the film music composer.

Esporta

Health & Fitness Clubs

I CHIL RSDAY AL

pendle reports t

CHOCKS AV INEW SPORT

Emberts Leisure is prohEdward's School on of its new sport

Liberts Leisure provides assitancy advice and inn ting timance and forming for leisure devel

Purchases • Valuatie lease Renewals . Arbit Planning · Expert Witne

> Fortuntier information, Anthony Miller FR

12 BOLTON STREET LONDON WIY PHONE: 0171 629 6700 mail: anthony, miller@hum www.humberts-leis

SURESBUSINI

ESSIDNAL FORCE ME

Somethings ng on behind the bike Shed.

Games have never been so much fun! At First Leisure we've teamed up with St Edwards School, Oxford to develop a new Esporta Health and Fitness Club, helping to provide the school with outstanding sports and recreation facilities, including swimming, tennis, gymnasium and fitness classes.

If you'd like to see your school get the same grade A results, why not call Mark Morgan or John Scribbins, on 0171 437 9727.

STEDWAINDS SCHOOL

Slow to take the plunge, but girl power pays dividends

George Pendle reports on how the 'giant step' of going coeducational brought balance and growth to the boarding school

NE of the mosi significant changes undertaken by the school in recent times has been the implecomplete coeducation.

Girls first arrived at St Edward's in 1983, but only into the sixth form. When David Christie arrived as Warden in 1988 he was aiready looking towards beginning coeducation throughout the school, but it took nine years of consideration before they could be admitted.

"Full integration of girls into the school was considered and turned down twice," he explains. "We didn't have enough female teachers and we didn't have enough expenence in educating large numbers of girls."

The school had to adjust not only its pastoral care, but also to work out the logistics of sing all the new pupils. A lot of planning had to be done, but eventually the giant step was taken in 1997. Of course the impact of that "giant step" has, as hoped, dissipated almost completely. St Edward's is now a co-ed school and you could not tell it had ever been anything else. Many of the pupils and teachers have almost forgotten what life was like before the change. Nick McEwen, the joint head of school, verifies that opinion: "It was strange at first seeing younger girls, but within days it seemed like it had alway's been this way. It's really made the school more interesting. You get a 14-year-old girl involved in a play with senior boys and she can hold her own completely."

There are two girls' houses Macnamara's and Oakthorpe - and this September one of the boys' houses (Corte) will become a third girls' house, while the displaced boys will move into the new residential house. "I think the new house is a big statement the attitude Edward's," says Mr Christie.

"We believe in boarding."
The introduction of girls has meant an equal shedding of places for boys but the school is at the moment growing towards its optimum size of 600 pupils. Every public school needs more pupils, but St Edward's seems to have avoided the trend of looking abroad for students.

There are, of course, pupils from overseas at St Edward's but the essential character of the school is very modern and very English. Going coeduca-tional has not only helped increase intake, but it also chimes in with the school's philosophy of a complete educa-

"I've always been in favour of coeducation," says Mr Christie. "I think without it you are inhibiting the educational process. That's my own opinion and others might disagree. One benefit of independence is that schools can choose the model they believe in."

Girls have been fully integrated into school life; the decision has meant that St Edward's can offer a more rounded education

Team effort clinches £6m sports centre

avid Christie, the Warden of St Edward's for the past II years, has a gleam in his eye. There may be other examples of this but I don't know of any," he says with a smile.

St Edward's is about to undertake a scheme unheard of in private schooling. In co-operation with the First Lei-sure group, work is about to begin on a £6 million sports centre in the school grounds that will be open to the public and the pupils.

Such an undertaking would seem to create a huge head-ache but not, it seems, for Mr Christie whose smile is un-dirnmed. No wonder: the sports complex is to be built entirely at First Leisure's expense while the school needs to provide only the land, on lease. Clearly, both sides will benefit from the arrangement.

The new multipurpose health and fitness centre is set to be the envy of many larger establishments and include indoor tennis squash courts, a 25-metre swimming pool, a gymnasium and an aerobics studio.

In addition to access to some of the most up-to-date facilities, a large sports hall is being built for the exclusive use of the pupils. First Leisure has undertaken to maintain the entire centre, swimming pool and all. The school will have uch a foray into the commercial market is bound to raise eye-brows, but Mr Christie has few apprehensions. As a schoolmaster, not a businessman, one is always concerned that we are not getting the best deal, but our rela-tions with First Leisure have been excellent. We are teachers, not leisure centre managers. We want to concentrate on what we are good at and leave the management to those skilled in that area."

The advantages of such a scheme are clear and look set to spur the interest of other schools - the centre has been eained without a penny being put on fees.

Through this scheme we've enhanced our facilities enor-mously." Mr Christie says. "but simultaneously there's nothing that's putting a financial barrier up to people comthrough raised borrowing or

In a unique deal, commerce is funding a complex that will be open to public and pupils increasing the fees and that's what's so exciting. Our pupils' interests always come first."

Indeed, at a time when many private school pupils are becoming secondary con-siderations to the financial running of a school, it is a refreshing change to see business and teaching harmonised so readily and successfully as they we been here.

Although the construction of the centre has been ceded to First Leisure, there is no ques-tion of outsourcing of the school's sports teaching. St Edward's staff will continue to run physical education and games to the high standards that have made it a feared presence on sports pitches. The school's previous sports centre was also used by the public, who are expected to apply in some numbers for membership of the complex, set within the grounds in the affluent Summertown area of North Oxford. Having members of the community using the new complex. also helps to strengthen the school's bond with the area. Even if we had the £6 million to build this centre, we would still want the public to be using it," Mr Christie says. Under the careful eye of David Bramble, the former bursar, it is hoped that the centre will be fully operational by Mr Bramble initiated the project and, despite his retire-ment, will see it through to completion as project manager. He points out that there has been "a massive improve-academic facilities for pupils in recent years".

At the same time as the sports centre is being built a new boarding house is also being completed. Senior pupils' rooms will feature en suite facilities. "It's the way things are going," says Mr Christie. Unless schemes are found like the one we are involved in, the costs will continue to esca-

Between May and February the new buildings will replace the present Douglas Bader sports centre but the name willemain intact.

The preservation of the memory of one of the school's greatest old boys is seen as important - the one concession. to the past in a project that as same in many athletics, and resolutely looking towards the sailed sailing, athletics, and future. to the past in a project that is

Pupils excel at rowing and rugby

SPORT

"THERE is nothing — abso-lutely nothing — half so much worth-doing as simply mess-ing about in boats." So said Kenneth Grahame, one of St Edward's most illustrious old boys, who surely must have picked up the habit as a pupil

The boating tradition con-tinues at St Edward's to this day, only now it is a little more than just "messing about". St Edward's prides itself on its sporting success and especially on its rowing. Winner of the schools' Head of the River race in both 1997 and 1998, St Edward's even set a new course record in its last Strong competitors at the National Schools Regatta and Henley, some of the rowers go on to gain Blues in the Oxford-Cambridge Boat Race. Girls' rowing is also tak-ing off, and it is hoped that ing off, and it is hoped that they will emulate the success of the boys crews. The school, however, does offer rowing at all levels, not just for the top feams, and with a boathouse on the nearby Thames, it takes place in surroundings of which Toad and Mole would surely have approved.

Yet rowing in no way eclips es the other sports on offer. The rugby team can boast an under-19 England international among its ranks. It won all but one of its games last season. The school is always a strong contestant in the Ross-lyn Park Sevens competition. The girls' skiing team has also won many medals.

Almost every pupil takes part in a sporting activity of some kind lithere are three or four teams for each sport in each year group) and the 90 acres of sports fields at the school allows a lot to take place. place. A new six-hole goif course is now on site and the soon to be constructed leisure complex will offer an enviable amount of alternative sports to take part in.

The advent of an all-weather pitch has led to at renaissance in bockey. Apart from

HUMBERTS LEISURE

CHOCKS AWAY FOR THE NEW SPORTS COMPLEX!

Humberts Leisure is proud to have advised St Edward's School on the development of its new sports facility.

Humberts Leisure provides first class expertise, consultancy advice and innovative solutions to raising finance and forming strategic alliances for leisure development

Sales • Purchases • Valuations • Rent Reviews Lease Renewals • Arbitrations • Rating Planning • Expert Witness • Consultancy

> For further information, please contact Anthony Miller FRICS IRRV

12 BOLTON STREET MAYFAIR LONDON W1Y 7PA TELEPHONE: 0171 629 6700 FAX: 0171 409 0475 E-mail: anthony.miller@humberts-leisure.com www.humberts-leisure.com

CHARTERED SURVEYORS LEISURE BUSINESS SPECIALISTS PROFESSIONAL FORCE SERVING THE LEISURE INDUSTRY

Boys & Girls 13 - 18

St Edward's is one of the country's leading co-educational independent schools with strong academic, musical and sporting traditions.

Easily accessible from London, the South East and Midlands, St Edward's has a friendly, close knit environment which encourages each individual to develop his or her potential to the full.

> A range of generous academic, art, music and all-rounder scholarships is available.

For further details please write to Mrs. Anne Brooks

St Edward's School, Oxford, OX2 7NN, or telephone for a preliminary discussion, 11 865 319200.

ALLEN & OVERY

Allen & Overy is pleased that its property, planning and educational charity specialists were involved in advising St Edward's School in relation to all aspects of the Sports Centre project.

One New Change, London EC4M 9QQ Tel: 0171 330 3000 - Fast 0171 330 9900)

BIGNELL SHACKLADY EWING

Birmingham B18 6DA Tel: 0121-523 1121 Fax:0121-523 1120

95 Spencer St

Architects & Designers

Specialists in leisure design. Email: bse@bseltd.demon.co.uk

Architects Design Partnership Architects to St. Edward's School since 1986.

projects. Successful in translating the needs and expectations of our clients into solutions which enhance the image and reputation of the institution. Good buildings, the right facilities and a pleasant environment are important

Let us help you achieve your full potential

o. Park End Street, Oxford OX1 LID de 01865 248045 Facc01865 790729

A selection of last-minute holidays and travel opportunities at home, on the Continent and farther afield. many at bargain prices

SINTENSIS

EASTBOURNE is angry at a new Thomson television commercial depicting the place as the kind of sleepy resort you avoid for the fleshpots of Europe, Tony Dawe writes.

To show just what the town can offer, Elite Hotels has a special deal this Bank Holiday weekend: a two-night break at the five-star Grand for £99 between Friday and Monday. Similar deals are available at the group's hotels in Ashdown Forest, East Sussex and Hook in Hampshire. Details: 01323

ST HELIER is the sunniest town in the British Isles — and that's official — so it could be the best place for the first Bank Holiday week of May.

Thomas Cook Holidays is offering a week's B&B at a guesthouse close to shops and the beach for £261, with a return flight from Gatwick on Sunday. Details: 01733 418300.

TENNIS, swimming, a gym and sauna are all on hand and the peace, tranquillity and donkeys of the New Forest on the doorstep of the Passford House Hotel, where Sunvil UK is offering Bank Holiday weekend breaks at special rates. Arrive tomorrow or Saturday and two nights' B&B costs £64.50. Details: 0181-232

■ DINGLE Peninsula can claim to be the wildest and most beautiful part of the West of Ireland and has well-located holiday cottages available at a discount from May 8. A week's self-catering with Irish Ferries Holidays costs £85. based on four sharing and with a Pembroke-Rosslare ferry crossing for car and passengers, Details: 08705 170000.

■NORTH York Moors is Britain's least appreciated National Park, but Inntravel is offering the chance to discover it on a four-night walking trip from May 14, which costs £315 with half-board in atmospheric inns. Details: 01653 628862.

VILLAS and apartments in converted farmhouses on wine and olive-growing estates throughout Tuscany are available all next month from Crystal Premier Italy. Deals offering two weeks for the price of one are running until May 15. Prices start at £329, including return flights from Gatwick and car hire. Details: 0181-390

■ MONET fans who missed the London exhibition of his paintings can see some of his work at the Orangerie Museum in Paris, which houses his largest pictures and will show a special collection of 60 paintings from May 6. Two nights' B&B, Eurostar travel and entry to the exhibition will cost from £163 with Time Off. Details: 0990 846363.

KEFALONIA for a week from Sunday for £139 and Skiathos for a week from Monday for £99, both self-catering and with flights from Manchester. are the best and most immediate offers to the Greek islands this week from Kosmar. Details: 0181-882 6999.

■ VENICE can be explored on a fortnight's Airtours holi-. day available from Co-op Travelcare for £219 and starting on Sunday. The offer includes half-board on the Venetian Riviera and flights from Gatwick. Details: 0541 500388.

■ SAVINGS of £200 on spring walking breaks in the Pays Basque are available with Pyrenées Adventures, cutting the cost of a week's peaks and valleys holiday from May 8 to £295 with full board. Travel is extra and return high-speed rail tickets from London cost £165. Details: 01433 621498.

HAMBURG'S biggest party, celebrating the 810th birthday of the city's famous harbour, takes place from May 7 to 9 and Lufthansa has special fares for those wanting to join the celebrations. Return flights from Heathrow cost £140 and Benz Travel can book them and accommodation. Details: 0171-462 0000.

■ ATHENS and its classical sites, plus the palaces, mosques and bazaars of Istanbul — with a five-night cruise in between — are all included in ten-night trips with Sover-eign, which start with flights from Heathrow on May 20 and 25. Prices now start from E900. Details: 08707 500500.

AUSTRALIA SPECIALS

Departures up to 30/6/99

SINGAPORE AIRLINES

A great way to fly

WORLDWIDE

DEN 2015 FRANCE AND SINCE A LIEU COST TRANSPORTED AND SINCE

PERTH

SYDNEY

BRISBANE

ADELAIDE

CAIRNS

MELBOURNE

At the Acropolis: a special deal to Athens is on offer

LONG HAUL

CRUISING in the Far East for five days to resorts in Thai-land and Malaysia is combined with two nights in Chiang Mai and three in Singapore on a special package available from Premier Holidays for £929. Fly from Heathrow on May 18 and 25 with Singapore Airlines to take advan-tage. Details: 01223 516677.

FOR those who prefer to stay on dry land. Asean Explorer is offering two weeks at beach resorts in Hua Hin, Thailand, for the price of one. The deal runs for the next two months and costs from £684, including return scheduled flights. Details: 01481 823417.

■ EMIRATES is busy flying cricketers and their supporters to the World Cup in Britain in mid-May, so there is plenty of space in its home town of Dubai, where Tradewinds is offering six-night breaks at the four-star Oasis Beach Hotel for £499. The holidays are available with flights from Gatwick on May 19 and 26. Details: 0870-751 0004.

■NAIROBI for £298 return tops the flight deals on offer this week and is available

The Nairobi offer could be used to join Dragoman's AL rican adventure starting from the Kenyan capital on May 3 and 17. A five-week tour takes in many of East and Southern Africa's most splendid sites, in cluding the Ngorongoro Crater. Zanzibar and a floating s. fari on Lake Kariba. The price: of £1,035, plus a £300 kitty, it. cludes travel, accommodation (mostly camping) and meak

• All prices are per person and based on two sharing unless otherwise stated.

Details: 01728 861133.

See The Times on Saturday for more flight: bargains and last-minute holidays

TO ADVERTISE CALL 0171 481 1989 (TRADE) 0171 481 4000 (PRIVATE)

VANCOUVER T £242 HOUSTON

PITTSBURGH *2243 DALLAS *2313
CHARLOTTE *2243 DETROIT *2313
DENVER *2279 N. ORLEANS *2335
TORONTO *2282 CALGARY *2345
SEATTLE *2282 HAWAII *6452

NEW YORK SPECIAL

USA HOTELS

CHECK-IN

1,000,000 discount fares

0171 782 7824(TRADE) 0171 782 7799(PRIVATE)

*£298

fr £15 ppp

fr £ 16per week

100 leading scheduled airlines

USA MAY BEST BUYS

WASHINGTON # £203

FRANCISCO £258

JU/4/99

ORLANDO

LAS VEGAS

PHOENIX

₹£545

£627

£627

£627

£627

£634

SINGAPORE Sents 3 #Hotel up to 30/6 + £439 HONG KONG 3rds 4+ Hotel 01/5. 31/5 : £445 PHUKET 10ns 4*Hotel 01/5 - 19/6 # £499 BANGKOK & PHUKET 10rts up to 17/6 + £535

BANGKOK 5nt HOLIDAY 3* HOTEL
Departures 1/5/99 - 24/6/99 *£380

DUBAI 5nt HOLIDAY 5* JUMEIRAH BEACH # £499
Departures 1/6/99 - 31/7/99 proces include rite fights based on pp twen share, Clutter subject to availability REST OF THE WORLD * £239 BANGKOK £378 £257 HONG KONG £372 £323 RIO D. JANERO £374 £324 SINGAPORE £376 MEXICO CITY £353 HARARE / £388 IOHANNESBURG

up to 24/6/99

tr £21 ppps tr £28 ppps TRAVEL EXTRAS

BUSINESS CLASS DUBAI T *2656 SINGAPORE £1085 NEW YORK £667 TOKYO BANGKOK £806 HONG KONG £1509 AUSTRALIA SAVER Departures h.£ 1268

based on two pas FIRST CLASS NEW YORK T E982 BANGKOK (2187) DUBAI (1598 HONG KONG (2193) JO'BURG (2879 AUSTRALIA (22825) HOTELS

LE MERIDIEN, BANGKOK & £17 pppm

HYATT REGENCY, H.K. 4-236 ppprot RENAISSANCE, TOKYO 4-256 ppprot

FAR EAST

ORLANDO

LOS ANGELES

USA & CANADA 01772 727 272 AUSTRALIA & NZ 01772 727 727 01772 727 727

Fly to our site and book your flighti www.airnet.co.uk

£229

ITV Teleftent: Page 275

REST OF THE WORLD 01772 727 272 HOLIDAY OFFERS 01772 727 757 BUSINESS CLASS 01772 727 747

HOTELS CAR HIRE TRAVEL INSURANCE TOURS CRUISES WORLDWIDE TALLORMADE

MORE THAN JUST LOW COST FLIGHTS WORLDWIDE LONGHAUL TRAVEL: 0171-938 3366

FOR YOUR FREE COPY OF THE TRAILFINDER MAGAZINE CALL 0171 938 3366 ANYTIME

BRISTOL GLASGOW NEWCASTLE

FIRST & BUSINESS CLASS: 0171-938 3444 TRANSATLANTIC & EUROPEAN: 0171-937 5400 BIRMINGHAM WORLDWIDE TRAVEL: 0121-236 1234 WORLDWIDE TRAVEL: 9117-929 9000 WORLDWIDE TRAVEL: 0141-353 2224 MANCHESTER WORLDWIDE TRAVEL: 0161-839 6969 FIRST & BUSINESS: 0161-839 3434 WORLDWIDE TRAVEL: 0191-261 2345

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK THE TRAVEL EXPERTS NO CREDIT CARD SURCHARGES

FLIGHT CENTRE NORLDWIDE DISCOUNT FLIGHTS CCESS VISA WELCOME 0181 669 8607

Prince from: Spate - SAP Cyprus - S127 Cyprus - S127 Cyprus - S127 Cyprus - S127 Cyprus - S128 Fortugal - S79 Cyprus - S128 Fortugal - S79 Cyprus - S128 Fortugal - S79 Cyprus - S128 Forty - S79 Libraria - S129 Forty - S79 Libraria - S129 FUJGHT ONLY 01476 404747 From £99 01476 404757

Charter 10% OFF CAR HIRE ATHEIS EID AUSTRALIA 2079
ISRAEL EID CARADA EID
FIRALY EST CARREDA EIT
PORTUGAL EIO ROBEASA E299
CIPRUS EITP REDIO EITP
SPAIN E39 SAFRICA E339
TURBEY E39 GRARDA E393
TURBEY E390 Charles Busin 1900, TABLE RESTRICTION AT Open all Spin Mon-There, Feb-Sey Sun sy 0171 565 6805

Travel Insurance From £1 per day

CAD Cypus C125 Portugal 9279 Californi 1255 Tatloy

EXCLUSIVE READER OFFER

THE整整和TIMES

WIN AN EVENING WITH THE VOICE OF BART SIMPSON

PLUS: FREE SIMPSONS POSTERS WORTH £3.99 EACH AND DISCOUNTS OFF T-SHIRTS, CLOCKS AND MUGS

oday The Times offers one lucky reader the chance to meet Nancy Cartwright, left, the actress behind the voice of Bart Simpson® at an exclusive private preview of The Art of

Bart at the Animation Art Gallery, Great Castle Street, London, W1 on Friday, May 14. The winner will also be given a signed, limited edition of Simpsons artwork, illustrated. Every reader can get a free Simpsons poster titled Deep Thoughts of Homer Simpson worth £3.99 simply by attaching three differently numbered tokens to the voucher which will be published in The Times on Saturday and presenting it at any Virgini Megastore in the UK and Eire. With the voucher you can also buy I-shirts

In a choice of two designs for children or adults from £7.99 (usually £9.99-£11.99) and have £10 off Simpsons clocks (usually £39,99) and £1 off mugs (usually £5.99). HOW TO ENTER

For your chance to meet the voice of Bart Simpson and win the signed artwork, simply call our competition hotline, below, with the answer to this question: Which town do the Simpsons live in? Lines are open until midnight on Tuesday, May 4. *See Bart SImpson in meg@every Saturday.

COMPETITION HOTLINE 0640 678 887 EX UK +44 870 901 4287

CALLS COST 60p PER HAMITE

CHANGING TIME

TOKEN

from Bridge The World for departures from Heathrow unit the end of June. For those who can escape with small children in the next three weeks, Bon Voyage is offering Orlando in £315 return from Garwick with two to 11-year-olds going fresubject to complicated conditions. Details: Bridge The World, 0171-911 0900, Bon Voyage, 0800-316 0194.

The Misinski of the World for departures from Heathrow unit the parture world. to Cognition

RUGBY

raine a richard

20,000

17 77.

200

A 7,577.2

andrope that the and the second * * * * * * & A Company this inguity because A A SERVICE

1 - Part 10

1.5

ा प्राप्ता धरीला इत

* _ * :

to losing s

out tourid big was o adder at the back of stand, shinned up an termined the colours. Te came, dunne wh Despit streaked four i o okenham were re fight chreen early I the model and cope w armand and pessible

Perform rival suppor Neath conte 15 And a may been term as a worked for and a supple seem become and the continues Brat. Long H. The section of the property of the section of the s and the fine my - ST HOPEN and the state of the party of the sportly, s and the new deep and the distance TO THE REPORT OF in with Colors. ें के के लेखा कि क् To Alliga Dami · Pro MiCa e Tarris Variot Way 4.10; 531724.71

National States

Take to the second things

್ಲಿ ೧೯೮ ಇವಳಲ್ಲಿ ಭ

- Posta Ren of Williams Neath and had the other t Big cheese े के अवसाय भड़तारों का

the open sound andre's teipulanne ametre Colonicator Is a merely of Totalence that local Collections that a new same

φ_Ep_{(DGISE}

Salter returns to blaze trail for Bev's Babes

By Christopher Irvini

FROM West Hartlepool to Wembley. Six weeks ago. Matt Salter was embroiled in a relegation battle in the Allied Dunbar Premiership first division when the call arrived from London Broncos. In an almost surreal transition back to rugby league the following week, the Blackheath-born Jayer was pitched into the Silk Cut Challenge Cup semifinal with Castleford Tigers.

Three days away from the final, Salter, 22, is still pinching himself. The Broncos had not offered him a contract for this season, but still kept his registration. West Hartlepool showed an interest, so, three years after last playing union, Salter moved to the North East, resigned to the fact that his short league career was probably over.

West Hartlepool When encountered financial difficulpes and Salter was forced to take a ten per cent pay cut, the call from Dan Stains, the London coach, was neatly timed. "He told me they had a prop crisis with Darren Bradstreet and Grant Young injured, that they wanted me immediately and was I available? As West were in breach of contract, I didn't have much hesitation," he

0171 782 7824(TRAD

He came off the bench heen busy since relearning all the habits that he had spent five months trying to forget.

One of six players in the Broncos team on Saturday born in England, only Salter has emerged from the club's development ranks, where a homegrown takeover is part of the long-term planning. With ballast required in the front row to shore up London's so-called "pygmy pack". Salter's elevation has been at the unfortunate expense of Dominic Peters, the Actonborn forward and an automatic choice this season. Like Salter, who joined the Broncos from Blackheath, Peters was playing union for London

lrish. His memory of rugby league cup finals was of "a bloke called Martin Offiah always scoring and Wigan always winning". Salter, too, liked what he saw of league from television. At first, it was a way of maintaining fitness over the summer, but, being a natural handler and runner, he postponed a scholarship at Cardiff Institute when selected for the 1996 Great Britain Academy tour of

New Zealand.

Win or lose against Leeds Rhinos, it will be a poignant moment for Bev Risman. whose suggestion of an under-19 side for London was initially laughed out of the Rugby Football League. In 1996, with Dave Rotheram at the Broncos, he took seven scholarship youngsters from Brisbane and other young hopefuls, many of whom had

Only six weeks ago. Salter was involved in a union doglight responded to newspaper advertisements, and beat traditional ides, where boys ate and slept

صكداً من الاصل

the game.
"We once beat the Wigan
Academy side 30-10," Salter said. 'There was no way a bunch of players from union were going 10 do that, but with the Australian lads, we gained in confidence and knowledge."

Peters, 20, questioned his decision after being knocked unconscious in his first match. "It seemed far too tough for a young London kid, but as I relished physical confronta-tion, it's proved the best form of channelling aggression. It's nothing to do with northern stereotyping and pothellied props. You have to be at your peak because it's so fast," he

More of "Bev's Babes" Wayne Sykes, Ed Jennings James Brooks and Steffan Hughes - have graduated to the first-team squad. "Even with the Academy side today, you get people calling them a bunch of Aussies. Actually, they're all from London, except three from Oxford, Barrow and Gateshead." Risman said.

waves.

her thickest wet suit.

came as a bit of a shock," she said. "The difference in water temperature takes your breath away, but I'll be ready

Just as well, for she will have to repulse a strong tide of challengers. According to Karen Walton, secretary of the British Surfing Association, there are approximately 100,000 surfers in Britain, of which five per cent are women. "We are seeing a big increase in the numbers of women joining and taking part in competitions," Walton said. "Female participation has been doubling every year over the past five years."

by the weekend."

Australian Nevertheless. accents proliferate still at the Stoop Memorial Ground, including that of Stains, who has a vision of an all-London team. More than 20,000 children have been introduced to the game through the club's schools programme. Most of the 23 trainees come from within the M25 boundary and one. Bobby Wallis, from Feltham Community College, down the road from the Stoop, is the first boy from the South to be chosen for the Great Britain Under-16 squad, which tours Australia this summer.

Under Dave Evans, the Broncos development manager, teams now operate from under-13 level. "Wembley has obviously helped with the awareness factor," he said. "It's a question of harnessing the talent out there.

"Bobby Wallis is a prime example of a kid who'd probably never heard of rugby league before, but turns out to have a natural aptitude for lt. lt's going to take ten years, but I reckon you'll then see a totally home-bred London team."

Whiteley dedicated andlubbers will be hoping for settled weather over the May Bank Holiday but the best of the nation's to chasing breakers surfers will be praying for winds strong enough to make Fistral beach, Newquay, is the venue for the English national champion-

Which also means a slow dilution of surfing's macho image. "It is changing and ships and, come rain or shine, Sarah Whiteley, the women's title-holder, will be wearing now there's even a surfing magazine for women." Whiteley said. "I've always For her, the seas will feel like a freezing plunge pool after the hot tub, for Whiteley thought it's a bit sad if you surf just to look cool. For me. has spent the past six months the joy is that it's so natural. It rollercoastering waves in sounds corny, but you can get exotic locations such as Bali. out there, forget everything Australia and Hawaii. "I only and express yourself." got back this week so the cold

Water sport was a natural choice for Whiteley, 21, for she was brought up in Saunton, on the North Devon coast, in spectacular house called Breakers", where the front lawn rolls down to meet the "Although I was a tomboy and loved all sports at school, it was easy to fall for surfing," she said. "As soon as got a surfboard that was it." Many people learn by joining a club; Whiteley picked it up from the locals who were riding the waves almost on her doorstep. "I watched other people closely and read magazines," she said. "The waves break very slowly at Saunton, so it's an ideal place to learn. It's also a very friendly atmosphere, so the old boys and the local crew gave me lots of tips." At 16, she was encouraged by the owner of the local surf shop to enter her first competition.

"He said he'd pay my entry fee and as it was just around the corner in Woolacombe 1 figured I had nothing to lose," she said. "When I won I wanted more." Now, when she is home for the summer months, her favourite beach is a pebble's throw up the coast at Croyde, where hollow, powerful waves make for good competition training. According to Whiteley, scoring points in front of judges involves a deal of luck. You're judged on three waves in a 20-minute heat," she said. "Basically, it's about making as many moves zigzagging, cutbacks, figures of eight - as you can at the critical point of the wave. Off the top of the wave you try and get as vertical as you can but it can be frustrating because you can paddle out there and always be in the wrong place when the wave arrives. In that sense, it's not a level playing field."

Nor does it necessarily follow that the most talented

Johnson 148 pce

le to test hergainst ecognised elif you n to the Worlampiip Tour. There 15 en professionaking eni living bu have mmer work inunton does not rearovide ient funds. has o bail me ou ear." aid, "but 1 (really to use my par mon-ven though u right id me. Most peak they're 25 the I've bit of time where." radiates heald joie ivre. To man the gth she nee deal waves that un as as 14ft, she daily

s the dunes, ps the hbag in harents ge and wre with y, the familyador. on planning ave to "I don't knotat l'Il ing in ten ytime." aid. "I have ought t it much be I'm a persort

Reformers resigned to losing struggle

he special general meeting forced upon the Rugby Football Union (RFU) is set to go ahead on June 6, at Twickenham, even though the union has been advised by its lawyers that whatever is decided will not be binding under the consolution. The Reform Group engineered the vote of no confidence in the RFU hierarchy and wants the management board overthrown. They will not back down, even though they only just managed to scrape together 100 clubs to support

Given the legal position. one wonders why the tators are so determined to carry on and why the RFU in the light of its legal advice - doesn't just scrap the whole thing, saving itself a possible £20,000? People mutter about democracy, but some believe that this is taking things too far.

Pole star The Army not only won the Willis Corroon Trophy at Twickenham on Saturday. but one of their supporters also took away another prized souvenir. He defied gravity and possible serious injury by removing the White Ensign from the Sepole atop the North Stand, hundreds of feet above ground. The brave soul found his way on to a ladder at the back of the stand, shinned up and removed the colours. After the game, during which eight people streaked, four pubs in Twickenham were reported to have closed early because they could not cope with the demand and possible trouble between rival supporters. Neath contempt

The Weish may have presented a united front during their win over England at Wembley, but according to Terry Holmes, club rugby in the Principality is riven with "petty jealousies". Holmes, whose eight-year tenure as coach at Cardiff ends shortly, said that one reason for his departure was the club's decision to throw in its lot with the Welsh Rugby Union. "I would have liked to see us as part of the Allied Dunbar Premiership] - all Cardiff are going to get in Wales is the same old harred." Holmes said. "Neath have been sounding off even though we have the best record of any Welsh club in the European Cup. What have Neath ever done in Europe, other than catch a plane? Big cheese You would scarcely credit Philippe Saint Andre's popularity around Gloucester. Is it merely coincidence that local supermarkets now stock the award-winning St Andre cheese, described as "full-fat soft cheese", which may not necessarily be the most apposite description of the Frenchman who is director of rugby at Kingsholm.

Cornish pasting Spare a thought for Launceston. The Cornish side finished their 22-match league season in South West I level on points with Penzance & Newlyn with a huge points differential of plus 793 — yet still could not squeeze into the Jewson National League. In the final round of games. Launceston beat Gloucester Old Boys 84-17, but Penzance trumped them by beating Torquay Athletic 131-5, giving them a better points advantage and so promotion.

Third way The world's third significant annual international competition starts on Saturday with the opening round of matches in the inaugural Epson Cup. It involves Canada, Japan, the United States. Fiji, Western Samoa and Tonga and runs over the next ten weeks. It is backed by the International Rugby Board to the tune of £1.2 million over three years,

> Japanese company. MARK SOUSTER

as well as the support of the Holmes: "petty jealousies"

to make further cuts

By MARK SOUSTER

THE upheaval at Manchester Sale continued yesterday with David Rees and Phil Greening, the England internationals, having to contemplate the prospect of salary cuts and other players being put on the transfer list. Among them was Dion O'Cuinneagain, the Ireland flanker, who only recently signed a new two-year contract at Heywood Road.

O'Cuinneagain was sur-prised to find himself named among those available for transfer and is seeking clarificaoon from the club about his future. Kevin Ellis and John Devereux are already available and have now been joined by four members of the development squad.

One player likely to move is Chris Yates, the centre, who is Chris Yates, the centre, who is expected to join Gloucester. Adrian Hadley, the director of rugby, said: "We have had an offer from Gloucester for Chris Yates but nothing has been finalised. I have been given the task of producing a competitive squad for next season within a budget of £1.5 million. within a budget of £1.5 million. We have no option other than to lose some players. Sale have been badly managed regarding contracts and salaries and unfortunately I have to pick up

Wasps, who appointed John Mitchell, the former Sale coach, as forwards coach on a temporary basis until the end of the season, are hoping to confirm his full-time appointment shortly. The International Rugby Board is considering contingency plans if Namibia cannot compete in the World Cup. The Namibian Government has suspended the Namibian Rugby Union for failing to ful-fil an agreement to implement a quota of black players in the national side. If they are forced to withdraw, they are expected to be replaced by one of the losers from this weekend's repechage matches, involving Tonga, Uruguay, Morocco

Sale forced | Searle enjoys benefit | of honing technique

GREG SEARLE defends his Wingfield Sculls title from Putney to Mortlake today, his first race since finishing fifth in the world championships last September. "I have bad about a month's good train-ing." Searle, who has just returned from injury, said.

While training less severely. Searle has concentrated on technique, a decision that he feels has paid dividends. He said: "I have improved my flexibility and boat feel. Ultimately I should go faster. I haven't got a clue how fast I am, but it feels good."

He will find out today in a race with three younger opponents trying to take the Wingfield title, one of whom. Tom Gale, led last year before

THOUGH By Mike Rosewell Rowing Correspondent

stopping at Chiswick Steps with tight forearms. Giles Monnickendam, lightweight at 73kg, took advantage of Searle's absence to take the Scullers Head title. while the other contender is Mark Hunter, from London, who bas represented Great Britain at junior and under-23 level and who bas won the apprentices' pennant at the Scullers Head a record five

"When the match started to > began | with slip. I couldn't stop Simon phanie Brind Tania playing his shots." ley dropping a dozen matches, would have shown eden. afteSuzanne Johnson the way. Beachill rner had be Johnson exuded, more perspiration hiberg. warming up for his third-he men's finks likely string rubber than he did beating Florian Possl 10-8, 9-2, 9-0, an yesterdath a 4-0 and Berrett took the fourth. times. He will be eligible to compete for the coveted Dog-gett's Coat and Badge in 2001.

for casualpprech PAUL JOHNSON, the national champion, was beaten 29, 91, 39, 96, 96 by Simon

Prenz, of Germany, as Eng-rom Colin uillan land dropped a point in their in Linz, lia defence of the European team championship yesterday. "I was casual," Johnson said he England in's team

Playing his shots."

A quick study of Lee Beach nts betweetem in ill and Marcus Berrett, play-cosing of J. Akerval ing their first senior European 1 Maria Liark, of after aft and Berrett took the fourth over Swind. The string point from Stefan tland womenam also Oppolzer 9-5, 9-1.

0171-787344

LEGAL & PUBLIC NOTICES

				PORMERLY TUL CREES
	2000		1	NOTICE IS HEREN PUR
RUSTEE ACTS	LEGAL NOTICES			ani to Section 4the INS VENCY ACT 196 a meet
		VERGLAM HEALTH CARE	Justin-Desired region	of the masculations of ICE is hereby given porsument to y of the TEUSTER Act, 1925 as any person having a CLAIM princt to an DETERRIT for the Ri- ncingt to an DETERRIT in the Ri- ncing to the decement and seculptions are not not below is withly required to send particu- tion by the person to parsons to the person to parsons persons on the de- mand parson concerned before the data specified; give which are the estate of the decemend and the distributed by the person- ly representatives among the persons entitled therete haring ogard only to the cichnes and he-	There are the Commence Street, Lon-	(ST ALBANS) LIMITED Notice is hereby given pursuant to Section 175 of The Companies Act	Registered number: 01400. Nature of Business: Manual of electronic squipment Trude classification: 7	above named will held at Sideru B2-18 in the Base Sideru B2-18 in 10.00 am at 799 ter purposes of have before copy of the reported by Administrative but section 48 of 1 Act. meeting say, if fit, se liab a committee by 0 the Act Creditors whomes are secured are not to stop on the secured are not to see the reported are not to the reported are not to the reported are not to the to reported are not to the top to reported are not to the fit. They have daily us at top Bases, 12 then 12 them before a secure of the resulting the secure of the reported are not to the secure of the reported are not to the re spars only which they have had sentes. GRES Ethel Nallie of 10 Fox to Town End Close Catetham trey died on 26th August 1998.	don, WIX 9DF not inter than 12 noon on 4 May 1999. For the purposes of voting, a se-	nfor memoral and the County under Section 176 of The Companies Act 1985 for an Order prohibiting the payment. Peter 8 jackson, Director		Stricup, Kent udhan I bears on 6 Mayeritte talls of the debt laim due to them for com- and the claim to dul
rticulars of noy crame are to the to Rawlence & Hart, Solici-	he surrenders his security) to lodge before the meeting, a state-		DESOLVENCY ACT 198 ASAT (UK) LIMITED formerly EDDDEEMESH LE	mitted under theory
ns of $5 Calculation and before the large 1999.	curity, the data when h was given and at the value at which it is se-	the insolvency Rules 1986, I, I A	(in Administration) NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN Meeting of Creditors of the named Company will be	half.
EGAL NOTICES	Notice is further given that a list of the names and addresses of the Company's creditors stey be in- spected, free of charge, as 84 Gros- spected, free of charge, as 84 Gros-	dator of Rossfish Limited by rest- incions of members and creditors.	Park Thistin Hotel, Park Fla diff, CF1 3UD an 11 May 11,30mm to consider our ander 223(1) of the Ins ander 1086 and to conside	Dated 22 April 4
CHARITY COMMISSION perities: 1, 8 Well's Memodal and (207185) Woodroff's Benton Foundation 28011) thems to amend the trusts of the parties	venor Street, Innovation and 4.00 pm on between 10,00 om and 4.00 pm on the two business days preceding the data of the meeting stared above.	creditors of the shore number com- pany, which is being columnarily wound up, are required, on or be- fore 18 jures 1999 to send in their full names and addresses of their Solicitors (if may), to the under- signed L A Manning of 24 Grownia-	lishing a creditors' commit A proxy form should be con- and sent to us at Prinswate Coopers, Churchill House, Ill Way, Cardill CP1 44E date of the meeting and wi- prised the meeting and wi-	CHARITY (SION CHARITY MI UTIL CHARITY MI UTIL CHARITY MI UTIL CHARITY MI UTIL CHARITY CANCER LA-1102 da) The Charity Concerns to Commissioners have made	Besolutions include a resolution	to Street, Lopton, was personally of		Carry Cale be et th

MOTOR LLYING

Dealline fea for Subru's surival

By JER HART

SUBAthe team that carrised almost solely on the ried CMcRae to his worldand's rally heritage. title in could pull out o When McRae won the cham-rallyn November unlessonship in 1995, subsequent they one of the nextles of the Impreza model in rounche world championritain went up 50 per cent. ship, une. Subaru willowever, Subaru have sufhave a year without ared in the past few months, win.

The deadline has purported £6 million. In addiaddedssure on Richardon, the team's long-term ciga-Burnseat Britain's No atte sponsor, 555, pulled out of drivero rejoined Subarullying to divert funds into this y a reported El milbrimula One.

lion (He came close ti"in the short term, changes winnine Safari Rally ire always difficult," Richards Februout difficulties withid. "So. too. is sustaining the Piyres hampered his chanch Portugal and

Spain
"I dee this as a massive probk Burns said. "I Subaent to win again i will he be me that does it and inext three rallies. the stare to be believed Even grip is not there in Corsie next two rallies i Arger and Greece are very r. just like the Safar andid very well there All is st."

Alth Prodrive, the pre araticanisation for Sul Burns: "all is not lost" aru thrun by David Rich ards, ormer head of the Benetormula One teamleccess. We have been on top deny subaru are likely for most of the Nineties. We retire; rallying after alill be again, and soon, most ade of dominance "You hear these rumours all source Japan reveal thate time. If I was to point out the de is a fait occompline length of our contracts and "Su have failed to fact we're already design-renewertising contracting the 2001 car and that we beyon?" one said. "Alsore contracted to run the team the mement at Subarur the next three years, it's which pro motor-sportmpletely illogical. has ged. Lastly, the if Subaru does pull out, currenceza model will burns's next move is unclear.

discord within a year olthough new teams such as so. Whu are not winning sugeot are entering rallying, lere are no top seats availa-

Pullut of rallying coulde. "My immediate future is cost S1 tens of millions with Subaru," Burns said. "I contramination penalined the team to win and ties, londinuing withoular's what f plan to do. But successed do infinitely baru wasn't the only team more ige to a reputation wanted me for 1999."

RACING: FORMER CHELTENHAM GOLD CUP WINNER MAKES ALL TO WIN HEINEKEN GOLD CUP

Imperial Call returns refreshed

FROM ALAN LEE RACING CORRESPONDENT AT PUNCHESTOWN

IN THE punishing world of steeplechasing, old champions hardly ever come back, especially the physically challenged. Any who defy the odds to repeat the ascent are guaranteed a place in public affections and Imperial Call received the acclaim due to a returning hero after winning the Heineken Gold Cup at Punchestown yesterday.

During the three years since Imperial Call triumphed in the Cheltenham Gold Cup, Ireland has seen a stream of potential chasing champions, keenly anticipated but unfulfilled. Two such pretenders, Florida Pearl and Dorans Pride, were among the opponents left scattered across the fields of Kildare yesterday by a performance of heartwarming dynamism. Imperial Call was the one horse in the race who had attained the peaks to which the others aspired, and he had even finished third to Teeton Mill in his most recent outing, the King George VI Chase at Christmas. Yet such have been his ailments and frustrations that he was allowed to go off at an unregarded 8-1. He neither knew nor cared and returned to a turnult that suggested the majority of a 25,000 crowd had enjoyed the bookmakers' generosity.

British interest in the £120,000 event lasted only as far as the first fence, where Escartefigue over-jumped and fell. Ruby Walsh, Ireland's champion elect, had already poached a significant lead on Imperial Call and he was never to surrender it. Dorans Pride's challenge ended with a blunder at the fourth last and Florida Pearl, the odds-on favourite, had no excuses for a 14-length beating.

A woman called Hurley had made all the morning headlines; now it was the turn of her male namesake. Ray Hurley is just 23 and in only his second year of training near Cork. He inherited a horse widely believed to be in terminal decline and deserves great credit for his revival. "There's more life in this horse, he's proved that today," Hurley said, "He had a lung infection at Cheltenham, so we

Imperial Call caps an exhilarating display of front-running with a fine jump at the last in the Heineken Gold Cup at Punchestown yesterday missed the Gold Cup. It was disappointing to have taken him there for nothing but we wouldn't be here today if he had run." Michael Hourigan, trainer of Dorans Pride, was philosophical, "He was beaten before his mistake and probably ran a bit flat. There was no hard-luck story, the winner deserved it." The sentiments were shared by Willie Mullins, who also reflected without regret that Florida Pearl may now cease to be the subject of a nation's dreams. "At least the star status has gone." he said. Punchestown was a joy in the spring sunshine but the bleak side of this game has no sense of timing and a chill shadow was cast on the day by the death of the leading novice hurdler, Joe Mac. Another of J.P. McManus's glittering team, Joe Mac had won easily at Aintree and started 7-4 favourite for the Stanley Cooker Champion Novice Hurdle, but he trailed in sixth and collapsed fatally soon after the line.

Of two British-trained winners on the day, the more emphatic belonged to Philip Hobbs and Bouchasson. trounced an apparently competitive field for the Sean Barrett

Bloodstock Handicap Chase by 15 lengths. Castle Mane, winner of the Foxhunters at Cheltenham. later completed the double in the Kevin McManus Champion Hunters Chase. The British challenge gathers pace today, with runners in six of the seven races. Anzum, winner of the Stayers' Hurdle at Cheltenham, takes on runner-up Le Coudray again while Katarino, trained by Nicky Henderson, defends his four-year-old record against those who finished second and third to him at Cheltenham, Balla Sola and Afarad

RESULTS

2.40 (2m 4l indie) 1, NATIVE UPMANSHE (I P Treacy, 8-1); 2, Wither Or Which (R Wats. 12-1); 3, Colonel Yeager (R Durwood, 52 ALSO RAN. 7-4 fav Joe Mac (6th), 11-2 Winel Garden (5th), 7 Site Leader (pu), 14-1 Name Dara, Prominent Profile (4th), Samakaan, 20ko suns Mata, 50 Copper Supreme, 11 ran 54.2 3-4, 11l, 14l. AL T Moore at Naas. Tote 210 2-260, 23.30, 21.40. DF: £121.80. CST 2104.52, 7rio; 254.80.

3.15 (3m 1f ch) 1, IMPERIAL CALL (R Wa 8-1); 2, Florida Pearl (4-7 lav), 3, Do Pride (100-30), ALSO RAN, 6 Escartefigu

BIG RACES AT PUNCHESTOWN TODAY

3.15 IAWS CHAMPION FOUR-YEAR-OLD HURDLE (Grade I: 4-Y-0: £43,400: 2m) (9 nunners)

BETTING: 13-8 Natasino, 5-2 Basta Soks, 6-1 Krate Edge, 7-1 Atarad, 10-1 Mass Erner, 12-1 others. 1998: ZAFARABAD 11-0 R Johnson (2-1 tay) D Nicholson (GB) 15 rad

3.50 TRIPLEPRINT NOVICE CHASE (Grade I: £29,450: 2m) (7 runners)

BETTING: 13-8 Promates, 7-2 Wymand Kracht, 4-1 Cockney Lad, 7-1 Sydaey Truthandend, 8-1 Poget Blue. 10-1 Ambertright House. Society Buel.

1998: DIRECT ROUTE 7-11-9 P Centery (11-10 to.) 3 h actorson (GB) 5 ran

GOING: GOOD TO SOFT

4.25 BALLYMORE PROPERTIES CHAMPION STAYERS HURDLE (Grade I: £31,000; 3m) (6 runners)

BETTRNS: 11-10 La Coustay, 4-1 Actorn, 11-2 Namelo, 7-1 Phatonesi, 8-1 Mister Morces, Khayran 1998: DERRYMOYLE 9-12-0 A P McCoy (19-1) M Countrigham 8.5a .

let mobile.

Wia Lotus Elise.

and activate a U or EasyLife pre-pay phone and could be driving away in a Lotus Elise. As part of r Millionth pre-pay Customer Promotion, Cellnet giving away a car and there's also hi-tech runnerrizes from Philips up for grabs. But you'll have be quick. This offer is only available between April and 3rd May, Don't miss your chance to be nner, get down to your local Cellnet retailer now.

4000 or visit us at www.cellnet.co.uk

BY ROBERT SHEEHAN, BRIDGE CORRESPONDENT

It can be dangerous to double a One No-Trump opening without a good opening lead, particularly facing a passed partner. But, in the cut and thrust of the modern tournament world, it may be unnecessary to take such a risk - after all,

	NT NI Pass	Pass		Pass		Paus Doubl	le (1)
	3	W		N		E
	♣ AQ6 ♡ KJ73 ○ KJ10 ♣ J104		→ J73 ◇ A22 → 982 → 988 N W S → K10 ◇ Q9 ◇ 853 → AK7	2 2 2 2 2 5	ø	9242 10254 A Q 7 4 Q
DC	aiti Easi	IVOI		п ваше		r	au 5

Contract: One No-Trump doubled, by South. Lead: jack of clubs.

convention whereby the double of a One No-Trump opening by a passed hand showed either both majors or both minors. Even so, it was an aggressive double by East who had clearly not turned up to pass all the West, unsure which suits his partner held, chose a passive jack of clubs lead. Declarer cleared clubs but failed to unblock dummy's 9-8. West did not find the best defence now when he switched to a heart which declarer ran to his queen. He then crossed to the club in dummy and took the spade finesse. West won and continued with the king of hearts, creating a heart

Declarer won the ace of hearts in dummy but, with the clubs blocked, could do no better than play another spade, allowing the defence to cash two spades, two hearts, one club and three diamonds for two off and 500 points.

ft is easy to be critical of East's bidding, but at favourable vulnerability it had lots of ways to gain. Il partner had been weaker it might have allowed East-West to find a partscore in either major or diamonds. As it was, it allowed East-West to score a top despite mediocre defence. ☐ Robert Sheehan writes on bridge Monday to Friday in Sport and in the Weekend section on Saturday.

WORD-WATCHING

By Philip Howard

ORCHIL a. The double tulip b. A red dye c. A serrated dagger

PLICHTANKER a. The main anchor b. A Dutch attorney c. A two-litre goblet

POPVISIT

a. A short visit b. A Russian judicial district c. A sugared almond

NOUTHETICAL a. Imaginary b. Warning C. Opposing

Answers on page 50

MB

0-0

Ne₁

Nd3

Rb1

Nxc5

b3

fxe5

Qf2

Ne2 Bf4

Rbe1

Bxe5 Nf4 Ne6 dxe6 Qxf5+

Rief5 Rixf5 Rixe5 Rixe5

a5 b6

Nc5

bxc5

Rf8

Kh7 Ng8 15

g45 Re8

Rae8

dress Og7 Bress Rress Og6 Og5

Rts8 Rts8 Rts3

Rc3

BY RAYMOND KEENE

CHESS CORRESPONDENT Chess festival

The final event at the Hampstead Festival in mid-April was the second master group, won jointly by Brian Kelly and Simon Williams with 614/9. Today, as part of my ongoing coverage of this important addition to the English chess calendar, I give a game by each of the winners.

Final scores: Kelly and Williams 612; Houska 6; Bjarnason 514: Knott, Mork and Richardson 5; Compton 3; Barlow 2; Phillippe 14. White: Bertie Barlow Black: Simon Williams

French Defence Nd2 e5 Bd3 c3 Ng/3 h3 g4 Qb3 Qd1 a3 b4 hug4 dxe5 Bb5+ Bb2 Nxt3

Hampstead 1999

White: Brian Kelly Black: Alistair Compton Hampstead 1999

Kxh1

Kh2

English Opening

☐ Raymond Keene W chess Monday to Friday Sport and in the section on Saturday.

WINNING MOVE

By Raymond Keene

White to play. This position is from the game Nikolenko -Ivanov, Moscow 1999. The white bishop is lined up usefully against the black queen on c7. What is the best way to exploit this?

Barry Fen of the whip w at Sandown which came i he out on day

11.4

RACING: GODOLPHIN FIRMS 1,000 GUINEAS PLANS BUT DOUBTS SURROUND CALANDO AND MOTHER OF PEARL

Dettori pencils in ride on Pescara

STILL the Saginta 1,000 Guineas refuses to emerge from its murky gestation. Though Sunday's classic has already been shorn of several leading contenders, as late as yesterday ante-post punters found the door squeezing uncomfortably against the shoe. It appeared to slam on supporters of Calando, while those who have made Mother Of Pearl as short as 10-1 will do well to get a run for their money. Concrete plans remain a luxury, but at least the Godolphin team has acquired a measure of definition. Pescara, whose success in the fillies' trial at Nad al Sheba was a tribute to her progress in Dubai, is likely to be rewarded by the assistance of Frankie Denori. Such. at any rate, was the natural interpretation of support for her.

from 20-1 to 14-1 with Coral. Though Calando dropped out of the equation after the arrivals from the desert stretched their legs on Newmarket Heath yesterday morning. Richard Hills is expected to ride Fairy Queen. Godolphin's personnel also seems sorted for the Sagitta 2,000 Guineas on Saturday: with Dettori on Island Sands.

By CHRIS McGrath

Michael Roberts. Even Godolphin is not immune to the misfortune infecting so many three-year-old fillies, having been forced to scratch Etizaaz from the 1.000 Guineas earlier in the week. While doctor's orders are not a factor with Mother Of Pearl, Peter Chapple-Hyam still rates her only "50-50" to come under those of the starter. 'She is more of a staying filly and will come into her own over a mile and a half," the trainer said. "I'm more tempted to wait for the French or Irish Guineas or possibly go for the Musidora at York." Chapple-Hyam remains more positive about Commander Collins, though there appears less conviction to the colt's tenure near the head of the 2,000 Guineas betting. Advising punters not to forget his other runner, Brancaster, the trainer might well find his upbeat approach open to misinterpretation.

There's nothing to choose between them at home," he said. They go to Newmarket with equal chances. These, no doubt, are the very last words backers of Commander Collins wished to hear. Easaar will be ridden by Manton has still to produce a winner this season whereas Henry Cecil, also facing a big weekend, could be emboldened by the listed-race success of Insinuate at Ascot vesterday. Enrique contests 2,000 Guineas favouritism despite faltering in front in the Greenham Stakes, while Wince staked a sufficient 1,000 Guineas claim in the Fred Oarling Stakes for Hills to go 10-1 from 14-1 yesterday.

"They both went nicely this morning." Cecil said. "I'm delighted with them, and they both have a great chance of being in the first three. Wince is improving, while Enrique thought he'd done enough after being in front too soon. A lot of mine are needing a race. and they should come on."

Life is never dull for those who follow the fortunes of Celeric, the long-distance runner who needs to be ridden for a turn of foot. But Richard Quinn was equal to the heart-stopping challenge of restraining him until well inside the last furlong of the Insulpak Sagaro Stakes. Celeric is now 8-I with Coral to retrieve the Gold Cup he won in 1997.

Ascot

Going good - good to soft in places County good is specially an in paces.

2.00 IS1 1. OPTIMIATE (T Sprake 15-8 ji. lan); 2. Bee Elgint (M J humane. 13-2); 3. First Blood (T Cumm. 15-8 ji. lan); ALSO RAN; 4-1 Great White ISIN), 18 Aline Lee (4th); 5 ran 4, 14, 3, 4, 8 Milliman at Culompton tote 53.00; £1.60, £2.60 DF. £8 10 CSF £12.68

3.05 (2m 45yd) 1, CELERIC (T Culm, 6-1), 2. Shaya IM Ferion, 20-1), 3, Canen Can (K Falon, 13-2), 43.50 RAN 4-1 tav Sport of Love (4th, 9-2 The Clow-Worm (5th), 13-2 Mawared, 7 Mandpour, Santesan (5th), 14 San Sebastian, 9 ran 14, 114, 114, 114, 114 J Duntop at Anindel Tote, 68 80; 52 40, 53 (4, 52 80 GF, 593 30 CS Cr02.23 CS 10, C2 80 DF C80 30 CSF C102.23
3.40 (7) 1. GREAT NEWS JA NICHOLS, 10-11, 2. GRE of Gold JA Mackay, 33-11; 3, Therheat (7 Ounn, 10-1), 4, Family Man IP Cochrane, B-1) ALSO RAN: 7-1 In-law Night of Gless (Sin), 7 y-law Plan-B, 8 Grangewille, 10 Saly Jack, 10 Showbootl, 12 Al Muslim, 16 Master Rambo, 16 Wad Shy, 20 Vasan, 25 Consort, 25 The Downtown Fox (6ih), 33 Areaceases, 33 No Estras, 40 Toprollo 18 ran NR* Chewi, Just Nick, 15, 15, 16, 11, 14, 18 atting at Kingscher 70e, 2(1, 20, 22.20, 29.10, 22.70, 22.20, 0F, 22.89.50 CSF, 22.92.68 Tincest E3,175.00. 9232 69 Treast C3,175 00,
4.10 460 1. SAMPOWER STAR (Dane O'Noul, 14-1), 2. Lloshearted (L. Detten, 5-1), 3, Mitchann (T Curm, 5-2 (m), ALSO PAN; 11-2 Flanders, 15-2 Two Cubs, 8 Mazhar, 9 Masucan Rock, 10 Monleston Point (Shi), 20 Ace of Perkes (6th), Emma Peel (4th), 10 an 3, 4, 114, 14, 14 Reprener 4 East Eveneigh, Toer 524 80; 54,00, 61-50, 61-30 DF; 639 00, CSF; 678-59

ET 30 LOT: LEG 30. CSF: LEG 35.
4.40 (1m) 1. DUCK ROW (S Sandiera, 9-2).
2. Right Wing (T Quom. 5-2 keV). 3.
7-2 Trans Istand (Sin). 4 Requis Lucy (4m).
5 mm 1-1, m. 91, sh hd. J Toller at Newmanks Tolle £5.00, £2.50, £1.80 DF: £2.70, CSF. £13.74 59 70. CSF. £13.74
5.15 (1m) 1, SCENE (5 Sanders, 20-1), 2, Harmorny fittill (6 Carter, 40-1), 3, Authanna Cover (1 Ourn, 16-1), 4. Arthul Baine (F Notice, 33-1), ALSO RANT, 7-1 law Cartoro, 10 Indum, Internal Alvair, 2urs, 14 Broughtons Turmol, Jibertein, Yeast (5rt), 16 Micriske Mectines, Super Monarch (Birl), 20 Indian Bitze, Lycen, Seifan, Storm Cry, 25 King of Turies, Roger Flots, Topton, 33 Affahasi, Elba Magic, Nennet, Mr Majica, Sefey Ana, 50 Bainen Lands, Filmal, Yarski, 68 Stotwetch, 29 ran NR. Pas de Memores Hd. m., 14, hd. 11 J. Grover at Wonson, Toter, 128 50; 25.80, £10.40, 53.60, £7.20 DF E307 80 CSF; 8604 75 Tricast, £11,313 22 Jackpote not won (pool of £54,617.48)

Jackpot not won (pool of £54,617.48 carried forward to Redcar today). Placepot: £171.50 Quadpot: £32.60

Pontefract Going: good to not

2.45 (5) 1, Pipadesh (k Darley, 15-6 fav). 2. Sofficz 112-1). 3, Lincoln Darreer (2-1). 8 ran Hd, nk T Eesterby Tote' £2.20. £1 10. £2.90. £1 10, DF: £16.80. CSF £21.59 2:90, $1.10, Dr. £16.80, CSF £21.59
3.15, I'm 41 8yd) 1, Ameera (S. Drowne, 5-1), 2, Parmond Lad (12-1), 3, Gold Honor (11-4 fay) 9 ran 11-4, 11-4 M Chermon Tole 64 80; £150, £4.00, £1.30 DF: £221.50 CSF £37.58
3.50 (2m 5/11-22)d) 1, Izmad (R. Mullen, 14-1), 2, Charmang Admiried (16-1), 3, Danegoid (6-11 Campaign (Sh)) 9-2 fay 14 ran 11-4, 7 K Comedical Tole £4.80, £3.70, £4.90, £2.40 DF: £353.90 CSF £136.90 The sat £1.370.64
4.20 (6h 1, Further Outlook (K Darley, E19990 Tricast £1,370 67
4.20 (6f) 1, Further Outbook (K Derley, 9-1), 2, Knopdom Ruby 114-1), 3, Pleading (10-1), 4, Agent Mulder (6-1 ji-fav), Cool Secret 6-1 ji-fav 18 ran NR: Nifty Norman, Pipeon 2-9, nd. E Nicholls, Tote £7-80, £2.00, £5.00, £2.00, £5.00, £2.00, £7.00, £2.00 DF: £36.60 CSF £107.32, 7ncest, £1, 161 69
4.50 (1m 4yd) 1, Night Chonus (F Lynch, 10-1), 2, Probbleeneare 110-1), 3, Bachalore Pad (11-2), Margarets Dennot 4-1 134 19 ran 34, 11 B Rollwell, Tole £14 60, £3.90, £3.40, £2.60 DF: £53.90 CSF £103.36. 5.20 (11m 21 8yd) 1, Aspirant Denoer IR Mulen, 2-1 favl, 2, Typhoon Egite (20-1) 3, Shattehayes, (13-2), 4, Legal Issue (10-1) 16 ran 24, 31 M Bell Toler 52-60, 51-20, 55-50, 51-50, 52-20 DF $157-30 CSF $50.23, Tricast $237.79 Quadpot: £68.60 Placepot: £26.20

Exeter

Going: soft 2.15 L2m 11 110yd hdiel 1, Summer Flow-er (Mr A Irvine, 7-2), 2, Ron's Round (100-30 lav), 3, May Sunsei (10-11, 4, Remember Star (12-1), 16 ran, 111, 314 Miss Z Devison foler 94 40, 51.20, 51.20, 52.90, 52.40 DF 84.90 CSF, $13.22, Tricast $36.48 2.50 CSF, $13.22, Tricast $36.48 64 00 CSF, £18 22 Tricast £38 48
2.50 (2m /1 indel 1, Kondford Tins (A Bares, 5-11; 2, Crookedstone (4-11; 3, The Hill Has Moved (9-4 text) 13 ran NR You're Apocodun 14; 18; J Mullins, Toter £7 30, £1 80, £1 50, 4.00 (2m 11 110)(d chi 1 , Jurat Jasmine (R Greens, 11-8, favi, 2, Kubreet (5-11, 3, Ambieside (9-4), 5 ran, 6t, 31 + Bishop Tote: 62 60; 61.10, 62.30 DF 65 30 CSF (7.89)

27.09 4.30 (2m 3l 110yd hole) 1, Pot Black Uk IM P Flynn, 6-4 lay), 2, Dietant Storm 19-1) 3, Tonka (3-1) 5 ran 11, 111 P Hobbs Tote 52 70, 51, 10, 52 30, DF, 54 40, CSF 512 58 5.00 (2m 11 110yd hdig) 1, Sendoran (X Azpuru, 11-4 p-tav); 2, 7openga (8-1); 3, Cerrio (7-2) Barnana Walk (4th) 11-4 p-tav

6 ran 71, 51 M HM Tole £3.80, £2.40, £3.10 DF; £17.70 CSF, £20.70 Quadpot: $7.50 Tuesday's late results

ROB WRIGHT

497; 51) (17 (Unifiers)

WILL IVESON (Lord Bathos) P Hastern 0-12

COMMONWOOD 17 Pagitifeids Princeratio () J G Samil-Ostroums 8-8 S Samders

O JACQUES REPLY 24 (Bood Hand Racing Clost) 1 Berry 8-8 J Carroll
PHARADH'S HOUSE (P England) T Easterly 9-8-8 K Dankey
AFFICA (Harmangute Brondstock Lind) T Binson 0-7 J Forthon
LATE MIRET LADY (back O) All Totales Participably P Hastern 6-7 P Grood (6)

O COOL JUDGE 14 (A Santhamid W Hatgo 8-5 A Coffman
LHO DANDY (AY Sants) O Michole 8-5 A McCarriny (3)

O TOPPOTS BEM 22 (Fattern Princership) K Ryan 8-5 J Farming
CITY PRINCERS (A Walson) M Books 0-3 J Farming
CITY PRINCERS (A Walson) M Books 0-3 J Farming
MISS ROUANNE (M Barkey) K Hopp 8-3 J Branchill
THE WIFE (J Gill) T Destriby 8-3 J Branchill
THE WIFE (J Gill) T Destriby 8-3 J Camerook
ALISTAR (T Bestron) M W Easterly 0-3 G Parthin
DISPOL BARAN (M Walson) M W Easterly 0-3 G Parthin
DISPOL BARAN (M Walson) M Services O J J Backery (7)
SPRING SONG (Book) Laddes M Sowersty 8-0 R Misson (3)

Ascommonwood 0-1 ibs Wills, 7-1 Jacques Repty, 8-1 Aking, 12-1 (Promoth's Reps.) 1-1 och

1998: ANGK BABY 8-0 5 Nationey (5-1) J Berry 15 ran

COMMONWOOD would have been being placed with a higher town of the higher placed with a higher town of the higher placed with a higher town of the higher placed with a higher town when a stow-starting, news-nears 64-3 third of 17 to Optimate a Window (St. good to fam) on his debut and should do belter for that experience. Optimate followed up in impressive style at Ascot yesterday. Alchama Wuntey is well positioned on the stands rails but the form of her debut 44-0 third to Charteling Neary in a Folkestone (St. solf) claims appears only modest. College Maid latied to improve on her debut effort when 91 fourth to Bartinger at Hamilton (St. heavy) and there are almost estainly bigger dangers furbing amongst the newcomes. Pat Hastern saddles two interesting sorts in Will fiveson, a half-order by Mukaddsmain to a winner to larty, and Lata Night Lady, a blajant filly who is a half-sister to winners here and attroad, white The Wile, an Elisto filly out of 71 winner Great Steps, is another who makes some appeal on paper.

BETTING: 3-1 Swampy, 4-1 Gross, 9-2 Printy Obvious, 7-1 Sand Hank, 8-1 Susy Wells, 10-1 others.

1998: ARDLEIGH CHARMER 3-8-3 J Gottbed (4-1 ft lim) C Days 15 ran

Not suprisingly a low-grate fair for a made mandation and recent form of thin on the ground. SWAMPY is one for whom a case can be made and looks sue to go well. He returned a fair effort for fever McAudide on the final start at two years and, after the return or the affective man his best uses since when returned to mut af Epikestine (1 mt i) 14/87, solit jest time, finishing 3% third of 14 to Comption Amica. Stary Wells, runner-up in a Haydock selfer (1m) less August, probably has a small race in her and should strip filter to their 44-1 loursh to Hush Maney in a 0-55 rated matters at Thirsk (7) good) 12 days ago. Slow tas been assed 20 in the tandicap which he race he responsance 61 fourth of 23 to Utina Calm at Ripon (1 m 21, good to firm), but Pretty (Divisus, a 1 N) second to Sunset Lady at Ayr (1 m, solit) test October, could just need the outing on her first start since.

BETTING: 4-1 Trojan Hen. 5-1 Trass Life, 6-1 Knave's Asit, 7-1 Bindwood Sun, Myrmdon, 0-1 Persian Pay-ia, 10-1 Dandy Regard, 20-1 others. 1998: TRICHMOOD SUN 8-8-9 K Darley (7-2 jr lav) M Dods 18 ran Neither Birchwood Sum for Darby Repent had shown their best for a fittle while believe believe the best for a fittle while believe blone blinn the best bro places in an 18-runner seller at Pontehact (6), solid nine days ago. The former, who had 34-lin hand at the time, is tended to cookinm superiority on 5th worse terms, but PERSIAN FAVTE is preferred to the pair. He showed some useful form asst year when writing at Haydock and competing in handcaps oil marks in the 80s and takes a big drop in class here. The worry is that he is not the force he was after he showed liste in two handle starts this writer and set somy beaten back on the Flat at Newcastle (7) earlier in the morth, but these was good market support for him at Gostorth Park and an unknownable low draw did title for his chance. That it is made by the drop of a Linghella seller (6) on the all-weather in February and continued in form when finishing 31 that to Malita in a Wolverhampton channer (6), standard) the following month. He has yet to eccounter ground this soln on burt but should not be lar away in handling the conditions.

COURSE SPECIALISTS

Barry Fenton was yesterday banned for ten days for his use

☐ Barry Fenton was yesterday banned for ien days for his use of the whip when winning the Whitbread Gold Cup oo Eulogy at Sandown last Saturday. He was suspended under the rule which came into force on March I to cover major races, and will be out on days when jump racing take places between May I-13.

% 17.5

38 216 3 20 3 22 4 31 17 138

Wins Rnrs % JOCKEYS
4 15 26.7 K Daley
6 31 25.0 R French
3 10 15.8 S Seaters
9 66 136 C Lowther
14 117 12.0 J Carroll

TRAINERS

3.20 ARKSEY SELLING STAKES (52,721: 71) (18 tunners)

2.50 NAWTON APPRENTICES MAIDEN HANOICAP

(£1,882: 1m 1f) (16 runners)

3,50 On Till Morning

4,50 Bold Amusement (nb)

TOTE JACKPOT MEETING

4.20 Nabonassar

Windsor Goingspood to soft 6.38 (Im 67yd) 1, Sweet Pee (T Ourn, 4-1 y-lay); 2, Bird Ol Prey (14-1), 3, Brenda Oac (30-1) Respond +1 g-law, 9 ran 61, hd. J

AEDCAR

Timekeeper's top rating: 3.50 ROSE'S TREASURE,

2.20 MIDDLETON TYAS MAIDEN AUCTION STAKES

copat: E14.70

2.20 The Wife

2.50 Susy Wells

3.20 Birchwood Sun

GOING: GOOD TO SOFT (SOFT IN PLACES)

DRAW: 5F-1M, HIGH NUMBERS BEST

(2-Y-0: £3,407: 5f) (17 runners)

Durslop Total E4 10, £1 70, £4 70, £2 00. DF. £64.60 CSF £54.37, Tricast: £305.59. Cr. XDHAU USP 134-37, Treas: $905-59.
7,00 ($1 10/d) 1, Minter Tricky (N Day, 18-1), 2, Cold Climate (18-1), 3, Denong Myslevy (7-1) Polly Golghity 4-1 (av. 15 ran Ni. 34 P. Mechal, Toler $24.90, 65 80, 96.10, £2 60 DF £278-10 CSF $227.51 Trices: $1,836.81 7.30 (1m 67/d) 1, Barrister (T Sprake, 10-1); 2, Middellerke (12-1); 3, Competitol (2-1 lav) 18 ran. 114, 51 R Cherton, Toles (13-30; 12-70, 24-00; 11-20; DF: £94-10 CSF, £127-73.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

19-1); 2. Ricerbold (14-1); 3. Storano (7-1); 4. Homestand (3-1 lav), 19 ran MR. Broughtons Error, Galant Felbox, Sweet Patropie Na. 23. 0 Elsworth, Tote: 513-10; 02-50, 23-50, 22-50, 51-20, 57-256-50 CSP: 5135-63 Troset 1982-39. Placepot £190.00. Quadpot: £58.80. Huntingdon Gaing: good

23.20. CSF 23.81.
7.15 (2m ef 10.yd ch) 1, Marching Merquin (Mr T Gibney, 11-10 km; 2, Pangaran (11-4); 3, Srarky Cop (13-2) 12 cm, MR. Banchale (14-3); 41.55 Gay Brown Toes, 52.00, 51.40, 51.10, 52.20 DF 53.10. CSF 63.98 7.45 (2m St 110)ct hole) 1, Badi Strong (Mr N Fethly, 5-2 lav), 2, Northern Star (9-1), 3, Ketly, Mac (12-1), 13 an NR. Feorless Worder, Job Rape, 31, 2, G Hubbard Tota: E3 00; E1 40, E1 40, E2 50. DF: £12,80 CSF: £21.09, Treast; £207.51.

Celeric, right, lands the Sagaro Stakes at Ascot yesterday. Photograph: Hugh Routledge

Balley Tore $2.20, £1.30, £2.50, £1.30 DF £38.20, CSF £33.81, besien Expositie in most recent race), Golog on which horse has soon (F - firm, pood to firm, hard, G - good, S - solt, good to solt, heavy), Dunes in brackets Trainer. Age and weight to be carried; Rid-er plus any allowence. Timeseepes is speed nating jumps (8 - bilinters, V - visox, T - tangue strap, t - hood, E - Eveshierd, C - course winner, D - Go-form (F - felt P - pulled up. U - unserted rider. B -brought down. S - slipped up. R - refused. D - dis-qualified) Horse's name. Days since lest outing: J

3.50 CLIFTON WOOD FILLIES HANDICAP (£5,248; 5f) (11 runners)

READING THE RACECARD POPUL

BETTING: 7-2 Rose's Treasure, 9-2 Walze Kid, 0-1 On Tile Marring, 7-1 Dominette, 0-1 Fishly Front, Charlle Girl, 10-1 Flying The Fing, D'Nard, Boilin Ann, 25-1 others. 1988: JEMNELLE 4-70-0 D Holland (5-4 birl) C Dayor 6 mm

Whitz Kid spring a 33-1 surprise when beating wary's Grab fire all over bourse and distance from 9th out of the handicap and weeks ago. That did not look a fade had, off a mark 8th higher, she will have to improve again. ROSE'S THEASURE lost her way due ingo the second held of best season and cut little fee on her return, but harted that she was hearly to bounce back to her firest when sesson and tag ting his of her region, but herest that are was ready to country book on her beta when chasing home Bevelena at Coderick, (St. soft) lest week. She had Charlin Girl (same terms) at back that day and, with underloot conditions again in her levour, can po one betax. On Thi Monthly gained triward for her consistency when making all in an ordinary maken at Musselburgh (SI) in September. She is the type to pay her way this year but is untilitiely to be able to dominate here as Charlie Girl. Bollin Ahra (won here it August) and Fifty Front (ran goodly or neappearance) all five to lock the pace. Dominatie will be all the better for her cometack effort at Thirsk and makes more appeal than Gold Edge, who is on a foreign ran of 23, and Dawn Patrol.

4.20 SEDBERGH MEDIAN AUCTION MAIDEN STAKES (3-Y-O: £3,475: 7f) (16 runners)

BETTRIC: 6-4 Nationaccar, 9-4 Northern Spring, 8-1 Don Oussets. M Speculation, 10-1 Cinternon Lady, 18-1 Ballio Robard, Facus of Indianast, 25-1 others. 1988: BODFARI PRIDE 9-0 0 Wingts (T-2) A Bailey 11 ran

1988: BODFARI PRIDE 9-0 0 Wingh (T-2) A Bailey 11 nm

NABONASSAR (mp) has a race brimming with promise when saying on strongly to be 21 second for Little Rock, his stablemate, at Lebestes (T), good to sort) in October. That 18-unner maiden race has thrown up a string of subsequent whereas (including Backeton, Kuster and Ethick; while Little Rock did not let the lord down when beating Bailet Masks and compary on his selum at Sandown. Northern Spring, beaten a neck by Sharoura on his comedact at Doncaster (6) before going driving by Letter as short-houst to Dear in Newmarker (1 m, good to firm), is dropped in grade and will appreciate the softer going. Connamon Lady, no smach to Relations Rome at Folkestone (T, Masky), will have to share significant improvement to brouble the principals. Einstractly Rose, who is a half-sector to three middle-distance winners, looks the most interesting of the five meaconers.

4.50 PAT PHOENIX HANDICAP (£3,612: 1m 3f) (17 runners)

Long handicay: Februalitesh 7-5, Simple Ideas 7-5, Notation 7-4. SETTING: 4-1 Falehaktan, 9-2 Repara, 8-1 Begorna, Bold Amusenera, Cottage Prince, 10-1 Portile Sophia, Stolen Music, 12-1 oders, 1986: RECCARTON 5-8-12 K Derley (13-2) P Calver 10 rap

Dr Woodstrick had Portite Sophie (4th), Simple Ideals (8th), and Typhoon Eight (14th) all behind when chasing home Piccasility in a selling handicap here (1m 4f) thee weeks ago and is weighted to confirm the form. He should give a good account but preference is to BDLD AMUSEARENT. The rine-year-old proved to the was still capable to getting his head in leoni when staying on shoully to best Dibarre (heceived 15th) by a neck here in November (1m 21, good to 30th) and shaped encouragingly on his return when a keeping-on hith, having been set plenty to do, to Legal issue at Tarak (1m). That run will have blown way a lew colverebs and this longer tin will suit larm much better. Reption, not disspraced between Pimore Michaels at Harnition (1m 4f, havy), and Paterbaldmain, 45 second to behand Over To You at Southwell (1m 4f) on his reappearance, look the best of the remainder.

COURSE SPECIALISTS

BRIGHTON: TRAINERS: J Dunico, 11 winners from 35 numbers, 31.4%; W Muir. Toking, 36, 21.4%; K Novy, 9 from 48, 10.3%; J Toking, 4 from 23, 17.4%; M Mail, 6 from 35, 17.1%; R Hannon, 34 from 207, 16.4%; C Brittain, 6 from 38, 15.8%, JOCKEYS: R Hills, 3 winners from 11 rides, 27.3%; N Potiard, 6 from 33, 24.2%; T Outrin, 38 from 162, 23.5%; Pat Eddery, 7 from 30, 23.3%; R Bristand, 4 from 18, 22.2%; M Roberts, 10 from 53, 16.5%; Cane O'Neill, 30 from 161, 16.6%.

WOLVERHAMPTON: TRAINERS: M Bell, 20 winners from 79 runners, 25.3%; Sir M Prescott, 28 from 118, 23.7%; M Johnston, 47 from 252, 18.7%; B Murray, 3 from 17, 17.6%; P Felgate, 8 from 48, 16.7%; N Callaghan, 3 from 16, 15.6%; J Eyre, 28 from 181, 14.4%. JOCKEYS: W Ryan, 12 winners from 71 rides, 16.9%; J Egan, 23 from 155, 14.8%; J Tate, 16 from 108, 14.8%; D Sweeney, 19 from 131, 14.5%; G Duffield, 29 from 208, 13.9%; T McLaughtin, 26 from 193, 13.5%.

BRIGHTON

ROB WRIGHT 2.00 Cowboys And Angels 4.00 Miss Bananas 2.30 Emmajoun 4.30 Lucky Gitano 3.00 Caernarion Bay (nap) 5.00 Mellors 3.30 Shanghi Crab

DRAW: 5F-1M, LOW NUMBERS BEST 2.00 PAYELON ASSET MANAGEMENT MAIDEN STAKES (2-Y-0: £2,866: 5i 59yd) (15 runners)

ARCTIC PATCH I Exiding 9-0 Pat Evideny 58
5 CEDAR MASTER 10 R 0 Subhase 9-0 Pat Evideny 58
5 CEDAR MASTER 10 R 0 Subhase 9-0 Pat Evideny 58
5 CEDAR MASTER 10 R 0 Subhase 9-0 Pat Evideny 58
5 CEDAR MASTER 10 R 0 Subhase 9-0 N Caben (5) 58
24 COCO DE MER 14 A Javre 9-0 N Caben (5) 58
25 CEDAR MASTER 10 R 0 Subhase 9-0 Patch (5) 58
26 CRUSSING K McAudite 9-0 Patch (5) 58
27 CDINBOYS AND ANGELS 15 (8F) W G M Tumer 9-0
53 GRITE 10 (8F) G Lineis 9-0 N Debote (7) 1883
34 RUSSIAN FOX 2 R Humon 9-0 Poblec (7) 1883
35 RINSSAN FOX 2 R Humon 9-0 Poblec (7) 1883
36 TRANESTY DE LAW 5 B Mentan 9-0 Pharmon (7) NR 1883
37 CHARLESTY DE LAW 5 B Mentan 9-0 Pharmon (7) Patch (5) 1883
38 SONTONE 2 R Humon 9-0 R B Traillent (7) S SONTONE 2 R 9 Patch 9-9 R B Traillent (7) S SONTONE 2 R Notre 8-9 P P Memphy (3) 50
46 Man 9-2 Lynde, 5-1 Comboys And Angels, 11-2 Arctic Pinck, 7-1 4-1 Coco de Mar, 9-2 Ignes, 5-1 Contoys And Angels, 11-2 Arctic Paick, 7-1 Presson Fee, 8-1 Code: Master, 10-1 Blue Webel, Seerin, 20-1 others,

2.30 BRIGHTON ANTIQUES FAIR THIS WEEKEND CLAIMING STAKES (£2,232: 5/ 59yd) (12)

9-4 Margus, 3-1 Mighty Mitm, 5-1 Erminglown, 13-2 Maylo's Mogic, 7-1 Buzzing, 10-1 Rendrot, 25-1 Johnny Stactato, Portrois Lady, 33-1 others.

3.00 AYH PARTNERSHIP HANDICAP

(£2,761: 1m 3f 196yd) (18 lunners)

($2,751: 1m 3i 196yd) (18 lumners)

1 (16) 0-40 ROBERICK HERSON 42 (F) J B Puchen 7-18-0 A Monto 29 2 (16) 4-00 ADMIRALS SECRET 22 (CD.6) C Wall 10-9-13

3 (5) 00-3 PAY HUMARE 9 (D.F.6) I Briting 11-9-12 Learning Mississistin (7) 65 Learning Missis

BLINKERED FIRST TIME: BRIGHTON: 2.30 Reward: 3.00 Mystic Queer: 4.00 Village Native, 5.00 Crested Knight, 5.30 Young-Un, REDCAR 4.20 Mi Speculation, WOLVERHAMPTON 2.10 Beytown

3.30 WYNNE BAXTER GODFREE SOLICITORS CLASSIFIED STAKES (£3,745: 71 214yd) (7) 1 (7) 1-03 BOLD DRIENTAL B4 (0.7) 1-181s 5-9-7 ... J Fowle (7) 84 2 (6) 10-0 GRAND SLAM 34 (0.7) F Hamon 4-9-7 ... Dans O'nielli 80 3 (4) 80-5 FRON MICHITAN 35 (C.5) N Legatura 4-9-7 N Caster (5) 7 4 (3) 0-60 MANSA MUSA 24 M Chamanon 4-9-7 T Cluston (52 5 (2) 00-3 SKY DOME 34 (0.7-5) M Templates 5-9 ... S Drowne 83 6 (5) 1 SHANSH CRAB 36 (0) M Bell 3-9-9 ... M Femton 45 7 (1) 430- GHAAZI 195 (7) E Dunlop 3-8-7 R Hills 70

5-2 Stamphi Crab, 11-4 Sky Dome, 3-1 Sheazi, 7-1 Iron Mountain, 8-1 Grand Stam, 14-1 Bold Oriental, 20-1 Monest Muse.

4.00 GO RACING FREE WITH THE TOTE HANDICAP

(£4,527: 5l 213yd) (14)

5-1 hony's Grab Hire, 7-) every Drawn, Facile Tigne, 8-1 Village Native Newtands Corner, Milst Bananes, 10-1 Spender, Landican Lane, 12-1 others

4.30 HYDE BURGESS DESIGN MEDIAN AUCTION MAIDEN STAKES (3-Y-0: £2,285; 1m 1f 209yd) (8)

1 77 050- ASSURED MOVEMENTS 317 C Britain 9-0 P Robinson
2 2 634 LAMERIE 13 R Hammin 9-0 Dane O'Nell
3 71 25-3 LUCKY GETAND 26 J Dunitop 9-0 PAI Eddery
4 40 D4-4 LUCKY RED P PAI MICHORIO 9-0 PAI Eddery
5 (5) C- SHARRI 267 B Hambury 9-0 R FAMBurz (3)
0 (6) 0-0 ALMINISTRA 10 Coyan 8-9 G FAMBurz (3)
7 (8) 00-4 RENAUSSANCE LADY 29 1 Watson 8-9 V Stetlery
8 (3) C- WANSFORD LADY 197 C Kellen 8-9 N Cartiste 10-11 Lucky Gitano, 5-2 Lamente, 0-1 Assured Movements, 10-1 others.

5.00 cuming pentar architects handicap

(Div I: £2,879: 71 214yd) (15)

9-2 Mellors, 5-1 Prospector's Cove, 8-1 Gudeinsteans, 7-1 others. 5.30 CUMING PENTAR ARCHITECTS HANDICAP

(Div II: £2,866: 7f 214yd) (15)

ROB WRIGHT 2.10 Welch's Dream 3.40 Palacegate Touch 4.10 Dil 2.40 Ivor's Deed 4.40 Lisala 3.10 Night Life 5.10 Sunny Chief Our Newmarket Correspondent: 2.10 Kirsch. 3.10 NIGHT LIFE (nap). 5.10 Sunny Chief.

2.10 SLOANE MAIDEN AUCTION STAKES (2-Y-0: £2,290: 5f) (11 runners)

GOING: STANDARD DRAW: NO ADVANTAGE

2 CALL STATE OF THE STATE OF TH 7-4 Weich's Dream, 9-2 Kirsch, 7-1 Heathyards Lad. 8-1 others.

2.40 GROSVENOR AMATEUR RIDERS CLAIMING STAKES (Div I: £1,553: 6f) (11)

1 AMAES (L7V I: 1, 303: O/) (1/)

1 0/03 LYNTON LAD 13 (D,6) E Alston 7-11-10 _Miles K Jones (7) 4

2 60-0 GRAND ESTATE 12 (D,6) D Chapman 4-11-6 _Miles R Clair 8

3 060- BREEZED WELL 258 (C,D,F,6,5) B Cambidge 13-11-4

Miles H Moonan (5) B

4 -800 H LISLITIAND 59 (C,P,F,6,5) B Cambidge 13-11-4

Miles J Ellie (7) O

5 00-0 BREAN'S BLUE 13 (T) B Baugh 4-11-2 _Miles J Ellie (7) O

6 00-0 MRCK TO A KURG 9 J Ballong 4-11-0 _____ Miles M Cole (7) 11

8 -0 MILEST CHILLE 138 (T) Miles A Solent 4-10-13 ____ S Strong 2

9 0205 FRYER ENSIGN 13 (D,6,5) W Bishourn 5-10-13

10 4500 MYRERICO 9 (V,7) Miles S Wilson 5-10-12 Miles E J Jones (3) 3

11 5-0 DUANCHOD STEALTH 13 J Eye 3-10-8 _____ Lashart (5) 13

11 New Food A L I vision 12x 5-1 Grand Foods having 5-00 (7) of this. 3-1 River Ensign, 4-1 Lymion Lad, 5-1 Grand Estate, wor's Deed, 7-1 others.

3.10 PARLIAMENT FILLIES HANDICAP (3-Y-0: £3,734: 5f) (11)

7-2 Nicto Life, 5-1 Polity Mills, Risky Valentine, 8-1 Guest Oi Honour, 7-1 others. 3.40 GROSVENOR AMATEUR RIDERS CLAIMING STAKES (Div II: £1,543: 61) (11)

4-1 Mutabassir, 5-1 Controller, 13-2 Ardent, 8-1 Parting Echo, 10-1 others.

4.10 STANLEY RACING HANDICAP ISHOWCASE RACE AND TOTE TRIFECTA RACE (£7,003: 50) (13)

100 OR. 13 (D.F.6) Mr.; N Macadey 4-10-0. — Deen McKaowin 9
2 0000 Kolfis OF PERM 5 (F.6.5) N Ultimoden 6-9-12, T 6 McLinghith 11
3 3005 MUKARRAB 24 (D.6) D Crisomen 5-9-0. — G Derfield 12
4 044 - PRST MARTE 159 (R.CD.6.5) 5 Resemble 6-9-8 6 Strange 13
5 5401 TIME TO FLY 20 (B.CD.) B Nummy 6-8-9 — G Strange 13
6 10-0 CARTINEL PARK 30 (D.F.6) J Berry 3-8-8 — S Carter 8
7 0-00 BLINOBEL LANE 8 (F.65) A Jurvis 4-8-8 — O Sweemey 6
5 1310 SOTORIAN 20 (CD.5) P Pelpate 6-8-7 — A Michaels (5) 7
9 2310 TROJAN 6815 (6) FCD. Michaels - S WEED 3-8-3 — K Seed (5) 5
10 5223 DRYAD 18 (B.BF.(5) N Ultimoden 4-8-2 — J Tate 4
11 0-66 CONSSULTANT 28 (CD.N. Ultimoden 4-8-2 — J Tate 4
11 0-66 CONSSULTANT 28 (CD.N. Ultimoden 4-8-2 — J Tate 4
10 0-66 CONSSULTANT 28 (CD.N. Ultimoden 4-8-7 — A Polit (3) 1
1-9-66 CONSSULTANT 28 (CD.N. Ultimoden 4-8-7 — A Polit (3) 1
1-9-66 CONSSULTANT 28 (CD.N. Ultimoden 4-8-7 — A Polit (3) 1
1-9-66 CONSSULTANT 28 (CD.N. Ultimoden 4-8-7 — A Polit (3) 1
1-9-66 CONSSULTANT 28 (CD.N. Ultimoden 4-8-7 — A Polit (3) 1
1-9-66 CONSSULTANT 15 (CD.N. Ultimoden 4-8-7 — N. L. Michaelsh Jinisin Gull 1-1 Menter 1 A Polit (3) 1
1-1 Menterel Lane Did R.J. Sommen 7-1 Time 1-6 PV. R.J. Michaelsh Jinisin Gull 1-1 5-1 Blandell Lane, Del. 8-1 Sotonian. 7-1 Time to Fly. 8-1 Multarrab, frojan Gel. 10-1 Cartmal Park, Consultani. 12-1 Servitord Orean, Oread, 14-1 others.

4.40 manchester selling stakes (3-Y-O: £1,861: 1m 1l 79yd) (9)

1 0254 WISET I THERE 19 (C) R Holinshead 3-2 ... P M Quint (7) S 2 5202 BILLICHANG 19 P Howing B-11 ... J Cuins 3 3-254 NATHAR'S HERG 5 NEA A SUBJECT 1-1 ... Dass Mickeower 6 4-302 OULTON BROAD 10 J Portnan 0-11 ... R Suddenine (5) 1 5 6-27 SQUINDS COOL 10 5 Bowling B-11 ... R Suddenine (5) 1 6 00-5 LISALA 10 W 6 M Turns 9-6 ... G Dufflett 2 7 D NAUGHTY BUT NICE 27 WER 8-6 ... A Michael (5) 7 D NAUGHTY BUT NICE 27 WER 8-6 ... A Nichael (5) 7 9 0040 SUIGHTLY DUSTY 2 (V) P Evans 8-6 ... A Nichael (5) 7 9 0040 SUIGHTLY DUSTY 2 (V) P Evans 8-6 ... A F Egan 4

5.10 BERKELEY HANDICAP (3-Y-0: £2,304: 1m 4f) (11)

Derbyshire

lose their grip after

Slater

sparkles

BY JACK BAILEY

CANTERBURY (first day of four: Derbyshire won toss): Derbyshire, with four first-innings wickets in hand, are 31

THE first championship match of the season at Canterbury had everything that a Kent supporter could ask for, except a more encouraging performance from their team.

There were blue skies, a blameless pitch and, if you could runs ahead of Kent

Lewis gives further reminder of quality

Lancashire won toss): Leicestershire have scored 337 for nine wickets against Lancashire

AROUND the country, attention is centred, understandably, on players earmarked for World Cup action. At Grace Road yesterday, for instance, lan Austin provoked more than a few murmurings by pulling out of the meeting between the champions and runners-up of last season.

A potentially heavyweight PPP county championship contest was also scaled down somewhat by the absence from the Lancashire team of Fairbrother, another member of the England World Cup squad, Martin and Atherton. Fairbrother was rested and Austin has a thigh muscle in the circumstances, the likes of Darren Maddy and Chris Lewis had to fight hard to be noticed. But, in the end, noticed they were, Form and fitness seemed to be commodities in worryingly short supply in the England camp, but Austin moved to calm fears that his injury might jeopardise his involvement in the World Cup. He has played only one CGU National League match this season, plus his three appearances in Sharjah, since having an operation on his left knee during the winter, but Austin said: "I don't think there is a serious problem. I have had some improvement in the thigh but not enough to play in a four-day game. As far as I am concerned f will be on schedule for the World

The absence of Austin and Martin, also injured, allowed Smethurst, 22, to make his second championship appearance and he picked up the wicket of Smith after Crawley, the Lancashire captain, had, perhaps defensively, chosen to LEICESTER (first day of four: bowl first. It was Richard Green, however, who caught the eye in an inexperienced attack, he took four top-order wickets and a smart return catch to end Maddy's innings. Maddy, sixth out, scored 86 and has come back strongly from shabby treatment by the England selectors just under a year ago. The parallels with the start of the 1998 season are already apparent. Maddy, returning then as now from a successful winter A tour, began in good form and was picked for the Texaco Trophy against South Africa with a Test debut widely predicted to

It never happened. He made one run in his only innings in two Texaco matches and Maddy - his confidence clearly undermined — eventually strug-gled to a pitiful 512 championship runs from 23 innings, one of thosebeing a 162, against Durham.

Yesterday, however, he baited with great assurance against the moving ball and now, with two full months before the Test series against New Zealand, has plenty of opportunity to put the painful memories behind him.

Lewis would be the choice of many people as a World Cup all-rounder ahead of the likes of Austin, including, by some accounts, Alec Stewart. Lewis made 139 a fortnight ago when Leioestershire launched the defence of their title by thrashing Essex and yesterday an unbeaten 77 represented another massive contribution in the context of this game.

First with Nixon and then in a last-wicket stand of 72 with Brimson, Lewis denied Lancashire tangible reward for a spirited deployment of their limited resources. Batting is not likely to be straightforward against Leioestershire's pace attack and Chilton may rue dropping Lewis, on 30, off

Kendall pulls powerfully towards the boundary as Speight, the wicketkeeper, looks on. Photograph: Owen Humphreys

Kendall in mint condition

CHESTER-LE-STREET (first day of four; Hampshire won toss): Hampshire have scored 344 for eight wickets against

THERE is much wisdom in the adage that practice makes perfect, but Will Kendall will testify that rest, too, has a role in the quest to improve. A decision to leave his bat untouched from the end of last season until the beginning of March is beginning to appear inspired.

Last week, Kendall scored 93 for Hampshire against Kent, when a leading edge resulted in Martin McCague accepting a return catch. He was entitled to feel disappointed with his dismissal yesterday, for attempting to work John Wood off his pads carried a certain resemblance, but this time a career-best score in the county championship of 105 ensured that satisfaction soon replaced any initial frustration.

With Adrian Aymes and Derek Kenway contributing half-centuries and Dimitri bition of batting in front of

By RICHARD HOBSON

SCOREBOARD FROM CHESTER-LE-STREET

cure the innings. Hampshire enjoyed much the better of a first day played, for the most part, in what older spectators were able to identify as sunshine. They are the only side yet to record a first-class victory against Durham, but that might change before the weekend is over.

Having withstood a searching examination of his backfoot technique against the pace of Harmison, on a generally

HAMPSHIRE: First Innings

G W White c Lewis b Harmison.....25 J P Stephenson c Lewis b Brown....7

A Smith c Betts b Wood.

D Udal run out...

S J Renshaw to bat.

N A M McLean not out.

Extras (b 2, lb 13, nb 24).

Total (8 wids, 105 overs)

N Aymes c and b Wood.

S Kendall c Speight b Wood...105

A C Morris c Collingwood b Brown.2

Mascarenhas scoring 44 to se-slow pitch. Kendall accumulated his runs phlegmatically as a quartet of Durham seamers failed to bowl with the consistency that Boon, the captain, would have required. It said much that soon after lunch he should turn to the off-spin of Gough, who bowled 24 overs in eight matches last season.

Durham had began constructively. Lewis, at short leg. reacted swiftly to remove Stephenson and White in the first hour and Wood, maintain-

FALL OF WICKETS: 1-21, 2-39, 3-70, 4-212, 5-239, 6-322, 7-335, 8-340. BOWLING: Brown 24-6-64-2; Betts 21-8-54-0; Harmison 18-2-83-1; Wood 23-4-76-3; Gough 7-2-23-0; Collingwood 12-2-29-1.

DURHAM: JJB Lewis, MA Gough, J E Monfs, JA Daley, "D C Boon, P D Collingwood, †M P Speight, M M Betts, J Wood, S J E Brown, S J Harmison. Bonus points: Durham 3 Hampshire 3.

Umpires: N A Mallender and K E Palmer.

in 40 overs.

Aymes, who has established himself at No 5, played nearly between mid-on and mid-off, while Kendall remained unhurried, knowing that the four ball was never far away. His fifty arrived after 122 minutes with five fours and he breached the boundary on nine further occasions in progressing to three figures. Aymes drove a half-volley back to Wood and as Kendall, after 211 minutes, provided Speight with a catch, the bowler could reflect upon belated reward for the occasions when he beat the outside edge in a far better first spell. Kenway, who is one run away from equalling his career-best of 57 today, and Mascarenhas then put on 83 to ensure that the efforts of the top order would not go to waste.

sequently stagnated, as he took 60 balls over his next 19 runs before being bowled by llott, but with the precedent set Ashley Giles rarely looked troubled in scoring 30, Tim

Munton contributed 24 at

No 10. and Graeme Welch weighed in with an unbeaten

It was a far cry from the start when Ilott and Ashley ing a length to assist swing. then forced an outside edge from Smith, which Betts held alertly at third slip. Yet having restricted Hampshire to 70 for three, they allowed Kendall and Aymes to reverse the situation with a partnership of 142 runs and Kent had forced their way back into the game.

start. If this sort of form, which brought him eight fours and a couple of sure, clean sixes, continues. Derbyshire's pohanced.

lapse, there are, on this evidence, several other reasons why Derbyshire could be up there with the best of them by the end of the season. Their off-the-field troubles seem to be behind them. Perhaps Colin Wells, their new coach, has influenced their general approach in the field. Here it was keen, competent and aggres-

strained innings, which brought him 53 in nearly three hours and helped double the score for the last three wickets, Kent were in trouble. Andrew Symonds was given his county cap in the tea interval, but there was little else for Kent to cheer as Slater and Rollins took them apart.

YESTERDAY'S SCOREBOARDS

PPP county championship Essex v Warwickshire

Essex v Warwickshire
CHELNSFORD (first day of lour Essex won loss: Essex, with nine first inverge wides; in hand, are 250 cars behind Warwickshire WARWICKSHIRE First krings
N V kinche claw b Cowen. 2
M A Wach hav b Rot. 3
OL Hemp bow b Grove. 30
T L Penney c Hussenn b kann. 19
† T Frost o Hyam b Kann. 19
† T Gdes t Law b Cowen 30
G Welch not out 48
† A Munten o Such b Grayson 24
E S H Goddins b Grayson 6
Ebbas (b 6, 5:11; nb 4). 27
Total (93.5 overs) 27

P J Prichard low b Gidding O O J Robinson not out ...

Glamorgan v Sussex

Extras (0 3, 10 3 nto 4). 10
Total (88.3 overs) 22
FALL OF WICKETS 1-42, 2-44, 3-51, 4-96, 5-104, 5-104, 7-119, 8-147, 9-218
BOWLING Weston 18-5-4-3-0. Thomas 18-4-5-4, Date 10-3-40-1; Jones 13-3-3-31-5; Croh 19-7-35-1, Cosker 10-1-13-0

BOWLING Kirtley 5-0-19-1, Martin-Jenkin 4-0-13-0: Reshid 2-7-4-0, Robinson 2-1-2-1 Umpres, J.H. Hampshire and J.H. Hams

Gloucestershire v Middlesex

Gloticestershire v Middlesex BRISTOL (first day at four, Modeleser wor toss) Gloucestershire have scored 246 for seven workets against Modelesex SLOUCESTERSHIRE: First Innings K J Barnett b Fraser 51 H C Hencock c Kettleborough b Cook 1 O R Hewson c Shah b Tufnell 76 M G N Windows c Nash b Tufnell 15 R I Dawson c Nash b Hewitt 10 J N Snape low b Fraser 16 H C Russell not out 35 J Lewis not out 35

5-131. 6-181, 7-230
BDWLING. France: 27-13-36-2; Cool.
13-2-51-1; Hawitt: 17-2-56-1; Tufnel
35-8-55-2; Westes: 10-4-16-0; Shah 7-2-14-1.
MIDDLESEY: M. A. Roseberry, J. L. Lanor.
M. R. Ramprakash, R. A. Kettleborough, O. A. Shah, P. N. Westes, 10°C Nush, J. P. Hewitt. 3
J. Cools, A. R. C. France, P. C. R. Turnet, Umpires: O. J. Constant and M. J. Harns

Kent v Derbyshire

CANTERBURY (first day of four; Derbyshire won toss), Derbyshire, with four first-timings wickets in hand, are 31 nuns ahead of Kent

Total (49 Overs) 170.18 (49 Overs) 1741. FALL OF WICKETS: 1-5, 2-20, 3-27, 4-43, 5-55, 6-59, 7-70, 8-94, 9-112 BOWLING: DeFreites: 17-3-48-3, Deen 17-5-34-4, Cork 11-1-34-2; Smith 4-1-15-1

A S P Titchard c Fution b Eathern S P Titchard c Fution b Eathern M E Casser low b Headley

Leicestershire v Lancashire LECESTER first day of four, Lancashire won lossi: Leicestershire have scored 337 for nine wickets against Lancashire

$45EB4_

SO'ETBA

Total (1 wid, 8 evers) 18

*N Hussam S G Law R C rem. A P Grayson † B J Hyam, A P Cowan, J O Grove and P M Such to be!
FALL OF WICKETS 1-12
BOWLING: Golders 4-1-7-1 Weich 4-2-8-0
Umpress, J C Badderstone and O R Shepherd.

CARDIFF (Instiday of four Sussex won toss) Glamorgan, with eight inst-mangs wickets in nand, are 183 runs behind Sussex keep out of a keen wind, ideal SUSSEX First Innings
R R Montgomerie c Cale b Jones
M T E Perce low b Dale conditions for watching Kent build a useful score after being sent into bat by Dominic Cork. But Kent's batting failed dismally, with the notable exception of Matthew Walker, 21lb lighter than he was last season and looking the better for it in every way. After they had been bowled out for 141, they were put to the sword by Michael Slater and bludgeoned by Adrian Rollins. Prospects for Kent looked bleak when, after a century parmership between these two. Derbyshire passed the Kent total with eight wickets in hand. If ever a team had a match by the scruff of the neck at 5pm on the first day of a four-day match, it was Derbyshire vesterday.

The picture changed somewhat, though, as Dean Headley recovered from a severe mauling at the hands of Slater and Rollins — his first spell of six overs cost him 47 runs — to snap up two quick wickets in a fiery spell that cost 16. Mark Falham took two more as Derbyshire lost five wickets for 26

Slater's sparkling innings had been ended by a sharp catch at mid-off after he had made 65 out of 131 from 77 balls. Bearing in mind that his first championship half-century last season was not until August, he was off to a roaring tential will be greatly en-

Despite their evening col-

The quicker bowlers kept the ball up to the bat, giving it a chance to swing. None more so than Kevin Dean. His dismissals of Fulton, Key and Wells were classics of their kind: straight balls leaving the batsmen, followed by the late, dipping inswinger of full length. The three-card trick was never more ably demon-strated. With DeFreitas and Cork in support, Kent were reduced to 70 for seven.

In spite of Walker's fine, re-

Derbyshire's century opening stand was achieved at twice the pace of Kent's own milestone, but after Weston was unfortunately run out, it was Derbyshire who were reined in before bad light intervened with four overs left.

prepare wired for sound

MINIS THE ROLLS

منخزاه خلفاني معي

· -4 - 2 - 3

Again Beide

229 . . .

ng makk ban Tidak kan

14 15 H 48 1

Havriange

THE DIVISION ...

P W C

Johnson in renaissance

TRENT BRIDGE (first day of four; Worcestershire won toss): Nottinghamshire have scored 377 for five wickets against Worcestershire

PAUL JOHNSON must be the best batsman of his generation never to have played for the England senior team. He did not look it last season when he was buckling under the burden of captaining Nottinghamshire, but he was back to his best yesterday with a century that was as warming to the Trent Bridge faithful as the long overdue sunshine.

It was an early return on Nottinghamshire's initiative in bringing back Clive Rice, who led them to two county championships in the Eighties, as manager. The first thing that Johnson did on hearing the news was to sign a new contract. The second thing he did was to get himself fit, knowing how Rice would make him suffer if he was not. As a result, he looked born again as he went within two and his pulls as uppercuts.

By PAT GIBSON

himself by passing 50 for the first time in 13 championship innings since taking over the captaincy last July and Chris Read, the England A wicketkeeper, put on a nice little exhi-

lunch and tea with his own pugnacious brand of strokebetter described as straight lefts, his cuts as forearm jabs Jason Gallian also asserted

Johnson: return to form play. Johnson's on-drives are

David Graveney, the chairman of selectors. It all added up to maximum batting points for a side which performed that feat only once last summer. What is more, they did it on a grassy pitch. There was bounce and movement, but unfortunately for Worcestershire, once Liptrot had added to his five wickets against Surrey last week by having Robinson caught at third slip in his first over, they could not put the ball in the right place often enough.

Afzaal found it hard, making only 12 in the best part of two hours before Leatherdale had him caught behind, but Gallian was beginning to find some form with 82 in a little more than three hours, including 16 fours, when Lampitt claimed him leg-before. Then there was Johnson, reviving memories of how he was rated ahead of Thorpe and Hussain on the 1991-92 A tour of the West Indies, and finally Read, more than justifying his promotion to No 6.

Smith takes dashing lead

CHELMSFORD (first day of four: Essex won toss): Essex. with nine first-innings wickets in hand, are 256 runs behind Warwickshire

THE tale has become a familiar one for Essex. Just as they did against Leicestershire, in their first championship match of the season, for a while they lived with, even dominated, Warwickshire Warwickshire yesterday. It was tempting to believe that the corner had been turned and a run of championship defeats that stretches to seven matches could be arrested. With the considerable advantage of having won the toss, Essex found little resistance in reducing Warwick-shire to 84 for six by lunch on a two-paced pitch, with all six top-order batsmen dismissed. They then spent the next 59 overs taking the remaining four wickets while Warwickshire recovered to 271. The change in fortunes after lunch could not have been more striking. Three off-side

By Thrasy Petropoulos

boundaries from solid backfoot strokes from Neil Smith. the Warwickshire captain, saw Mark Nott out of the attack. Jamie Grove. his replacement, was promptly clattered for three fours in his first over. In the space of only 44 balls, Smith had reached a half-century that had altered the direction and tempo of the

His innings may have sub-

Cowan did much as they pleased with the new ball. Most of the first hour was spent with Warwickshire batsmen pushing forward at thin air, and sure enough llott finished with three wickets and Cowan, Irani and Grayson two apiece - in Grayson's case the last two of the innings but not before batting conditions were made to appear a different proposition.

The pitch may have lost much of its life as the day wore on, but Essex were unable to survive the eight overs that they were asked to negotiate before the close, los-ing Paul Prichard leg-before playing back to Ed Giddins.

Joy for Croft proves to be short-lived

By JOHN STERN

CARDIFF (first day of four: Sussex won toss): Glamorgan, with eight first-innings wickets

in hand, are 183 runs behind

EVEN if he hits the winning Tuns in the World Cup final, Robert Croft will not look more excited than he did yes-terday when he had Tony Cottey, the Sussex batsman returning to his former county for the first time, caught at silly point. It was the first ball that Croft had bowled to Cottey, who had been best man at his wedding and was his room-mate for nine seasons. Delight turned to frustra-tion for Croft and his colleagues as Glamorgan were held up by Shaun Humphries, the Sussex wicketkeeper, who made his second firstclass fifty, and Umer Rashid. They put on 71 for the ninth wicket in a gritty stand.

grin belonged to Simon Jones, 20, son of Jeff, the former Glamorgan and England left-arm seamer. Jones, playing in his fourth county championship match, took career-best figures of five for 31, including the last three wickets. A tall right-arm bowler. Jones produced balls to hurry the Sussex batsmen but this pitch, although uneven in bounce, is too slow to offer Jones and his ilk the chance to show off.

When Sussex were bowled

The Sussex top order failed to gauge the pace of the pitch. although Adams, the Sussex captain, was in vicious form. hitting Croft for two straight sixes. However, he could not resist further extravagance and was caught brilliantly by Maynard at second slip for 41.

Glamorgan's reply began poorly, James and Dale departing before the close.

28-7-57-4; Scholield 13-2-53-0; Watkinson 61-33-0; Chilton 2-1-9-0.
LANCASHIRE: N Twood, M J Crition, "J P Crawley, G O Lloyd, A Firstott, TW K Hegg, M Watkinson, C P Schofield, G Chepts, R J Green, M P Smethurs; Umpress: K J Lyons and A Clarkson.
Northamptonshire: v Strrrey NORTHAMPTON (first day of lour, Northans won loss): Surray, with nine first-imangs waters in hand, are 176 June behard Northans NORTHAMPTONSHIRE: First Immings R J Balley bur b Bicknell. 11 M 2 Loye c Shelhid b Bicknell. 11 M 2 Loye c Shelhid b Bicknell. 11 R J Warmen um out. 0 O J G Selec c Bröwn b Tudor. 16 A L Perbertity c and b Butcher. 3 G P Swann c Besty b Butcher. 3 G P Swann c Besty b Butcher. 3 G P Swann c Besty b Butcher. 3 J P Taylor bur b Selectury. 71 O Follett c 2 C Holitoeles b Tudor. 19 O E Malcolar mot out. 0 Extras (b 11, w 6, nb 22). 39 Total (83.1 overs). 248 BOWLING: Bicknell 218-48-4, Tudor 19-6-59-2, B C Holitoeles 12-53-0; Butcher 11-3-19-2; Saliebury 14.1-3-39-1; A J Holitoeles 1-1-19-0. SURREY: First Innings M A Butcher not out. 10 G P Thorpe not out. 20 Extras (b 4, b 3, nb 2). 27 Total (7 wird, 18 overs). 27 A O Brown, A J Holitoeles, 17 N Shahir et and I D K State. 1 Tytes M P Bicknell and I D K State. 1 Tytes M P Bicknell and I D K State. 1 J Tytes M P Bicknell and I D K State. 1 J Tytes M P Bicknell and I D K State. 1 J Tytes M P Bicknell and I D K State. 1 J Tytes M P Bicknell and I D K State. out for 222, the broadest Welsh

Notts v Worcestershire
TRENT BRIDGE (first day of tour, Worcestershire won toss): Aodinghamsine have soned 377 for so wedees against Worcestershire
NOTTINGHAMSHREE- First Innings
U Atzael c Rhodes b Leetherdele 12
RT Robinson c Lampett b Liptrot 12
RT Robinson c Hick b Illingworth 15
P Johnson c Hick b Illingworth 15
N A Gie tow b Lampett 15
TC M W Read not out 16
P J Franks not out 17
Streaks 6 8, b 18, w 2, nb 25
Total 6 wides, 196 conwrist 17
MN Bowen, A G Wherf and R O Stemp to bat
FALL OF WICKETS: 1-4, 2-75, 3-168, 4271,
5-311, 6-370,
BOWLING: Sheriyer 19-2-93-1; Liptrot
19-5-62-1; Haynes 19-2-93-1; Liptrot
19-5-62-1; Solerid 2-0-19-0.
WORCESTERSHIRE: P R Poland, W P C
Weston, G A Hick, V S Solerid, O A Lastherdele, G R Haynes, "YS J Finodes, S R Lampet, R K Illingworth, A Sheriyar, C G Liptrot.
Urrephres: 2 Dudleston and R A Write.

NATIONADE CONFERN SCOTTEN LEAGUE

PROCESS OF STREET

in the second of the second of

Southern Street Court

THE SA TOUTH OUT

1000 AND 100

PAGUE CE MALES THE PARTY NAMED AND PORTY

THE MANAGEMENT OF THE STATE OF Secretary Secret

runs of scoring 100 between Bailey drops anchor | Patience pays for Alleyne | to thwart Surrey

By Ivo Tennant

NORTHAMPTON (first day of four: Northamptonshire won toss): Surrey, with nine first-innings wickets in hand. are 176 runs behind Northamptonshire

SURREY will repine over not having bowled out Northamptonshire for rather less than 248. Rob Bailey and Paul Tay-lor, who make for an unlikely pairing, put on 117 in 34 overs for the eighth wicket through batting that was about as contrasting as could be. One came up with gutsy defence and the other hit the ball everywhere.

It was highly effective. Had Surrey bowled a little more accurately, they might well have been batting by early afternoon. There was much life in the pitch, especially for anyone coming in from the Football Ground end. Northamptonshire were 91 for seven at one stage. Bicknell bowled Hayden as he drove at a ball of fullish length, and had Loye held at mid-wicket, mistiming a pull. Warren was run out and, when Butcher brought himself on, he caught and bowled Penberthy and then had Swann taken driving at an away swinger.

Bailey, though, remains an unflinching competitor and, after taking ten overs to get off the mark, held the innings together. He and Taylor, whose 71 was not far off the best score of his career, thoroughly irked their opponents.

By the time Bailey was legbefore to Bicknell for 75, he was only 27 runs short of 20,000 in first-class cricket. He frustrated Tudor to the extent that he was spoken to for short-pitched bowling. Surrey, although they lost Ward to a vicious ball from Malcolm, and Shahid, retired hurt, ended the more content.

BRISTOL (first day of four; Middlesex won toss): Gloucestershire have scored 246 for seven wickets against

THE smart new Jessop Stand at Nevil Road glimmered in the sunshine and was perhaps the brightest adornment on a day that was, by necessity, an attritional one because of a slow, flat pitch devoid of much bounce and in use for the first time for a first-class match. The plan had been to use another pitch for Bristol's first match of the season. But it proved too wet, and this one, due to have been played on ina second-team match last week, was appreciably drier. Middlesex would have expected much more assistance than they received. Despite the pitch's green hue, bardly a ball seamed before lunch. Nor was there any swing to speak of for Middlesex's promising young outswing bowler, Simon Cook, making his debut at the age of 22.

By Geoffrey Dean Cook was on the staff last year but because of persistent shin soreness, spent much of his time acting as video cameraman for John Buchanan, the then coach. Cook, 6ft 4in, is highly rated by Mike Gatting. who says that he hits the seam a lot, a useful attribute for bowlers of his type who are twice as valuable if they cut the ball back regularly. That was how Cook took his maiden first-class wicket, in his second over, when Hancock got was taken at short leg. Cook bowled his opening spell up the hill into a strong wind. Hewitt, who replaced him, bowled a single over into it before asking Ramprakash if he could come downwind. That explained both Tufnell's early introduction and why he reeled off as many as 36 overs, in which he was notably an inside edge on to a pad and Only Hewson tried to get af-ter him and when he fell, givcrease. Tufnell, finding himself cast as stock bowler, did the job superbly and was rewarded with a second wicket when Windows gloved an attempted sweep.

Both batting and bowling on this surface required a lot

ing him the charge, the rest of the Gloucestershire batsmen decided to remain in the

of discipline and it was hardly a surprise that it was the experienced players on each side who provided it. Barnett, defending stoutly and driving sweetly square on the off side, reached a maiden fifty for his new county before Fraser nipped one back to bowl him off the inside edge. Alleyne's concentration and as he ground out a valuable 76 in 74 overs, although he would have rued his failure to keep down a full-blooded cut off Shah's occasional mediumpace. His dismissal gave Middlesex the advantage, although they could not shift the commitment were admirable

IN BRIEF

Referees prepare to be wired for sound

THE FA Carling
Premiership is on the verge of making referees and their assistants use radio communications from next season. The move, which has been proposed by Philip Don. the FA Premier League referees' officer, has been given a positive response by club chairmen, who plan also to discuss another of Don's brainchilds - the use of bleeping devices in a bid to end ball-over-the-line

The Case of the Control of the Contr

 $(-1)/\gamma_{2}|_{(\mathbb{R}^{n}_{2})^{n}}$

.... 22

3

The initial plan is for referees to be put in constant contact with their assistants on the line via the use of headsets with radio microphones built in. All three officials will wear the devices. The aim is to enable referees to reach speedier decisions and avoid the need for touchline consultations that often inflame the mood of players and fans. ■ Lawrie McMenemy is likely to keep his job as manager of Northern Ireland, for the time being at least, despite the country's ignominious I-I draw with Canada in Belfast on Tuesday night. There has been widespread criticism of McMenemy since the match. but he and his coaching staff had been assured previously by Jim Boyce, president of the lrish Football Association. that their positions remain secure at least unol after their final Euro 2000 match in Finland this October. Micolas Anelka, the Arsenal striker, has apologised to the Association for not appearing Professional Footballers' at their annual awards ceremony in London on Sunday, when the 20-year-old France international was voted Young Player of the Year, Arsene Wenger, the Arsenal manager, had to accept the award on his Morocco has officially announced its bid to host the World Cup finals in 2006. England, Germany and South Africa are considered to be the strongest candidates and the winner will be declared next March. West Ham United are to sell Javier Margas, their Chile defender. Margas, who was signed from Universidad Catolica for £2 million. suffered a knee injury early in his West Ham career and flew home to Chile for treatment amid rumours that his family were homesick. The big centre half has not returned and his West Ham career appears to be over after starting just three Premiership games.

FOOTBALL: WATFORD DEFENDER MAY FACE LEGAL ACTION AFTER OPPONENT SUFFERS DOUBLE FRACTURE

Vale consider suing over tackle

BY STEPHEN WOOD

PORT VALE, the Nationwide League first division club, said yesierday that they were considering taking legal action over the tackle that left Stewart Talbot, their defender. with a double fracture of his right leg.

Talbot, 25, suffered the injury after a challenge by Paul Robinson, ol Watford, in their match at Vale Park on Tues day night. Graham Taylor, the Watford manager, admit-ted that the tackle was "reckless and foolish" and Bill Bell, the Vale chairman, said yesterday: "We could sue the player personally, because the tackle on Talbol could threaten his livelihood and, as a club, it will not have helped our cause."

Talbot underwent surgery yesterday and the club will talk to him to discover his views on the issue. Regardless of whether Vale pursue legal action, they have lodged an official complaint with the Football Association about George Cain, the match referee.

in a strictly footballing sense, the repercussions of their 2-1 defeat could also hurt Vale. Brian Horton, the manager, believed that the game paled into insignificance after Talbot was carried off - it cer-tainly only served to increase the importance of their remaining two fixtures. Vale slipped to 21st position, above the relegarion zone by virtue of the fact that they have scored more goals than Bury.

After Crewe Alexandra's win over Bristol City, the bottom club, on the same night, four teams are on 44 points. The denouement to the season is likely to be a fractious one.

Gradi has other priorities for Crewe Alexandra other than their fight to avoid relegation from the first division

Vale meet Queens Park Rangers, the club one place above them, on Saturday, while Bury await at Gigg Lane on the final day of the campaign.

The attempts of Oxford United and Bristol City to stay up appear forlorn. Oxford must travel to Bradford City this weekend, with the Yorkshire club striving for the victory that would enhance their chance of earning automatic promotion to the FA Carling Premiership. If three of the four clubs above them win at the weekend, defeats for Oxford and Bristol City will see them relegated.

While those clubs are panicking, it is a testament to Dario Gradi, the Crewe manager, that his club are sitting relatively pretty in nineteenth position. It is the first time that Crewe have been out of the bot-som four since October 17 and. with matches against Ports-mouth and Huddersfield Town to come. Crewe are genuinely optimistic that they will complete their escape.

Gradi, who has been manager at Gresty Road for nearly 16 years, is still considering the bigger picture. "I would rather that the new stand is built than us stay up," he said. "If we can get more people into

John Goodbody on new moves to restore a combined home nations team in time for the 2004 Games

the ground, the finances will improve and we will have a better chance of keeping our best players." He did add, though, that it would be "nice" if Crewe could remain in the first division. Bidding to join them are

Wigan Athletic, who must cope with a daunting schedule of five games in 11 days if they are to qualify for the second division play-offs, although the fact that the pitch at Spring-field Park caused so many postponements during the winier means that they cannot complain 100 much.

Tonight, Wigan travel to Northampton Town, who are battling relegation. Thereafter, Wigan must play again on Saturday, Bank Holiday Monday, next Wednesday and the final day of the season, May 9. By that time, they hope to have made up the six-point gap that separates them from Bournemouth, the team at present occupying the final play-off place. Bournemouth did them selves no favours by losing to Colchester United on Tuesday night while Wigan were beating Lincoln City. "Amateur-ish," Mel Machin, the Bourne-mouth manager, said of his team's performance. "Professional," was the way that Ray Mathias, the Wigan manager, described his players' attitude to the situation facing them.

To collect enough points when you are playing almost every other day is difficult." Mathias said. "but I keep telling the players that we are in a great situation. We have our destiny in our own hands and if we keep playing like we have been doing, there is no reason why we cannot be in the first division next year."

Cambridge United secured promotion from the third division with a 2-0 victory away to Rochdale on Tuesday, although Cardiff City and Brentford are still able to prevent them from winning the championship. "Promotion is not enough for me and it should not be enough for the players, either," Roy McFarland, the Cambridge manager, said yesterday. "We are hellbent on going up as champions."

football — they never quite perform to their full potential.

"No one can argue that Scottish football at its best is some of the finest in the world. But Scotland never make it past the group stage and England consistently fail to find that extra push in the final stages.

As Britain they would win it."

(SFA) immediately rejected

Banks's call for a united Britain team. Jack McGinn, the SFA president, said: "Mr Banks is entitled to his opinion. However, there is no evidence to suggest that there team."

However, the Scottish FA

Cole heads parade of prospective stars of the future

By Nick Szczepanik

THE final of The Times FA Youth Cup will be between Coventry City and West Ham United, clubs who last won the compedition in the 1980s, although West Ham, the 1981 as recently as 1996, when they iost 4-1 on aggregate to Liver-

For Coventry City, a final against a London-based team will evoke memories of 1987, when they overcame Charlton Athletic only days before the first leam won the FA Cup at Wembley. On Tuesday, leading Newcastle United 4-0 after the first leg of the semi-final at St James' Park, they recovered from a nervy start to go through 5-2 on aggregate. The goal that killed off Newcastle's comeback was scored by Chukki Eribenne but the player who has attracted most attention is Gary McSheffrey, 16, who became the youngest first-team player in the club's history when appearing as substitute at Villa Park. He scored a hat-trick at Newcastle and. although he did not score in the second leg, his speed, con-trol and audacity gave the opposing defenders an uncomfortable evening.

McSheffrey is truly a local product, for his family home is no more than a long goal kick from Highfield Road. West Ham, in contrast, have two graduates from their academies in Australia, Richard Garcia and Michael Ferrante.

Not that the East London club is neglecting its own back yard. Bertie Brayley, born in Essex, is capable of making as well as scoring goals, while alongside Ferrante in midfield is the jewel in the Upton Park crown, Joe Cole, now with several FA Carling Premiership appearances un der his belt. West Ham, who play a fluid 3-5-2 formation, have been mightily impressive at home in the past two rounds, overrunning Arsenal and putting three goals past Everton, the

For the players, the pressures of an expectant home crowd - not lo mention live televisioo coverage — present new challenges, but ones that they will have to surmount if the final next month is to be the first of many big occasions.

Britain could bid for Olympic football gold

Havelange: letter of assurance over World Cup status

GREAT Britain could field a football team in the Olympic Games for the first time since 1960. The British Olympic Association (BOA) said yesterday that it was having talks with the Football Association in an attempt to field a combined team from the four home nations in 2004.

The news came as Tony Banks, the Minister for Sport. reiterated his call for a united Britain team to compete in both the Olympics and the World Cup. He said that this would ensure victory in the tournaments. Banks said: "Sepp Blatter, the Fifa president, is talking about the possibility of a British team in the Games and I would love to see that happen. But if we enter a team for the Olympics, we must find a way round the fact that we have four home countries." Simon Clegg, the BOA chief executive, confirmed that there In 1996 there were huge had been meetings with the crowds for the tournament

FA "with a view to moving this forward". He added that there was a letter carrying an assur-ance from João Havelange, the former Fifa president, and Blatter; then the secretarygeneral of the governing body of world lootball, assuring the FA that if there were a Great Britain team at the Games it would not compromise the status of the individual nations at the World Cup.

Clegg said: "We believe that young footballers are being deprived of the chance of competing in the world's greatest sports festival. What people in this country do not realise is that for other nations, football is a major sport in the Games.

ICE HOCKEY

NATIONAL LEAGUE (RHL): Standey Cup play-offs: Eastern Conference: Pristurgh 2 New Jensey 4 Dees-of-seven senses ted 2-2; Buffel A Ottawa 3 (Buffelo war sense 4-0). Western Conference: St Louis 1 Proe-ns: 2 (Procent lead sense 3-1); Anathem 0 Deerol 3 (Deerol wit sense 4-0); Ethnorion 2 Deales 3 (5 OT, Defee win sense 4-0)

RUGBY UNION

WELSH LEAGUE: First division: Meesleg 32 Pumpy 31

SAILING

and the United States is not a traditional football country."

The Olympic football event was first staged in 1900, when Great Britain, represented by Upton Park FC, best France for the gold medals. However, as early as the 1920s, problems occurred over the definition of amateurism, Britain withdrawing because of a dispute over broken-time payments.

During the 1950s and 1960s, the tournaments were dominated by the state-funded communist nations, who usually fielded their World Cup teams. These included the great Hungary side that humillated England 6-3 at Wemblev in 1953 and then 7-1 in Budapest in 1954 and first attracted international attention when they won the Olympic title in

In recent years, Fifa has agreed to restrict teams to choosing players who are aged under 23, with the exception of three individuals. Recently there have been suggestions that, in future, five over-age players might be allowed to take part.

In a newspaper interview. Banks was quoted as saying of the World Cup: "Scotland is one of the great football nations and have a fabulous qualifying record. But they have never got past the first round and, if you think about them in English terms, they are the West Ham of world is any support in the home countries for a Great Britain An FA spokesman said:

This is a concept that has been raised before but we do not see any prospect of it because the supporters value the identity of their individual countries too much."

GOLF

holders

SPORT IN BRIEF

AMERICAN LEAGUE: Belimore 8 kansas City 4 Minnesola 6 Boston 5, Texas 6 New AMERICAN LEAGUE: Balamore & Nansas Cay 4 Minnesola & Boston S, Texas 6 New York Yarrkets 7, Anahem 1 Toronto 10, Oak-tand 5 Cleveland 6: Seattle 1 Detrot 8, Post-poned: Chazgo Wike Sox v Tampe Bay, NATIONAL LEAGUE: Flonds & Chazgo Cubs 0: Mivaruke 2 Los Angeles 3, Mon-tred 2 San Francisco 3 (10nns), Priladel-phra 1 Cincinnet 0 (10nns), New York Mels 2 San Dego 6, Altanta 3 Patisburgh 5; Hou-ston 11 Angona 0, Si Louse 7 Colorado 5

BASKETBALL NATIONAL ASSOCIATION (NBA): Bos-lon 85 Delize 92: Philadelphia 80 Cleveland 71: Torordo 96 Charlotte 105: Indiana 87 Orlando 86, New Jessey 76 Mism 95, Dallas 84 Vancouver 75, Sacramento 104 San Antonio 100, Seuttle 90 Utah 85.

BOWLS

INTERNATIONAL MATCH: Botsware 4 Wales 8 (133-107, in Selipe-Philwe, Wales win senes 3-0)

INTERNATIONAL MATCH: Crossa O lialy O In Zagreb)
FRENCH CUP: Semi-final: Names 1
Nimes 0 Tuesday's late results INTERNATIONAL MATCH: Nonhem ireland 1 Canada 1 UNDER-21 INTERNATIONAL MATCHES:

Germany 2 Scotland 1, Ireland 0 Sweden 3 NATIONWIDE LEAGUE: First divisions Crowe 1 Bristol City D Pod Vale 1 Watland 2

Port Vale SECOND DIVISION: Bristol Rovers 3 Mil-wall 0: Colchester 2 Bournemouth 1 Lucia 1 Chesterfield 0, Macclesteid 1 Stoke 3. Nors County 1 Wycombe 0* Wigart 3 Lin-coln 1, York 1 Blackpool 0.

PS 78 78 74 73 88 66 88 88 56 53 Notts Co...... 43 14 10 19 50 58 52 Colchester.... 44 12 16 16 50 65 52 Weedham ... 43 13 13 17 43 99 52 Blarkspool... 44 13 13 13 18 40 51 52 York 44 13 11 20 56 75 50 Burnley 43 12 14 17 51 71 50 Olcharn...... 43 12 9 22 44 63 45 Nornampton. 43 10 15 18 38 52 45 Wycombe... 43 11 11 21 47 52 45 Wycombe... 43 11 17 25 38 72 40 Macdesfield... 43 10 9 24 37 57 39 THIRD DIVISION: Derington 2 Brentland 2; Histias 1 Sourthorpe 0; Harrispool 1 Leyton Onent 0, Mansheld 0 Exeter 1; Rochdele 0 Cambridge Utd 2, Rotharham 1 Barner 1

Caritale . . 44 10 15 19 41 52 45 Scarboro . 43 12 5 26 44 75 41 NATIONWIDE CONFERENCE: Hednes-lord 1 Kingstonan 2, Northwich 1 Chelten-ham 0 Yeoul 0 Morecambe 1 SCOTTISH LEAGUE: First division:

bord 1 Kingstonaan 2, Northwort 1 Createrham 0, Yeoval 0 Morecambe 1
SCOTTISH LEAGUE: First division: Ctyclepark 2 Ayr 1
UEFA UNDER-16 CHAMPIONSHIP: Group B: England 2 Swiden 1
UNISOND LEAGUE: Premier division: Frickey 0 All mecham 3, Garashorough 3 Colwin Bay 1 First division: Droysiden 2 Bradford FA 0, Great Harvood 0 Stockstonay 6 PS 0, Huchrall 1 Medicar 0, Radelille 1 Congleton 1, Winon 5 Great 1 League Cup: Finals Selytonde 2 Gussely 1
DR MARTENS LEAGUE: Premier division: Busion 2 Tamworth 1. Nashings 3 Crawley 0 Madamed division: Bioconda 2 Wisboch 1. Condentord 2 Sourbodge 1. Handley 3 RC Warwick 0, Radelille 2 Wisboch 1. Condentord 2 Sourbodge 1. Handley 3 RC Warwick 0, Radelille 3 Evestion 1 Straight 1 Condentord 2 Sourbodge 1. Handley 3 RC Warwick 0, Radelille 2 Switten 1 Tombridge Angels 0 Fiest 2 Raunds 4, Folkastone Inviste 2 Margate 0 Havani and Waterlovoffe 5 Andover 1. Nemport of W 4 Bashiley 0 League Cup: Finals Suition Codifield 2 Cambridge Cty 1 RYMAN LEAGUE: Premier divisions Bashile 1 Heybridge Swifts 1 Alderston 1, Slough 4 Gravesend and Northfeet 0 First divisions Barnon 1 Lohntige 0, Bognor Roys 0 Levion Pennant 1, Grays 1 Sanies 2. Outlond Cny 2 Romolond 2, Worthing 0 Leafterhead 1, Second divisions Barnon 1 Lohntige 0, Bognor Roys 0 Levion Pennant 1, Grays 1 Sanies 2. Outlond Cny 2 Romolond 2, Worthing 0 Levion Pennant 1, Grays 1 Sanies 2. Outlond Cny 2 Romolond 2, Worthing 0 Levion Pennant 1, Grays 1 Sanies 2. Outlond Cny 2 Romolond 0 Plackwell West Ioan 2 Croydon 0 Plackwell Head 6 Camberley 0 The Marcessie 2 (Conentry vin 5-2 on agg. Eventon 1 West Ham on 3 For on agg. Eventon 1 West Ham on 3 For on agg. Eventon 1 West Ham on 6 Cambridge 0 Deny 1 Finn Harps Ham Marchem Nathonal LEAGUE: Premier divisions Bornemans 0 Deny 1 Finn Harps Cambran 0 FAI HARP NATIONAL LEAGUE: Premier division: Bonemans 0 Deny 1 Fron Harps

FOR THE RECORD AVON INSURANCE COMPRIATION: First division: Oxford 0 Charlon 2; Port-smooth 2 Swindon 1; PONTIN'S LEAGUE: First division: Bot-ion 0 Burnley 0; Manchester City 3 Tran-mere 2: Oldharn 3 Grimsby 1; Sheffield Wed 1 West Bromwich 0 NORTHERN COUNTIES EAST LEAGUE: Premiate division: Annol 0 Buston 0; Ger-Premiate division: Annol 0 Buston 0; Ger-

NORTHERN COUNTIES EAST LEAGUE:
Premaier division: Annol o Buston C, Carlorth J North Famby 2, Liversedge 0 Ecclecht 3, Seby 1 Densely 1
NORTH WESTERN TRAINS LEAGUE:
Plinat division: Aharton Colleges 0 Workregion 2, Bootle 1 Newcastle Town 1, Cristdie 2 Glossop North End 0, Rossendale 1
Leek CSDB 3.

die 2 Glossop North End 0, Roosendele 1
Leek CSDB 3,
ARNOTT INSURIANCE NORTH LEAGUE:
First division: Durston Federation 3 Chestes I - Essington 1 Morpoth 4
JEWSON LEAGUE: Prantier division: Dy 1
Woodbridge 1, Haletead 1 Lowestot 3 Histon 1 Des 0, Makton 1 Harrech and Parkeston 0, Newmarker 0 Feberaham 2, Sudbury Town 0 Wroshem 2, Warboys 0
Greet Yarmouth 0
JEWSON WESSEX LEAGUE: Prest division: Lymangian and New Matern 1 Fausthers
0, Money Fields 3 Portsmouth RN 2, Wintonson 1, AFC Newhout 1
SCREWFIX DIRECT LEAGUE: Premier division: Expressed 3 Edelectro C Bridgere
16 Westoury 1, Emora 2 Taurion 3, Mangosteld 3 Yeout TR 2, Mellsherr 1 Chippartiam 0, Pauton 2 Bridgort 0
UHLSPORT UNITED COUNTES
LEAGUE Premier division: Deborough 5 Bourne 2 N Spencer 0 Frod Sports 0, 5 and perfiam 0, Paulon 2 Bridgott 0

UNILSPORT UNITED COUNTRES
LEAGUE Premier division: Desbarough 5
Bourne 2: N Spencer 0 Ford Spons 0, 5 and 1, Carby 3 Waarlon 2, St Nects 2 Speiding 0.

CLIPPER ROUND-THE-WORLD RACE: Leg 4b (Singapore to Seychieles, with miles to finish): 1, Marmerus (B Soltaris 2070; 2, Anal JA Thomson) 2,071; 3, Senda (R Dean) 2,072; 4, Antiope (K Hams) 2,083; 5, Chyso-tre (T Hadpes) 2,083; 6, Thermory/sia (M 7,00) 2,084; 7, Taraping! (N Flaming) 2,132 SCHOOLS SPORT FOOTBALL: Premier Leegue Trophy: Under-19: Semi-final: North-Inberland 2 Durham 1 Lembton Trophy: Under-18: Pinal: Middlestrough 2 Hanlepool 1.

TODAY'S FIXTURES

POOTBALL Nick-off 7:30 unless stated Nationwide League Second division

Northampton v Wigan (7:45) Nationwide Conference Leek v Yeovi (7.45)

Leek v Yeovi (7.45)

INBOND LEAGUE: Premier division: Atmictam v Entey. Statybridge v Runcom. Whitby v Guseley. First division: Eastwood v Selper, Hudinal v Hamogaie. Matico. v Bredford Park Averue; Radolfte v Almeton. NYMAN LEAGUE: Premier division: Attaction of Chestram (7.45): Hamow v St. Abors: Enteld v Hendon. First division: Leyton Pentant v Besthamster; Miclesey v Chestrey. Whyteleafe v Hickom, Worting v Grays Second division: Hend Hampstand v Wwentoe. Windsor and Elon v Wortingham. Third division: Epsom and Ewel v Ford Unit. On MARTENS LEAGUE: Southern division: Bashey v Ashrod, Hawan and Waterland: Bashey v Ashrod, Hawan and Waterland. sion: Bashley v Ashlord, Harani and Water-lockiev Dantord, Tonbridge Angels v St Le-onards, Midland division: Evesham v Blor-wich, Softrul Borough v Sutton Codfield, AYON RISURANCE COMBINATION: Stoke v Sunderland (7 0). LEAGUE OF WALES: Connah's Ouey Newtown (7 45) BCHWEPPES ESSEX SENIOR LEAGUE: Promier division: Hulbridge Sports v Southern Liveror. ARNOTT INSURANCE NORTH LEAGUE: ARNOTT INSURANCE NORTH LEAGUE: Premier division: Morgeth v Cornets WhistonLead Kent League: Premier division: Crockethil v Greenwich
Mitheriva Spartan South Midlands
League: Premier division: Beringsade v Brinsdoan: Buckingham Albede v Narracey, Westham Albedy v Russip Many:
BANKTS BREWERY LEAGUE: Premier division: Gornal v Westfelds. Kingron v Smeshanck Walsall Wood v Bandon.
JEWSON EASTERN COUNTIES
LEAGUE: Premier division: Halstead v
Falsenham JEWSON WESSEX LEAGUE: First divi-ators BAT'v Foretent, Morey Fields v Lym-ington and New Milton. UHLBPORT UNITED COUNTIES LEAGUE: Premier divisions Ford Sports v Long Briddy. Long Buckly BYTERLINK EXPRESS ALLIANCE: BYTERLINK EXPRESS ALLIANCE:

Bridgeoff v Wednesfed, Sentwell v Old-bury, Wilestell v Shinal SCREWFDX DIRECT LEAGUE: Premier SCHEWEK DRIECT LEASURE FRAMER HANDLE FRAMER PAUTON TALATON. NORTH WESTERN TRAINS LEAGUE. First drivings a temporal Colleges v St Helens, Marie Road v Ramsbottom, Rossand-do v Currence League Curr. First: Prescot Cables v Vauriet GM CRICKET

PPP county champlenship 11 0, first day of tour, 104 overs minimum TAUNTON: Somerset v Yorkshire 1 D. second day of four, 104 overs minimum CHESTER-LE-STREET: Durham V Hampsive
CHELMSFORD: Essex v Warwickshire
CARDIFF: Glamorgan v Sussex
SRISTOL: Glacostershire v Micclesea
CANTERBURY: Kent v Derbyshire
LEICESTER: LeiCesfershire v (unreashire

Lancashire NORTHAMPTON: Northamptonshire v Surrey TRENT SRIDGE: Nothinghamshire v Worcestershire SECOND XI CHAMPHONSHIP: Second day of three; Hove: Sussex v Gloucestership. Knowle and Donfdge: Warwickhire v Komedingshire. Wordester-knev Lacestershire. York: York: York: The Use of the Court Southerspitor. Hampishire v Keni. The Oval: Surrey v Easex.

RUGBY LEAGUE NATIONAL CONFERENCE LEAGUE: Pre-inter division: Wookston v Thombili (7 45). OTHER SPORT ROWING: Wingfield Scales (Pulmey Worldwe, 10)

SNOOKER

THE CRUCIBLE, Sheffield: Embersy world champtonship: Quarter-finels: R O'Sulfvan (Engl to J Perroti (Engl 13-9; M Whense (Noise) bit K Doheny (mp) 13-9 Latest positions: S Hendry (Scot) leads M Savers (Walse) 11-5; J Higgers (Scot) leads 6 Leads 6 Leads 6 Lead 11-5; J Higgers (Scot) Stavens (Wales) 11-5; leads 6 Lee (Eng) 11-5.

SOUASH

SQUASH

LNZ, Austria: European team champtonatio: First qualifying round: Mor. Pool A: Bootland 4 Switzerland 0 P Nool b. R Donesch 9-3, 8-1, 8-1; M Hestin to L Harms 9-7, 9-3, 5-9, 9-5; J Whas bit A Hotteregger 9-9, 9-1, 9-0; S Covie bit Y Del Termo 9-6, 9-5, 9-5, Finland 3 France 1. Pool B: England 3 Germany 1 (P Johnson lost to S France 9-2, 1-9, 9-3, 8-9, 6-9; C Watter bit O Izoucials 9-4, 9-1, 9-6, 1. Beacht in S Copolare 9-5, 9-9-1, Maries 3 Swedon 1 IA Gough to O Frailund 9-6, 10-9, 8-3, O Elevies bit A Thorat 9-1, 9-6, 9-7; G Topings bit O Jengtecker 10-8, 9-2, 9-4, G Denset lost to P Sposter 9-1, 9-6, 9-7; G Topings bit O Jengtecker 10-8, 9-2, 9-4, G Denset lost to P Sposter 10-8, 9-9, 9-9, 9-0 C: The Nettersands 4 Europe Denset 1, 9-2, 9-4; C Collins bit R Lima 9-4, 9-1, 9-4, J Rotorey bit F Lima 9-0, 9-3, 9-0) Pool E: Beigum 4 Beigers D, Ray 4 C rectine 1, 9-2, 9-1, 9-4, J Rotorey bit F Lima 9-0, 9-3, 9-0) Pool E: Segum 4 Beigers D, Ray 4 C rectine 1, 9-2, 9-3, 9-5, 9-2, C Westelst bit Y Causett B-10, 9-0, 9-3, 8-1; H Macris bit Y Harnes 9-0, 9-0, 9-3, 9-0 in E. Germany 3 France D: The Netherlands 3 Speiden 0 (P Harner bit J Wathberg 9-3, 9-5, 9-2, C Westelst bit T Harnes 9-0, 9-0, 9-3, 8-1; H Macris bit T Harnes 9-0, 9-0, 9-3, 9-0 in Cemmy 3 France D: The Netherlands 3 Speid D. Pool C: Switzerland 3 France D: Dend D: Instand 2 Austria 14, Blaku lost to P Pancts 2-9, 7-9, 6-9, 0 French bit Causett 15 Coll 97, 8-1, 9-7; L Mytote bit S Coll 97, 8-1, 9-7;

ATLANTA: ATAT Challenge: First round: M Rochigue: (Arg) bi P Raffar (Aus) 7-5, 7-5. S Grosjean (Fr) bi C Mamili (US) B-7, 7-5. -6-1. G Cares (Arg) bi S D'apper (Aus) 8-4. -6-3. S Koubek (Ausma) bi T Woodbindge (Aus) 6-2, 7-5, 4 Martin (Bi) bi T Labadze (Geo) 6-2, 46, 7-6. J Courser (US) bi M Testrom (Swe) 8-3, 8-4. MURBCH: Bervarien Masstera: Second round: V Sentopadre (II) bi A Voinea (Rom) 7-5, 7-5, 4 Pavel (Rom) bi D Passustu (Rom) 6-7, 5-0, 6-3. A Bersslegtu (Sp) bi B Karbacher (Gen) 8-4, 7-6; H Dreekmann (Gen) bi A Olamenn (Fr) 3-5, 8-2. B-1. HAMBURG GRANO PROC First round: A Glass (Gen) bi A Berna (Gen) 5-4, 7-5. A Namer (Lus) bi M Mansslea (Austria) 6-2, 6-2, C Mastinez (Sp) bi J Abe (Gen) 6-3, 8-2. A Costear (SA) bi V Resno-Pessous (Sp) bi M Senta (US) bi M Senta (Sp) 6-3, 6-1.

POOLS DIVIDENDS

BRITTENS: Treble chance: 23pts 5304.60. 22 CT 80.21 E1.00. Four draws: CB.70. Five aways: 50 40 Eight fromes: 537.60 LTTLEWOODS: Treble chance: 24pts 5114223.20, 23 £33070, 22 £53.00, 21 £13.75 Half-time results: 22 £3.370.80 Four draws: £11.52 Hire bonnes: £750.75 VERNOMS: Treble chance: £350.75 VERNOMS: Treble chance: £350.75 VERNOMS: Treble chance: £550.52 ZETTERS: Treble chance: £550.52 ZETTERS: Treble chance: £550.55 ZETTERS: Treble chance: £550.56 ZETTERS: Treble chance: £550.61 ZETTERS: £150.61 ZETTERS:

E RUBBY LEAGUE: Allan Langer, the long-serving Australia and Brisbane Broncos scrum half, has blamed a loss of form, which was evident against New Zealand last week, for his sudden retirement vesterday Langer, 32, who played 22 times for Australia, said: The toughest thing for players who have been lucky enough to enjoy a long career is knowing when to end it."

Bowls: Wales met tough opposition in their third and final international match against Botswana at Selibe-Phikwe vesterday, but managed to maintain their winning sequence with an 8-4 victory. In the opening singles tie, Ray Mascarenhas, who has represented Botswana for more than 20 years, fought back from 13-20 to beat Will Thomas, the 1990 Welsh champion, 25-24. Wales won the previous two matches 12-0 and 10-2 ECYCLING: Jon Clay is a last-minute replacement for the five-day Travelwise Tour (formerly the Tour of Lancashire) starting tonight in what will be the last big domestic race before the seven-day internacional Prutour in London on May 23. Clay was selected to ride with the Linda McCartney squad in the Circuit des Mines this week but withdrew because of sickness. TABLE TENNIS: The European Table Tennis

Union has decided to prevent Yugoslavia from competing in the European League or European Cup next season because of the ongoing crisis in the Balkans. A decisioo has still not been made on whether to allow Yugoslav teams at the European youth championships in the Czech Republic in July. The cancellation of the world championships in Belgrade has led to the individual event being moved to The

Olazabal tries to pick up pieces

FROM MEL WEBB IN TURIN

ONE supposes that the Fiat and Fila Italian Open will start today, somehow or another, but there is something about the Italian organisation for this venerable tournament that is at once disarming and totally, teethgrindingly, maddening, It was ever thus. Some aspects of the tournament are staged with military precision, but others bring to mind the phrase involving a brewing establishment and an inability to arrange a drinking party in it. They say a thousand words with one shrug of their bespoke shoulders, they tell you that things will be different tomorrow, or the day after, or next year. And it never is: and they are utterly charming, and they soothe even the most savage of breasts.

This is the 56th Italian Open, which boasts two present holders of major championships — Lee Janzen, who won the US Open for the second time last year, and José Maria Olazábal, who took his second Masters otle earlier this month - and they are backed up by two more who have seven titles between them. One of them, sadly, is unlikely to be a contender for the silverware. Severiano Ballesteros is gracing this tourna-ment with his presence, albeit a Seve with a slightly sore head as the aftershock of his brouhaha with wrong drops and their ilk at the Spanish Open last week continues to reverberate through the ranks.

The other major man is Bernhard Langer, and his per-formance is likely to depend on his state of health. Langer has spent sizeable chunks of his career afflicted by some malaise or another, and when he is poorly, he is at his most dangerous. If he wakes up this morning with a virus, the rest had better beware.

Meanwhile, Olazábal, who said last week that if he had been split into a thousand fragments there would still not have been enough to go round after his momentous deeds in Augusta, is slowly retrieving a few of the pieces.

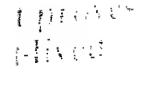

"I can't seem to get the adrenalin flowing again." he said. "Things are pretty flat. The only way I'm going to get out of it is to keep playing. I'll will be fine as soon as I get into contention in a tournament again."

You never know, it could be this week, but one of his putative leading rivals is a visiting fireman who is capable of dousing even the hottest challenge. Janzen comes into the tournament, his first regular European Tour event since 1993, after being in contention deep into the last day of the Masters before letting things slide on the back nine to finish tied in fourteenth place.

He claims to be happy to be spending a week in Italy and, no doubt, is, but one wonders if he would be within an ocean of Circologolf today were he not contracted to one of the title sponsors. An unworthy thought? Maybe; but almost certainly true.

Sky Sports 1, 1pm; Sky Sports 3, 7pm.

O'Sullivan accentuates the positive

IN HIS 16 years as a professional, John Parrott has seen more than most and he is deservedly respected both on and off the table. The affable Liverpudlian is also an admirer of the way that Ronnie O'Sullivan plays his snooker.

They say it's a travesty that Jimmy White has never won this, but it would be an even bigger travesty if Ronnie never got to lift the trophy." Parrott, beaten 13-9 by O'Sullivan in the quarter-finals of the Embassy world championship, said yesterday.

"In my opinion Ronnie is the most naturally talented player ever to pick up a cue." he said. "The problem is that he's not focused all the time." In lesser events it is true that O'Sullivan often finds motivation, and the concentration that follows, difficult to generate, but that has never been a concern at the Crucible Theatre.

"I'm getting bursts when for four or five frames I feel unbeatable, so it's just a case of minimising the bad spells," O'Sullivan said. "1 know I can play better but ! don't have to play my best. Grit, determination and attitude are just as important."

O'Sullivan resumed yester-day with an 11-5 lead, but correctly anticipated a Parrott backlash. In losing four of the first five frames of the concluding session. O'Sullivan only potted two reds while the 1991 world champion compiled breaks of 54, 40, 97 and 93 in rallying to 12-9.

By Phil Yates

Parrott had the momenturn, but, presented with the initial scoring opportunity in the next frame, he suffered a kick on an otherwise routine red to a middle pocket. It caught the jaw. O'Sullivan made 32 and eventually doubled the last red to repel Parrott's spirited challenge.

"That's as good a result as I've ever had in my career. John is always so tough to beat," O'Sullivan, defeated in six of their previous eight meetings, said.

His semi-final opponent looks set to be Stephen Hendry, who, remaining unper-turbed by a burglary in his hotel room, carried a commanding 11-5 advantage into his third session against Matthew Stevens.

Most of Hendry's shoes and casual clothes were taken, as was a video recorder. but his cue, which lay in its case on the bed at the time of the intrusion, was ignored, along with his dress suits.

Hendry, whose cue was stolen and returned on payment of a £10,000 reward during the 1990 Grand Prix, had runs of 48, 60 and 81 in pulling away from Stevens. but his most important contribution was the outstanding 58 clearance with which he stole the fifteenth frame on advantage over Stephen Lee. even though his standard of play dipped considerably from that which transported him to an 8-0 lead on Tuesday. The solitary highlight was a 124 break, his fifth century of the championship. Lying in wait for the titleholder is Mark Williams, who, like O'Sullivan, endured some anxious stretches before converting an 11-5 overnight lead into a 13-9 win over Ken Doherty, the 1997 champion and runner-up last year.

LINKS

- official tournament site TELEVISION: 8BC1, 2.30pm. 88C2, 3.30, 6.45, 9.50pm

Vaulters rage at handling offence pole vaulters get up to when they are halfway to heaven and ready to freefall back to earth? We can see them when they bend the pole, but it's not so easy to catch them if they bend the rules.

At the moment, the high-fliers of the pole-vaulting world are involved in a furious row over rules. The problem is that every so often pole vaulters pull off a trick that seems to be completely impossible.

While flying through the air, they will knock off the crossbar as they try to clear it and then, in a split second, they will replace it on its pegs. This technique is known as "Volzing" after Dave Volz, of the United States, who used to do it regularly.

At the world indoor championships at Maebashi, Japan, last month, Jean Galfione, of France, the 1996 Olympic champion, became only the fourth pole vaulter to clear six metres indoors, but he nearly missed out on his winner's medal and prize-money when he was accused of Volzing.

Jeit Hartwig, ine funner-u and his United States team officials said that the Frenchman should have been disqualified because he put a hand on the bar. Hartwig reckoned that not only was he robbed of his title, but of the $50,000 prize-money that went with it. Volzing has been illegal for more than a year, but the rule

GARNIT POINT

From the edge of the New World,

a new, dry, spicy full-bodied red.

is a foul if a vaulter deliberately, with his hands or fingers, tries to replace a bar about to fall from the supports.

Galfione admitted that he had touched the bar, but said that he had not done it deliberately. The judges agreed. "I feel sorry for Jeff," Galfione said. "The law is stupid, but the law is the law."

In the wake of the row, the International Amateur Athletic Federation is recommending that the rule be changed to state that any vaulter who places a hand on the bar will be disqualified, irrespective of whether they seem to be replacing it or not.

A lot of vaulters think that this is madness. Even Hartwig, the runner-up in pan, nas got away with nan dling the bar in the past. "Once, when I was young, the bar flew off and whacked me on the chest," he said. "So I think it's a natural reflex to put your arm out to block the bar."

For free-spirited vaulters. the no-hands rule stinks. "Should vaulters place their hands behind their backs or that outlaws it specifies that it maybe wave to the crowd instead?" one asked. "We should get rid of this stupid rule unless we are also prepared to disqualify high jumpers who steady a trembling crossbar with their posteriors or their

GARNET POINT

Of all the events in modern track and field, the pole vault is probably the most spectacular. It is certainly the most dangerous. It is a glamour event combining the grace of the gymnast, the strength of a weightlifter, the daring of a skydiver and the precision of a

It is also ever-changing. It has been in the modern Olympics since the start in 1896, but its equipment and techniques have propelled it beyond the dreams of its pioneers. Next year. Sydney will see women vaulters in the Olympics for the first time. Right from the start, pole vaulters were up to some peculiar tricks. An account from the 1870s tells of a small acrobat who could beat any pole vaulter by the simple process of clambering up the pole like a monkey once it was poised vertically.

That we do know is that top English vaulters used to climb the pole by shifting their handgrip. One of these climbers, Tom Ray, who was seven times the AAA's champion, went to the United States in 1887 and won their national championship by clearing a height of 11ft Kin. The Americans outlawed the technique. though the British still allowed it until after the end of World War I.

Those were the days of unforgiving poles made of hickory, ash or spruce, with a weighted iron tip. The vaulter would cross the bar in a sitting position and, if he was lucky, land on grass clippings or sawdust. Just after the turn of the century, they began to experiment with bamboo poles that were lighter and would flex when planted in the ground. When the record reached 14ft in 1927, it was hailed as 'man's ultimate height". Bamboo ruled the world of vaulting until metal poles appeared in the 1940s. The advent of fibreglass poles in the 1960s saw records improve out of all recognition and today's king of the vaulters, Sergei Bubka, of Ukraine,

The technique of vaulting in its early years was dictated by the inflexible poles that the athletes had to use soars regularly over man's new "ultimate height" of 20ft. To most speciators, the thought of sprinting down a runway before trying to plant a 17ft pole into a small hole to catapult skywards is terrifying. It is easy enough to identify with other events - such as running, jumping, throwing and swimming — but pole vaulting is unfathomable. These daredevils who fly without wings are a rare breed. That they should be cool and skilled enough in mid-vault to reach out and stroke a trembling crossbar is breathtakingly athletic. Far from being penalised for this, they should be applauded. When you are hanging 20ft in the air and attempting the impossible, you need all the helping hands you can get.

JOHN BRYANT | black queen is lost.

WORD-WATCHING Answers from page 46

ORCHIL (b) A red or violet dye prepared from certain lichens, especially Roccella tinctoria. PLICHTANKER

(a) The main anchor of a ship. From the Low German and then the Dutch plechtanker. the principal or chief anchor that holds a ship. POPVISIT

(a) A short, hasty, or unannounced visit in which one pops in. NOUTHETICAL (b) Monitory, warning. From the ancient Greek.

SOLUTION TO WINNING MOYE Rxg7! Kxg7 2 Rg3+ Kh7 (2 ... Kh8 3 Nxf7+) 3 Qc2+ and the TELEVISION CHOICE

Same space, worlds apart

BBC2, 9pm

A big new series offering "a natural history of the solar system", no less. Leaving aside the fact that there is no consensus about he whole thing started, let us be grateful for a guided tour of what there is out there, seen in ever-increasing detail since the first interplanetary probes were sent out. more than 40 years ago. The first film, Different Worlds, asks agenda-setting questions about the differences between the nine planets orbiting the Sun. Why are the outermost ones gaseous monsters and the innermost small and rocky? Why is the Earth's core made up of nickel and iron, and Jupiter's of metallic hydrogen? The series charms the eye even when boggling the mind with science.

Grand Designs Channel 4, 8pm

Kevin McCloud, an interior designer and author, presents an eight-part series about people who both design and build their "dream homes". He has a slightly abrasive manner but he is refreshingly straightforward about the couple featured tonight. Tim and Julia, who have a windswept clifftop size near Newhaven in East Sussex, want to build a home in just three months Sussex, want to brild a home in just three mornins so that Julia's expected child can be born in the new house. How the "pathologically" optimistic (his own description) Tim and Julia cope with the inevitable obstacles and budget over-runs, face up to the shortcomings of their kit-house supplier and the effects of their own rather naive planning, makes a satisfying hour's viewing.

Stars and Cars Channel 5, 8pm

Henry Cole writes, directs and presents this light-hearted show, which is no more than a collection of interviews with the rich and famous, focusing on their cars. An entertaining session with Jamiroquai singer Jay Kay and two of his Ferraris at Goodwood is prefaced by a chat to Lord March, the circuit owner, in a prototype AC

"Kiss me, Cleopatra", "Sod off, Anthony!". A quote, not from Shakespeare, but from Nan Woodhouse's two-hander. It is performed by Timothy West and Julia McKenzie as husband and wife and actors, who have drifted apart. He proposes that they should reunize to perform a pot-pourri of dialogues. Although his intention is to effect a reconciliation, some of their off-stage exchanges are not designed to achieve that end. She: "You could play Humpty Dumpty". He: "You're a little no old for Alice". She: "But not for the Red Queen. Off with his head!". Encore could not have been written by someone who knew nothing about the theatre and the illusory creatures who populate it — and cannot stop acting, even off stage.

The Afternoon Play: Encore

Jupiter and its nearest moon, Io, are featured in The Planets (BBC2, 9pm) designed by his father. After coaxing Jay Kay to talk about his sex life he is off for lunch with the Mercedes sports car-driving supermodel Caprice. Then follows banter with singer Richard Fairbrass of Right Said Fred fame, who is not too sexy to drive a Porsche, and two of Britain's star sprinters, who favour the MGF and the Ford Puma.

Sky One, 8.30pm

Said to be the most popular comic strip in the world, reaching 150 million readers daily, with spin-off bestsellers and its own World Wide Web Size (which attracts 4 million visits monthly), the cartoon by Scott Adams has now become an animated series which will surely emulate the success of The Simpsons and South Park. In fact, since Dilbert, though sophisticatedly cynical about the world, is never as "sick" as South Park, it has much broader appeal. It is furney, literate much broader appeal. It is furny, literate, beautifully observed. For those who haven't seen the strip, it features nerdy Dilbert, an engineer for The Company, his dog Dogbert (much smarter than he is), his Scrabble-mad mother, Dilmom, colleagues Wally, Alice and Loud Howard, and The Pointy Haired Boss.

Tony Patrick

RADIO CHOICE

The Circle

Radio 4. II-30am

Elizabeth Baines's comedy series gets off to a promising start. It isn't every writer who in the space of a little under 30 minutes can juggle with three married couples, their respective children and their attempts to strike a balance between parenthood, neighbourhood and livelihood. Episode one lays down the groundplan for what will be the series's principal preoccupation — the plan to set up a babysitting circle on a housing estate where, as someone says, there isn't a child-minding teenager in sight. There seems to be little chance of this circle being squared. Especially good in a cast that includes Sherrie Hewson, are the little 'uns who are fated to be the catalysts in this experiment in mutualism.

Peter Davalle

BBC WORLD SERVICE

S.00am The World Today 7.00 World News 7.15 Outlook 7.55 My Century 9.00 World News 8.05 World Susiness Report 8.15 Insight 8.30 Assignment 9.00 World News 9.05 From Our Own Correspondent 9.20 Off the Shelf: Frankenstein 9.35 The Worlds 10.00 World News 10.05 Understanding Cancer 10.20 Andy Kershaw's World Off Masic 10.50 Sports Round-Up 11.00 Newsdeek 11.30 Britain Today 11.48 World Business Report 12.00 Newsdeek 12.30pm Assignment 1.00 World News 1.05 Outlook 1.45 Sports Round-Up 2.00 Newshour 2.00 World News 3.05 The Worlds 3.30 Meridian Books 4.00 World News 4.05 Sports Round-Up 4.15 Westway 4.30 The Greenfield Collection 5.00 Europe Today 5.30 World Business Report 5.45 Insight 8.00 Newdesk 6.30 Record News 6.45 Sports Round-Up 7.00 World News 7.15 Britain Today 7.30 Assignment 8.00 World News 1.55 Britain Today 7.30 Assignment 8.00 World News 8.05 The Worlds 8.30 Science On A Plate 8.45 Off the Shelf: Frankenstein 9.00 Newshour 10.00 World News 10.05 World Business Report 10.20 Britain Today 10.30 Meridian Books 11.00 World News 11.5 Sports Round-Up 11.30 Blues World 12.00 World News 12.05am Outlook 12.45 Insight 1.00 The World Today 2.30 World Business Report 3.45 Insight 4.00 The World Today 4.20 Sports Round-Up 4.30 The World Today 4.30 World Business Report 3.45 Insight 4.00 The World Today 4.20 Sports Round-Up 4.30 The World Today 4.30 Sports Round-Up 4.30 The World Today 5.30 World Business Report 3.45 Insight 4.00 The World Today 5.30 World Sports Round-Up 4.30 The World Today 5.30 World Sports Round-Up

Report 3.45 Insight 4.00 The World Today 4.20 Sports Round-Up 4.30 The World Today

CLASSIC FM

6.00em Nick Beiley's Easier Breaklest. A selection of rousing music to start the day 9.00 Henry Kelly. The Half of Ferne Hour and CD of the Week 12.00 Lunchtime Requests. Jane Jones presents tavourite music 2.00pm Concerto. Vieuxternos (Cello Concerto No. 1 In A minor) 3.00 Jamie Crick. Continuous

RADIO 1 (BBC)

6.30am Chris Moyles 9.00 Smon Mayo 12.00 Jo Whiley 2.00pm Mark Raddittle 4.00 Dave Pearce 5.45 Newsbeat 6.00 Dave Pearce 9.00 Steve Lamacq: The Evening Session 10.00 The Global Update 10,10 John Peal, Musical treats 12.00 Andy Karshaw 2.00am Crive Warren 4.00 Scott Mills

RADIO 2 (BBC)

5.00am Sarah Kennedy 7.30 Wake Up to Wogan 9.30 Ken Bruce 12.00 Jimmy Young 2.00pm Ed Stewen 5.05 Richard Allinson 7.00 Bob Harris Country 5.00 Paul Jones 9.00 Take it Easy: California Cool (8/6) 9.30 The News Huddines 10.00 Boogie-Woogie with George Melly (2/5) 10.30 Lynn Parsons. Favourite tunes 12.00 Katrina Leskanich 3.00am Alex Lester

RADID 5 LIVE (BBC)

5.00am Morring Reports 6.00 Breaklast 9.00 Nicky Campbell 12.00 The Midday Naws 1.00pm lan Payne. The latest sports news and gossip 4.00 Drive 7.00 Naws Edra 7.30 Wembley, the Church of Footbell (4/4) 9.00 Inside Edge 9.00 Hoops 9.30 Sportshop 10.00 Late Night Live. Presented by Bhan Hayes, including a sports round-up and The Financial World Tonight 1.00am Up All Night. News from around the world

TALK RADIO

6.00em The Big Boys Breekfast 9.00 Scott Chisholm 12.00 Justice With Jacobs 1.00pm Anna Reeburn 4.00 The Sports Zone 7.00 One to One with Andy Gray 8.00 Jackie Mason Live from New York 10.00 James Whate 1.00em Ian Collins

VIRGIN

6.30em The Breaklast Show 9.30 Russ Williams 1.00pm Nick

Abbot 4.00 Harriet Scott 6.45 Pete and Geoff 10.00 Gary Davies 1.00mm Richard Alien 4.30 Phil Kennedy

6.00am On Air With Petroc Trelawny, including a report from Birmingham on a community performance of Philip Glass's opera Salvagraha, about Gendle 9.00 Mesterworks With Peter Hobday. John Foulds

RADIO 3

Concerto No 1 In A minor) 3.00 Jamie Crick. Continuous Classics and Afternoon Romence 6.30 Newsnight. The letest headlines and sport updates 7.00 Smooth Classics at Seven. John Brunning Introduces classic sounds 9.00 Evening Concert. Brahms (Academic Festival Overture); Tchallovsky (Romeo and Juliet); Mozart (Clarinet Concerto in A); Beethoven (Symphony No 7 in A) 11.00 Mann at Night. A chance to wind down with the sound of ambient music 2.00am Concerto (r) 3.00 Mark Griffiths. The Early Breakfast Show under Martyn Brabbins. Thomas Ades (These Premises Are Alermed); Mexwell Davies (Symphony No 5); 8.05 Anglophiles. 8.25 Concert. Birtwistle, arr Berkeley (Love Cries, The Second Mrs Kong; Endless Parede)

Philip Glass's opera Salvagraha, about Gandhi
9.00 Masterworks With Peter Hobday. John Foulds (April-England); 9.08 Corelli (Concerto grosso in C, Op 6 No 10); 9.21 Copland (Suite, Billy the Kid); 9.42 Mozart (Horn Concerto No 1 in D, K412); 9.52 Rubbra (Symphony No 8, Hornege to Teilhard de Chardin); 10.17 Corelli (Concerto grosso in B flat, Op 6 No 11)
10.30 Artist of the Week Clarinetist Emma Johnson 11.00 Sound Stories Richard Baker looks at the history of the poet of Master of the King's Music 12.00 Composer of the Week: Durise Ellington
1.00pm The Radio 3 Lunchtime Concert Lown
Blake, cello, Iwan Llewellyn-Jones, piano. Faure (Cello Sonata No 1 in D minor, Op 109); Schumann, arr Gendron (Three Romances, Op 94); Martinu (Cello Sonata No 2) (r)
2.00 The BBC Orchestras BBC Phillharmonic. Enescu (Romanian Rhapsody No 1: under Gennadi Rozhdestvensky); Grieg (Piano Concerto in A minor: under Yan Pascal Torteller); Enescu (Romanian Rhapsody No 2 in D; Symphony No 3 in C; under Gennadi Rozhdestvensky)
4.00 The Plano Piers Lane profiles Maurizo Poliini
5.00 In Turne The legacy of Duke Ellington
7.30 Performance on 3 Live from the Festival Hall,
London, Valdine Anderson, soprano, Susan
Bickley mezzo Peter Bronder Hones BBC SO

Concert. Birtwestis, am Berkeley (Love Cries, The Second Mrs Kong: Endless Parade)

9.20 Postscript What makes a great musical setting?

9.40 Smetana Three Poetic Polkas (Andres Schiff)

10.00 Music Restored Robert Holizogworth looks at some of the beast Handel recordings

11.00 Night Waves in The Political Lives of Dead Bodies, anthropologis! Katherine Verdery examines the lives of Bela Bartok and Prince Lasa of Serbia. Paul Allen discusses her findings

11.30 Jazz Notas Alyn Shipton Invites author Claire Gordon, producer George Avakian and bassis! Jimmy Woode to recall Duke Ellington's file

12.00 Through the Night Including 12.05 Szymanowski (Prelude in C sharp minor): 12.25 Sibelius (Masonic Ritual Music): 12.50 Lishander (Divertimento No 1): 1.00 Rossmi (Overtura, The Thleving Magple); Liszt (Piano Concerto No 2 In A); Dvorak (Symphony No 7): 2.10 Eckhard (Menuet d'exaudet and Variations); 2.30 J.C. Bach (Quintet in F): 2.40 Hummel (Inumpet Concertoin E fiet): 3.00-4.00 Schools: Music Workshop; 3.20 Let's Movel; 3.40 Words Alivei; 3.55 Drama; 4.10 Listen and Write; 4.30 Rameau (Pieces de clavecin, Book 2); 4.55 Gal (Serenade for strings). 5.15 Thuille (Seadet in B fiat); 5.45 Marais (Tombeau de M Lufly); Cavalli (La calisto, excerpt)

5.30am World News 5.35 Shipping Forecast 5.40 Inshore Forecast
5.45 Prayer for the Day With Pastor Lindsay Allen
5.47 Farming Today Rural issues, with Anna Hill
6.00 Today With John Humphrys and James Naughbe.
Including Thought for the Day, with Indarjit Singh
8.35 (LW) Yesterday in Parliament Political round-up 6.00 Melvyn Bragg: In Our Time Guests join Melvyn Bragg to consider ideas and events which have influenced the present age

London. Valdine Anderson, soprano, Susan

Bickley, mezzo, Peter Bronder, tenor, BBC SO

Bragg to consider ideas and events which have influenced the present age 9.30 Billed Men on the Rampage What Colour is Marcon, Anyway? Peter White's perspective on life without sight, exploring the world through sound, touch, smell and the help of others (2/5) 9.45 [FM] Serfals Nethrandi's Nottmag Ben Onwukwe reads the fourth extract from Giles Milton's tale 9.45 (LW) Daily Service 10.00 Woman's Hour With Jenni Murray and guests. Premar nert form of Postcards by Nick Dailye

11.00 The Circle See Choice

12.00 The Circle See Choice

13.00 The Circle See Choice

14.00 The Circle See Choice

12.00 (FM) News
12.00 (LW) News Headlines; Shipping Forecast 12.04pm You and Yours Consumer news and investigations, presented by John Waite and Liz Barday
1.00 The World at One With Nick Clarks
1.30 One Country With Echael 1.30 Open Country With Richard Unidge 2.00 The Archers (r)

2.00 The Archers (r)
2.15 Afternoon Play: Encore By Nan Woodhouse.
With Julia McKenzie. See Choice
3.00 Call You and Yours: 0970 070 0444
3.28 Radio 4 Appeal Jeremy Irons speeks on behalf of the Prader-Will Syndrome Association (r)
3.30 Naming the Universe (4/5)
3.45 This Sceptred Isle Namited by Anna Massey (r)
4.00 Nice Work Presented by Alson Mitchell

4.30 The Material World Trevor Phillips meets the scientists who claim to have invented one of the world's most slippery surfaces
5.00 PM With Clare English and Eddie Mair
6.00 St. O'Clock News
6.30 That Reminds Me Ned Sherrin looks back on his entertaining career. Last in the series (6/5)
7.00 The Archers The latest events in Ambridge
7.15 Front Row Arts round-up with Francine Stock
7.45 Postcards Nick Darke's drama, starring Diana Bernman, Emma Rice and Carl Grose. Broadcast earlier as part of Worman's Hour th earlier as part of Wornan's Hour (r) 8.00 United Inshman Feargal Keane recalls the furbulent life of Wolfe Tone, the Protestant founding lether of Irish republicanism (r) 8.30 The Week in Westminster Michael Crick takes 8 look behind the scenes 8.00 Connect Quentin Cooper investigates precision taming and its improcessing the reliage

9.30 Melvyn Bragg: In Our Time (r)
10.00 The World Tonight With Robin Lusting
10.45 Book at Bedtime: The Service of Clouds Joanna David reads part nine of Susan Hill's novel
11.00 Late Night on 4; Do Go On Griff Rhys Jones, Graeme Garden and Melanie Hudson join Analay
Elliot in a satirical discussion on travel (5/6) 11.30 (FM) Your Place or Mine? Report on the Cariobean women who travelled to Canada to become domestic workers in the 1960s. Last in the series (5/5) (r)

11.30 (LW) Today in Perliament Political round-up

am The Late Book: Biggest Eivis Ron Bergiss reads part nine of P.F. Kuge's novel about times Ews impersonators working in the Philippines

FREQUENCY GUIDE. RADIO 1. FM 97.6-99.8. RADIO 2. FM 88.0-90.2. RADIO 3. FM 90.2-92.4. RADIO 4. FM 92.4-94.6; LW 198; MW 720. RADIO 6 LIVE. MW 693, 909. WORLD SERVICE. MW 648; LW 198 (12.45-5.55ml) CLASSIC FM, FM 100-102. VIRGIN RADIO. FM 105.8; MW 1197, 1215. TALK RADIO. MW 1053, 1089. Television and radio listings compiled by Perry Cleveland-Peck, Ian Hughes, Gillian Maxey, Jane Gregory and Barry O'Keefe

 312 1.50 . . 1.

127- 4

40 :---

15. gr

$34_{843.24}

WALES

AM Eacht Co.

inter here y.

A. Viene

. . .

10.3

10 30 15.35 11.75 17 30 100 12 30 112.30 V 10

4-14-15-17 9.30-9.35 7 30pm 100 (30

Consiste Fig. Consiste Consist 30 The Three Lane c 11.60 Lates w 12.53 are The "-Alberta Chart (Type SKY CINEMA S DC Tarage's Fight F

TOTAL PRINCE PAR PER LIBER LAND 4 - Sect 1980 FILMFOLIR Car. 200 L 1977

796 (1964) (2.15) (2.15) (2.15) 14 125 PETER 14 $ %

Stragger (166) Water Bushin 102 Comm SKY SPORTS !

Community Course Till Course T Terms Tax . 2 X 2

A STATE OF THE STA

SKY SPORTS 2

Laugh, but in the privacy of your own home are walking past one of those sex shops in Amsterdam and the window is full of moulded-latex-and-stainless-steel contraptions that are so bizarre that it takes you six minutes to figure out what they might be used for and a further ten to work out who might possibly want to use it for that purpose? That is much the same level of bemusement that fills me when confronted by a TV screen featuring Hale and Pace. Who could possibly find these two

RYDAY APRIL DI

Worlds apan

And then, having returned from The Netherlands, you are sitting around a dinner table telling some friends about this scary sex aid you spotted in an Amsterdam shop window, and how you have been trying to work out what kind of person might use such a device, when suddenly your mouth goes dry because it has occurred to you that somebody must be using

88C1

9.45 Celebrity Ready, Steady, Cook (r) (T) (841349)

6.00am Business Breakfast (91097)

7.00 BBC Breakfast News (T) (37726)

10.15 The Vanessa Show (T) (1649946)

11.00 News; Weather (T) (5322146) .11.05 City Hospital (T) (9532875)

11.55 News; Weather (T) (5390338)

12.00 Going for a Song (7188225)

1.00 News; Weather (T) (30813)

5.33 Rewind (1) (418287) .

7.30 EastEnders (T) (436)

8.00 Animal Hospital (1) (4707)

eather (T) (1078)

5.35 Naighbours (f) (7) (731894) .

6.30 Regional News Magazina (252)

6.00 Six O'Clock News; Weather (T) (900)

7.00 Watchdog: On the House Adrian Chiles

8.30 Supernatural: The Unseen Power of Animals (1) (6542) 9.90 Nine O'Clock News; Regional News;

9.30 Party Political Broadcast By the Conservative party (T); Weather (719349)

More romantic escapades with the quarrelsome foursome (9.35pm)

dump his old girtfriend in lavour of Debs. Comedy senes, with Martin Clunes, Neil

Caroline Quentin and Leslie

9.35 Men Behaving Badly Tony decides to

10.00 They Think It's All Over (T) (88374)

10.30 The Frank Skinner Show w (T) (18542)

12.05am Hurry Sundown (1967) Melodrama locusing on the economic and racial tensions affecting a small community in

MATERIAL

9.00am-9.45 Election Call (1/4) (9461542)

6.30-7.00 Wales Today (T) (252) 9.30-9.35 Party Election Broadcast (T) (719349)

m-2.25 News (T) (5111092(

post-Second World War America. Michael Came stars. Directed by Otto

Ash (r) (T) (724146)

11.00 Question Time (T) (809184)

Preminger (35729127)

2.25 BBC News 24 (86458769)

2.20 Weather (51(1092)

17

visits the homes of Lottery winners, and travels to a housing estate in Glasgow with a rather unusual problem (T) (1287)

12.25pm Just a Minute (T) (4938702)

12.55 The Weather Show (T) (11022900)

2.00 Through the Keyhole (T) (7271) 2.30 Snooker: World Championship The opening session of the first semi-final.

1.30 Regional News; Weather (58460252) 1.40 Neighbours | (T) (95675691)

Commentary by Clive Eventon (7055146) 3.25 Children's BBC: Playdays (8912148) 3.45 Chucklewood Critters (2909184)

4.10 Alvin and the Chipmunks (1753368)

4.20 Julia Jekyil and Harriet Hyde (5389558) 4.35 Goosebumps (7900691) 5.00 Newsround (5949788) 5.10 Miami 7

9.00 Kilroy (T) (9461542)

these things — otherwise why make them? — and maybe that somebody is one of your dining companions. Possibly, it is this same person who also likes Hale

Nobody admits to using the spookier sex aids, just as nobody admits to finding Hale and Pace funny. But there must be people who laugh at Hale and Pace in the privacy of their own homes. Why else would the BBC have squandered so much money on luring this pair of jokers (I'm not using this word in the same sense as they might use it of themselves) from ITV? Look around you now, in your Tube train or at the neighbouring desks in your office: statistically, some of these men and women must be closet Hale and Pace fans. You will never be able to avoid these people completely. Just by to keep a safe distance. Just how dispiriting was the opening show of Hale and Pace's

7.00am Children's BBC Breekfast Show:

Dem Children's BBC Breekfast Show:
Noddy in Toyland (39184) 7.30 Top Cat
(8411417) 7.55 Blue Peter (8759610)
8.20 Dastardly and Muttley (8474981)
8.40 Polka Dot Shorts (3957900) 8.50 Tales of Aesop (3953184) 8.58 Tales from the Net (1595691) 9.00 Job Bank (4575829) 9.10 Watch Out (9014320)

(45/50/29) 10 Watch (78/57436) 9.45 Come Outside (7845691) 10.00 Children's BBC; Teletubbles (84146) 10.30
Storytime (3400436) 1tz.45 Tha
Experimenter (9922417) 11.05 Space Ark

(5343639) 11.15 Zig Zag (1395981) 11.35 Pathways of Belief (2753900) 11.50 Susanne (2747349) 12.10pm The

Geography Programme (7297504) 12.28
Tales from the Net (8766097) 12.30
Working Lunch (24691)
1.00 Children's BBC: Just So Stories

1.10 The Countryside Hour (1) (1204233)

2.10 Wildlife Showcase (r) (T) (89376981)

3.30 Snooker: World Championship Semi-final coverage (741233)

6.00 Star Trek: Deep Space Nine A Bajoran village is attacked by a mysterious destructive energy force (r) (T) (660184)

6.45 Snooker: World Championship The Ray Mears encounters danger on

India's Coromandel coast (8pm)

survivalist learns to lish with the people of the Vadabalija tribe (r) (T) (2349)

8.00 Ray Mears' World of Survival The

9.00 CHOICE The Planets New series exploring the enigmas of the

9.50 Snooker: World Championship Semi-final coverage (319981)

10.30 Party Political Broadcast By the

12.30am BBC Learning Zone: OU: Insights into Violence (32924) 1.00 Which Body?

1.30 The Psychology of Addiction (73914) 2.00 Further Education: Psychology (61635) 4.00 Teaching Film and Media: An Ideal Husband (98059) 5.00 Business and Training: Web Wiss (3706740) 5.45 Open Hobershir Women at the Wise (2210498)

University: Women at the Wire (2210498)

6.1ti Out of the Melting Pot (4982301)

WALES

7.30pm Ray Mears' World of Survival (r) (T) (338) 8.00-8.30 Shop Talk (2349) 10.30-10.35 Party Election Broadcast (102558)

solar system (T) (342252)

Conservative party (102558)

11.28 Tales from the Net (T) (979962)

11.30 Wildlife on Two (r) (T) (257252)

11.55 Holiday Weather (766610)

12.00 Despatch Box (53905)

10.35 Newsnight (T) (541788)

8.30 Top Gear (T) (4184)

second semi-final (311953)

7.30 Out and About New series (338)

2.40 News; Weather (T) (8787233)

3.25 News; Weather (T) (5273271)

2.45 Westminster (T) (5533165)

new variety series. h&p@bbc (BBCl)? So dispiriting that the Radio Times couldn't even bring itself to recommend it to readers. Maybe Hale and Pace are experi-menting with a very avant-garde sense of humour, pitching themselves as the Surrealist Ionescos of BBC Light Entertainment by producing a comedy show that has no obvious comedy in it at all.

nd what's with that title (all A lower case, note, which shows that Hale and Pace have done their homework and are therefore now as Web-smart as, say, the average nine-year-old)? Gareth was wondering that, too. "So it's not." said Gareth mockingly to Norman, hoping to draw the sting by getting in before us, "actually a vain attempt by two fat, middle-aged comedian blokes to look vaguely trendy and com-puter-aware?" But if not that, then what was it? Maybe Hale and

HTV WEST

5.30am ITV Morning News (81977)

10.30 This Morning (T) (49664691) 12.15pm HTV News (T) (7527875)

12.55 Shortland Street (1217707)

2.40 Wheel of Fortune (T) (2571146)

5.00 Home and Away (r) (T) (3691)

6.25 Party Election Broadcast By Conservative Party (943078)

6.30 ITV Evening News; Weather (1) (320)

Kathy (Malandra Burrows) confronts Chris (Peter Amory) (7pm)

7.30 A Constanting Passion An insight into the work of Orchard Lodge near Taunton, one of the UK's few units for youngsters

8.00 The Bill The Jury retire (o consider their

9.00 The Last Train The survivors discover a

Christopher Fulford (5/6) (T) (1320)

10.00 Tonight with Trevor McDonald Safety

11.00 ITV Nightly News; Weather (T) (468146)

11.20 HTV News and Weather (T) (353875)

12.00 Public Morals (r) (7884498)

1.20 Cyber Cafe (r) (1743045)

3.10 Cybernet (84906214)

4.30 Coach (r) (83378479)

1.50 Trainspotters (7/13) (2661295)

2.45 Box Office America (4541214)

3.40 Murder, She Wrote (2300363)

4.50 ITV Nightscreen (3818672)

11.30 A Trip in the Cosmic Buggy From

12.35am Tha Jerry Springer Show American talk show (T) (9712059)

Dellers Wharf in Taunton (T) (57964)

tears surrounding airbags (T) (1707)

self-sufficient community in the barren countryside. Part five of the apocalyptic drama series, with Nicola Walker and verdict on DS Boulton (7) (1184)

7.00 Emmerdale (T) (3455)

5.29 HTV Crimestoppers (943078)

5.30 Pleasure Guide (T) (455)

5.58 HTV Weather (319962)

6.00 HTV News (T) (697252)

3.15 HTV News (T) (5271813)

3.10 ITV News Headlines (T) (5272542)

3.20 CTIV: Maisy (5278726) 3.25 The Adventures of Dewdle (5268349) 3.35 The Sylvester and Tweety Mysteries (5016707) 3.50 Lavender Castle (5020900) 4.05 Hey Amold! (7588523) 4.30 Children's Ward (875)

8.00 GMTV (2304252)

9.25 Trisha (T) (3057523)

REVIEW

Pace don't mind handing their au-The show itself was a ragbag of

Joe

dience a stick with which to beat them, because this would at least imply that they have an audience. sweepings from those ideas rejected by other variety shows. In a pointless quiz, the competitors -Tony Blackburn, the Eurovision singer Kattina Leskanich, and the DJ Jonathan Coleman (the only redeeming presence in the show)

- answered questions that were neither interesting nor amusing. For a pop quiz, contestants from the audience had to listen to snat-ches of music while immersing their heads in a tank of water: was there any reason for this, other than the fact that the person who devised this game had the IQ of semolina? After that, for no apparent reason, a traffic warden from tslington appeared naked for us -a "Naked Civil Servant". But he wasn't a civil servant, was he? The "comedy" due thought it would be amusing to go to Scot-land to see just how songy the Scots are by entering shops in Perth and demanding that they be given things free. This left the shopkeepers with the choice of either looking tight-listed, or of being intimidated by two "comedians" and their film crew who - uninvited were recording the shopkeepers' reactions for the BBC. This seg-ment ended with us being allowed to watch Gareth urinating from under his newly acquired, freebie kili: maybe there was a punchline here, but I couldn't see it. Or maybe we could see it, but it was just very, very small. We all look forward to next week, when Hale and Pace might explore other stereotypes (blacks? Jews? Germans?) to similar hilarious effect.

s for the celebrity Stars in

A their Eyes in which Anthea "it's time for another image change" Turner confessed (only jokingly) to being an egomaniac. before regaling us in the guise of Shane MacGowan, the thought foremost in your mind was: who advises this woman on her PR? Compared with this, listening to Mark Urban tell us on Leviathan (BBC2) that the Good Friday agreement is not all that dissimilar to the Sunningdale agreement which attempted power-sharing in North-ern Ireland 26 years ago - and

CHANNEL 4

9.00 Schools: History in Action (9010504)

9.20 Geographical Eye (9030368) 9.40 Science in Focus Special: Electrons at Play (7401184) 10.00 Middle English (3394252) 10.20 Fourways Farm (7768542) 10.30 Scientific Eye (9927962)

10.50 Express (8143875) 11.00 The Number Crew (5339436) 11.12 Lisa

Looks Back (6931829) 11.25 Schools al

1.30 Tha Three Stooges The trio are mistaken for reporters (r) (95684349)
1.50 In a Lonety Place (1950) A jaded scriptwriter who is suspected of murder becomes involved with a young firm star.

5.30 Pet Rescue Presented by Wendy Turner-Webster and Mark Evans (T) (487)

6.30 Hollyoaks Ty asks Lucy for help (T) (962)

7.00 Channel 4 News; Weather (T) (956813)

7.55 Margaret Thatcher, Where Am I Now?

Steve Bell's animated look at the Thatcher years (856523)

5.55am Sesame Street (5400691) 7.00 The Big Breakfast (20436)

12.00 Sesame Street (T) (91875)

12.30pm Bewitched (T) (22287)

1.00 Suddenly Susan (23523)

Ray (21055523)

6.00 Friends (r) (T) (610)

4.00 Fifteen-to-One (T) (233)

4.30 Countdown (T) (7007558) 4.55 Ricki Lake (T) (9772691)

Chef, is moving closer to TV sainthood. Last week he cooked dinner for his sister's hen night. This week he babysat his young cousins while preparing ravioli and a praline semi freddo for their parents' dinner. Here is a search for a new TV formula that has paid off: the chatting to an unseen interviewer, the frantic hand-held camera: the handsome, unfussy. 23-year-old chef whose descripove vocabulary runs out after pukkah. wicked, lovely jubbly, and really funky, the cooking for photogenic relatives. It could all so easily have gone wrong. Oliver clearly has a bright television future, just so that after all these years nobody really was funny. Or else it was depressing. I forget which. Some-nmes the two are very similar.

Jamie Oliver, BBC2's Naked

had come up with any new ideas -

7.35 Muppet Bables: 5 News (4334900) 8.00 Havakazoo (r) (8114233)

9.55 The Bold and the Beautiful Katie confronts Grant (T) (8061894)

from running away (T) (4527455)

12.00 5 News at Noon (T) (8117320) 12.30pm Family Affairs Pam thinks she is going mad (r) (T); 5 News Update (8580879)

1.00 The Oprah Winfrey Show Studio debate on everyday issues (4185981)

Thriller, starring Humphrey Bogart and Glona Grahama, Directed by Nicholas 3.30 Collectors' Lot Debbie Thrower meets a lan of stainless steel teapots (T) (726)

Gordon Douglas (7409788)

5.20 Russell Grant's Postcards A traveller's guide to Jamaica (r) (59526981)

6.30 Family Affairs Clive attempts suicide (T); 5 News Update (6400349) 7.00 The Pepsi Chart Music by TO, Westlife

7.30 Wild in the USA Insight into the lives of the red-tailed hawk and the prairie falcon as they compete for food and territory (T); 5 News Update (6499233)

8.00 CROICE Stars and Cars Motor and iffestyle show, presented by Henry Cole (176) (T) (2438981)

8.30 Viva Espana The lap dancers divulge their tactics for dissuading enthusiastic punters, while Jim Bunyon decides to cheer himself up with a visit to Burivol's tomato festival. Over at Uneker's Bar, the customers gear up to perform their own version of the Full Monty, 5 News U (2424788) business - and then announces that and Carmen Argenziano, Directed by Gabrielle Beaumont; 5 News Update

11.25 Red Shoe Diaries Tales of erotica from

5.30 100 Per Cent (r) (6209363)

3.00 The Great Ziegfeld (1936)
Oscar-winning musical biopic of master showman and Hollwood impression and Pace.

long as he resists the temptadon to make guest appearances on Hale

CHANNEL 5 6.00am 5 News and Sport (5265813) 7.00 WideWorld (r) (T) (2295829) 7.30 Milikshake! (2083287)

8.30 Deppledown Farm (r) (8113504) 9.00 The Roseanne Show (1) (5827542) 9.50 Russell Grant'a Postcards (8235875)

10.20 Sunset Beach Cole tries to keep Annie

11.10 Leeza (3282320)

1.50 Heat Wave Drama about a young couple who are forced to flee the city during an intense heatwave. With Ben Murphy, Bonnie Bedelia, Lew Ayres and David

Huddleston, Directed by Jerry Jameson, 5 News Update (28234788)
3.15 The Iron Mistress (1952) Western adventure based on the life and loves of Jim Bowie, Alan Ladd stars, Directed by

5.15 5 News (T) (59512788)

5.30 100 Per Cent (6412164) 6.00 5 News; Weather (T) (6419097)

and Dee'tah, who performs her new single El Paradiso Rico (2429233)

9.00 Moment of Truth: Cradle Conspiracy (TVM 1994) A teenager alarms her parents by embarling on a dangerous relationship with a man involved in the blackmarket baby she is pregnant. Starring Dee Walface Stone, Dranica McKellar, Kurt Deutsch

10.50 Bring Me the Head of Light Entertainment (5511146)

the streets of Rio (1541875) 12.00 Ice Hockey NHL Richard Orlord and Todd Macklin present the Conference quarter-finals (9089295) 4.30am European Motorsport (4072158)

SATELLITE, CABLE AND DIGITAL

As HTV WEST except: 5.30pm-5.58 Crazy Creatures (T) (455) 7.30-8.00 The insiders (3/4) (504) 10.00 The Ferret (94962) 10.30-11.00 The Sharp End Investment in public transport (88310) 11.30-12.35 Tonight with Trever McDonald (T) (143765)

THO WALES

CENTRAL As HTV West except: 12.20pm-12.30 Central News; Weather (T) (9745504) 12.55 Home and Away (1) (2126320) 1.25 The Jerry Springer Show (1) (4307436) 2.10-2.40 Echo Point (89370707) 3.15-3.20 Central News; Weather (T) (5271813) 5.30 Shortland Street (455) 6.00-6.25 Central News at Six; Weather (T) (697252) 7.30-8.00 Our House (T) (504) 12.30 ITV News; Weather (T) (2221829) 1.30 Home and Away Donald has doubts about his marriage (T) (16617233) 11.20-11.30 Central News; Weather (T) (353875) 11.30-12.35 The Wright Verdicts 1.55 The Jerry Springer Show Outrageous American talk show (T) (5575691) (143165) 1.20am Jenny (5448653) 1.45 Swift Justice (1) (8026450) 2.35 Cybernet (4527634) 3.00 ITV at the V98 Festival (r) (3083450) 3.55 Central Jobfinder '99 (1) (6953740) 5.20-5.30

Asian Eye (9072818)

WESTCOUNTRY

As HTV West except. 12.15pm News (T) As HTV West except. 12.15pm News (T) (7527875) 12.27-12.30 Illuminations 12.55-1.25 Lunchtime Live (T) (2126320) 1.25 The Jerry Springer Show (T) (4307436) 2.10-2.40 Home and Away (T) (89370707) 3.15-3.20 Westcountry News; Weather (T) (5271813) 4.59-5.00 Birthday People (7691928) 5.30 Dig it With Den (8/16) (455) 6.00-6.25 Westcountry Live; Weather (T) (897252) 7.30-8.00 A Foreign Affair (504) 11.20-11.30 News (T) (353875) 11.30-12.35 Storytellers: Rod Stewart (143165)

MERIDIAN

As HTV West except: 12.15pm-12.30 Meridian News; Weather (7527875) 5.30 Grass Roots (T) (455) 6.00-6.25 Meridian Tonight (T) (697252) 7.29 Meridian Weather (169829) 7.30-8.00 Meridian Focus (1/4) (504) 11.20 Meridian News; Weather (1) (244962) 11.35-12.35 Renegade (i) (688078) 5.00am-5.30 Freescreen (T) (55924)

GREAT. As HTV West except: 12.14pm Anglia Air Watch (9765368) 12.15-12.30 Anglia News Watch (9765368) 12.15-12.30 Anglia News and Weather (7527875) 5.24 Anglia Air Watch (7573207) 5.25-6.00 About Anglia (7191310) 6.00-6.25 Anglia News (7) (697252) 7.30-8.00 Craven's Collectables (7) (504) 11.19 Anglia Air Watch (977504) 11.20 Anglia News (7) (353875) 11.30 Crime Night (867788) 11.45-12.00 The Ticket (7) (888271)

284305231 7.00 The Big Breakfast (69470267) 9.00 Ysgotion: History in Action (67627252) 9.20 Geographical Eye (67614788) 9.40 Science In Focus special: Electrons at Play (35279287) 10.00 Middle English (54155146) 10.20 Fourways Farm (23278743) 10.30 Scientific Eye (71091639) 10.50 Express (15363639) 11.00 The Number Crew (47938639) 11.10 Lisa Looks Back 11.25 Schools at Work (94142959) 11.30 Powerhouse (T) (90002981) 12.00 Caroline in the City (r) (T) (63848349) 12.30pm Sesame Street (T) (93739417) 1.00 Planed Plant (T) (69377146) 1.30 Little Gems (85968726) 1.40 FILM: Arabian Adventure (1)

(38594610) 3.30 Collectors' Lot (99763900) 4.0 ti Fifteen-to-One (99779707) 4.30 Ricki Lake (T) (99768691) 5.00 Planed Plant (41140504) 5.30 Countdown (T) (99782271) 6.00 Party Election Broadcast (70501875) Newyddion 6 (T) (70500146) 6.12 Heno (T) (39004436) 7.00 Pobol y Cwm (T) (41160368) 7.30 Newyddion (T) (99769320) 8.00 Ti Di Gweld? (T) (41146788) 8.30 Teulu'r Ma (T) (41158523) 9.00 She's Gotta Have It (T (1) (41150525) 5.00 Site 5 Gotta Rave It (1) (90098788) 9.30 Friends (T) (93742981) 10.00 Father Ted (T) (51514436) 10.35 Etholiad '99 (29091184) 10.50 Dispatches (T) (69243078) 11.50 The 11 O'Clock Show (67730455) 12.20am The Adam and Joe Show (T) (15744818) 12.50 Prey (T) (86343030) 1.50 Diwedd 11.45-12.00 The Ticket (888271)

8.00 CHOICE Grand Designs Author and designer Kevin McCloud follows the progress of people designing their dream homes (1/8) (T) (9726)

9.00 Dispatches Disturbing report on the illegal trafficking of women throughout eastern Europe and southeast Asia. Promised new lives and decent jobs, the girls frequently end up as prostitutes in Britain (T) (9962)

10.00 NYPD Blue The (earn investigates the murder of an elderly couple, while Russell and Kirkendall meet Delores in an unexpected place (T) (9349)

11.00 The 11 O'Clock Show (9233) 11.30 Ally McBeal Ally defends a docto accused of unethical practices and squares up to Georgia in the krckboxing ring. With Calista Flockhart (66436)

12.30am 4 Later Introduction; Prey (6093127) 1.25 Vids Offbeat video review (3161943) 2.00 Late Toon: Fight Animation (5124566) 2.05 NYPD Blue The detectives Investigate a union leader's death (r) (T) (7798585( showman and Hollywood impresario Florenz Ziegfeld William Powell stars in the title role, with Myrna Loy. Directed by Robert Z. Leonard (19076634)

WIDEO Plus+ and WIDEO Plus+ codes
The numbers after each programme are for VIDEO Plus+ programming, just enter the VIDEO Plusnumber(s) for the relevant programmets) into your video recorder for easy taping.
For more details call VIDEO Plus+ on 0640 750710
Calls charged at 25p per manute at all times.
VIDEO Plus+®, 14 Blackband Inc., London, SW3 25P VIDEO Plus+®, s a registered trademark of Genister Development Corporation, ■ 1998

HISTORY

CARLTON FOOD

• For further listings see Saturday's Vision SKY ONE

7.00am Count Duckule (735-2) 7.30 Godolla (69349) 0.00 Polismon (54368) 8.30 Hollwood Squares (53639) 8.00 Sally Jessy Raphael (53736) 10.00 The Oprah Wintey Show (58239) 11.00 Guillyt (78097) Wirting Show (58239) 11,00 Gullyl (7897) 12,00 Jerny Jones (51146) 1,00pm Med About You (72819) 1,30 Jeopardy (74510) 2,00 Sally Jassy Rapheel (35523) 3,00 Jenny Jones (78504) 4,00 Gullyl (95639) 5,00 Star Trek: Deep Space Nine (5320) 0,00 Star Trek: Deep Space Nine (5320) 1,00 Star Trek: Deep Space Nine (5320) 3,00 Fine Smpsons (4349) 7,30 The Smpsons (3567) 8,30 Debet. See Television Choice (5490) 10,30 Veronica's Closet (34504) (6490) 16.30 Veronica's Closet (34504) 11.00 Dream Team (96369) 11.30 Sur Trel. Deep Space Nine (35165) 12.30cm Chris Evans (29672) 1.30 Law and Order (64362) 2.30 Long Play (9017030) SKY BOX OFFICE

Sity's pay-per-view movie channels. To view any fam telephone 0990 600686 SKY BOX OFFICE 1 (Transponder 51) SKY BOX OFFICE 2 (Transponder 60) US Marabals (1998) SKY BOX OFFICE 3 (Transponder 59) Titeric (1997) SYY BOX OFFICE 4 (Transponder 58) Fire Down Selow (1997)

SKY PREMIER 5.10am The Directors. The Films of Robert Zerreckis (6704631) 8.00 A Stranger to Love (1986) (49573184) 8.00 Kies Me Goodbye (1982) (25417) 10.00 Batcum and Robin (1987) (84087) 12.00 A Stranger to Love (1986) (48368) 2.00pm (kiss Me Goodbye (1982) (18078) 4.00 Major Leegue (1969) (57379436) 5.55 Batmam and Robin (1997) (92721900) 8.00 (Holywood Buz (5707) 8.30 Head Above Water (1986) (96631) 10.00 Consplacy Theory [1987) (7647542) 12.20mm The Arrival (1986) (376433) 2.15 Criminal Law (1988) (38143032) 4.20 The Directors, Alan Pakula (862108)

SKY MOVIEMAX

(81419417) 8.00 UHF (1989) 147639) 11.00 Priendship's Field (1996) (2243) 1.00 Snowboard Academy (1997) (41455) 3.00 UHF (1989) (3998) 5.00 Priendship's Field (1996) (30788) 7.00 9.00 THE TITUE LIVES OF INDICATE (1997) (RESPOR) 1.1.00 Lethal Weepon 5 (1989) (324639) 12.55am The Heavenly Ki (1985) (107160) 2.30 Adams: His Son Continues (1986) (867082) 4.05 When Husbands Cheek (TVM 1997) (852721) SKY CINEMA

4.00pm Fether Brown (1954) (7727981) 6.00 Tazzan's Fight For Life (1958) (9059702) 8.00 The Mackintosh Man (1973) (1930287) 10.00 The Towering p [1974] (84394417) 12.45 Years, 100 Movies (5024479) 1.40 The Great Lover (1949) (23631276) 3.05 The meh Line (1954) (3459059) FILMFOUR

8.00pm Two Solutions for One Problem (1936368) 6.05 Through the Olive Trees (1994) (58076417) 8.00 Legends of the Fall (1994) (2084320) 10.15 Kalifornia (1993) (765058) 12.15mm Roadracers (TVN 1993) (9422301) 1.50 From Dask Till Dewn (1996) 6677011) 3.35 Gallivant (1996) (7553721) 5.25 Smart Alek (6767276) 8.00 Close

9.00pm Consigher (1991) (25603897) 11.15 Milster Buddwing (1965) 97501417) 1.15em Penetopo (1966) (71544740) 8.00 Consigher (1991) (84091585) 0.00 Close SKY SPORTS 1

Mundal 1.15 Football League 2.15 Rugtly Club 5.15 Sports Centre 5.30 Close 7.00am Aerobics Oz Style 7.30 Sports Centre 7.45 Racing News 8.15 Unbelevable Sports 8.45 Sports Centre 9.09 World Pool League 10.00 Golf Edm 1.00 Australem Rally Championship 1.30 Ringsob 3.00 International Football 4.00 International Football 5.00 Football League Review 8.00 What a Weekend 6.30 Inside the PGA Tour 7.00 Rughy Club Special 10.00 US PGA Golf 12.00 Formule Palmer Aud. 12.30em Formula Three 1.00 Trans World Sport 2.00 What a Weekend 2.30 LS PGA Golf 4.30 Sports Centre 4.45 Close SKY SPORTS 3

12.00am World Wresting Federation Superstars 1.00pm Fish TV 2.00 Sports Unimited 0.00 Unbelowable Sports 3.30 Rudby Laague World 5.00 Survayal of the Fittest 5.30 Formula Three 6.00 Formula Palmer Audi 6.30 Futbol Mundiel 7.00 European Tour Golf 10.00 Bobby Charlton's Football Scrapbook 11.30 Close EUROSPORT

7.30em Moter Recing 8.30 Football 10.00 Football 12.00 Start Your Engines 1.30pm Motocross 1.30 Mountain Biting 2.00 Tennis 3.30 Live Formula 3000 4.15 Football 8.00 Racing Line 7.00 Surro 8.00 Boxing 8.00 Football 11.00 Racing Line 12.00 Motocross 12.30em Close UK GOLD 7,00em Crossroads 7,30 Neighbours 7,55 EastEnders 8,30 The 8# 8,00 The B# 9,30

EastEnders 8.30 The 88 8.00 The 88 9.20 The House of Eliott 18.30 Rhods 11.00 Dalas 11.55 Neighbours 12.25pm EastEnders 1.00 Bugs 2.00 Dalas 2.55 The 88 3.25 The Summer Wine 8.20 Darly Samy 8.00 Chly Fools and Horses 9.40 FBLM: The Jerk (1979) 11.30 The 88 12.30 The 88 12.30 The 88 500 The 98 50 GRANADA PLUS

Coronation Street 7,00 The Professional's 6,00 Benny Hill 9,00 The Sweeney 10,00 Hale and Pace 10,30 The Corrictions 11,00 Graneda Men and Motors CARLTON SELECT

5.00pm Wher's Cooking? 5.30 Gndlock 8.00 Animal SOS 8.30 Our House 7.00 Boon 0.00 Cut and Run 8.30 Brids OI a Feather Special 9.00 St Elsewhere 10.00 A Difficult Woman 11.00 Hill Street Blues 3.200 Tetra oil htt Liverscript 1.200 12.00 Tales of the Unexpected 12.50am Gridlock 1.00 Close DISNEY CHANNEL

Pockel Dragon Adventures 12.30 Beer in the Big Blue House 12.55 The Toothbrush Family 1.00 Bise Stzy-1.12 Rose and Jim 1.30 The Big Garage 1.45 PB and J Otter 2.00 New Adventures of Winnie the Poch 2.00 Quack Pack 3.00 The Little Mermad 3.30 An Adack 4.00 101 Detimaters 4.30 Horacies: The TV Show 5.00 Recess 6.15 Pepper Ann 5.30 Smart Guy 0.00 Teen Angle 6.30 Boy Meets World 7.00 Fill.Mc. Sword in the Stone (1963) 8.20 Honey I Strunk the Kds. The TV Show 9.10 Oncs.aus 16.00 Home Improvement 10.30

Mowgli. The New Adventures of the Jungle Book 1.25 Ace Venture 1.55 The Incredible Hull. 2.20 Iron Man 2.45 Famastic Four 3.10 X-Men 3.30 X-Press 3.35 Spiderman 3.10 X-Nen 3.30 X-Press 3.35 Spiderman 4.00 Goosebumps 4.25 Hero Turiles The Neg Mutation 5.00 Dennis and Grashes 5.30 Ace Vertitus 8.00 Donkey Kong Country 6.30 Eek/Shrevagenza 8.55 Ogg-and the Cockroaches 7.00 Close NICKELODEON

8.00em Enterne Ghostbusters 8.30 Bruno the Not 7.00 CalDog 7.30 Rugrats 6.00 Hey Amold' 8.30 Doug 8.00 Children's BBC 10.00 Wimze's House 10.30 Papa Beaver 10.00 Wimze's House 10.30 Papa Beaver Stories 11.00 The Magic School Bus 11.30 PB Bear/Animal Antica/Fathly Ness 12.00 Rugads 12.30pm Bue's Clues 1.00 Banenas in Pyjames 1.30 Franklin 2.00 Paddington Bear/Lizae's Library/Portland Bit/Mr Men/Nor the Engine 2.30 Children's BBC 3.00 Children's BBC 3.00 Children's BBC 3.00 Doug 4.00 Angry Beavers 4.30 Rugrats 6.00 Sater Sater 6.30 Kenen and Kel 6.00 Saterna the Teenage Which 8.30 Alex Mack 7.00 Close BRAVO

8.00pm Martial Law 9.00 Cops 9.30 The Late Lounge 10.00 Extreme Championship Wrestling 10.50 Erotic Conlessors 11.00 FILM: Plethoon (1986) 1.30em The Late Lounge 2.00 Wartial Law 0.00 FILM: Up! (1976) 5.00 Evirene Championship Wrestling 5.30 Cops 6.00 Close PARAMOUNT COMEDY

7.00pm Cluetess 7.30 Caroline in the Cry 6.00 Mad About You 6.30 Spin City 8.00 Drop the Dead Donkey 0.30 Whose Line is Anyway? 10.00 Faster 10.30 Chears 11.00 Seinted 11.30 Spin Cry 12.00 Late Night with David Letterman 1.00em Gany Shandling's Show 1.30 Nurses 2.00 Almost Perfact 2.30 Tibs and Fibs 0.00 Mork and Nindy 3.30 Abbott and Costello 4.00 Close THE SCI-FI CHANNEL SATELLITE: 8pm-MIDNIGHT ONLY

3.7.30m Bloomberg information Television 8.00 Sightings 8.00 Buck Rogers in the 25th Century 18.00 The Six Million Dollar Man 11.00 Dark Shadows 11.30 The Ray Bradbury Theaare 12.00 The I whigh Zone 12.30pm The Twilight Zone 1.00 Tales of the Unexpected 1.30 Tales of the Unexpected 2.00 Amizing Stones 2.30 Mystenes, Magic and Miracles 5.00 Buck Centure 1 Mr. 25th Continu. 4.00 The

Incredible Hulk 5.00 Srohungs 8.00 Space Incredible Hulk 5.00 Sightings 8.00 Space Precinic 7.00 The Siz Million Dollar Man 8.00 PSI Factor: Chrenicles of the Paranormal 8.00 Babylon S 10.00 FRLM: Flutte (1985) 11.45 Sci-Focus Special 12.00 Twin Peaks 1.00am FRLM: Pollergelat II (1986) 2.40 Sci-Focus Spe-cial 8.00 Derk Shadows 3.30 Dark Shadows 4.00 Close HOME & LEISURE

6.00am Simply Painting 8.30 Instant Gardene 7.00 Gardan Calendar 7.30 The Great House Gardan Calendar 7.30 The Great House Gardan Calendar 7.30 The Creat House Gardan Lastremants 8.30 The Cose Gaude 9.00 The Joy of Painting 9.30 Grassoots 10.00 Instant Gardens 10.30 Antiques Challenge 11.00 Hooled on Fishing with Paul Young 11.25 The Home and Lessure House 11.30 Total Fishing with Mad Hayes 12.00 These Four Walls 12.30pm Doorstop DY 1.00 The Furniurs Guys 1.30 Gardines Shelter 2.00 New Yankee Workshop 2.30 Home Again with Bob Vila 0.00 This Old House with Steve and Norm 3.30 Two's Country and Norm 3.30 Two's Country DISCOVERY

4.00pm Rex Hunt Fishing Adventures 4.30 The Diserran 8.00 Secret Fleets 8.00 Outheck Adventures 6.30 The Lori's Share 7.30 How Did They Build That? 8.00 Medical Detectives 8.30 Medical Detectives 9.00 Discover Magazine 10.00 Reging Planet 11.00 The FBI Files 12.00 The FBI Files 1.00mm How Did They Build That? 1.30 The Cicemen 2.00 Close ANIMAL PLANET

12,00am Hollyword Setan 2,00pm Hunters 3,00 Lons 4,00 Llons 5,00 Wild Rescues 6,00 Per Rescue 7,00 Wildle SOS 7,30 Wildle SOS 8,00 Anymal Doctor 8,00 Emergency Vets 6,30 Emergency Vets 10,00 Emergency Vets 10,30 Emergency Vets 11,00 Emergency Vets 11,30 Emergency Vets 12,00 Close NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC

7.00pm The Dolphin Society 7.30
Machievous Meerkals 8.30 in the Foorsleps of Crusce 8.00 Extreme Earth
Tomado Alley 9.45 Extreme Earth. North Sea Storm 10.00 Killer Storms - Humcant
1.00 Chille Extre Brant by the Extre 1 Sea Storm 10.00 Killer Storms. Humaine 11.00 On the Edge Born for the Fight 12.00 Shipwrecks. Lifeboot — Friendly Rivals 12.30am Shipwrecks. Lifeboot — Let Not the Dans Shipwrecks.

9.00em Food Network Daily 9.30 Coxon's Kitchen College 10.00 Chef for a Day 10.30 Jenny Bristow's Country Cooking 11.00 Worrall Thompson Cooks 11.30 Ideal Home Cooks 12.00 Food Network Daily 12.30pm Food Fectory 1.00 Coon's Richen College 1.30 The Green Gournet 2.00 Ferrospochues 2.30 Food Nework Daily 8.00 Simply Fish 3.45 More Simply Anlony 4.30-5.00 Mindule's Indian Krichen

4.00pm Secrets of War: Cold War — The Strangetone Factor 5.00 Big Guns 6.00 Dr Livingston, I Presume? 8.55 Photos for the Future 7.00 The Green Berete

Annual Rescue 7.00 Professor Bubble 7.25
Callou 7.00 Polks Dot Shorts 7.40 Johnson and Prients 7.50 Bathble 7.25
Callou 7.00 Polks Dot Shorts 7.40 Johnson and Prients 7.50 Bateloos 7.65 Practical Parenting 0.00 Barriey and Friends 8.25 My Zoo 8.30 Thry and Crew 8.50 Practical Parenting 8.00 Special Bables 9.30 Home and Awitay 10.00 The Jeny Springer Show 10.50 Maury Pounch 11.40 Brooksade 12.10pm Through the Keyhole 12.40 Rescue 911 1.10 Beyond Belief Fact or Faction 1.40 Maury Powich 2.30 Special Rescue 911 1.10 Reyond Bekel Fact or Fiction 1.40 Maury Provide 2.30 Special Bebes 8.00 Living Room 3.50 Michael Cole 4.40 Home and Away 5.10 Through the keyhole 5.40 Carl Cock Worl Cock 8.15 The Jerry Springer Show 7.05 Rescue 911 7.35 Animal Rescue 8.00 LA Law 9.00 PLUIS: Other Women's Children (1993) 11.00 Socasy 12.00 Close

5.00am Hasya Tene Char Vasya 5.30 Hr
Thi Hr Hai 0.00 Hero Kai Aaj Aur Kai 6.30
Awaz Nayee Andez Wool 7.00 Fauth 7.30
News 8.00 Kemban Dunya 8.30 Tara 2
8.00 Zenjeeren 9.30 Zee Health Show
18.00 Urdu Drama 11.00 Pol Luck 11.30
Perampara 12.00 Tanal Pil.Mc Carling
Derling 3.00pm Bangla TV Nokhatirer Rai
3.30 Public Demand 4.00 Firm Creister
4.30 Public Demand 4.00 Firm Creister
4.30 Padicel Antistichan 6.30 Teacher 6.00
Pop Time 6.30 Hip Hip Humay 7.00
Gudgudes 7.30 Crimmage 8.00 News
8.30 Chahai Aur Nathral 8.00 Hasaalen
10.00 Pakistan News 10.30 X-Zone 11.50
Ermales World of Crickel 12.00 News
12.30em Bushess 1.00 Bangla TV 1.30 12.30em Business 1.00 Bangla TV 1.30 Panyarian 2.00 Hindi Fillii, Andiche Prem

Snowboard Academy (1997) (55148) 9.00 The Three Lives of Keren (1997)

TNT

7.00am Sports Centre 7.15 Wresting 8.15 You're On Sky Sports' 9.00 Racarg News 9.30 Aerobics Oz Style 10.00 Football 12.00 Aerobics Oz Style 12.30pm Croke 1.00 Live European Tour Got 5.00 Wresting 8.00 Sports Centre 6.30 Croket 7.00 Football League 0.00 Wresting 11.15 You're On Sky Sports' 12.00 Sports Centre 12.15am World of Croket 12.45 Futbol Manded 1.15 Football League 2.15 Rudo

6.00am Wish Me Luck 7.00 Plus On Plus 7.30 The Odd Couple 8.00 Families 5.30 Mind Your Langauge 9.00 Classic Coronation Street 9.30 Emmerdate 10.00 Upstains, Downstains 11.00 Charles Angels 12.00 Classic Coronation Street 12.30pm Emmerdate 1.00 Mind Your Language 1.30 Me and My Get 2.00 Linetine Disserted 4.00 The Love Bret Upsters, Downstars 3.00 The Love Boat ingels 6.00 Emmerdale 6.30 Classic

Dilbert stars with his dog, Dogbert, in the enimated spin-off of the

6.00mm Gurrini Beert 8.25 Classic Toons 6.35 Talespin 7.00 Classic Toons 7.10 Aladdin 7.35 101 Dalmatigns 6.00 Good Troop 8.25 Classic Toons 8.45 New Adventures of Winnie the Pooh 8.00 The Advertures of Spot 9.07 Annual Shell 9.17 Pocket Dragon Advertures 9.30 Bear in the Big Blue House 9.55 The Toothbrush Family 10.00 Bits Size 10.12 Rose and Jim

10.30 The Big Garage 10.45 PB and J Otler 11.30 Sesame Sired 12.00 The Adventures of Spot 12.07pm Animal Shell 12.17

Dinosaus 10.00 Home improvement 10.30 The Worder Years 11.00 Dr Quinn 11.50 Classic Toons 12.00 Close FOX KIDS NETWORK

8.00am Power Rangers Turbo 8.56 Spiderman 7.20 Oggy 7.30 Dennis and Gnasher 8.00 Hero Turtles: The Next Mutation 8.26 The incredible Hulk 8.50 Iron Nam 9.15 Parasac Pour Skap A-Mari Nuclea Casper 10.30 Orgo; and the Coclaraches 10.55 Eek/Strawgorze 11.05 Bobby's 10.55 Lek/Strawgorze 11.05 Bobby's 10.55 Lek/Strawgorze 11.05 Bobby's Reni 12.20pm The Seriel Fises of the Spy Dogs 12.30 Donkey Yong Country 1.00

SURFING 45

Women's champion faces formidable tide of opposition

SPORT

CRICKET 48 Kendall gives his bat a winter rest and Hampshire feel benefit

THURSDAY APRIL 29 1999

Keegan's shadow side acquit themselves well before Hungary stage second-half rally

England draw on their reserves

FROM OLIVER HOLT POOTBALL CORRESPONDENT IN BUDAPEST

IN THEIR search for meaning from the match that nobody wanted, England found five debuts and a penalty in the Nepuls and a parally but could not prevent a spirit-ed Hungary team from stain-ing Kevin Keegan's nascent international record as a manager with its first blemish.

England seemed to have won the game with a first-half penalty from Alan Shearer after the captain was fouled. but they were subjected to a siege after the interval and Janos Hrutka equalised with a fiercely struck 25-yard free kick 13 minutes from the end. The result dashed Keegan's fond hopes of winning all four of the matches that he has agreed to oversee as caretaker coach, but it is unlikely to harm morale in the run-up to the European championship qualifying matches against Sweden and Bulgaria in June.

Vale threat over tackle.....49 Olympic goal...

This, after all, was an experimental side built on pragmatism and compromise, which gave debuts to Michael Gray. Kevin Phillips, Emile Heskey. Jamie Carragher and Wes Brown. Steve McManaman looked promising, if not outstanding, in his free role and Phillips fluffed one easy chance. Still, Shearer could have won the game in the dy-ing minutes if he had not slipped as he tried to latch on to a cross from Phil Neville.

England had started confidently. If the game was sup-posed to be yet another trial for McManaman, he had started his defence well. Not a touch went awry and his teas-ing dribbles tied the Hungary detence in knots.

McManaman, so often condemned to the periphery of play in England games, was relishing the free role that Keegan had given him. Buttressed by the combative ball into his path. But when

Shearer, having won the penalty, dispatches it with typical forcefulness to give England their first-half lead against Hungary at the Nep Stadium last night. Photograph: Marc Aspland trio of Tim Sherwood, Nicky Butt and David Batty, McManaman was at the heart of England's attacking ideas. Against the run of play, though, Hungary nearly took the lead in the jourteenth minute. There seemed little danger when Istvan Pisont collected a loose ball outside the England area after Phillips had inadvertently headed the Pisont slipped a neat pass into the box, Bela Illes, Hungary's best player, sprung a rather feeble attempt at an offside trap and advanced on David Seaman. He lashed his shot at ng for power not placement, but Seaman had stayed on his feet long enough to push it high over the bar. Hungary might have scored again six minutes later when Brown, who looked the least certain of the inexperienced players in the England side, slipped as he tried to turn away from Attila Korsos. Korsos pounced on the error and as he shaped to shoot, Brown

Manaman some ghosts to rest while many others had predicted that his performance would come back to haunt him. In the end, the sides in the great

McManaman debate had to settle for a draw last night, just as England did in the Nep

There have been occasions

this season when Real Madrid must have felt like turning a blind eye to Liverpool games rather than watch McManaman's laboured efforts in a poor side. Injuries and falling confidence had taken their toll. His club had appeared to

With the three drones of Butt, Batty and Sherwood to perform the mundane work

last night, McManaman could buzz around like the queen bee. There were times when he appeared to be dropping too deep to be really dangerous, but he could not be faulted for effort. It was not hard to see why he was once a champion cross-country run-

The great dilemma over what to do with McManaman is seen as the player's fault as well as that of successive England coaches, but it goes far deeper than that. It is English football's problem that there are so few players who can penetrate the best defences with quick-footed runs from midfield. Paul Gascoigne was the last, which makes his passing as an international footballer all the more

In the absence of alternatives - Lee Hendrie is 100

young, Paul Merson too troubled - Keegan is hoping that ner in his schooldays.

put him in isolation.

pealed for a penalty, but the referee rightly ruled that the offence had taken place outside the area and the home side wasted the free kick.

Shearer interrupted their 22nd minute, to set McManaman racing down the right and, when he lost possession. Shearer was first to the loose ball. As he burst into the area he was brought down by Gabor Halmai and the referee awarded a penalty. The Hungarians protested vigorously, but Shearer dispatched his kick emphatically. It was his 23rd international goal in 49

Five minutes after that, Shearer turned provider, slipping a dever pass into the path of Phillips, who had timed his run into the box most clinical finisher in the Nationwide League, should have scored, but he seemed to snatch at his shot and hit it close enough to Gabor Kiraly to allow him to save with his

England were the dominant side now and Shearer might have added a second goal after half an hour. He forced his way past Janos Matyus and held him off just long enough to strike a low, right-foot shot that seemed to have evaded the goalkeeper, but lodged underneath his body as he dived. Sherwood spurned another chance before half-time, hookfrom eight yards after a long throw from Neville had been flicked on at the near post. revitalised when they came

Reprieved, Hungary were out for the second half. Five minutes after the interval, Vilmos Sebok, their Bristol City defender, made his first notable contribution, hitting a ball over the top of the England desional problem down the England left with his pace, nearly surprised Seaman by hitting it first time on the volley as it dropped over his shoulder.

Seaman was equal to that his right to smother his shot, and a minute later he denied him again, this time leaping to tip his curling right-foot shot from the edge of the area over

Still Hungary pressed for-ward and it took a fine saving tackle from Martin Keewn to deny Illes as he surged into the box after a pass from Dombi. Just when it seemed that England were safe, though, minute, right-foot free kick over the England wall and past Seaman's half-hearted leap into the roof of the net. — O Koracis (Gyori ETC: Sub. N Toth, Ujoest, Somin), J Hrutitot (FC Kaserstuntern), V Sebolit (Bristol City), J Matyus (Forencyzos) — G Hatimati (MTK Hungoral), I Pisont (Eintecht Franklut, sub J Somogyt, Gyori ETC, 48), P Dantela (Hara SSC) — T Denteli (DVSC Epona), B Hies (MTK Hungara), A Koraca (Ujoesh ENGLAND (4:3-1-2); O Seamen (Arsena), W Brown (Machester Linder's sub Mit

ENGLAND (4-3-1-2): O Seamen (Arcera)

— W Brown (Nenchester Under sub. M.
Garry, Sunderland, 73), M. Keown (Arsend), R Fendinand (West Ham Unied, sub. J Carregher, Liverpool, 62), P Nertile (Manchester United) — T Sherwood (Tottenham Holspur), O Batty (Leeds United), N Butt (Manchester United) — S McManaman (Liverpool; sub. J Redinapp, Liverpool, 65) — K Philitips (Sunderland; sub; E Hestey, Leicester Chy, 83), A Shearar plewcastie United)

No 1704

ACROSS 7 Override yes-vote (4) 8 - Swinburne; - Moncrieff (Wilde) (8) 9 With unusual talent (6)

10 Resounds (6) 11 Bad-luck bringer (4) 12 Immature (behaviour) (8) 15 Fearless (8) 17 Throw violently (4)

18 Pursued: engraved (6) 21 Speculative ploy (6)
22 Realisation (of plan) (8) 23 Advance (2,2); fool, (US) thug 20 Platform for eg high table (4)

Act undermining state (8) 2 Grey matter (of brain) (6) 3 Disadvantage (8) 4 Frightening monster (4) 5 Bee, fly, lady, monkey flower

> 6 Folk wisdom (4) 13 Poor (8) 14 One who pulls through (8) 16 Biggest-land-area country (6) 17 Public respect (paid) (6) 19 Damage (4)

■ SOLUTION TO NO 1703 ACROSS: I Spiked 5 Bubble 8 Gong 9 Velocity 10 Target 12 Awry 15 Madison Avenue 16 Fens 17 Deride 19 Brandish 21 Weep 22 Aplomb 23 Parade DOWN: 2 Propagate 3 Keg 4 Devotion 5 Bell 6 Buccaneer 7 Lit 11 Glissando 13 Roundhead 14 Hardship 18 Limb 20 Rip 21 War

THE SEATIMES BOOKSHOP

NEW TIMES CROSSWORD BOOK AVAILABLE!

The Times Two Crossword: Pook 8 is now available, at £3.50 inc. p&p. Call 0990 134 459 for credit card orders, or send a cheque payable to News Books, to The Times Bookshop. PO Box 345, Falmouth TRI1 2YX

Matt Dickinson watches the Madrid-bound player attempt to show his real credentials

McManaman makes all the McManaman can be the player who unlocks defences at critical moments, that he can be England's Zidane, Baggio or Rivaldo. It is a mighty task for the 27-year-old and one which he needs time to learn. It is unlikely, though, that he will be allowed that luxury. He did, at least, play with a confidence that had been nonexistent during Glenn Hod-dle's reign. When McMana-man missed the Tournoi because of injury, the former England coach constructively mad. I get even". II was not the sort of thing that boosts a unease between player and coach persisted until Hoddle's departure. That disgruntlement with the international scene has now disappeared and Mo-Manaman, until he was ordered into a more orthodox right-wing role in the second half, worked hard to prompt England moves. His inability to whip dangerous crosses in the mode of David Beckham remains a weakness, but he

Shearer is sent tumbling in the penalty area in the incident that allowed England to take the lead proved hard for the Hungarians to contain.

It was a willingness to experiment that was spread throughout the England team and which can almost certainly be attributed to the caretaker coach. The objections to this match were many and justified, but Keegan could rally the nation behind a game of bowls and it certainly did not feel like a wasted evening in the Nep Stadium.

That could partly be attributed to the locals who retain a slightly bizarre respect for English football, even though the Mighty Magyars were proving too strong for England as far back as 1953 with that 6-3 victory at Wembley. They turned up in buge numbers last night and were no more passive than their team.

But the interest in the game was also fuelled by the attitude of the England players, who appeared to treat this match as though it might be their last. In some cases, that may be the case. Kevin Phillips will return to Sunderland and to the back of a queue of forwards that includes Owen, Fowler and Cole among others.

He can do so, though, happy that he enjoyed the occasion, attempting a few optimistic long-range drives and coming close to a goal when he was put through by Shearer midway through the first half. He should have done better than shoot low and hard at the goalkeeper's legs. If he played without obvious nerves, even though he had been plucked from Baldock Town and a B&O forklift truck only four years ago, it was perhaps because he found himself being marked by a man from Bristol City.

benef

§\Ste

A the Cur

march a par A THE PARTY OF THE টোলিকার সেখ্যসভূ। Frederical activities

Delinion of a -Milater speci THE ELD. de Millerich TERMS wh The Park Brown Same berichen Maria in the fig. ared a signification. in terms life to The call the All

Contract the To Harriston Contract Street with the plan 二 日本 The state of the state of and wrom as as as water this name; Problem provi shier service. It strongs to be "O'X We bed Tartie Le Charge

"Sad welliare sys Telping people is Constitute Links ा भाग । तथित चंद्राहरत THE ALM H The second section of the tom in which the วิยอณ หรือการยุง ชู 1 Wheelst There has been einer Bitter ibas fir The State They w Terning to Airi

THE WAY DESIGNATION

DESCRIPTION OF THE PERSONS ASSESSMENT The regal bill for and the lane The said is the transport and to solve The state of The Control of the Control

THE PERSON NAMED IN